(A) Cost efficiencies generated by utilization of the Fund.

(B) Time efficiencies gained in the delivery of defense articles under the program.

(C) An explanation of all amounts transferred to and from the Fund pursuant to subsection (f).

(D) A detailed account of excess proceeds credited to the Special Defense Acquisition Fund pursuant to section (g).

(E) A list of defense articles, by quantity and type, repaired under the program and an identification of the foreign countries or international organizations to which the repaired defense articles were sold or transferred.

(3) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(A) the congressional defense committees; and

(B) the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives.

(k) DEFENSE ARTICLE DEFINED.—In this section, the term “defense article” has the meaning given that term in section 47(3) of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2794(3)).

(l) EXPIRATION OF AUTHORITY.—The authority to carry out the program authorized by subsection (a), and to use amounts in the Fund in support of the program, shall expire on September 30, 2015.

SEC. 1286. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE SITUATION IN THE SENKAKU ISLANDS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the East China Sea is a vital part of the maritime commons of Asia, including critical sea lanes of communication and commerce that benefit all nations of the Asia-Pacific region;

(2) the peaceful settlement of territorial and jurisdictional disputes in the East China Sea requires the exercise of self-restraint by all parties in the conduct of activities that would complicate or escalate disputes and destabilize the region, and differences should be handled in a constructive manner consistent with universally recognized principles of customary international law;

(3) while the United States takes no position on the ultimate sovereignty of the Senkaku Islands, the United States acknowledges the administration of Japan over the Senkaku Islands;

(4) the unilateral action of a third party will not affect the United States' acknowledgment of the administration of Japan over the Senkaku Islands;

(5) the United States has national interests in freedom of navigation, the maintenance of peace and stability, respect for international law, and unimpeded lawful commerce;

(6) the United States supports a collaborative diplomatic process by claimants to resolve territorial disputes without coercion, and opposes efforts at coercion, the threat of use of force, or use of force by any claimant in seeking to resolve sovereignty and territorial issues in the East China Sea; and

(7) the United States reaffirms its commitment to the Government of Japan under Article V of the Treaty of Mutual Cooperation and Security that "[e]ach Party recognizes that an armed attack against either Party in the territories under the administration of Japan would be dangerous to its own peace and safety and declares that it would act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional provisions and processes".

SEC. 1291. REVIEW AND REPORTS ON DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EFFORTS TO BUILD THE CAPACITY OF AND PARTNER WITH FOREIGN SECURITY FORCES.

(a) REVIEW.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Defense Policy Board shall conduct a review of the efforts of the Department of Defense to build the capacity of, or partner with, foreign security forces in support of United States national defense and security strategies.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The review required by this subsection shall include the following:

(A) An examination of the ways in which the efforts of the Department to build the capacity of, or partner with, foreign security forces directly support implementation of current national defense and security strategies.

(B) An assessment of the range of effects that efforts of the Department to build the capacity of, or partner with, foreign security forces are designed to achieve in support of current national defense and security strategies.

(C) An assessment of the criteria used for prioritizing such efforts in support of national defense and security strategies.

(D) An identification of the authorities the Department currently uses to implement such efforts, together with an assessment of the adequacy of such authorities.

(E) An assessment of the capabilities and resources required by the Department to implement such efforts.

(F) An assessment of the most effective distribution of the roles and responsibilities for such efforts within the Department, together with an assessment whether the Department military and civilian workforce is appropriately sized and shaped to meet the requirements of such efforts.

(G) An evaluation of current measures of the Department for assessing activities of the Department designed to build the capacity of, or partner with, foreign security forces, including an assessment whether such measures address the extent to which such activities directly support the priorities of national defense and security strategies.

(H) An identification of recommendations for clarifying or improving the guidance and assessment measures of the Department relating to its efforts to build the capacity of, or partner with, foreign security forces in support of national defense and security strategies.

(3) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the completion of the review required by this subsection, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report containing the result of the review.

(b) STRATEGIC GUIDANCE ON DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EFFORTS TO BUILD PARTNER CAPACITY AND OTHER PARTNERSHIP INITIATIVES.—Not later than 120 days after the completion of the review required by subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense shall, with the advice and assistance of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth the following:

(1) An assessment, taking into account the recommendations of the Defense Policy Board in the review required by subsection (a), of the efforts of the Department of Defense to build the capacity of, and partner with, foreign military forces in support of national defense and security strategies.

(2) Strategic guidance for the Department for its efforts to build the capacity of, and partner with, foreign military forces in support of national defense and security strategies, which guidance shall address—

(A) the ways such efforts directly support the goals and objectives of national defense and security strategies;

(B) the criteria to be used for prioritizing activities to implement such efforts in support of national defense and security strategies;

(C) the measures to be used to assess the effects achieved by such efforts and the extent to which such effects support the objectives of national defense and security strategies;

(D) the appropriate roles and responsibilities of the Armed Forces, the combatant commands, the Defense Agencies, and other components of the Department in conducting such efforts; and

(E) the relationship of Department workforce planning with the requirements for such efforts.

SEC. 1293. REPORT ON HOST NATION SUPPORT FOR OVERSEAS UNITED STATES MILITARY INSTALLATIONS AND UNITED STATES ARMED FORCES DEPLOYED IN COUNTRY.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than March 1 of each year from 2013 through 2015, the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on the direct, indirect, and burden-sharing contributions made by host nations to support overseas United States military installations and United States Armed Forces deployed in country.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The report required by paragraph (1) shall include at least the following:

(A) A description of all costs associated with stationing United States Armed Forces in the host nation, including military personnel costs, operation and maintenance costs, and military construction costs.

(B) A description of direct, indirect, and burden-sharing contributions made by the host nation, including the following:

(i) Contributions accepted for the following costs:

(I) Compensation for local national employees of the Department of Defense.

(II) Military construction projects of the Department of Defense, including design, procurement, construction management costs, rents on privately-owned land, facilities, labor, utilities, and vicinity improvements.

(III) Other costs such as loan guarantees on public-private venture housing and payment-in-kind for facilities returned to the host nation.

(ii) Contributions accepted for any other purpose.

(C) The methodology and accounting procedures used to measure and track direct, indirect, and burden-sharing contributions made by host nations.

(3) DESCRIPTION OF CONTRIBUTIONS IN UNITED STATES DOLLARS.—The report required by paragraph (1) shall describe the direct, indirect, and burden-sharing contributions made by host nations in United States dollars and shall specify the exchange rates used to determine the United States dollar value of such host nation contributions.

(b) FORM.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex if necessary.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES.—The term "appropriate congressional committees" means—

(A) the congressional defense committees; and

(B) the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives.

(2) HOST NATION.—The term "host nation" means any country that hosts a permanent or temporary United States military installation or a permanent or rotational deployment of United States Armed Forces located outside of the borders of the United States.

(3) CONTRIBUTIONS.—The term "contributions" means cash and in-kind contributions made by a host nation that replace expenditures that would otherwise be made by the Secretary of Defense using funds appropriated or otherwise made available in defense appropriations Acts.

SEC. 1294. REPORT ON MILITARY ACTIVITIES TO DENY OR SIGNIFICANTLY DEGRADE THE USE OF AIR POWER AGAINST CIVILIAN AND OPPOSITION GROUPS IN SYRIA.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall, in consultation with the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, submit to the congressional defense committees a report identifying the limited military activities that could deny or significantly degrade the ability of President Bashar al-Assad of Syria, and forces loyal to him, to use air power against civilians and opposition groups in Syria.

(b) NATURE OF MILITARY ACTIVITIES.—

(1) PRINCIPAL PURPOSE.—The principal purpose of the military activities identified for purposes of the report required by subsection (a) shall be to advance the goals of President Obama of stopping the killing of civilians in Syria and creating conditions for a transition to a democratic, pluralistic political system in Syria.

(2) ADDITIONAL GOALS.—The military activities identified for purposes of the report shall also meet the goals as follows:

(A) That the United States Armed Forces conduct such activities with foreign allies or partners.

(B) That United States ground troops not be deployed onto Syrian territory.

(C) That the risk to civilians on the ground in Syria be limited.

(D) That the risks to United States military personnel be limited.

(E) That the financial costs to the United States be limited.

(c) ELEMENTS ON POTENTIAL MILITARY ACTIVITIES.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include a comprehensive description, evaluation, and assessment of the potential effectiveness of the following military activities, as required by subsection (a):

(1) The deployment of air defense systems, such as Patriot missile batteries, to neighboring countries for the purpose of denying or significantly degrading the operational capability of Syria aircraft.

(2) The establishment of one or more no-fly zones over key population centers in Syria.

(3) Limited air strikes to destroy or significantly degrade Syria aircraft.

(4) Such other military activities as the Secretary considers appropriate to achieve the goals stated in subsection (b).

(d) ELEMENTS IN DESCRIPTION OF POTENTIAL MILITARY ACTIVITIES.—For each military activity that the Secretary identifies in subsection (c), the comprehensive description of such activities under that subsection shall include, but not be limited to, the type and the number of United States military personnel and assets to be involved in such activities, the anticipated duration of such activities, and the anticipated cost of such activities. The report shall also identify what elements would be required to maximize the effectiveness of such military activities.

(e) NO AUTHORIZATION FOR USE OF MILITARY FORCE.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as a declaration of war or an authorization for the use of force.

(f) FORM.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted in classified form.

SEC. 1295. REPORT ON MILITARY ASSISTANCE PROVIDED BY RUSSIA TO SYRIA.

(a) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, shall provide to the appropriate congressional committees a report on military assistance provided by the Russian Federation to Syria.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) An analysis of whether Russia is providing direct or indirect military support for the Government of Syria's actions to forcefully act against groups opposing the Government of Syria, including a description of the types of support.

(2) A description and analysis of Russia's military interests in Syria.

(3) A description and analysis of Russia's military presence in Syria.

(c) FORM.—The report required by subsection (a) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

(d) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(1) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives.

TITLE XIII—COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION

Sec. 1301. Specification of cooperative threat reduction programs and funds.

Sec. 1302. Funding allocations.

Sec. 1303. Report on Cooperative Threat Reduction Programs in Russia.

SEC. 1301. SPECIFICATION OF COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION PROGRAMS AND FUNDS.

(a) SPECIFICATION OF COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION PROGRAMS.—For purposes of section 301 and other provisions of this Act, Cooperative Threat Reduction programs are the programs specified in section 1501 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (50 U.S.C. 2362 note).

(b) FISCAL YEAR 2013 COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION FUNDS DEFINED.—As used in this title, the term “fiscal year 2013 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds” means the funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 301 and made available by the funding table in section 4301 for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs.

(c) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 301 and made available by the funding table in section 4301 for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs shall be available for obligation for fiscal years 2013, 2014, and 2015.

SEC. 1302. FUNDING ALLOCATIONS.

(a) FUNDING FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES.—Of the $519,111,000 authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2013 in section 301 and made available by the funding table in section 4301 for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs, the following amounts may be obligated for the purposes specified:

(1) For strategic offensive arms elimination, $68,271,000.

(2) For chemical weapons destruction, $14,630,000.

(3) For global nuclear security, $99,789,000.

(4) For cooperative biological engagement, $276,399,000.

(5) For proliferation prevention, $32,402,000.

(6) For threat reduction engagement, $2,375,000.

(7) For activities designated as Other Assessments/Administrative Costs, $25,245,000.

(b) REPORT ON OBLIGATION OR EXPENDITURE OF FUNDS FOR OTHER PURPOSES.—No fiscal year 2013 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds may be obligated or expended for a purpose other than a purpose listed in paragraphs (1) through (7) of subsection (a) until 15 days after the date that the Secretary of Defense submits to Congress a report on the purpose for which the funds will be obligated or expended and the amount of funds to be obligated or expended. Nothing in the preceding sentence shall be construed as authorizing the obligation or expenditure of fiscal year 2013 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds for a purpose for which the obligation or expenditure of such funds is specifically prohibited under this title or any other provision of law.

(c) LIMITED AUTHORITY TO VARY INDIVIDUAL AMOUNTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), in any case in which the Secretary of Defense determines that it is necessary to do so in the national interest, the Secretary may obligate amounts appropriated for fiscal year 2013 for a purpose listed in paragraphs (1) through (7) of subsection (a) in excess of the specific amount authorized for that purpose.

(2) NOTICE-AND-WAIT REQUIRED.—An obligation of funds for a purpose stated in paragraphs (1) through (7) of subsection (a) in excess of the specific amount authorized for such purpose may be made using the authority provided in paragraph (1) only after—

(A) the Secretary submits to Congress notification of the intent to do so together with a complete discussion of the justification for doing so; and

(B) 15 days have elapsed following the date of the notification.

SEC. 1303. REPORT ON COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION PROGRAMS IN RUSSIA.

(a) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Energy, and the Director of National Intelligence, shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on Cooperative Threat Reduction Programs in the Russian Federation.

(b) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The report under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) Identification of nonproliferation programs in Russia that—

(A) have accomplished their long-term objectives in reducing the threat of proliferation of weapons of mass destruction; and

(B) will be phased out during the five-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) Identification of—

(A) nonproliferation programs in Russia that—

(i) reduce the threat of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction; and

(ii) will not be phased out during such five-year period; and

(B) the metrics to evaluate the success of such programs.

(3) Identification of—

(A) the nature of the threat of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction that underpin the programs described in paragraphs (1) and (2); and

(B) the current and foreseeable threats that are addressed by such programs.

(4) The impact on nonproliferation programs in Russia and the risks and benefits to national security if the current agreement regarding such programs (commonly referred to as the “umbrella agreement”) is amended or not renewed.

(5) What steps, if any, will be taken to continue or terminate ongoing nonproliferation programs if the umbrella agreement is not renewed.

(c) FORM.—The report under subsection (a) shall be in unclassified form, but may contain a classified annex.

(d) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(1) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1403 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107-314; 116 Stat. 2676; 10 U.S.C. 12310 note) is amended—

- (1) by striking subsection (b);
- (2) by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (e); and
- (3) by inserting after subsection (a) the following new subsections (b), (c), and (d):

“(b) ESTABLISHMENT OF FURTHER ADDITIONAL TEAMS.—The Secretary of Defense is authorized to have established two additional teams designated as Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams, beyond the 55 teams required in subsection (a), if—

“(1) the Secretary of Defense has made the certification provided for in section 12310(c)(5) of title 10, United States Code, with respect to each of such additional teams before December 31, 2011; and

“(2) the establishment of such additional teams does not require an increase in authorized personnel levels above the numbers authorized as of the date of the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.

“(c) LIMITATION OF ESTABLISHMENT OF FURTHER TEAMS.—No Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Team may be established beyond the number authorized by subsections (a) and (b) unless—including a detailed justification for its establishment; and “(2) the establishment of such team is specifically authorized by a law enacted after the date of the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.

“(d) NOTIFICATION OF DISESTABLISHMENT OF TEAMS.—No Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Team established pursuant to this section may be disestablished unless, by not later than 90 days before the date on which such team is disestablished, the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees notice of the proposed disestablishment of the team and the date on which the disestablishment is proposed to take place.”.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams. The report shall include the following:

(1) A detailed description of risk management criteria and considerations to be used in determining the optimal number and location of Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams.

(2) A description of the operational and training activities conducted by the Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams during each of fiscal years 2010, 2011, and 2012, and of such activities planned for fiscal year 2013.

(3) An assessment of the optimal number and location of Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams in light of the information under paragraphs (1) and (2).

(4) A comparative analysis of the cost of establishing Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams in the reserve components of the Armed Forces (other than the National Guard) with the cost of establishing Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams in the National Guard.

The amounts authorized to be appropriated by this title are in addition to amounts otherwise authorized to be appropriated by this Act.

SEC. 1522. SPECIAL TRANSFER AUTHORITY.*(a) AUTHORITY TO TRANSFER AUTHORIZATIONS.—

(1) AUTHORITY.—Upon determination by the Secretary of Defense that such action is necessary in the national interest, the Secretary may transfer amounts of authorizations made available to the Department of Defense in this title for fiscal year 2013 between any such authorizations for that fiscal year (or any subdivisions thereof). Amounts of authorizations so transferred shall be merged with and be available for the same purposes as the authorization to which transferred.

(2) LIMITATION.—The total amount of authorizations that the Secretary may transfer under the authority of this subsection may not exceed $3,000,000,000.

(b) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—Transfers under this section shall be subject to the same terms and conditions as transfers under section 1001.

(c) ADDITIONAL AUTHORITY.—The transfer authority provided by this section is in addition to the transfer authority provided under section 1001.

Subtitle C—Limitations and Other Matters*SEC. 1531. AFGHANISTAN SECURITY FORCES FUND.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) it is the responsibility of the Commander, International Security Assistance Force/Commander, United States Forces—Afghanistan to ensure the security of members of the Armed Forces deployed to Afghanistan and to mitigate internal threats to such forces to the greatest extent possible, while continuing to meet the objectives of the International Security Assistance Force mission in Afghanistan, including the training and equipping of the Afghan National Security Forces so that they may provide for their own security;

(2) the Afghan Public Protection Force must meet and maintain key standards to provide force protection for members of the Armed Forces; and

(3) if the Secretary of Defense determines that the Afghan Public Protection Force is not meeting such standards, the Secretary should take all appropriate actions to provide force protection for members of the Armed Forces, including, if necessary, having the Armed Forces provide for their own force protection.

(b) CONTINUATION OF EXISTING LIMITATIONS ON USE OF FUNDS IN FUND.—Funds available to the Department of Defense for the Afghanistan Security Forces Fund for fiscal year 2013 shall be subject to the conditions contained in subsections (b) through (g) of section 1513 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181; 122 Stat. 428), as amended by section 1531(b) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383; 124 Stat. 4424).

(c) AFGHAN PUBLIC PROTECTION FORCE.—

(1) SEMI-ANNUAL CERTIFICATIONS.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and semiannually thereafter through December 31, 2014, the Secretary of Defense shall certify in writing to the congressional defense committees the elements specified in paragraph (3).

(2) REPORT FOLLOWING INABILITY TO CERTIFY ANY ELEMENT.—If the Secretary determines that an element specified in paragraph (3) cannot be certified in a report required by paragraph (1), the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth the following:

(A) An explanation why such element cannot be certified.

(B) A description of the actions, if any, that are being taken to mitigate the risk associated with such element.

(C) A description of the specific actions being taken to achieve the certification of such element, to the extent practicable.

(3) CERTIFICATION ELEMENTS.—The elements of each certification specified in this paragraph are the following:

(A) That each agreement between the United States and the Government of Afghanistan, or any contract between the Department of Defense and a contractor that subcontracts to the Afghan Public Protection Force, contains—

(i) uniform standards that ensure a consistent level of security;

(ii) standard procedures and institutional mechanisms for dispute resolution;

(iii) requirements for the Afghan Public Protection Force to adhere to the Afghan Public Protection Force Code of Conduct and applicable international standards, such as the Montreux Document, and the International Code of Conduct for private security service providers; and

(iv) provisions for the United States, or the contractor, to take actions to address the failure of the Afghan Public Protection Force to perform in a manner consistent with the Afghan Public Protection Force Code of Conduct and applicable international standards.

(B) That all Afghan Public Protection Force recruits and personnel are vetted under procedures consistent with the vetting standards of the United States for the Afghan National Security Forces as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(C) That all Afghan Public Protection Force recruits and personnel are biometrically screened in an independent fashion by the United States or contractors.

(D) In the case of contracts to provide force protection at installations in Afghanistan where the Armed Forces are garrisoned or housed, that the Commander, International Security and Assistance Force/Commander, United States Forces—Afghanistan, or designees, are provided the ability to—

(i) approve or disapprove arming authorization for Afghan Public Protection Force personnel performing activities at such installations; and

(ii) account for and maintain records of Afghan Public Protection Force personnel authorized to perform activities at such installations.

(E) That the International Security and Assistance Force Command has designated a centralized entity within that Command authorized to provide oversight of coalition activities relating to the Afghan Public Protection Force, including consultations with the Afghanistan Ministry of Interior regarding rules on the use of force, violations of contract, and other performance issues.

(F) That there is a mechanism in place sufficient to—

(i) account for the transfer of any United States Government-owned, contractor-acquired defense articles to the Afghan Public Protection Force; and

(ii) conduct end-use monitoring, of such defense articles, including an inventory of the existence and completeness of any such defense articles.

(d) REPORTS.—

(1) INITIAL ASSESSMENT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth an assessment of the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(2) SUBSEQUENT ASSESSMENTS.—On a semi-annual basis following the submittal of the report required by paragraph (1) through September 30, 2014, the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees an assessment of the progress in the development of the Afghan Public Protection Force during the preceding six months.

(3) ELEMENTS.—Each report under this subsection shall include the following:

(A) A description of the size and composition of the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(B) An assessment of the recruiting and training for the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(C) An assessment of the ability of the Afghan Public Protection Force to perform its tasks and missions.

(D) A description of measures of effectiveness for evaluating the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(E) Any recommendations provided by the United States to the Afghanistan Ministry of Interior to improve the performance of the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(F) A description of any instances of termination of contracts with the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(G) An assessment of the ability of the United States, or contractors, to hold the Afghan Public Protection Force accountable for gross or repeated violations.

(H) A description of the status of United States Government-owned, contractor-acquired defense articles provided to the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(4) ADDITIONAL ELEMENTS DURING FISCAL YEAR 2014 REPORTS.—Each report under paragraph (2) submitted during fiscal year 2014 shall include a plan, and any updates, on the post-2014 disposition of the Afghan Public Protection Force.

(5) SUBMITTAL WITH OTHER REPORTS.—Each report under paragraph (2) may be submitted as part of the report on progress toward security and stability in Afghanistan that is submitted under sections 1230 and 1231 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181; 122 Stat. 385, 390).

(e) PLAN FOR USE OF AFGHANISTAN SECURITY FORCES FUND THROUGH FISCAL YEAR 2017.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a plan for using funds available to the Department of Defense to provide assistance to the security forces of Afghanistan through the Afghanistan Security Forces Fund through September 30, 2017.

(f) AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional committees a copy of each agreement entered into by the United States and Afghanistan for services of the Afghan Public Protection Force for the Department of Defense not later than 30 days after entry into such agreement.

“(B) data regarding the responsiveness of the defense audit agency to issues or other matters raised by small business concerns; and

“(4) make recommendations to the Director regarding policies, processes, and procedures related to the timeliness of audits of small business concerns and the responsiveness of the defense audit agency to issues or other matters raised by small business concerns.

“(c) AUDIT INDEPENDENCE.—The Small Business Ombudsman of a defense audit agency shall be segregated from ongoing audits in the field and shall not engage in activities with regard to particular audits that could compromise the independence of the defense audit agency or undermine compliance with applicable audit standards.

“(d) DEFENSE AUDIT AGENCY DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘defense audit agency’ means the Defense Contract Audit Agency and the Defense Contract Management Agency.”

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter II of chapter 8 of such title is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 203 the following new item:

“204. Small Business Ombudsman for defense audit agencies.”

SEC. 1613. INDEPENDENT ASSESSMENT OF FEDERAL PROCUREMENT CONTRACTING PERFORMANCE OF THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.

(a) ASSESSMENT REQUIRED.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall select an appropriate entity to conduct an independent assessment of the procurement performance of the Department of Defense related to small business concerns.

(b) MATTERS COVERED.—The assessment under subsection (a) shall, at a minimum, include an examination of—

(1) the industrial composition of companies receiving subcontracts pursuant to the test program for the negotiation of comprehensive small business subcontracting plans pursuant to section 834 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101-189; 15 U.S.C. 637 note), compared to the industrial composition of other contractors in the defense industrial base;

(2) the quality and reliability of data on small business prime contracting and subcontracting by the Department, and the reliability of the information technology systems that the Department uses to track such data;

(3) the negotiation and execution of small business subcontracting plans, and the degree to which proposed teaming agreements are or are not maintained through the performance of contracts;

(4) the extent to which the Department adheres to current policies and guidelines relating to small business prime contracting and subcontracting goals;

(5) the extent to which the Department bundles, consolidates, or otherwise groups requirements into contracts that are unsuitable for award to small business concerns, the extent to which such bundling, consolidation, or grouping of requirements is justified, and the effects that such practices have on small business participation in contracting opportunities with the Department;

(6) the degree to which abuses of small business contracting and subcontracting programs result in contracts and subcontracts intended for small business concerns not being awarded to small business concerns; and

(7) an examination of the transition challenges faced by businesses that graduate from small business programs or grow to exceed the size standards for participation in such programs, along with specific recommendations on steps that should be taken to help ensure the continued health and growth of such businesses.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than January 1, 2014, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the independent assessment conducted under this section. The report shall include the findings and recommendations of the assessment, together with any recommendations that the Secretary may have for improving the Department’s small business contracting practices and addressing any shortcomings identified by the assessment.

SEC. 1614. ADDITIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF INSPECTOR GENERAL OF THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.

(a) REQUIREMENT FOR EXTERNAL PEER REVIEWS.—Section 8(c) of the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.) is amended—

PART II—GOALS FOR PROCUREMENT CONTRACTS AWARDED TO SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS

SEC. 1631. GOALS FOR PROCUREMENT CONTRACTS AWARDED TO SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS.

(a) GOVERNMENTWIDE GOALS.—Paragraph (1) of section 15(g) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 644(g)) is amended to read as follows:

“(1) GOVERNMENTWIDE GOALS.—

“(i) The Governmentwide goal for participation by small business concerns shall be established at not less than 23 percent of the total value of all prime contract awards for each fiscal year.

“(ii) The Governmentwide goal for participation by small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans shall be established at not less than 3 percent of the total value of all prime contract and subcontract awards for each fiscal year.

“(iii) The Governmentwide goal for participation by qualified HUBZone small business concerns shall be established at not less than 3 percent of the total value of all prime contract and subcontract awards for each fiscal year.

“(iv) The Governmentwide goal for participation by small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals shall be established at not less than 5 percent of the total value of all prime contract and subcontract awards for each fiscal year.

“(v) The Governmentwide goal for participation by small business concerns owned and controlled by women shall be established at not less than 5 percent of the total value of all prime contract and subcontract awards for each fiscal year.

(b) AMENDMENTS TO THE SMALL BUSINESS ACT.—Paragraph (2) of section 15(g) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 644(g)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A), by adding at the end the following: “Such goals shall separately address prime contract awards and subcontract awards for each category of small business covered.”;

(2) in subparagraph (D), by striking “For the purpose of establishing goals under this subsection” and all that follows through the end of that subparagraph, and inserting the following: “After establishing goals under this paragraph for a fiscal year, the head of each Federal agency shall develop a plan for achieving such goals at both the prime contract and the subcontract level, which shall apportion responsibilities among the agency’s acquisition executives and officials. In establishing goals under this paragraph, the head of each Federal agency shall make a consistent effort to annually expand participation by small business concerns from each industry category in procurement contracts and subcontracts of such agency, including participation by small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans, qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women.”;

(3) by striking subparagraphs (E) and (F) and inserting the following:

“(E) The head of each Federal agency, in attempting to attain expanded participation under subparagraph (D), shall consider—

“(i) contracts awarded as the result of unrestricted competition; and “(ii) contracts awarded after competition restricted to eligible small business concerns under this section and under the program established under section 8(a).

“(F)(i) Each procurement employee or program manager described in clause (ii) shall communicate to the subordinates of the procurement employee or program manager the importance of achieving goals established under subparagraph (A).

“(ii) A procurement employee or program manager described in this clause is a senior procurement executive, senior program manager, or Director of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization of a Federal agency having contracting authority.”.

(c) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this part, the Administrator of the Small Business Administration shall review and revise the Goaling Guidelines for the Small Business Preference Programs for Prime and Subcontract Federal Procurement Goals and Achievements to the extent necessary to ensure that—

(1) agency subcontracting goals are established on the basis of realistically achievable improvements to levels of subcontracting rather than on the basis of an average of previous years’ subcontracting performance;

(2) agency contracting and subcontracting goals are established in a manner that does not exclude categories of contracts on the basis of—

(A) the type of goods or services for which the agency contracts;

(B) in the case of contracts subject to competitive procedures under chapter 33 of title 41, United States Code—

(i) whether or not funding for the contracts is made directly available to the agency by an Appropriations Act or is made available by reimbursement from another agency or account; or

(ii) whether or not the contract is subject to the Federal Acquisition Regulation; and

(3) whenever an agency contracting or subcontracting goal is established at a level lower than the Governmentwide goal for small business concerns or the relevant category of small business concerns, the Administration is required to document the basis for the decision to establish such lower goal.

(d) ASSESSMENT REQUIRED.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this part, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration shall enter into a contract with an appropriate entity to conduct an independent assessment of the small business procurement goals established in section 15(g) of the Small Business Act.

(1) COORDINATION WITH DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.—To the extent practicable, the Administrator shall coordinate this assessment with the Secretary of Defense, to avoid unnecessary duplication with the assessment required by section 1613 of this title.

(2) MATTERS COVERED.—The assessment under this subsection shall, at a minimum, include—

(A) a description of the industrial composition of companies receiving prime contracts and subcontracts with the Federal Government;

(B) a description of the industrial composition of domestic small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans, qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women;

(C) a comparison of the industrial composition of prime contractors and subcontractors participating in Federal contracting and the industrial composition of domestic small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans, qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women;

(D) a determination of barriers to accurately capturing data on small business prime contracting and subcontracting, including an examination of the reliability of information technology systems used by more than one Federal agency to track such data;

(E) recommendations for improving the quality and availability of data regarding small business prime contracting and subcontracting performance;

(F) recommendations to improve and inform the establishment of the goals in section 15(g) of the Small Business Act, including:

(i) alternate methodologies for establishing the goals;

(ii) determining which contracts should be subject to the goals;

(iii) methods for improving the correlation of current goaling practices with the health of the industrial base; and

(iv) methods of allocating goals between Federal agencies; and

(G) barriers within Federal procurement practices that inhibit the maximum practicable utilization of domestic small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans, qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women.

SEC. 1632. REPORTING ON GOALS FOR PROCUREMENT CONTRACTS AWARDED TO SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS.

Subsection (h) of section 15 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 644) is amended to read as follows:

“(h) REPORTING ON GOALS FOR PROCUREMENT CONTRACTS AWARDED TO SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS.—

“(1) AGENCY REPORTS.—At the conclusion of each fiscal year, the head of each Federal agency shall submit to the Administrator a report describing—

“(A) the extent of the participation by small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by veterans (including service-disabled veterans), qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women in the procurement contracts of such agency during such fiscal year;

“(B) whether the agency achieved the goals established for the agency under subsection (g)(2) with respect to such fiscal year; and “(C) any justifications for a failure to achieve such goals.

“(2) REPORTS BY ADMINISTRATOR.—Not later than 60 days after receiving a report from each Federal agency under paragraph (1) with respect to a fiscal year, the Administrator shall submit to the President and Congress, and to make available on a public Web site, a report that includes—

“(A) a copy of each report submitted to the Administrator under paragraph (1);

“(B) a determination of whether each goal established by the President under subsection (g)(1) for such fiscal year was achieved;

“(C) a determination of whether each goal established by the head of a Federal agency under subsection (g)(2) for such fiscal year was achieved;

“(D) the reasons for any failure to achieve a goal established under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (g) for such fiscal year and a description of actions planned by the applicable agency to address such failure, including the Administrator's comments and recommendations on the proposed remediation plan; and

“(E) for the Federal Government and each Federal agency, an analysis of the number and dollar amount of prime contracts awarded during such fiscal year to—

“(i) small business concerns—

“(I) in the aggregate;

“(II) through sole source contracts;

“(III) through competitions restricted to small business concerns; and “(IV) through unrestricted competition;

“(V) through unrestricted competition; and

“(viii) small business concerns owned and controlled by women—

“(I) in the aggregate;

“(II) through competitions restricted to small business concerns;

“(III) through competitions restricted using the authority under section 8(m)(2);

“(IV) through competitions restricted using the authority under section 8(m)(2) and in which the waiver authority under section 8(m)(3) was used; and

“(V) through unrestricted competition; and

“(F) for the Federal Government, the number, dollar amount, and distribution with respect to the North American Industry Classification System of subcontracts awarded during such fiscal year to small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans, qualified HUBZone small business concerns, small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, and small business concerns owned and controlled by women, provided that such information is publicly available through data systems developed pursuant to the Federal Funding Accountability and Transparency Act of 2006 (Public Law 109-282), or otherwise available as provided in paragraph (3).

“(3) ACCESS TO DATA.—

“(A) FEDERAL PROCUREMENT DATA SYSTEM.—To assist in the implementation of this section, the Administration shall have access to information collected through the Federal Procurement Data System, Federal Subcontracting Reporting System, or any new or successor system.

“(B) AGENCY PROCUREMENT DATA SOURCES.—To assist in the implementation of this section, the head of each contracting agency shall provide, upon request of the Administration, procurement information collected through agency data collection sources in existence at the time of the request. Contracting agencies shall not be required to establish new data collection systems to provide such data.”

SEC. 1633. SENIOR EXECUTIVES.

(a) TRAINING.—Programs established for the development of senior executives under section 3396(a) of title 5, United States Code, shall include training with respect to Federal procurement requirements, including contracting requirements under the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.).

(b) RESPONSIBILITY FOR ACHIEVING SMALL BUSINESS GOALS.—The head of an agency shall take steps to ensure that members of the senior executive service, as defined under section 3396(a) of title 5, United States Code, responsible for acquisition, other senior officials responsible for acquisition, and other members of the senior executive service, as appropriate, assume responsibility for the agency's success in achieving small business contracting goals and percentages by—

(1) promoting a climate or environment that is responsive to small business concerns;

(2) communicating the importance of achieving the agency's small business contracting goals; and

(3) encouraging small business awareness, outreach, and support.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section the term “responsible for acquisition”, with respect to a member of the senior executive service or other senior official, means such a member or official who acquires services or supplies, directs agency organizations to acquire services or supplies, oversees acquisition officials, including program managers, contracting officers, and other acquisition workforce personnel responsible for formulating and approving acquisition strategies and plans.

PART III—MENTOR-PROTEGE PROGRAMS

SEC. 1641. MENTOR-PROTEGE PROGRAMS.

The Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.) is amended—

(1) by redesignating section 45 as section 47; and

(2) by inserting after section 44 the following:

“SEC. 45. MENTOR-PROTEGE PROGRAMS.

“(a) ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM.—

“(1) AUTHORITY.—The Administrator is authorized to establish a mentor-protege program for all small business concerns.

“(2) MODEL FOR PROGRAM.—The mentor-protege program established under paragraph (1) shall be identical to the mentor-protege program of the Administration for small business concerns that participate in the program under section 8(a) (as in effect on the date of enactment of this section), except that the Administrator may modify the program to the extent necessary given the types of small business concerns included as proteges.

“(b) PROGRAMS OF OTHER AGENCIES.—

“(1) APPROVAL REQUIRED.—Except as provided in paragraph (4), a Federal department or agency may not carry out a mentor-protege program for small business concerns unless—

“(A) the head of the department or agency submits a plan to the Administrator for the program; and “(B) the Administrator approves such plan.

“(2) BASIS FOR APPROVAL.—The Administrator shall approve or disapprove a plan submitted under paragraph (1) based on whether the program proposed—

“(A) will assist proteges to compete for Federal prime contracts and subcontracts; and “(B) complies with the regulations issued under paragraph (3).

“(3) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Administrator shall issue, subject to notice and comment, regulations with respect to mentor-protege programs, which shall ensure that such programs improve the ability of proteges to compete for Federal prime contracts and subcontracts and which shall address, at a minimum, the following:

“(A) Eligibility criteria for program participants, including any restrictions on the number of mentor-protege relationships permitted for each participant.

“(B) The types of developmental assistance to be provided by mentors, including how the assistance provided shall improve the competitive viability of the proteges.

“(C) Whether any developmental assistance provided by a mentor may affect the status of a program participant as a small business concern due to affiliation.

“(D) The length of mentor-protege relationships.

“(E) The effect of mentor-protege relationships on contracting.

“(F) Benefits that may accrue to a mentor as a result of program participation.

“(G) Reporting requirements during program participation.

“(H) Postparticipation reporting requirements.

“(I) The need for a mentor-protege pair, if accepted to participate as a pair in a mentor-protege program of any Federal department or agency, to be accepted to participate as a pair in all Federal mentor-protege programs.

“(J) Actions to be taken to ensure benefits for proteges and to protect a protege against actions by a mentor that—“(i) may adversely affect the protege’s status as a small business concern; or “(ii) provide disproportionate economic benefits to the mentor relative to those provided to the protege.

“(4) LIMITATION ON APPLICABILITY.—Paragraph (1) does not apply to the following:

“(A) Any mentor-protege program of the Department of Defense.

“(B) Any mentoring assistance provided under a Small Business Innovation Research Program or a Small Business Technology Transfer Program.

“(C) Until the date that is 1 year after the date on which the Administrator issues regulations under paragraph (3), any Federal department or agency operating a mentor-protege program in effect on the date of enactment of this section.

“(c) REPORTING.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this section, and annually thereafter, the Administrator shall submit to the Committee on Small Business of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship of the Senate a report that—

“(A) identifies each Federal mentor-protege program;

“(B) specifies the number of participants in each such program, including the number of participants that are—

“(i) small business concerns;

“(ii) small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans;

“(iii) qualified HUBZone small business concerns;

“(iv) small business concerns owned and controlled by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals; or “(v) small business concerns owned and controlled by women;

“(C) describes the type of assistance provided to proteges under each such program;

“(D) describes the benefits provided to mentors under each such program; and “(E) describes the progress of proteges under each such program with respect to competing for Federal prime contracts and subcontracts.

“(2) PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—The head of each Federal department or agency carrying out a mentor-protege program shall provide to the Administrator, on an annual basis, the information necessary for the Administrator to submit a report required under paragraph (1).

“(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following definitions apply:

“(1) MENTOR.—The term ‘mentor’ means a for-profit business concern, of any size, that—

“(A) has the ability to assist and commits to assisting a protege to compete for Federal prime contracts and subcontracts; and

“(B) satisfies any other requirements imposed by the Administrator.

“(2) MENTOR-PROTEGE PROGRAM.—The term ‘mentor-protege program’ means a program that pairs a mentor with a protege for the purpose of assisting the protege to compete for Federal prime contracts and subcontracts.

“(3) PROTEGE.—The term ‘protege’ means a small business concern that—

“(A) is eligible to enter into Federal prime contracts and subcontracts; and

“(e) CURRENT MENTOR PROTEGE AGREEMENTS.—Mentors and proteges with approved agreement in a program operating pursuant to subsection (b)(4)(C) shall be permitted to continue their relationship according to the terms specified in their agreement until the expiration date specified in the agreement.

“(f) SUBMISSION OF AGENCY PLANS.—Agencies operating mentor protege programs pursuant to subsection (b)(4)(C) shall submit the plans specified in subsection (b)(1)(A) to the Administrator within 6 months of the promulgation of rules required by subsection (b)(3). The Administrator shall provide initial comments on each plan within 60 days of receipt, and final approval or denial of each plan within 180 days after receipt.”.

PART IV—TRANSPARENCY IN SUBCONTRACTING

SEC. 1651. LIMITATIONS ON SUBCONTRACTING.

The Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.) is amended by inserting before section 47 (as redesignated by section 1641 of this subtitle) the following:

“SEC. 46. LIMITATIONS ON SUBCONTRACTING.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—If awarded a contract under section 8(a), 8(m), 15(a), 31, or 36, a covered small business concern—

“(1) in the case of a contract for services, may not expend on subcontractors more than 50 percent of the amount paid to the concern under the contract;

“(2) in the case of a contract for supplies (other than from a regular dealer in such supplies), may not expend on subcontractors more than 50 percent of the amount, less the cost of materials, paid to the concern under the contract;

“(3) in the case of a contract described in paragraphs (1) and (2)—

“(A) shall determine for which category, services (as described in paragraph (1)) or supplies (as described in paragraph (2)), the greatest percentage of the contract is awarded;

“(B) shall determine the amount awarded under the contract for that category of services or supplies; and

“(C) may not expend on subcontractors, with respect to the amount determined under subparagraph (B), more than 50 percent of that amount; and

“(4) in the case of a contract for supplies from a regular dealer in such supplies, shall supply the product of a domestic small business manufacturer or processor, unless a waiver of such requirement is granted—

“(A) by the Administrator, after reviewing a determination by the applicable contracting officer that no small business manufacturer or processor can reasonably be expected to offer a product meeting the specifications (including period for performance) required by the contract; or

“(B) by the Administrator for a product (or class of products), after determining that no small business manufacturer or processor is available to participate in the Federal procurement market.

“(b) SIMILARLY SITUATED ENTITIES.—Contract amounts expended by a covered small business concern on a subcontractor that is a similarly situated entity shall not be considered subcontracted for purposes of determining whether the covered small business concern has violated a requirement established under subsection (a) or (d).

“(c) MODIFICATIONS OF PERCENTAGES.—The Administrator may change, by rule (after providing notice and an opportunity for public comment), a percentage specified in paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection (a) if the Administrator determines that such change is necessary to reflect conventional industry practices among business concerns that are below the numerical size standard for businesses in that industry category.

“(d) OTHER CONTRACTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—With respect to a category of contracts to which a requirement under subsection (a) does not apply, the Administrator is authorized to establish, by rule (after providing notice and an opportunity for public comment), a requirement that a covered small business concern may not expend on subcontractors more than a specified percentage of the amount paid to the concern under a contract in that category.

“(2) UNIFORMITY.—A requirement established under paragraph (1) shall apply to all covered small business concerns.

“(3) CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS.—The Administrator shall establish, through public rulemaking, requirements similar to those specified in paragraph (1) to be applicable to contracts for general and specialty construction and to contracts for any other industry category not otherwise subject to the requirements of such paragraph. The percentage applicable to any such requirement shall be determined in accordance with paragraph (1).

“(e) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following definitions apply:

“(1) COVERED SMALL BUSINESS CONCERN.—The term ‘covered small business concern’ means a business concern that—

“(A) with respect to a contract awarded under section 8(a), is a small business concern eligible to receive contracts under that section;

“(B) with respect to a contract awarded under section 8(m)—

“(i) is a small business concern owned and controlled by women (as defined in that section); or

“(ii) is a small business concern owned and controlled by women (as defined in that section) that is not less than 51 percent owned by 1 or more women who are economically disadvantaged (and such ownership is determined without regard to any community property law);

“(C) with respect to a contract awarded under section 15(a), is a small business concern;

“(D) with respect to a contract awarded under section 31, is a qualified HUBZone small business concern; or “(E) with respect to a contract awarded under section 36, is a small business concern owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans.

“(2) SIMILARLY SITUATED ENTITY.—The term ‘similarly situated entity’ means a subcontractor that—

“(A) if a subcontractor for a small business concern, is a small business concern;

“(B) if a subcontractor for a small business concern eligible to receive contracts under section 8(a), is such a concern;

“(C) if a subcontractor for a small business concern owned and controlled by women (as defined in section 8(m)), is such a concern;

“(D) if a subcontractor for a small business concern owned and controlled by women (as defined in section 8(m)) that is not less than 51 percent owned by 1 or more women who are economically disadvantaged (and such ownership is determined without regard to any community property law), is such a concern;

“(E) if a subcontractor for a qualified HUBZone small business concern, is such a concern; or

SEC. 1652. PENALTIES.

Section 16 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 645) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(g) SUBCONTRACTING LIMITATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Whoever violates a requirement established under section 46 shall be subject to the penalties prescribed in subsection (d), except that, for an entity that exceeded a limitation on subcontracting under such section, the fine described in subsection (d)(2)(A) shall be treated as the greater of—

“(A) $500,000; or

“(B) the dollar amount expended, in excess of permitted levels, by the entity on subcontractors.

“(2) MONITORING.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subsection, the Administrator shall take such actions as are necessary to ensure that an existing Federal subcontracting reporting system is modified to notify the Administrator, the appropriate Director of the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization, and the appropriate contracting officer if a requirement established under section 46 is violated.”.

SEC. 1653. SUBCONTRACTING PLANS.

(a) AMENDMENTS TO SMALL BUSINESS ACT REQUIREMENTS.—Section 8(d) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 637(d)) is amended by—

(1) redesignating paragraphs (7), (8), (9), (10), (11), and (12) as paragraphs (8), (9), (10), (11), (12), and (13) respectively;

(2) inserting after paragraph (6) the following:

“(7) The head of the contracting agency shall ensure that—

“(A) the agency collects and reports data on the extent to which contractors of the agency meet the goals and objectives set forth in subcontracting plans submitted pursuant to this subsection; and

“(B) the agency periodically reviews data collected and reported pursuant to subparagraph (A) for the purpose of ensuring that such contractors comply in good faith with the requirements of this subsection and subcontracting plans submitted by the contractors pursuant to this subsection.”;

(3) in paragraph (9), as redesignated by paragraph (1) of this subsection, striking “shall be a material breach of such contract or subcontract” and inserting “shall be a material breach of such contract or subcontract and may be considered in any past performance evaluation of the contractor”;

(4) in subparagraph (C) of paragraph (11), as redesignated by paragraph (1) of this subsection, by striking “, either on a contract-by-contract basis, or in the case contractors” and inserting “as a supplement to evaluations performed by the contracting agency, either on a contract-by-contract basis or, in the case of contractors”;

(5) by adding at the end the following:

“(14) An offeror for a covered contract that intends to identify a small business concern as a potential subcontractor in a bid or proposal for the contract, or in a plan submitted pursuant to this subsection in connection with the contract, shall notify the small business concern prior to making such identification.

“(15) The Administrator shall establish a reporting mechanism that allows a subcontractor or potential subcontractor to report fraudulent activity or bad faith by a contractor with respect to a subcontracting plan submitted pursuant to this subsection.”.

(b) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this part, the Administrator of the Small Business Administration shall take such actions as are necessary to ensure that the electronic subcontracting reporting system established by the Administration to carry out the requirement of section 8(d)(6)(E) of the Small Business Act is modified to ensure that it can identify entities that fail to submit required reports.

(2) ANNUAL REPORT.—Not later than March 31 of each year, the Administrator of the Small Business Administration shall provide the Committee on Small Business of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship of the Senate a report, based on data available through existing systems, that sets forth, by agency (and to the extent practicable, by type of goal or plan), the following information:

(A) the percentage of entities required to submit reports pursuant to section 8(d)(6) of the Small Business Act that filed such reports and that failed to file such reports during the prior fiscal year;

(B) the percentage of entities filing such reports that met, exceeded, or failed to meet goals set forth in their subcontracting plans during the prior fiscal year; and

(C) the aggregate value by which such entities exceeded, or failed to meet, their subcontracting goals during the prior fiscal year.

SEC. 1654. NOTICES OF SUBCONTRACTING OPPORTUNITIES.

Section 8(k)(1) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 637(k)(1)) is amended by striking “in the Commerce Business Daily” and inserting “on the appropriate Federal Web site (as determined by the Administrator)”.

SEC. 1655. PUBLICATION OF CERTAIN DOCUMENTS.

Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this part, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall publish procedures and methodologies to be used by Federal agencies with respect to decisions to convert a function being performed by a small business concern to performance by a Federal employee, including procedures and methodologies for determining which contracts will be studied for potential conversion; procedures and methodologies by which a contract is evaluated as inherently governmental or as a critical agency function; and procedures and methodologies for estimating and comparing costs. Should a Federal agency develop any agency-specific methodologies for identifying critical agency functions or supplemental implementation guidance, such methodologies and guidance shall be published upon implementation.

PART V—SMALL BUSINESS CONCERN SIZE STANDARDS

SEC. 1661. SMALL BUSINESS CONCERN SIZE STANDARDS.

Section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632) is amended—

(1) by striking “SEC. 3.” and inserting the following:

“SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.”;

and

(2) in subsection (a)—

(A) by striking the subsection enumerator and inserting the following:

“(a) SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS.”;

(B) in paragraph (1), by striking “(1) For the purposes” and inserting the following:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For the purposes”;

“(3) VARIATION BY INDUSTRY AND CONSIDERATION OF OTHER FACTORS.—When establishing”;

(D) by moving paragraph (5), including each subparagraph and clause therein, 2 ems to the right; and

(E) by adding at the end the following:

“(6) PROPOSED RULEMAKING.—In conducting rulemaking to revise, modify or establish size standards pursuant to this section, the Administrator shall consider, and address, and make publicly available as part of the notice of proposed rulemaking and notice of final rule each of the following:

“(A) a detailed description of the industry for which the new size standard is proposed;

“(B) an analysis of the competitive environment for that industry;

“(C) the approach the Administrator used to develop the proposed standard including the source of all data used to develop the proposed rule making; and “(D) the anticipated effect of the proposed rulemaking on the industry, including the number of concerns not currently considered small that would be considered small under the proposed rule making and the number of concerns currently considered small that would be deemed other than small under the proposed rulemaking.

“(7) COMMON SIZE STANDARDS.—In carrying out this subsection, the Administrator may establish or approve a single size standard for a grouping of 4-digit North American Industry Classification System codes only if the Administrator makes publicly available, not later than the date on which such size standard is established or approved, a justification demonstrating that such size standard is appropriate for each individual industry classification included in the grouping.

“(8) NUMBER OF SIZE STANDARDS.—The Administrator shall not limit the number of size standards established pursuant to paragraph (2), and shall assign the appropriate size standard to each North American Industry Classification System Code.”.

PART VI—CONTRACT BUNDLING

SEC. 1671. CONTRACT BUNDLING.

(a) CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS.—Section 44 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 657q) is amended in subsection (a)(2) by striking “or a multiple award contract to satisfy 2 or more requirements of the Federal agency for goods or services that have been provided to or performed for the Federal agency under 2 or more separate contracts lower in cost than the total cost of the contract for which the offers are solicited; and” and inserting the following: “or a multiple award contract—

“(A) to satisfy 2 or more requirements of the Federal agency for goods or services that have been provided to or performed for the Federal agency under 2 or more separate contracts lower in cost than the total cost of the contract for which the offers are solicited; or

“(B) to satisfy requirements of the Federal agency for construction projects to be performed at 2 or more discrete sites; and”.

(b) CLARIFICATION OF CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS.—Section 44 of such Act is further amended in subsection (c)(1)(E), by striking “certifies to the head of the Federal agency” and inserting “ensures”.

of such title is amended by striking the item relating to section 2382.

(2) CONSOLIDATION OF CONTRACT REQUIREMENTS; DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE.—Section 44 of the Small Business Act, as amended by subsections (a) and (b) of this section, is further amended in subsection (c) by striking paragraph (4).

(d) COMPTROLLER GENERAL REVIEW.—Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Comptroller General of the United States shall review data and information regarding consolidated contracts awarded by Federal agencies. The review shall include an assessment of—

(1) the extent to which written determinations that the consolidation of contract requirements was necessary and justified meet the requirements of applicable provisions of law and regulation;

(2) the amount of savings and benefits realized pursuant to such contracts, in comparison with—

(A) the performance of similar requirements under previous contracts; and

(B) the savings and benefits anticipated by the analysis required prior to the contract award pursuant to applicable provisions of law and regulation;

(3) the extent to which the consolidation of contract requirements was consistent with the contracting agency's small business subcontracting plans; and

(4) the adequacy of data collected pursuant to section 15 of the Small Business Act relating to contract bundling.

PART VII—INCREASED PENALTIES FOR FRAUD

SEC. 1681. SAFE HARBOR FOR GOOD FAITH COMPLIANCE EFFORTS.

(a) SMALL BUSINESS FRAUD.—Section 16(d) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 645(d)) is amended by inserting after paragraph (2) the following:

“(3) LIMITATION ON LIABILITY.—This subsection shall not apply to any conduct in violation of subsection (a) if the defendant acted in good faith reliance on a written advisory opinion from a Small Business Development Center (as defined in this Act), or an entity participating in the Procurement Technical Assistance Cooperative Agreement Program defined in chapter 142 of title 10, United States Code; however nothing in this Act shall obligate either entity to provide such a letter nor shall the provision of such a letter in any way render the providing entity liable to the business concern should the Administrator later determine that the concern is not a small business concern. Upon issuance of an advisory opinion under this paragraph, the entity issuing the advisory opinion shall remit a copy of the opinion to the General Counsel of the Administration, who may reject the advisory opinion. If the General Counsel of the Administration rejects the advisory opinion, the Administration shall notify the entity issuing the advisory opinion and the recipient of the opinion, after which time the business concern may not rely upon the opinion.”.

(b) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this part, the Administrator of the Small Business Administration shall issue rules defining what constitutes an adequate advisory opinion for purposes of section 16(d)(3) of the Small Business Act.

TITLE XVII—ENDING TRAFFICKING IN GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING

Sec. 1701. Definitions.

Sec. 1702. Contracting requirements.

Sec. 1703. Compliance plan and certification requirement.

Sec. 1704. Monitoring and investigation of trafficking in persons.

Sec. 1705. Notification to inspectors general and cooperation with Government.

Sec. 1706. Expansion of penalties for fraud in foreign labor contracting to include attempted fraud and work outside the United States.

Sec. 1707. Improving Department of Defense accountability for reporting trafficking in persons claims and violations.

Sec. 1708. Rules of construction; effective date.

SEC. 1701. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) EXECUTIVE AGENCY.—The term “executive agency” has the meaning given the term in section 133 of title 41, United States Code.

(2) SUBCONTRACTOR.—The term “subcontractor” means a recipient of a contract at any tier under a grant, contract, or cooperative agreement.

(3) SUBGRANTEE.—The term “subgrantee” means a recipient of a grant at any tier under a grant or cooperative agreement.

(4) UNITED STATES.—The term “United States” has the meaning provided in section 103(12) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7102(12)).

SEC. 1702. CONTRACTING REQUIREMENTS.

Section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)) is amended by striking “without penalty” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting the following: “or take any of the other remedial actions authorized under section 1704(c) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013, without penalty, if the grantee or any subgrantee, or the contractor or any subcontractor, engages in, or uses labor recruiters, brokers, or other agents who engage in—

“(i) severe forms of trafficking in persons; “(ii) the procurement of a commercial sex act during the period of time that the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement is in effect;

“(iii) the use of forced labor in the performance of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement; or

“(iv) acts that directly support or advance trafficking in persons, including the following acts:

“(I) Destroying, concealing, removing, confiscating, or otherwise denying an employee access to that employee’s identity or immigration documents.

“(II) Failing to provide return transportation or pay for return transportation costs to an employee from a country outside the United States to the country from which the employee was recruited upon the end of employment if requested by the employee, unless—

“(aa) exempted from the requirement to provide or pay for such return transportation by the Federal department or agency providing or entering into the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement; or

“(bb) the employee is a victim of human trafficking seeking victim services or legal redress in the country of employment or a witness in a human trafficking enforcement action.

“(III) Soliciting a person for the purpose of employment, or offering employment, by means of materially false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises regarding that employment.

“(IV) Charging recruited employees unreasonable placement or recruitment fees, such as fees equal to or greater than the employee’s monthly salary, or recruitment fees that violate the laws of the country from which an employee is recruited.

“(V) Providing or arranging housing that fails to meet the host country housing and safety standards.”.

SEC. 1703. COMPLIANCE PLAN AND CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENT.

(a) REQUIREMENT.—The head of an executive agency may not provide or enter into a grant, contract, or cooperative agreement if the estimated value of the services required to be performed under the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement outside the United States exceeds $500,000, unless a duly designated representative of the recipient of such grant, contract, or cooperative agreement certifies to the contracting or grant officer prior to receiving an award and on an annual basis thereafter, after having conducted due diligence, that—

(1) the recipient has implemented a plan to prevent the activities described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702, and is in compliance with that plan;

(2) the recipient has implemented procedures to prevent any activities described in such section 106(g) and to monitor, detect, and terminate any subcontractor, subgrantee, or employee of the recipient engaging in any activities described in such section; and

(3) to the best of the representative’s knowledge, neither the recipient, nor any subcontractor or subgrantee of the recipient or any agent of the recipient or of such a subcontractor or subgrantee, is engaged in any of the activities described in such section.

(b) LIMITATION.—Any plan or procedures implemented pursuant to subsection (a) shall be appropriate to the size and complexity of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement and to the nature and scope of its activities, including the number of non-United States citizens expected to be employed.

(c) DISCLOSURE.—The recipient shall provide a copy of the plan to the contracting or grant officer upon request, and as appropriate, shall post the useful and relevant contents of the plan or related materials on its website and at the workplace.

(d) GUIDANCE.—The President, in consultation with the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Administrator for the United States Agency for International Development, and the heads of such other executive agencies as the President deems appropriate, shall establish minimum requirements for contractor plans and procedures to be implemented pursuant to this section.

SEC. 1704. MONITORING AND INVESTIGATION OF TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS.

(a) REFERRAL AND INVESTIGATION.—

(1) REFERRAL.—If the contracting or grant officer of an executive agency for a grant, contract, or cooperative agreement receives credible information that a recipient of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement; any subgrantee or subcontractor of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of such a subgrantee or subcontractor, has engaged in an activity described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702, including a report from a contracting officer representative, an auditor, an alleged victim or victim’s representative, or any other credible source, the contracting or grant officer shall promptly refer the matter to the agency’s Office of Inspector General for investigation. The contracting officer may also direct the contractor to take specific steps to abate an alleged violation or enforce the requirements of a compliance plan implemented pursuant to section 1703.

(2) INVESTIGATION.—An Inspector General who receives a referral under paragraph (1) or otherwise receives credible information that a recipient of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement; any subgrantee or subcontractor of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of such a subgrantee or subcontractor, has engaged in an activity described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702, shall promptly review the referral or information and determine whether to initiate an investigation of the matter. In the event that an Inspector General does not initiate an investigation, the Inspector General shall document the rationale for the decision not to investigate.

(3) CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION.—If the matter is referred to the Department of Justice for criminal prosecution, the Inspector General may suspend any investigation under this subsection pending the outcome of the criminal prosecution. The Inspector General shall notify the head of the executive agency that awarded the contract, grant, or cooperative agreement of an indictment, information, or criminal complaint against the recipient of a contract, grant, or cooperative agreement; any subgrantee or subcontractor of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of a subgrantee or subcontractor. If the criminal investigation results in a decision not to prosecute, the Inspector General shall promptly determine whether to resume any investigation that was suspended pursuant to this paragraph. In the event that an Inspector General does not resume an investigation, the Inspector General shall document the rationale for the decision.

(b) REPORT.—Upon completion of an investigation under subsection (a), the Inspector General shall submit a report on the investigation to the head of the executive agency that awarded the contract, grant, or cooperative agreement. The report shall include the Inspector General's conclusions regarding whether or not any allegations that the recipient of a grant, contract, or cooperative agreement; any subcontractor or subgrantee of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of such a subcontractor or subgrantee, engaged in any of the activities described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702, are substantiated.

(c) REMEDIAL ACTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon receipt of an Inspector General's report substantiating an allegation that the recipient of a contract, grant, or cooperative agreement; any subgrantee or subcontractor of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of a subgrantee or subcontractor, engaged in any of the activities described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702, or notification of an indictment, information, or criminal complaint for an offense under subsection (a)(3), the head of agency shall consider taking one or more of the following remedial actions:

(A) Requiring the recipient to remove an employee from the performance of work under the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement.

(B) Requiring the recipient to terminate a subcontract or subgrant.

(C) Suspending payments under the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement until such time as the recipient of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement has taken appropriate remedial action.

(D) Withholding award fees, consistent with the award fee plan, for the performance period in which the agency determined the contractor or subcontractor engaged in any of the activities described in such section 106(g).

(E) Declining to exercise available options under the contract.

(F) Terminating the contract for default or cause, in accordance with the termination clause for the contract.

(G) Referring the matter to the agency suspension and debarment official.

(2) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as limiting the scope of applicable remedies available to the Federal Government.

(3) MITIGATING FACTOR.—Where applicable, the head of an executive agency may consider whether the contractor or grantee had a plan in place under section 1703, and was in compliance with that plan at the time of the violation, as a mitigating factor in determining which remedies, if any, should apply.

(4) AGGRAVATING FACTOR.—Where applicable, the head of an executive agency may consider the failure of a contractor or grantee to abate an alleged violation or enforce the requirements of a compliance plan when directed by a contracting officer pursuant to subsection (a)(1) as an aggravating factor in determining which remedies, if any, should apply.

(d) INCLUSION OF REPORT CONCLUSIONS IN FAPIIS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The head of an executive agency shall ensure that any substantiated allegation in the report under subsection (b) is included in the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System (FAPIIS) and that the contractor has an opportunity to respond to any such report in accordance with applicable statutes and regulations.

(2) AMENDMENT TO TITLE 41, UNITED STATES CODE.—Section 2313(c)(1)(E) of title 41, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

“(E) In an administrative proceeding—

“(i) a final determination of contractor fault by the Secretary of Defense pursuant to section 823(d) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (10 U.S.C. 2302 note; Public Law 111–84); or

“(ii) a substantiated allegation, pursuant to section 1704(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013, that the contractor, a subcontractor, or an agent of the contractor or subcontractor engaged in any of the activities described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)).”

SEC. 1705. NOTIFICATION TO INSPECTORS GENERAL AND COOPERATION WITH GOVERNMENT.

The head of an executive agency making or awarding a grant, contract, or cooperative agreement shall require that the recipient of the grant, contract, or cooperative agreement—

(1) immediately inform the Inspector General of the executive agency of any information it receives from any source that alleges credible information that the recipient; any subcontractor or subgrantee of the recipient; or any agent of the recipient or of such a subcontractor or subgrantee, has engaged in conduct described in section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702 of this Act; and

(2) fully cooperate with any Federal agencies responsible for audits, investigations, or corrective actions relating to trafficking in persons.

SEC. 1706. EXPANSION OF PENALTIES FOR FRAUD IN FOREIGN LABOR CONTRACTING TO INCLUDE ATTEMPTED FRAUD AND WORK OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1351 of title 18, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “Whoever knowingly and with the intent to defraud recruits, solicits or hires a person outside the United States” and inserting “(a) WORK INSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Whoever knowingly and with intent to defraud recruits, solicits, or hires a person outside the United States or causes another person to recruit, solicit, or hire a person outside the United States, or attempts to do so,”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(b) WORK OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—Whoever knowingly and with intent to defraud recruits, solicits, or hires a person outside the United States or causes another person to recruit, solicit, or hire a person outside the United States, or attempts to do so, for purposes of employment performed on a United States Government contract performed outside the United States, or on a United States military installation or mission outside the United States or other property or premises outside the United States owned or controlled by the United States Government, by means of materially false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises regarding that employment, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for not more than 5 years, or both.”

(b) SPECIAL RULE FOR ALIEN VICTIMS.—No alien may be admitted to the United States pursuant to subparagraph (U) of section 101(a)(15) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)) as a result of the alien being a victim of a crime described in subsection (b) of section 1351 of title 18, United States Code, as added by subsection (a).

SEC. 1707. IMPROVING DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ACCOUNTABILITY FOR REPORTING TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS CLAIMS AND VIOLATIONS.

Section 105(d)(7)(H) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7103(d)(7)(H)) is amended—

(1) in clause (ii), by striking “and” at the end;

(2) by redesignating clause (iii) as clause (iv);

(3) by inserting after clause (ii) the following new clause:

“(iii) all known trafficking in persons cases reported to the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness;”

(4) in clause (iv), as redesignated by paragraph (2), by inserting “and” at the end after the semicolon; and

(5) by adding at the end the following new clause:

“(v) all trafficking in persons activities of contractors reported to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics.”

SEC. 1708. RULES OF CONSTRUCTION; EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) LIABILITY.—Excluding section 1706, nothing in this title shall be construed to supersede, enlarge, or diminish the common law or statutory liabilities of any grantee, subgrantee, contractor, subcontractor, or other party covered by section 106(g) of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7104(g)), as amended by section 1702.

(b) AUTHORITY OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.—Nothing in this title shall be construed as diminishing or otherwise modifying the authority of the Attorney General to investigate activities covered by this title.

(c) IMPLEMENTATION AND EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) CONTRACTING REQUIREMENTS.—

(A) Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Federal Acquisition Regulation shall be amended to carry out the requirements of sections 1702, 1703, and 1704(c), and the second sentence of section 1704(a)(1), of this title.

(B) The requirements of sections 1702, 1703, and 1704(c), and the second sentence of section 1704(a)(1), of this title, shall apply to grants, contracts, and cooperative agreements entered into on or after the date that is 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and to task and delivery orders awarded on or after such date pursuant to contracts entered before, on, or after such date.

(2) INVESTIGATIVE AND PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS.—Federal agencies shall implement the requirements of sections 1704, 1705, and 1707 (other than subsection (c) of section 1704) not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(3) CRIMINAL LAW CHANGES.—The amendments made by section 1706 shall take effect upon the date of enactment and shall apply to conduct taking place on or after such date.

“(i) fire inspectors; and “(ii) building inspectors—

“(I) whose responsibilities include fire safety inspections; and “(II) who are employed by or serving as volunteers with a fire department.

“(E) To establish wellness and fitness programs for firefighting personnel to ensure that the firefighting personnel are able to carry out their duties as firefighters, including programs dedicated to raising awareness of, and prevention of, job-related mental health issues.

“(F) To fund emergency medical services provided by fire departments and non-affiliated EMS organizations.

“(G) To acquire additional firefighting vehicles, including fire trucks and other apparatus.

“(H) To acquire additional firefighting equipment, including equipment for—

“(i) fighting fires with foam in remote areas without access to water; and “(ii) communications, monitoring, and response to a natural disaster, act of terrorism, or other man-made disaster, including the use of a weapon of mass destruction.

“(I) To acquire personal protective equipment, including personal protective equipment—

“(i) prescribed for firefighting personnel by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration of the Department of Labor; or “(ii) for responding to a natural disaster or act of terrorism or other man-made disaster, including the use of a weapon of mass destruction.

“(J) To modify fire stations, fire training facilities, and other facilities to protect the health and safety of firefighting personnel.

“(K) To educate the public about arson prevention and detection.

“(L) To provide incentives for the recruitment and retention of volunteer firefighting personnel for volunteer firefighting departments and other firefighting departments that utilize volunteers.

“(M) To support such other activities, consistent with the purposes of this subsection, as the Administrator of FEMA determines appropriate.

“(d) FIRE PREVENTION AND SAFETY GRANTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For the purpose of assisting fire prevention programs and supporting firefighter health and safety research and development, the Administrator of FEMA may, on a competitive basis—

“(A) award grants to fire departments;

“(B) award grants to, or enter into contracts or cooperative agreements with, national, State, local, tribal, or nonprofit organizations that are not fire departments and that are recognized for their experience and expertise with respect to fire prevention or fire safety programs and activities and firefighter research and development programs, for the purpose of carrying out—

“(i) fire prevention programs; and

“(ii) research to improve firefighter health and life safety; and

“(C) award grants to institutions of higher education, national fire service organizations, or national fire safety organizations to establish and operate fire safety research centers.

“(2) MAXIMUM GRANT AMOUNT.—A grant awarded under this subsection may not exceed $1,500,000 for a fiscal year.

“(3) USE OF GRANT FUNDS.—Each entity receiving a grant under this subsection shall use the grant for one or more of the following purposes:

“(A) To enforce fire codes and promote compliance with fire safety standards.

“(B) To fund fire prevention programs, including programs that educate the public about arson prevention and detection.

“(C) To fund wildland fire prevention programs, including education, awareness, and mitigation programs that protect lives, property, and natural resources from fire in the wildland-urban interface.

“(D) In the case of a grant awarded under paragraph (1)(C), to fund the establishment or operation of a fire safety research center for the purpose of significantly reducing the number of fire-related deaths and injuries among firefighters and the general public through research, development, and technology transfer activities.

“(E) To support such other activities, consistent with the purposes of this subsection, as the Administrator of FEMA determines appropriate.

“(4) LIMITATION.—None of the funds made available under this subsection may be provided to the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) or any of its affiliates, subsidiaries, or allied organizations.

“(e) APPLICATIONS FOR GRANTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—An entity seeking a grant under this section shall submit to the Administrator of FEMA an application therefor in such form and in such manner as the Administrator of FEMA determines appropriate.

“(2) ELEMENTS.—Each application submitted under paragraph (1) shall include the following:

“(A) A description of the financial need of the applicant for the grant.

“(B) An analysis of the costs and benefits, with respect to public safety, of the use for which a grant is requested.

“(C) An agreement to provide information to the national fire incident reporting system for the period covered by the grant.

“(D) A list of other sources of funding received by the applicant—

“(i) for the same purpose for which the application for a grant under this section was submitted; or “(ii) from the Federal Government for other fire-related purposes.

“(E) Such other information as the Administrator of FEMA determines appropriate.

“(3) JOINT OR REGIONAL APPLICATIONS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Two or more entities may submit an application under paragraph (1) for a grant under this section to fund a joint program or initiative, including acquisition of shared equipment or vehicles.

“(B) NONEXCLUSIVITY.—Applications under this paragraph may be submitted instead of or in addition to any other application submitted under paragraph (1).

“(C) GUIDANCE.—The Administrator of FEMA shall—

“(i) publish guidance on applying for and administering grants awarded for joint programs and initiatives described in subparagraph (A); and “(ii) encourage applicants to apply for grants for joint programs and initiatives described in subparagraph (A) as the Administrator of FEMA determines appropriate to achieve greater cost effectiveness and regional efficiency.

“(f) PEER REVIEW OF GRANT APPLICATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA shall, after consultation with national fire service and emergency medical services organizations, appoint fire service personnel to conduct peer reviews of applications received under subsection (e)(1).

“(2) APPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to activities carried out pursuant to this subsection.

“(g) PRIORITIZATION OF GRANT AWARDS.—In awarding grants under this section, the Administrator of FEMA shall consider the following:

“(1) The findings and recommendations of the peer reviews carried out under subsection (f).

“(2) The degree to which an award will reduce deaths, injuries, and property damage by reducing the risks associated with fire-related and other hazards.

“(3) The extent of the need of an applicant for a grant under this section and the need to protect the United States as a whole.

“(4) The number of calls requesting or requiring a fire fighting or emergency medical response received by an applicant.

“(h) ALLOCATION OF GRANT AWARDS.—In awarding grants under this section, the Administrator of FEMA shall ensure that of the available grant funds in each fiscal year—

“(1) not less than 25 percent are awarded under subsection (c) to career fire departments;

“(2) not less than 25 percent are awarded under subsection (c) to volunteer fire departments;

“(3) not less than 25 percent are awarded under subsection (c) to combination fire departments and fire departments using paid-on-call firefighting personnel;

“(4) not less than 10 percent are available for open competition among career fire departments, volunteer fire departments, combination fire departments, and fire departments using paid-on-call firefighting personnel for grants awarded under subsection (c);

“(5) not less than 10 percent are awarded under subsection (d); and “(6) not more than 2 percent are awarded under this section to nonaffiliated EMS organizations described in subsection (c)(1)(B).

“(i) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS AND LIMITATIONS.—

“(1) FUNDING FOR EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES.—Not less than 3.5 percent of the available grant funds for a fiscal year shall be awarded under this section for purposes described in subsection (c)(3)(F).

“(2) STATE FIRE TRAINING ACADEMIES.—

“(A) MAXIMUM SHARE.—Not more than 3 percent of the available grant funds for a fiscal year may be awarded under subsection (c)(1)(C).

“(B) MAXIMUM GRANT AMOUNT.—The Administrator of FEMA may not award a grant under subsection (c)(1)(C) to a State fire training academy in an amount that exceeds $1,000,000 in any fiscal year.

“(3) AMOUNTS FOR PURCHASING FIRE-FIGHTING VEHICLES.—Not more than 25 percent of the available grant funds for a fiscal year may be used to assist grant recipients to purchase vehicles pursuant to subsection (c)(3)(G).”

“(j) FURTHER CONSIDERATIONS.—

“(1) ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS GRANTS TO FIRE DEPARTMENTS.—In considering applications for grants under subsection (c)(1)(A), the Administrator of FEMA shall consider—

“(A) the extent to which the grant would enhance the daily operations of the applicant and the impact of such a grant on the protection of lives and property; and

“(B) a broad range of factors important to the applicant’s ability to respond to fires and related hazards, such as the following:

“(i) Population served.

“(ii) Geographic response area.

“(iii) Hazards vulnerability.

“(iv) Call volume.

“(v) Financial situation, including unemployment rate of the area being served.

“(vi) Need for training or equipment.

“(2) APPLICATIONS FROM NONAFFILIATED EMS ORGANIZATIONS.—In the case of an application submitted under subsection (e)(1) by a nonaffiliated EMS organization, the Administrator of FEMA shall consider the extent to which other sources of Federal funding are available to the applicant to provide the assistance requested in such application.

“(3) AWARDING FIRE PREVENTION AND SAFETY GRANTS TO CERTAIN ORGANIZATIONS THAT ARE NOT FIRE DEPARTMENTS.—In the case of applicants for grants under this section who are described in subsection (d)(1)(B), the Administrator of FEMA shall give priority to applicants who focus on—“(A) prevention of injuries to high risk groups from fire; and

“(B) research programs that demonstrate a potential to improve firefighter safety.

“(4) AWARDING GRANTS FOR FIRE SAFETY RESEARCH CENTERS.—

“(A) CONSIDERATIONS.—In awarding grants under subsection (d)(1)(C), the Administrator of FEMA shall—

“(i) select each grant recipient on—

“(I) the demonstrated research and extension resources available to the recipient to carry out the research, development, and technology transfer activities;

“(II) the capability of the recipient to provide leadership in making national contributions to fire safety;

“(III) the recipient’s ability to disseminate the results of fire safety research; and “(IV) the strategic plan the recipient proposes to carry out under the grant;

“(ii) give special consideration in selecting recipients under subparagraph (A) to an applicant for a grant that consists of a partnership between—

“(I) a national fire service organization or a national fire safety organization; and

“(II) an institution of higher education, including a minority-serving institution (as described in section 371(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1067q(a))); and “(iii) consider the research needs identified and prioritized through the workshop required by subparagraph (B)(i).

“(B) RESEARCH NEEDS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of the Fire Grants Reauthorization Act of 2012, the Administrator of FEMA shall convene a workshop of the fire safety research community, fire service organizations, and other appropriate stakeholders to identify and prioritize fire safety research needs.

“(ii) PUBLICATION.—The Administrator of FEMA shall ensure that the results of the workshop are made available to the public.

“(C) LIMITATIONS ON GRANTS FOR FIRE SAFETY RESEARCH CENTERS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA may award grants under subsection (d) to establish not more than 3 fire safety research centers.

“(ii) RECIPIENTS.—An institution of higher education, a national fire service organization, and a national fire safety organization may not directly receive a grant under subsection (d) for a fiscal year for more than 1 fire safety research center.

“(5) AVOIDING DUPLICATION.—The Administrator of FEMA shall review lists submitted by applicants pursuant to subsection (e)(2)(D) and take such actions as the Administrator of FEMA considers necessary to prevent unnecessary duplication of grant awards.

“(k) MATCHING AND MAINTENANCE OF EXPENDITURE REQUIREMENTS.—

“(1) MATCHING REQUIREMENT FOR ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS GRANTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), an applicant seeking a grant to carry out an activity under subsection (c) shall agree to make available non-Federal funds to carry out such activity in an amount equal to not less than 15 percent of the grant awarded to such applicant under such subsection.

“(B) EXCEPTION FOR ENTITIES SERVING SMALL COMMUNITIES.—In the case that an applicant seeking a grant to carry out an activity under subsection (c) serves a jurisdiction of—

“(i) more than 20,000 residents but not more than 1,000,000 residents, the application shall agree to make available non-Federal funds in an amount equal to not less than 10 percent of the grant awarded to such applicant under such subsection; and “(ii) 20,000 residents or fewer, the applicant shall agree to make available non-Federal funds in an amount equal to not less than 5 percent of the grant awarded to such applicant under such subsection.

“(2) MATCHING REQUIREMENT FOR FIRE PREVENTION AND SAFETY GRANTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—An applicant seeking a grant to carry out an activity under subsection (d) shall agree to make available non-Federal funds to carry out such activity in an amount equal to not less than 5 percent of the grant awarded to such applicant under such subsection.

“(B) MEANS OF MATCHING.—An applicant for a grant under subsection (d) may meet the matching requirement under subparagraph (A) through direct funding, funding of complementary activities, or the provision of staff, facilities, services, material, or equipment.

“(3) MAINTENANCE OF EXPENDITURES.—An applicant seeking a grant under subsection (c) or (d) shall agree to maintain during the term of the grant the applicant’s aggregate expenditures relating to the uses described in subsections (c)(3) and (d)(3) at not less than 80 percent of the average amount of such expenditures in the 2 fiscal years preceding the fiscal year in which the grant amounts are received.

“(4) WAIVER.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (C)(ii), the Administrator of FEMA may waive or reduce the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) in cases of demonstrated economic hardship.

“(B) GUIDELINES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA shall establish and publish guidelines for determining what constitutes economic hardship for purposes of this paragraph.

“(ii) CONSULTATION.—In developing guidelines under clause (i), the Administrator of FEMA shall consult with individuals who are—

“(I) recognized for expertise in firefighting, emergency medical services provided by fire services, or the economic affairs of State and local governments; and

“(II) members of national fire service organizations or national organizations representing the interests of State and local governments.

“(iii) CONSIDERATIONS.—In developing guidelines under clause (i), the Administrator of FEMA shall consider, with respect to relevant communities, the following:

“(I) Changes in rates of unemployment from previous years.

“(II) Whether the rates of unemployment of the relevant communities are currently and have consistently exceeded the annual national average rates of unemployment.

“(III) Changes in percentages of individuals eligible to receive food stamps from previous years.

“(IV) Such other factors as the Administrator of FEMA considers appropriate.

“(C) CERTAIN APPLICANTS FOR FIRE PREVENTION AND SAFETY GRANTS.—The authority under subparagraph (A) shall not apply with respect to a nonprofit organization that—

“(i) is described in subsection (d)(1)(B); and “(ii) is not a fire department or emergency medical services organization.

“(1) GRANT GUIDELINES.—

“(i) GUIDELINES.—For each fiscal year, prior to awarding any grants under this section, the Administrator of FEMA shall publish in the Federal Register—

“(A) guidelines that describe—

“(i) the process for applying for grants under this section; and “(ii) the criteria that will be used for selecting grant recipients; and

“(B) an explanation of any differences between such guidelines and the recommendations obtained under paragraph (2).

“(2) ANNUAL MEETING TO OBTAIN RECOMMENDATIONS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the Administrator of FEMA shall convene a meeting of qualified members of national fire service organizations and, at the discretion of the Administrator of FEMA, qualified members of emergency medical service organizations to obtain recommendations regarding the following:

“(i) Criteria for the awarding of grants under this section.

“(ii) Administrative changes to the assistance program established under subsection (b).

“(B) QUALIFIED MEMBERS.—For purposes of this paragraph, a qualified member of an organization is a member who—

“(i) is recognized for expertise in firefighting or emergency medical services;

“(ii) is not an employee of the Federal Government; and “(iii) in the case of a member of an emergency medical service organization, is a member of an organization that represents—

“(I) providers of emergency medical services that are affiliated with fire departments; or “(II) nonaffiliated EMS providers.

“(3) APPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to activities carried out under this subsection.

“(m) ACCOUNTING DETERMINATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, for purposes of this section, equipment costs shall include all costs attributable to any design, purchase of components, assembly, manufacture, and transportation of equipment not otherwise commercially available.

“(n) ELIGIBLE GRANTEE ON BEHALF OF ALASKA NATIVE VILLAGES.—The Alaska Village Initiatives, a non-profit organization incorporated in the State of Alaska, shall be eligible to apply for and receive a grant or other assistance under this section on behalf of Alaska Native villages.

“(o) TRAINING STANDARDS.—If an applicant for a grant under this section is applying for such grant to purchase training that does not meet or exceed any applicable national voluntary consensus standards, including those developed under section 647 of the Post-Katrina Emergency Management Reform Act of 2006 (6 U.S.C. 747), the applicant shall submit to the Administrator of FEMA an explanation of the reasons that the training proposed to be purchased will serve the needs of the applicant better than training that meets or exceeds such standards.

“(p) ENSURING EFFECTIVE USE OF GRANTS.—

“(1) AUDITS.—The Administrator of FEMA may audit a recipient of a grant awarded under this section to ensure that—

“(A) the grant amounts are expended for the intended purposes; and “(B) the grant recipient complies with the requirements of subsection (k).

“(2) PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA shall develop and implement a performance assessment system, including quantifiable performance metrics, to evaluate the extent to which grants awarded under this section are furthering the purposes of this section, including protecting the health and safety of the public and firefighting personnel against fire and fire-related hazards.

“(B) CONSULTATION.—The Administrator of FEMA shall consult with fire service representatives and with the Comptroller General of the United States in developing the assessment system required by subparagraph (A).

“(3) ANNUAL REPORTS TO ADMINISTRATOR OF FEMA.—Not less frequently than once each year during the term of a grant awarded under this section, the recipient of the grant shall submit to the Administrator of FEMA an annual report describing how the recipient used the grant amounts.

“(4) ANNUAL REPORTS TO CONGRESS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than September 30, 2013, and each year thereafter through 2017, the Administrator of FEMA shall submit to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Science and Technology and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives a report that provides—

“(i) information on the performance assessment system developed under paragraph (2); and “(ii) using the performance metrics developed under such paragraph, an evaluation of the effectiveness of the grants awarded under this section.

“(B) ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.—The report due under subparagraph (A) on September 30, 2016, shall also include recommendations for legislative changes to improve grants under this section.

“(q) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section—

“(A) $750,000,000 for fiscal year 2013; and

“(B) for each of fiscal years 2014 through 2017, an amount equal to the amount authorized for the previous fiscal year increased by the percentage by which—

“(i) the Consumer Price Index (all items, United States city average) for the previous fiscal year, exceeds “(ii) the Consumer Price Index for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year described in clause (i).

“(2) ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—Of the amounts appropriated pursuant to paragraph (1) for a fiscal year, the Administrator of FEMA may use not more than 5 percent of such amounts for salaries and expenses and other administrative costs incurred by the Administrator of FEMA in the course of awarding grants and providing assistance under this section.

“(3) CONGRESSIONALLY DIRECTED SPENDING.—Consistent with the requirements in subsections (c)(1) and (d)(1) that grants under those subsections be awarded on a competitive basis, none of the funds appropriated pursuant to this subsection may be used for any congressionally directed spending item (as defined under the rules of the Senate and the House of Representatives).

“(r) SUNSET OF AUTHORITIES.—The authority to award assistance and grants under this section shall expire on the date that is 5 years after the date of the enactment of the Fire Grants Reauthorization Act of 2012.”

SEC. 1804. STAFFING FOR ADEQUATE FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE.

(a) IMPROVEMENTS TO HIRING GRANTS.—

(1) TERM OF GRANTS.—Subparagraph (B) of section 34(a)(1) of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229a(a)(1)) is amended to read as follows:

“(B) Grants made under this paragraph shall be for 3 years and be used for programs to hire new, additional firefighters.”

(2) LIMITATION OF PORTION OF COSTS OF HIRING FIREFIGHTERS.—Subparagraph (E) of such section is amended to read as follows:

“(E) The portion of the costs of hiring firefighters provided by a grant under this paragraph may not exceed—

“(i) 75 percent in the first year of the grant;

“(ii) 75 percent in the second year of the grant; and

“(iii) 35 percent in the third year of the grant.”

(b) CLARIFICATION REGARDING ELIGIBLE ENTITIES FOR RECRUITMENT AND RETENTION GRANTS.—The second sentence of section 34(a)(2) of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a(a)(2)) is amended by striking “organizations on a local or statewide basis” and inserting “national, State, local, or tribal organizations”.

(c) MAXIMUM AMOUNT FOR HIRING A FIREFIGHTER.—Paragraph (4) of section 34(c) of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a(c)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) The amount of funding provided under this section to a recipient fire department for hiring a firefighter in any fiscal year may not exceed—

“(A) in the first year of the grant, 75 percent of the usual annual cost of a first-year firefighter in that department at the time the grant application was submitted;

“(B) in the second year of the grant, 75 percent of the usual annual cost of a first-year firefighter in that department at the time the grant application was submitted; and

“(C) in the third year of the grant, 35 percent of the usual annual cost of a first-year firefighter in that department at the time the grant application was submitted.”

(d) WAIVERS.—Section 34 of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a) is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsections (d) through (i) as subsections (e) through (j), respectively; and

(2) by inserting after subsection (c) the following:

“(d) WAIVERS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—In a case of demonstrated economic hardship, the Administrator of FEMA may—

“(A) waive the requirements of subsection (c)(1); or “(B) waive or reduce the requirements in subsection (a)(1)(E) or subsection (c)(2).

“(2) GUIDELINES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA shall establish and publish guidelines for determining what constitutes economic hardship for purposes of paragraph (1).

“(B) CONSULTATION.—In developing guidelines under subparagraph (A), the Administrator of FEMA shall consult with individuals who are—

“(i) recognized for expertise in firefighting, emergency medical services provided by fire services, or the economic affairs of State and local governments; and

“(ii) members of national fire service organizations or national organizations representing the interests of State and local governments.

“(C) CONSIDERATIONS.—In developing guidelines under subparagraph (A), the Administrator of FEMA shall consider, with respect to relevant communities, the following:

“(i) Changes in rates of unemployment from previous years.

“(ii) Whether the rates of unemployment of the relevant communities are currently and have consistently exceeded the annual national average rates of unemployment.

“(iii) Changes in percentages of individuals eligible to receive food stamps from previous years.

“(iv) Such other factors as the Administrator of FEMA considers appropriate.”

(e) IMPROVEMENTS TO PERFORMANCE EVALUATION REQUIREMENTS.—Subsection (e) of section 34 of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a), as redesignated by subsection (d)(1) of this section, is amended by inserting before the first sentence the following:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of FEMA shall establish a performance assessment system, including quantifiable performance metrics, to evaluate the extent to which grants awarded under this section are furthering the purposes of this section.

“(2) SUBMITTAL OF INFORMATION.—”

(f) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (f) of section 34 of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a), as redesignated by subsection (d)(1) of this section, is amended by striking “The authority” and all that follows through “Congress concerning” and inserting the following: “Not later than September 30, 2014, the Administrator of FEMA shall submit to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Science and Technology and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives a report on”.

(3) CONGRESSIONALLY DIRECTED SPENDING.—Such subsection (j) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(3) CONGRESSIONALLY DIRECTED SPENDING.—Consistent with the requirement in subsection (a) that grants under this section be awarded on a competitive basis, none of the funds appropriated pursuant to this subsection may be used for any congressionally direct spending item (as defined under the rules of the Senate and the House of Representatives).”.

(i) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 34 of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2229a) is amended by striking “Administrator” each place it appears and inserting “Administrator of FEMA”.

(j) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—Such section is further amended in the heading by striking “EXPANSION OF PRE-SEPTEMBER 11, 2001,

FIRE GRANT PROGRAM” and inserting the following: “STAFFING FOR ADEQUATE FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE””.

(k) SUNSET OF AUTHORITY TO AWARD HIRING GRANTS.—Such section is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(k) SUNSET OF AUTHORITIES.—The authority to award assistance and grants under this section shall expire on the date that is 5 years after the date of the enactment of the Fire Grants Reauthorization Act of 2012.”.

SEC. 1805. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON VALUE AND FUNDING OF ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS AND STAFFING FOR ADEQUATE FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE PROGRAMS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the grants and assistance awarded under sections 33 and 34 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229 and 2229a) have proven equally valuable in protecting the health and safety of the public and firefighting personnel throughout the United States against fire and fire-related hazards; and

(2) providing parity in funding for the awarding of grants and assistance under both such sections will ensure that the grant and assistance programs under such sections can continue to serve their complementary purposes.

SEC. 1806. REPORT ON AMENDMENTS TO ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS AND STAFFING FOR ADEQUATE FIRE AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE PROGRAMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than September 30, 2016, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Science and Technology of the House of Representatives a report on the effect of the amendments made by this subtitle.

(b) CONTENTS.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) An assessment of the effect of the amendments made by sections 1803 and 1804 on the effectiveness, relative allocation, accountability, and administration of the grants and assistance awarded under sections 33 and 34 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229 and 2229a) after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(2) An evaluation of the extent to which the amendments made by sections 1803 and 1804 have enabled recipients of grants and assistance awarded under such sections 33 and 34 after the date of the enactment of this Act to mitigate fire and fire-related and other hazards more effectively.

SEC. 1807. STUDIES AND REPORTS ON THE STATE OF FIRE SERVICES.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) ADMINISTRATOR.—The term “Administrator” means the Administrator of the United States Fire Administration.

(2) CAREER FIRE DEPARTMENT, COMBINATION FIRE DEPARTMENT, VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.—The terms “career fire department”, “combination fire department”, and “volunteer fire department” have the meanings given such terms in section 33(a) of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229(a)), as amended by section 1803.

(3) FIRE SERVICE.—The term “fire service” has the meaning given such term in section 4 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2203).

(b) STUDY AND REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH STAFFING STANDARDS.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator shall conduct a study on the level of compliance with national voluntary consensus standards for staffing, training, safe operations, personal protective equipment, and fitness among the fire services of the United States.

(2) SURVEY.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In carrying out the study required by paragraph (1), the Administrator shall carry out a survey of fire services to assess the level of compliance of such fire services with the standards described in such paragraph.

(B) ELEMENTS.—The survey required by subparagraph (A) shall—

(i) include career fire departments, volunteer fire departments, combination fire departments, and fire departments serving communities of different sizes, and such other distinguishing factors as the Administrator considers relevant;

(ii) employ methods to ensure that the survey accurately reflects the actual rate of compliance with the standards described in paragraph (1) among fire services; and

(iii) determine the extent of barriers and challenges to achieving compliance with the standards described in paragraph (1) among fire services.

(C) AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT SURVEY WITH NONPROFIT.—If the Administrator determines that it will reduce the costs incurred by the United States Fire Administration in carrying out the survey required by subparagraph (A), the Administrator may carry out such survey in conjunction with a nonprofit organization that has substantial expertise and experience in the following areas:

(i) The fire services.

(ii) National voluntary consensus standards.

(iii) Contemporary survey methods.

(3) REPORT ON FINDINGS OF STUDY.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall submit to Congress a report on the findings of the Administrator with respect to the study required by paragraph (1).

(B) CONTENTS.—The report required by subparagraph (A) shall include the following:

(i) An accurate description, based on the results of the survey required by paragraph (2)(A), of the rate of compliance with the standards described in paragraph (1) among United States fire services, including a comparison of the rates of compliance among career fire departments, volunteer fire departments, combination fire departments, and fire departments serving communities of different sizes, and such other comparisons as Administrator considers relevant.

(ii) A description of the challenges faced by different types of fire departments and different types of communities in complying with the standards described in paragraph (1).

(c) TASK FORCE TO ENHANCE FIREFIGHTER SAFETY.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Homeland Security shall establish a task force to be known as the “Task Force to Enhance Firefighter Safety” (in this subsection referred to as the “Task Force”).

(2) MEMBERSHIP.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Members of the Task Force shall be appointed by the Secretary from among the general public and shall include the following:

(i) Representatives of national organizations representing firefighters and fire chiefs.

(ii) Individuals representing standards-setting and accrediting organizations, including representatives from the voluntary consensus codes and standards development community.

(iii) Such other individuals as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(B) REPRESENTATIVES OF OTHER DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES.—The Secretary may invite representatives of other Federal departments and agencies that have an interest in fire services to participate in the meetings and other activities of the Task Force.

(C) NUMBER; TERMS OF SERVICE; PAY AND ALLOWANCES.—The Secretary shall determine the number, terms of service, and pay and allowances of members of the Task Force appointed by the Secretary, except that a term of service of any such member may not exceed 2 years.

(3) RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Task Force shall—

(A) consult with the Secretary in the conduct of the study required by subsection (b)(1); and

(B) develop a plan to enhance firefighter safety by increasing fire service compliance with the standards described in subsection (b)(1), including by—

(i) reviewing and evaluating the report required by subsection (b)(3)(A) to determine the extent of and barriers to achieving compliance with the standards described in subsection (b)(1) among fire services; and

(ii) considering ways in which the Federal Government, States, and local governments can promote or encourage fire services to comply with such standards.

(4) REPORT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date on which the Secretary submits the report required by subsection (b)(3)(A), the Task Force shall submit to Congress and the Secretary a report on the activities and findings of the Task Force.

(B) CONTENTS.—The report required by subparagraph (A) shall include the following:

(i) The findings and recommendations of the Task Force with respect to the study carried out under subsection (b)(1).

(ii) The plan developed under paragraph (3)(B).

(d) STUDY AND REPORT ON THE NEEDS OF FIRE SERVICES.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator shall conduct a study—

(A) to define the current roles and activities associated with fire services on a national, State, regional, and local level;

(B) to identify the equipment, staffing, and training required to fulfill the roles and activities defined under subparagraph (A);

(C) to conduct an assessment to identify gaps between what fire services currently possess and what they require to meet the equipment, staffing, and training needs identified under subparagraph (B) on a national and State-by-State basis; and

(D) to measure the impact of the grant and assistance program under section 33 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229) in meeting the needs of fire services and filling the gaps identified under subparagraph (C).

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this title, the Administrator shall submit to Congress a report on the findings of the Administrator with respect to the study conducted under paragraph (1).

(e) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Administrator to carry out this section—

(1) $600,000 for fiscal year 2013; and note) and funded through the Department of Defense Base Closure Account 2005 established by section 2906A of such Act as specified in the funding table in section 4601.

Subtitle B—Other Matters

SEC. 2711. CONSOLIDATION OF DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE ACCOUNTS AND AUTHORIZED USES OF BASE CLOSURE ACCOUNT FUNDS.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF SINGLE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE ACCOUNT; USE OF FUNDS.—The Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101–510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) is amended by striking sections 2906 and 2906A and inserting the following new section 2906:

“SEC. 2906. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE ACCOUNT.

“(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established on the books of the Treasury an account to be known as the ‘Department of Defense Base Closure Account’ which shall be administered by the Secretary as a single account.

“(b) CREDITS TO ACCOUNT.—There shall be credited to the Account the following:

“(1) Funds authorized for and appropriated to the Account.

“(2) Funds transferred to the Account pursuant to section 2711(b) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.

“(3) Funds that the Secretary may, subject to approval in an appropriation Act, transfer to the Account from funds appropriated to the Department of Defense for any purpose, except that funds may be transferred under the authority of this paragraph only after the date on which the Secretary transmits written notice of, and justification for, such transfer to the congressional defense committees.

“(4) Proceeds received from the lease, transfer, or disposal of any property at a military installation closed or realigned under this part or the 1988 BRAC law.

“(c) USE OF ACCOUNT.—

“(1) AUTHORIZED PURPOSES.—The Secretary may use the funds in the Account only for the following purposes:

“(A) To carry out the Defense Environmental Restoration Program under section 2701 of title 10, United States Code, and other environmental restoration and mitigation activities at military installations closed or realigned under this part or the 1988 BRAC law.

“(B) To cover property management, disposal, and caretaker costs incurred at military installations closed or realigned under this part or the 1988 BRAC law.

“(C) To cover costs associated with supervision, inspection, overhead, engineering, and design of military construction projects undertaken under this part or the 1988 BRAC law before September 30, 2013, and subsequent claims, if any, related to such activities.

“(D) To record, adjust, and liquidate obligations properly chargeable to the following accounts:

“(i) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account 2005 established by section 2906A of this part, as in effect on September 30, 2013.

“(ii) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account 1990 established by this section, as in effect on September 30, 2013.

“(iii) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account established by section 207 of the 1988 BRAC law, as in effect on September 30, 2013.

“(2) SOLE SOURCE OF FUNDS.—The Account shall be the sole source of Federal funds for the activities specified in paragraph (1) at a military installation closed or realigned under this part or the 1988 BRAC law.

“(3) PROHIBITION ON USE OF ACCOUNT FOR NEW MILITARY CONSTRUCTION.—Except as provided in paragraph (1), funds in the Account may not be used, directly or by transfer to another appropriations account, to carry out a military construction project, including a minor military construction project, under section 2905(a) or any other provision of law at a military installation closed or realigned under this part or the 1988 BRAC law.

“(d) DISPOSAL OR TRANSFER OF COMMISSARY STORES AND PROPERTY PURCHASED WITH NON-APPROPRIATED FUNDS.—

“(1) DEPOSIT OF PROCEEDS IN RESERVE ACCOUNT.—If any real property or facility acquired, constructed, or improved (in whole or in part) with commissary store funds or non-appropriated funds is transferred or disposed of in connection with the closure or realignment of a military installation under this part, a portion of the proceeds of the transfer or other disposal of property on that installation shall be deposited in the reserve account established under section 204(b)(7)(C) of the 1988 BRAC law.

“(2) The amount so deposited under paragraph (1) shall be equal to the depreciated value of the investment made with such funds in the acquisition, construction, or improvement of that particular real property or facility. The depreciated value of the investment shall be computed in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

“(3) USE OF RESERVE FUNDS.—Subject to the limitation contained in section 204(b)(7)(C)(iii) of the 1988 BRAC law, amounts in the reserve account are hereby made available to the Secretary, without appropriation and until expended, for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, and improving—

“(A) commissary stores; and “(B) real property and facilities for non-appropriated fund instrumentalities.

“(e) CONSOLIDATED BUDGET JUSTIFICATION DISPLAY FOR ACCOUNT.—

“(1) CONSOLIDATED BUDGET INFORMATION REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall establish a consolidated budget justification display in support of the Account that for each fiscal year—

“(A) details the amount and nature of credits to, and expenditures from, the Account during the preceding fiscal year;

“(B) separately details the caretaker and environmental remediation costs associated with each military installation for which a budget request is made;

“(C) specifies the transfers into the Account and the purposes for which these transferred funds will be further obligated, to include caretaker and environment remediation costs associated with each military installation;

“(D) specifies the closure or realignment recommendation, and the base closure round in which the recommendation was made, that precipitated the inclusion of the military installation; and “(E) details any intra-budget activity transfers within the Account that exceeded $1,000,000 during the preceding fiscal year or that are proposed for the next fiscal year and will exceed $1,000,000.

“(2) SUBMISSION.—The Secretary shall include the information required by paragraph (1) in the materials that the Secretary submits to Congress in support of the budget for a fiscal year submitted by the President pursuant to section 1105 of title 31, United States Code.

“(f) CLOSURE OF ACCOUNT; TREATMENT OF REMAINING FUNDS.—

“(1) CLOSURE.—The Account shall be closed at the time and in the manner provided for appropriation accounts under section 1555 of title 31, United States Code, except that unobligated funds which remain in the Account upon closure shall be held by the Secretary of the Treasury until transferred by law after the congressional defense committees receive the final report transmitted under paragraph (2).

“(2) FINAL REPORT.—No later than 60 days after the closure of the Account under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall transmit to the congressional defense committees a report containing an accounting of—

“(A) all the funds credited to and expended from the Account or otherwise expended under this part or the 1988 BRAC law; and “(B) any funds remaining in the Account.

“(g) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) The term ‘commissary store funds’ means funds received from the adjustment of, or surcharge on, selling prices at commissary stores fixed under section 2685 of title 10, United States Code.

“(2) The term ‘nonappropriated funds’ means funds received from a non-appropriated fund instrumentality.

“(3) The term ‘nonappropriated fund instrumentality’ means an instrumentality of the United States under the jurisdiction of the Armed Forces (including the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, the Navy Resale and Services Support Office, and the Marine Corps exchanges) which is conducted for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, or physical or mental improvement of members of the Armed Forces.

“(4) The term ‘1988 BRAC law’ means title II of the Defense Authorization Amendments and Base Closure and Realignment Act (Public Law 100-526; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note).”.

(b) CLOSURE OF EXISTING CURRENT ACCOUNTS; TRANSFER OF FUNDS.—

(1) CLOSURE.—Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary of the Treasury shall close, pursuant to section 1555 of title 31, United States Code, the following accounts on the books of the Treasury:

(A) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account 2005 established by section 2906A of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note), as in effect on the effective date of this section.

(B) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account 1990 established by section 2906 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note), as in effect on the effective date of this section.

(C) The Department of Defense Base Closure Account established by section 207 of the Defense Authorization Amendments and Base Closure and Realignment Act (Public Law 100-526; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note), as in effect on the effective date of this section.

(2) TRANSFER OF FUNDS.—All amounts remaining in the three accounts specified in paragraph (1) as of the effective date of this section, shall be transferred, effective on that date, to the Department of Defense Base Closure Account established by section 2906 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990, as added by subsection (a).

(3) CROSS REFERENCES.—Except as provided in this subsection or the context requires otherwise, any reference in a law, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to an account specified in paragraph (1) shall be deemed to be a reference to the Department of Defense Base Closure Account established by section 2906 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990, as added by subsection (a).

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) REPEAL OF FORMER ACCOUNT.—Section 207 of the Defense Authorization Amendments and Base Closure and Realignment Act (Public Law 100-526; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) is repealed.

Subtitle A—Military Construction Program and Military Family Housing Changes

SEC. 2801. AUTHORIZED COST AND SCOPE VARIATIONS.

Section 2853 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking “was approved originally” and inserting “was authorized”;

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) in paragraph (1), by adding at the end the following: “Any reduction in scope of work for a military construction project shall not result in a facility or item of infrastructure that is not complete and useable or does not fully meet the mission requirement contained in the justification data provided to Congress as part of the request for authorization of the project, construction, improvement, or acquisition.”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(3) In this subsection, the term ‘scope of work’ refers to the function, size, or quantity of a facility or item of complete and useable infrastructure contained in the justification data provided to Congress as part of the request for authorization of the project, construction, improvement, or acquisition.”;

(3) in subsection (c)(1)(A), by striking “and the reasons therefor, including a description” and inserting “, the reasons therefor, a certification that the mission requirement identified in the justification data provided to Congress can be still be met with the reduced scope, and a description”;

(4) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(e) Notwithstanding the authority under subsections (a) through (d), the Secretary concerned shall ensure compliance of contracts for military construction projects and for the construction, improvement, and acquisition of military family housing projects with section 1341 of title 31 (commonly referred to as the ‘Anti-Deficiency Act’).”.

SEC. 2802. PREPARATION OF MASTER PLANS FOR MAJOR MILITARY INSTALLATIONS.

(a) MILITARY INSTALLATION MASTER PLANS.—Subchapter III of chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 2863 the following new section:

“§ 2864. Master plans for major military installations

“(a) PLANS REQUIRED.—At a time interval prescribed by the Secretary concerned (but not less frequently than once every 10 years), the commander of each major military installation under the jurisdiction of the Secretary shall ensure that an installation master plan is developed to address environmental planning, sustainable design and development, sustainable range planning, real property master planning, and transportation planning.

“(b) TRANSPORTATION COMPONENT.—The transportation component of the master plan for a major military installation shall be developed and updated in consultation with the metropolitan planning organization designated for the metropolitan planning area in which the military installation is located.

“(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) The term ‘major military installation’ has the meaning given to the term ‘large site’ in the most recent version of the Department of Defense Base Structure Report issued before the time interval prescribed for development of installation master plans arises under subsection (a).

“(2) The terms ‘metropolitan planning area’ and ‘metropolitan planning organization’ have the meanings given those terms in section 134(b) of title 23 and section 5303(b) of title 49.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter III of chapter 169 of such title is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 2863 the following new item:

“2864. Master plans for major military installations.”.

SEC. 2803. OVERSIGHT AND ACCOUNTABILITY FOR MILITARY HOUSING PRIVATIZA- TION PROJECTS AND RELATED AN- NUAL REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

(a) FINANCIAL INTEGRITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY MEASURES FOR SUSTAINMENT OF PRIVATIZATION PROJECTS.—

(1) FINANCIAL INTEGRITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY MEASURES REQUIRED.—Section 2885 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(f) FINANCIAL INTEGRITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY MEASURES.—(1) The regulations required by subsection (a) shall address the following requirements for each military housing privatization project upon the completion of the construction or renovation of the housing units:

“(A) The financial health and performance of the privatization project, including the debt-coverage ratio of the project and occupancy rates for the housing units.

“(B) An assessment of the backlog of maintenance and repair of the housing units.

“(2) If the debt service coverage for a military housing privatization project falls below 1.0 or the occupancy rates for the housing units of the project are below 75 percent for more than one year, the Secretary concerned shall require the development of a plan to address the financial risk of the project.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Subsection (a) of such section is amended in the matter preceding paragraph (1) by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: “during the course of the construction or renovation of the housing units”.

(b) ANNUAL REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—Section 2884 of such title is amended by striking subsection (b) and inserting the following new subsections:

“(b) ANNUAL REPORTS TO ACCOMPANY BUDGET MATERIALS.—The Secretary of Defense shall include each year in the materials that the Secretary submits to Congress in support of the budget submitted by the President pursuant to section 1105 of title 31 the following:

“(1) A separate report on the expenditures and receipts during the preceding fiscal year covering each of the Funds established under section 2883 of this title, including a description of the specific construction, acquisition, or improvement projects from which funds were transferred and the privatization projects or contracts to which those funds were transferred. Each report shall also include, for each military department or defense agency, a description of all funds to be transferred to such Funds for the current fiscal year and the next fiscal year.

“(2) A report setting forth, by armed force, the following:

“(A) An estimate of the amounts of basic allowance for housing under section 403 of title 37 that will be paid, during the current fiscal year and the fiscal year for which the budget is submitted, to members of the armed forces living in housing provided under the authorities in this subchapter.

“(B) The number of units of military family housing and military unaccompanied housing upon which the estimate under subparagraph (A) for the current fiscal year and the next fiscal year is based.

“(3) A description of the plans for housing privatization activities to be carried out under this subchapter—

“(A) during the fiscal year for which the budget is submitted; and

“(B) during the period covered by the then-current future-years defense plan under section 221 of this title.

“(4) A report identifying each family housing unit acquired or constructed under this subchapter that is used, or intended to be used, as quarters for a general officer or flag officer and for which the total operation, maintenance, and repair costs for the unit exceeded $50,000. For each housing unit so identified, the report shall also include the total of such operation, maintenance, and repair costs.

“(c) ANNUAL REPORT ON PRIVATIZATION PROJECTS.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a semi-annual report containing on evaluation of the status of oversight and accountability measures under section 2885 of this title for military housing privatization projects. To the extent each Secretary concerned has the right to attain the information described in this subsection, each report shall include, at a minimum, the following:

“(1) An assessment of the backlog of maintenance and repair at each military housing privatization project where a significant backlog exists, including an estimation of the cost of eliminating the maintenance and repair backlog.

“(2) If the debt associated with a privatization project exceeds net operating income or the occupancy rates for the housing units are below 75 percent for more than one year, the plan developed to mitigate the financial risk of the project.

“(3) An assessment of any significant project variances between the actual and pro forma deposits in the recapitalization account.

“(4) The details of any significant withdrawals from a recapitalization account, including the purpose and rationale of the withdrawal and, if the withdrawal occurs before the normal recapitalization period, the impact of the early withdrawal on the financial health of the project.

“(5) An assessment of the extent to which the information required to comply with paragraphs (1) through (4) has been requested by the Secretaries, but has not been made available.

“(6) An assessment of cost assessed to members of the armed forces for utilities compared to utility rates in the local area.”.

(1) in subsection (c)—
(A) by striking paragraph (2);
(B) by redesignating paragraph (3) as paragraph (2); and

(C) in paragraph (2), as so redesignated, by striking the second sentence; and

(2) in subsection (h)—
(A) in paragraph (1), by striking “September 30, 2012” and inserting “September 30, 2013”; and

(B) in paragraph (2), by striking “fiscal year 2013” and inserting “fiscal year 2014”.

SEC. 2805. COMPTROLLER GENERAL REPORT ON IN-KIND PAYMENTS.

(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—

(1) INITIAL REPORT.—Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the construction or renovation of Department of Defense facilities with in-kind payments. The report shall cover construction or renovation projects begun during the preceding two years.

(2) UPDATES.—Not later than one year after submitting the report required under paragraph (1), and annually thereafter for three years, the Comptroller General shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report covering projects begun since the most recent report.

(b) CONTENT.—Each report required under subsection (a) shall include the following elements:

(1) A listing of each facility constructed or renovated for the Department of Defense as payment in kind.

(2) The value in United States dollars of that construction or renovation.

(3) The source of the in-kind payment.

(4) The agreement pursuant to which the in-kind payment was made.

(5) A description of the purpose and need for the construction or renovation.

Subtitle B—Real Property and Facilities Administration

SEC. 2811. CLARIFICATION OF PARTIES WITH WHOM DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE MAY CONDUCT EXCHANGES OF REAL PROPERTY AT CERTAIN MILITARY INSTALLATIONS.

Section 2869(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “any eligible entity” and inserting “any person”;

(2) by striking “the entity” and inserting “the person”; and

(3) by striking “their control” and inserting “the person’s control”.

SEC. 2812. IDENTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS FOR ACCESS TO MILITARY INSTALLATIONS.

(a) PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS FOR IDENTIFICATION VERIFICATION.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall publish procedural requirements regarding access to military installations in the United States by individuals, including individuals performing work under a contract awarded by the Department of Defense. The procedural requirements may vary between military installations, or parts of installations, depending on the nature of the installation, the nature of the access granted, and the level of security required.

(b) ISSUES ADDRESSED.—The procedures required by subsection (a) shall address, at a minimum, the following:

(1) The forms of identification to be required to permit entry.

(2) The measures to be used to verify the authenticity of such identification and identify individuals who seek unauthorized access to a military installation through the use of fraudulent identification or other means.

(3) The measures to be used to notify Department of Defense security personnel of any attempt to gain unauthorized access to a military installation.

SEC. 2813. REPORT ON PROPERTY DISPOSALS AT CERTAIN CLOSED MILITARY INSTALLATIONS AND ADDITIONAL AUTHORITIES TO ASSIST LOCAL COMMUNITIES IN THE VICINITY OF SUCH INSTALLATIONS.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the disposition of any closure of an active-duty military installation since 1988 in the United States that—

(1) was not subject to the property disposal provisions contained in the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note); and

(2) for which property disposals have not been completed as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) A description of the status of property described in subsection (a).

(2) An assessment of the environmental conditions of, and plans and costs for environmental remediation for, each such property;

(3) The plan and schedule, if currently available, for the disposal of each such property.

(4) A description of additional future financial liability or other policy impacts to the Department of Defense that are likely to be incurred in the event that statutory authorities provided by Congress in connection with the disposition of military installations closed under a base closure law are extended to military installations closed apart from a base closure law and for which property disposals have not been completed as of the date of the enactment of this Act.

(5) Such recommendations, if any, as the Secretary of Defense considers appropriate for additional authorities to assist the Department in expediting the disposal of property at closed military installations in order to facilitate economic redevelopment for local communities.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term “base closure law” has the meaning given that term in section 101(a)(17) of title 10, United States Code.

(2) The term “military installation” means a base, camp, post, station, yard, center, homeport facility for any ship, or other activity under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense in the United States.

(3) The term “United States” means the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and Guam.

SEC. 2814. REPORT ON REORGANIZATION OF AIR FORCE MATERIEL COMMAND ORGANIZATIONS.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the reorganization of Air Force Materiel Command organizations.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The report required under subsection (a) shall include the following elements:

(1) An assessment of the efficiencies and effectiveness associated with the reorganization of Air Force Materiel Command organizations.

(2) An assessment of the organizational construct to determine how institutional synergies that were previously available in a collocated center can be replicated in the new Air Force Materiel Command Center reorganization, including an assessment of the following Air Force Materiel Command capabilities:

(A) Science and Technology, Acquisition.

(B) Developmental Test and Evaluation.

(3) An assessment of synergistic efficiencies associated with capabilities of collocated organizations of other commands, including an assessment of the impact of the reorganization of the Air Force Materiel Command on the responsibilities of other commands regarding the following:

(A) Operational Test and Evaluation.

(B) Follow-on Operational Test and Evaluation.

(4) An assessment of how the Air Force reorganization of Air Force Materiel Command is in adherence with section 2687 of title 10, United States Code.

(5) An analysis of the extent to which the proposed changes in the Air Force management structure were coordinated with the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the degree to which any concerns raised by such Office were addressed in the approach selected by the Air Force.

Subtitle C—Energy Security

SEC. 2821. CONGRESSIONAL NOTIFICATION FOR CONTRACTS FOR THE PROVISION AND OPERATION OF ENERGY PRODUCTION FACILITIES AUTHORIZED TO BE LOCATED ON REAL PROPERTY UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF A MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Section 2662(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

“(H) Any transaction or contract action for the provision and operation of energy production facilities on real property under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of a military department, as authorized by section 2922a(a)(2) of this title, if the term of the transaction or contract exceeds 20 years.”.

SEC. 2822. AVAILABILITY AND USE OF DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ENERGY COST SAVINGS TO PROMOTE ENERGY SECURITY.

Section 2912(b)(1) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after “additional energy conservation” the following: “and energy security”.

SEC. 2823. CONTINUATION OF LIMITATION ON USE OF FUNDS FOR LEADERSHIP IN ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN (LEED) GOLD OR PLATINUM CERTIFICATION.

(a) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS FOR REPORT ON ENERGY-EFFICIENCY STANDARDS.—Subsection (a) of section 2830 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81; 125 Stat. 1695) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), by striking “Not later than June 30, 2012, the” and inserting “The”;

and

(2) by striking paragraph (3) and inserting the following new paragraph (3):

“(3) DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE UNIFIED FACILITIES CRITERIA AND RELATED POLICIES.—The report shall also include the Department of Defense Unified Facilities Criteria and related Department of Defense policies, which shall be updated—

“(A) to reflect comprehensive guidance for the pursuit of design and building standards throughout the Department of Defense that specifically address energy- and water-efficient standards and sustainable design attributes for military construction based on the cost-benefit analysis, return on investment, total ownership costs, and demonstrated payback of the design standards specified in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) of paragraph (2); and

“(B) to ensure that the building design and certification standards are applied to each military construction project based on geographic location and local circumstances to ensure maximum savings.”.

(b) PROHIBITION ON USE OF FUNDS FOR LEED GOLD OR PLATINUM CERTIFICATION PENDING REPORT.—Subsection (b)(1) of such section is amended—

(1) by striking “for fiscal year 2012” and inserting “for fiscal year 2012 or 2013”; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end the following: “until the report required by subsection (a) is submitted to the congressional defense committees”.

SEC. 2824. GUIDANCE ON FINANCING FOR RENEWABLE ENERGY PROJECTS.

(a) GUIDANCE ON USE OF AVAILABLE FINANCING APPROACHES.—

(1) ISSUANCE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall—

(A) issue guidance about the use of available financing approaches for financing renewable energy projects; and

(B) direct the Secretaries of the military departments to update their military department-wide guidance accordingly.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The guidance issued pursuant to paragraph (1) should describe the requirements and restrictions applicable to the underlying authorities and any Department of Defense-specific guidelines for using appropriated funds and alternative-financing approaches for renewable energy projects to maximize cost savings and energy efficiency for the Department of Defense.

(b) GUIDANCE ON USE OF BUSINESS CASE ANALYSES.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall issue guidance that establishes and clearly describes the processes used by the military departments to select financing approaches for renewable energy projects to ensure that business case analyses are completed to maximize cost savings and energy efficiency and mitigate drawbacks and risks associated with different financing approaches.

(c) INFORMATION SHARING.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall develop a formalized communications process, such as a shared Internet website, that will enable officials at military installations to have timely access on an ongoing basis to information related to financing renewable energy projects on other installations, including best practices and lessons that officials at other installations have learned from their experiences in financing renewable energy projects.

(d) CONSULTATION.—The Secretary of Defense shall issue the guidance under subsections (a) and (b) and develop the communications process under subsection (c) in consultation with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics and the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Installations and Environment. The Secretary of Defense shall also issue the guidance under subsection (b) in consultation with the Secretaries of the military departments.

SEC. 2825. ENERGY SAVINGS PERFORMANCE CONTRACT REPORT.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than June 30, 2013, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the use of energy savings performance contracts awarded by the Department of Defense during calendar years 2010, 2011, and 2012.

(b) ELEMENTS OF REPORT.—The report shall include the following (identified for each military department separately):

(1) The amount of appropriated funds that were obligated or expended during calendar years 2010, 2011, and 2012 for energy savings performance contracts and any funds remaining to be obligated or expended for such energy savings performance contracts.

(2) The amount of such funds that have been used for comprehensive retrofits.

(3) The amount of such funds that have been used to leverage private sector capital, including the amount of such capital.

(4) The amount of savings that have been achieved, or that are expected to be achieved, as a result of such energy savings performance contracts.

Subtitle D—Provisions Related to Asia-Pacific Military Realignment

SEC. 2831. CERTIFICATION OF MILITARY READINESS NEED FOR A LIVE FIRE TRAINING RANGE COMPLEX ON GUAM AS CONDITION ON ESTABLISHMENT OF RANGE COMPLEX.

A Live Fire Training Range Complex on Guam may not be established (including any construction or lease of lands related to such establishment) in coordination with the realignment of United States Armed Forces in the Pacific until the Secretary of Defense certifies to the congressional defense committees that there is a military training and readiness requirement for the Live Fire Training Range Complex.

SEC. 2832. REALIGNMENT OF MARINE CORPS FORCES IN ASIA-PACIFIC REGION.

(a) RESTRICTION ON USE OF FUNDS FOR REALIGNMENT.—Except as provided in subsection (c), none of the funds authorized to be appropriated under this Act, and none of the amounts provided by the Government of Japan for construction activities on land under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense, may be obligated to implement the realignment of Marine Corps forces from Okinawa to Guam or Hawaii until each of the following occurs:

(1) The Commander of the United States Pacific Command provides to the congressional defense committees an assessment of the strategic and logistical resources needed to ensure the distributed lay-down of members of the Marine Corps in the United States Pacific Command Area of Responsibility meets the contingency operations plans.

(2) The Secretary of Defense submits to the congressional defense committees master plans for the construction of facilities and infrastructure to execute the Marine Corps distributed lay-down on Guam and Hawaii, including a detailed description of costs and the schedule for such construction.

(3) The Secretary of the Navy submits a plan to the congressional defense committees detailing the proposed investments and schedules required to restore facilities and infrastructure at Marine Corps Air Station Futenma.

(4) A plan coordinated by all pertinent Federal agencies is provided to the congressional defense committees detailing descriptions of work, costs, and a schedule for completion of construction, improvements, and repairs to the non-military utilities, facilities, and infrastructure, if any, on Guam affected by the realignment of forces.

(b) RESTRICTION ON DEVELOPMENT OF PUBLIC INFRASTRUCTURE.—If the Secretary of Defense determines that any grant, cooperative agreement, transfer of funds to another Federal agency, or supplement of funds available in fiscal year 2012 or 2013 under Federal programs administered by agencies other than the Department of Defense will result in the development (including repair, replacement, renovation, conversion, improvement, expansion, acquisition, or construction) of public infrastructure on Guam, the Secretary of Defense may not carry out such grant, transfer, cooperative agreement, or supplemental funding unless such grant, transfer, cooperative agreement, or supplemental funding is specifically authorized by law.

(c) EXCEPTIONS TO FUNDING RESTRICTION.—The Secretary of Defense may use funds described in subsection (a)—

(1) to complete additional analysis or studies required under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) for proposed actions on Guam or Hawaii;

(2) to initiate planning and design of construction projects at Andersen Air Force Base and Andersen South; and

(3) to carry out any military construction project for which an authorization of appropriations is provided in section 2204, as specified in the funding table in section 4601.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) DISTRIBUTED LAY-DOWN.—The term “distributed lay-down” refers to the planned distribution of members of the Marine Corps in Okinawa, Guam, Hawaii, Australia, and possibly elsewhere that is contemplated in support of the joint statement of the United States-Japan Security Consultative Committee issued April 26, 2012, in the District of Columbia (April 27, 2012, in Tokyo).

(2) PUBLIC INFRASTRUCTURE.—The term “public infrastructure” means any utility, method of transportation, item of equipment, or facility under the control of a public entity or State or local government that is used by, or constructed for the benefit of, the general public.

(e) REPEAL OF SUPERSEDED LAW.—Section 2207 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81; 125 Stat. 1668) is repealed.

Subtitle E—Land Conveyances

SEC. 2841. MODIFICATION OF AUTHORIZED CONSIDERATION, BROADWAY COMPLEX OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY, SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA.

Section 2732(b)(1)(A) of the Military Construction Authorization Act, 1987 (division B of Public 99-661; 100 Stat. 4046) is amended by striking “constructed on such real property by the lessees.” and inserting the following: “constructed by the lessees—

“(i) on such real property; or

“(ii) on other real property within the boundaries of the metropolitan San Diego, California, area.”.

SEC. 2842. USE OF PROCEEDS, LAND CONVEYANCE, TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, FLORIDA.

Section 2862(c) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (division B of Public Law 106-65; 113 Stat. 869) is amended by striking “construct or improve military family housing units” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting “improve or repair facilities at Tyndall Air Force Base.”.

SEC. 2843. LAND CONVEYANCE, JOHN KUNKEL ARMY RESERVE CENTER, WARREN, OHIO.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the Village of Lordstown, Ohio (in this section referred to as the “Village”), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 6.95 acres and containing the John Kunkel Army Reserve Center located at 4967 Tod Avenue in Warren, Ohio, for the purpose of permitting the Village to use the parcel for public purposes.

(b) INTERIM LEASE.—Until such time as the real property described in subsection (a) is conveyed to the Village, the Secretary may lease the property to the Village.

(c) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If the Secretary determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance specified in subsection (a) or that the Village has violated a condition imposed by subsection (e), all right, title, and interest in and to such real property, including any improvements thereon, shall, at the option of the Secretary, revert to and become the property of the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto such real property. A determination by the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(d) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—

(1) PAYMENT REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall require the Village to cover costs (except costs for environmental remediation of the property) to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for such costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs for environmental documentation, and any other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the Village in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the Village.

(2) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.—Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover those costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(e) CONDITIONS OF CONVEYANCE.—The conveyance of the real property under subsection (a) shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) That the Village not use any Federal funds to cover any portion of the conveyance costs required by subsection (d) to be paid by the Village or to cover the costs for the design or construction of any facility on the property.

(2) That the Village begin using the property for public purposes before the end of the five-year period beginning on the date of conveyance.

(f) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(g) ADDITIONAL TERMS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2844. LAND CONVEYANCE, CASTNER RANGE, FORT BLISS, TEXAS.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—

(1) CONVEYANCE AUTHORITY.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the Parks and Wildlife Department of the State of Texas (in this section referred to as the “Department”) all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 7,081 acres at Fort Bliss, Texas, for the purpose of permitting the Department to establish and operate a park as an element of the Franklin Mountains State Park.

(2) PIECEMEAL CONVEYANCES.—In anticipation of the conveyance of the entire parcel of real property described in paragraph (1), the Secretary may subdivide the parcel and convey to the Department portions of the real property as the Secretary determines that the condition of the real property is compatible with the Department’s intended use of the property.

(b) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If the Secretary determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance, all right, title, and interest in and to such real property, including any improvements thereto, shall, at the option of the Secretary, revert to and become the property of the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto such real property. A determination by the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCES.—

(1) PAYMENT REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall require the Department to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the land conveyance under this section, including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the Department in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the land exchange, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to Department. This paragraph does not apply to costs associated with the environmental remediation of the property to be conveyed.

(2) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.—Amounts received as reimbursements under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the land exchange. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(c) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal descriptions of the parcels of real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(d) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2845. MODIFICATION OF LAND CONVEYANCE, FORT HOOD, TEXAS.

Section 2848(a) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (division B of Public Law 108-375; 118 Stat. 2140) is amended by striking “for the sole purpose” and all that follows through “Central Texas.” and inserting the following: “for the purpose of permitting the University System to use the property—

“(1) for the establishment of a State-supported university, separate from other universities of the University System, designated as Texas A&M University, Central Texas; and

“(2) for such other educational purposes as the University System considers to be appropriate and the Secretary of the Army determines to be compatible with military activities in the vicinity of the property.”.

SEC. 2846. LAND CONVEYANCE, LOCAL TRAINING AREA FOR BROWNING ARMY RESERVE CENTER, UTAH.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the State of Utah Department of Veterans Affairs (in this section referred to as the “Department”) all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of unimproved real property consisting of approximately five acres of the Local Training Area for the Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah, for the purpose of constructing and operating a Community Based Outpatient Clinic adjacent to the George E. Wahlen Veterans Home in Ogden, Utah.

(b) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—

(1) PAYMENT REQUIRED.—The Secretary may require the Department to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts paid to the Secretary in advance exceed the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the Department.

(2) TREATMENT OF AMOUNTS RECEIVED.—Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Department. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(c) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(d) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

Subtitle F—Other Matters

SEC. 2851. MODIFICATION OF NOTICE REQUIREMENTS IN ADVANCE OF PERMANENT REDUCTION OF SIZABLE NUMBERS OF MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES AT MILITARY INSTALLATIONS.

(a) CALCULATION OF NUMBER OF AFFECTED MEMBERS.—Subsection (a) of section 993 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence: “In calculating the number of members to be reduced, the Secretary shall take into consideration both direct reductions and indirect reductions.”.

(b) NOTICE REQUIREMENTS.—Subsection (b) of such section is amended by striking paragraphs (1) through (3) and inserting the following new paragraphs:

“(1) the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of the military department concerned—

“(A) submits to Congress a notice of the proposed reduction and the number of military and civilian personnel assignments affected, including reductions in base operations support services and personnel to occur because of the proposed reduction; and

“(B) includes in the notice a justification for the reduction and an evaluation of the costs and benefits of the reduction and of the local economic, strategic, and operational consequences of the reduction; and

“(2) a period of 90 days expires following the day on which the notice is submitted to Congress.”.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—Such section is further amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) The term ‘indirect reduction’ means subsequent planned reductions or relocations in base operations support services and personnel able to occur due to the direct reductions.

“(2) The term ‘military installation’ means a base, camp, post, station, yard, center, homeport facility for any ship, or other activity under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense, including any leased facility, which is located within any of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, or Guam. Such term does not include any facility used primarily for civil works, rivers and harbors projects, or flood control projects.”.

SEC. 2852. ACCEPTANCE OF GIFTS AND SERVICES TO SUPPORT MILITARY MUSEUM PROGRAMS AND USE OF COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS WITH NON-PROFIT ENTITIES FOR MILITARY MUSEUM AND MILITARY EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION PROGRAMS.

(a) ACCEPTANCE OF GIFTS AND SERVICES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (a) of section 2601 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by striking “Subject to subsection (d)(2), the” and inserting “(1) The”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(2)(A) Notwithstanding section 1342 of title 31, the Secretary concerned may accept a gift of services for a military museum program from a nonprofit entity established for the purpose of supporting a military museum program. Employees or personnel of a nonprofit entity who provide a gift of services under this subparagraph may not be considered to be employees of the United States.

“(B) For the use and benefit of a military museum program, the Secretary concerned may solicit from a bona fide collector a gift of books, manuscripts, works of art, historical artifacts, drawings, plans, models, or condemned or obsolete combat materiel.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Such section is further amended—

(A) in subsection (b)(1), by striking “Subject to subsection (d)(2), the” and inserting “The”; and

“§2615. Military museums and military education programs: cooperative agreement authority

“(a) USE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary concerned may enter into a cooperative agreement with a nonprofit entity for purposes related to—

“(1) a military museum program; or

“(2) the support of a military educational institution program.

“(b) COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT DESCRIBED.—

For purposes of subsection (a), an authorized cooperative agreement is described in section 6305 of title 31, except that the use of a cooperative agreement by the Secretary concerned is limited to nonprofit entities.”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

“2615. Military museums and military education programs: cooperative agreement authority.”.

SEC. 2853. ADDITIONAL EXEMPTIONS FROM CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO FUNDING FOR DATA SERVERS AND CENTERS.

Section 2867(c) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81; 125 Stat. 1706; 10 U.S.C. 2223a note) is amended—

(1) by striking “EXCEPTION.—The Chief” and inserting the following: “EXCEPTIONS.—

“(1) INTELLIGENCE COMPONENTS.—The Chief”; and

(2) by inserting at the end the following new paragraph:

“(2) RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION PROGRAMS.—The Chief Information Officer of the Department may exempt from the applicability of this section research, development, test, and evaluation programs that use authorization of appropriations for the High Performance Computing Modernization Program (Program Element 0603461A) if the Chief Information Officer determines that the exemption is in the best interest of national security.”.

SEC. 2854. REDESIGNATION OF THE CENTER FOR HEMISPHERIC DEFENSE STUDIES AS THE WILLIAM J. PERRY CENTER FOR HEMISPHERIC DEFENSE STUDIES.

(a) REDESIGNATION.—The Department of Defense regional center for security studies known as the Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies is hereby renamed the “William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) REFERENCE TO REGIONAL CENTERS FOR STRATEGIC STUDIES.—Section 184 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(A) in subsection (b)(2)(C), by striking “The Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies” and inserting “The William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies”; and

(B) in subsection (f)(5), by striking “the Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies” and inserting “the William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies”.

(2) ACCEPTANCE OF GIFTS AND DONATIONS.—Section 2611(a)(2)(C) of such title is amended by striking “Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies.” and inserting “William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies.”.

(c) REFERENCES.—Any reference to the Department of Defense Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies in any law, regulation, map, document, record, or other paper of the United States shall be deemed to be a reference to the William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies.

SEC. 2855. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING ESTABLISHMENT OF MILITARY DIVERS MEMORIAL AT WASHINGTON NAVY YARD.

It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary of the Navy should provide an appropriate site at the former Navy Dive School at the Washington Navy Yard for a memorial to honor the members of the Armed Forces who have served as divers and whose service in defense of the United States has been carried out beneath the waters of the world, subject to the conditions that—

(1) the memorial be paid for with private funds; and

(2) the Secretary of the Navy retain exclusive authority to approve the design and site of the memorial.

SEC. 2856. LIMITATION ON AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS PENDING REPORT REGARDING ACQUISITION OF LAND AND DEVELOPMENT OF A TRAINING RANGE FACILITY ADJACENT TO THE MARINE CORPS AIR GROUND COMBAT CENTER TWENTYNINE PALMS, CALIFORNIA.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Marine Corps has studied the feasibility of acquiring land and developing a training range facility to conduct Marine Expeditionary Brigade level live-fire training on or near the West Coast.

(2) The Bureau of Land Management estimates on national economic impact show $261,500,000 in commerce at risk.

(3) Economic impact on the local community is estimated to be $71,100,000.

(b) LIMITATION OF FUNDS PENDING REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Navy may not obligate or expend funds for the transfer of land or development of a new training range on land adjacent to the Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center Twentynine Palms, California, until the Secretary of the Navy has provided the congressional defense committees a report on the Marine Corps’ efforts with respect to the proposed training range.

(2) ELEMENTS OF REPORT.—The report required under paragraph (1) shall be submitted not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and shall include the following:

(A) A description of the actual training requirements for the proposed range and where those training requirements are currently being met to support combat deployments.

(B) Identification of the impact on off-road vehicle recreational users of the land, the economic impact on the local economy, the recreation industry, and any other stakeholders.

(C) Identification of any concerns discussed with the Bureau of Land Management regarding their assessments of the impact on other users.

(D) Identification of the impact on the State of California’s 1980 Desert Conservation Plan regarding allocation of the Off Highway Vehicle Recreation Areas.

(E) An evaluation of the potential to use the same land without transfer, but under specific permits for use provided by the Bureau of Land Management (as such permits are used at other locations from the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management).

(F) An evaluation of any potential impacts on other Bureau of Land Management lands proximate to Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center Twentynine Palms or other locations in the geographic region.

(3) SECRETARY OF DEFENSE WAIVER.—In the event of urgent national need, the Secretary of Defense may notify the congressional defense committees and waive the requirement for the report required under paragraph (1).

SEC. 2857. OVERSIGHT AND MAINTENANCE OF CLOSED BASE CEMETERIES OVERSEAS CONTAINING THE REMAINS OF MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES OR CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.

(a) OVERSIGHT AND MAINTENANCE PLAN REQUIRED.—Not later than 30 days after the closure of a United States military installation located outside of the United States that includes a cemetery containing the remains of members of the Armed Forces or citizens of the United States, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report containing a plan to ensure the oversight and continued operation and maintenance of the cemetery.

(b) PLAN ELEMENTS.—The plan for a military installation cemetery outside of the United States required by subsection (a) shall—

(1) specify the Federal agency or private entity that will assume responsibility for the operation and maintenance of the cemetery following the closure of the installation; and

(2) describe the information with regard to the cemetery that has been provided to the responsible agency or private entity.

SEC. 2858. REPORT ON ESTABLISHMENT OF JOINT ARMED FORCES HISTORICAL STORAGE AND PRESERVATION FACILITY.

Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth an assessment of the feasibility and advisability of establishing a joint Armed Forces historical storage and preservation facility. The report shall include a description and assessment of the current capacities and qualities of the historical storage and preservation installations of each of the Armed Forces, including the following:

(1) An identification of any excess capacity at any such installation.

(2) An identification of any shortfalls in the capacity or quality of such installations of any Armed Force, and a description of possible actions to address such shortfalls.

SEC. 2859. ESTABLISHMENT OF COMMEMORATIVE WORK TO GOLD STAR MOTHERS.

(a) ELIGIBLE FEDERAL LAND.—In this section, the term “eligible Federal land” means Federal land depicted as “Area I” or “Area II” on the map numbered 869/86501 B and dated June 24, 2003. The term does not include the Reserve (as defined in section 8902(a) of title 40, United States Code).

(b) COMMEMORATIVE WORK AUTHORIZED.—The Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation may establish a commemorative work on eligible Federal land to commemorate the sacrifices made by mothers, and made by their sons and daughters who as members of the Armed Forces make the ultimate sacrifice, in defense of the United States.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS FOR COMMEMORATIVE WORKS.—Chapter 89 of title 40, United States Code, and other applicable Federal laws and regulations shall apply to the establishment of the commemorative work authorized by this section.

(d) PROHIBITION ON USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS.—The Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation may not use Federal funds to establish the commemorative work authorized by this section.

(e) DEPOSIT OF EXCESS FUNDS.—

(1) UPON ESTABLISHMENT OF COMMEMORATIVE WORK.—If, upon payment of all expenses for the establishment of the commemorative work authorized by this section (including the maintenance and preservation amounts required by section 8906(b)(1) of title 40, United States Code), there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation shall transmit the amount of the balance to the account provided for in section 8906(b)(3) of such title.

(2) UPON EXPIRATION OF AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH COMMEMORATIVE WORK.—If, upon expiration of the authority for the commemorative work under section 8903(e) of title 40, United States Code, there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation shall transmit the amount of the balance to a separate account with the National Park Foundation for memorials, to be available to the Secretary of the Interior or Administrator of General Services (as appropriate) following the process provided in section 8906(b)(4) of such title for accounts established under section 8906(b)(3) of such title.

SEC. 2860. ESTABLISHMENT OF COMMEMORATIVE WORK TO SLAVES AND FREE BLACK PERSONS WHO SERVED IN AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

(a) ELIGIBLE FEDERAL LAND.—In this section, the term “eligible Federal land” means Federal land depicted as “Area I” or “Area II” on the map numbered 869/86501 B and dated June 24, 2003. The term does not include the Reserve (as defined in section 8902(a) of title 40, United States Code).

(b) COMMEMORATIVE WORK AUTHORIZED.—The National Mall Liberty Fund D.C. may establish a memorial on eligible Federal land to honor the more than 5,000 courageous slaves and free Black persons who served as soldiers and sailors or provided civilian assistance during the American Revolution.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS FOR COMMEMORATIVE WORKS.—Chapter 89 of title 40, United States Code, and other applicable Federal laws and regulations shall apply to the establishment of the commemorative work authorized by this section.

(d) PROHIBITION ON USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS.—The National Mall Liberty Fund D.C. may not use Federal funds to establish the commemorative work authorized by this section.

(e) DEPOSIT OF EXCESS FUNDS.—

(1) UPON ESTABLISHMENT OF COMMEMORATIVE WORK.—If, upon payment of all expenses for the establishment of the commemorative work authorized by this section (including the maintenance and preservation amounts required by section 8906(b)(1) of title 40, United States Code), there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the National Mall Liberty Fund D.C. shall transmit the amount of the balance to the account provided for in section 8906(b)(3) of such title.

(2) UPON EXPIRATION OF AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH COMMEMORATIVE WORK.—If, upon expiration of the authority for the commemorative work under section 8903(e) of title 40, United States Code, there remains a balance of funds received for the establishment of the commemorative work, the National Mall Liberty Fund D.C. shall transmit the amount of the balance to a separate account with the National Park Foundation for memorials, to be available to the Secretary of the Interior or Administrator of General Services (as appropriate) following the process provided in section 8906(b)(4) of such title for accounts established under section 8906(b)(3) of such title.

(f) REPEAL OF JOINT RESOLUTIONS.—Public Law 99-558 (110 Stat. 3144; 40 U.S.C. 8903 note) and Public Law 100-265 (102 Stat. 39; 40 U.S.C. 8903 note) are repealed.

TITLE XXIX—OVERSEAS CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

Sec. 2901. Authorized Navy construction and land acquisition project.

SEC. 2901. AUTHORIZED NAVY CONSTRUCTION AND LAND ACQUISITION PROJECT.

(a) OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.—The Secretary of the Navy may acquire real property and carry out the military construction project for the installation outside the United States, and in the amount, set forth in the following table:

Navy: Outside the United States

Country	Installation	Amount
Djibouti .....	Camp Lemonier .....	$99,420,000

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Funds are hereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 2012, for the military construction project outside the United States authorized by subsection (a) as specified in the funding table in section 4602.

Restrictions, and Limitations

SEC. 3111. AUTHORIZED PERSONNEL LEVELS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR.

(a) CAP ON FULL-TIME EQUIVALENT POSITIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle C of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2441 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 3241 the following new section:

“SEC. 3241A. AUTHORIZED PERSONNEL LEVELS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR.

“(a) FULL-TIME EQUIVALENT PERSONNEL LEVELS.—

“(1) TOTAL NUMBER.—By October 1, 2014, the total number of employees of the Office of the Administrator may not exceed 1,825.

“(2) EXCESS.—For fiscal year 2015 and each fiscal year thereafter, the Administrator may not exceed the total number of employees authorized under paragraph (1) unless, during each fiscal year in which such total number exceeds 1,825, the Administrator submits to the congressional defense committees a report justifying such excess.

“(b) COUNTING RULE.—(1) A determination of the number of employees in the Office of the Administrator under subsection (a) shall be expressed on a full-time equivalent basis.

“(2) Except as provided by paragraph (3), in determining the total number of employees in the Office of the Administrator under subsection (a), the Administrator shall count each employee of the Office without regard to whether the employee is located at the headquarters of the Administration, a site office of the Administration, a service or support center of the Administration, or any other location.

“(3) The following employees may not be counted for purposes of determining the total number of employees in the Office of the Administrator under subsection (a):

“(A) Employees of the Office of Naval Reactors.

“(B) Employees of the Office of Secure Transportation.

“(C) Members of the Armed Forces detailed to the Administration.

“(D) Personnel supporting the Office of the Administrator pursuant to the mobility program under subchapter VI of chapter 33 of title 5, United States Code (commonly referred to as the ‘Intergovernmental Personnel Act Mobility Program’).

“(c) VOLUNTARY EARLY RETIREMENT.—In accordance with section 3523 of title 5, United States Code, the Administrator may offer voluntary separation or retirement incentives to meet the total number of employees authorized under subsection (a).

“(d) USE OF IPA.—The Administrator shall ensure that the expertise of the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities is made available to the Administration, the Department of Energy, the Department of Defense, other Federal agencies, and Congress through the temporary assignment of personnel from such laboratories and facilities pursuant to the Intergovernmental Personnel Act Mobility Program and other similar programs.”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 3241 the following new item:

“Sec. 3241A. Authorized personnel levels of the Office of the Administrator.”.

(b) INCREASE IN EXCEPTED POSITIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 3241 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2441) is amended—

(A) by striking “300” and inserting “600”;

(B) by inserting “contracting, program management,” before “scientific”; and

(C) by adding at the end the following new sentence: “To ensure that the excepted positions established under this section are used, the Administrator, to the extent practicable, shall appoint an individual to such an excepted position to replace the vacancy of a nonexcepted position.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The heading of such section is amended by inserting “CONTRACTING, PROGRAM MANAGEMENT,” before “SCIENTIFIC”.

(3) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 3241 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 3241. Authority to establish certain contracting, program management, scientific, engineering, and technical positions.”.

SEC. 3112. BUDGET JUSTIFICATION MATERIALS.

Section 3251(b) of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2451(b)) is amended—

(1) by striking “In the” and inserting “(1) In the”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(2) In the budget justification materials submitted to Congress in support of each such budget, the Administrator shall include an assessment of how the budget maintains the core nuclear weapons skills of the Administration, including nuclear weapons design, engineering, production, testing, and prediction of stockpile aging.”.

SEC. 3113. NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION COUNCIL.

(a) NNSA COUNCIL.—Section 4102 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2512) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 4102. MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE FOR NUCLEAR SECURITY ENTERPRISE.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall establish a management structure for the nuclear security enterprise in accordance with the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2401 et seq.).

“(b) NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION COUNCIL.—(1) The Administrator shall establish a council to be known as the ‘National Nuclear Security Administration Council’. The Council may advise the Administrator on—

“(A) scientific and technical issues relating to policy matters;

“(B) operational concerns;

“(C) strategic planning;

“(D) the development of priorities relating to the mission and operations of the Administration and the nuclear security enterprise; and “(E) such other matters as the Administrator determines appropriate.

“(2) The Council shall be composed of the directors of the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities.

“(3) The Council may provide the Administrator or the Secretary of Energy recommendations for improving the—

“(A) governance, management, effectiveness, and efficiency of the Administration; and “(B) any other matter in accordance with paragraph (1).

“(4) Not later than 60 days after the date on which any recommendation under paragraph (3) is received, the Administrator or the Secretary, as the case may be, shall respond to the Council with respect to whether such recommendation will be implemented and the reasoning for implementing or not implementing such recommendation.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4102 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4102. Management structure for nuclear security enterprise.”.

SEC. 3114. REPLACEMENT PROJECT FOR CHEMISTRY AND METALLURGY RESEARCH BUILDING, LOS ALAMOS NATIONAL LABORATORY, NEW MEXICO.

(a) PROJECT REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle A of title XLII of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2521 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4215. REPLACEMENT PROJECT FOR CHEMISTRY AND METALLURGY RESEARCH BUILDING, LOS ALAMOS NATIONAL LABORATORY, NEW MEXICO.

“(a) REPLACEMENT BUILDING REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Energy shall construct at Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico, a building to replace the functions of the existing Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building at Los Alamos National Laboratory associated with Department of Energy Hazard Category 2 special nuclear material operations.

“(b) LIMITATION ON COST.—The cost of the building constructed under subsection (a) may not exceed $3,700,000,000. If the Secretary determines the cost will exceed such amount, the Secretary shall submit a detailed justification for such increase to the congressional defense committees.

“(c) PROJECT BASIS.—The construction authorized by subsection (a) shall use as its basis the facility project in the Department of Energy Readiness and Technical Base designated 04-D-125 (chemistry and metallurgy facility replacement project at Los Alamos National Laboratory).

“(d) ASSISTANCE.—(1) In carrying out this section, the Secretary shall procure the services of the Commander of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command to assist the Secretary with respect to the program management, oversight, and design activities of the project authorized by subsection (a).

“(2) The Secretary shall carry out this subsection using funds made available for the National Nuclear Security Administration.

“(e) DEADLINE FOR COMMENCEMENT OF OPERATIONS.—The building constructed under subsection (a) shall commence operations by not later than December 31, 2026.”

(2) CLERICAL AND TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4214, as added by section 3131(g)(2), the following new item:

“Sec. 4215. Replacement project for Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building, Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico.”

(b) FUNDING.—

(1) FISCAL YEAR 2013 FUNDS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), of the amounts authorized to be appropriated by this Act for fiscal year 2013 for the National Nuclear Security Administration, $70,000,000 shall be available for the construction of the building authorized by section 4215 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as added by subsection (a).

(B) EXCEPTION.—The following amounts authorized to be appropriated by this Act for fiscal year 2013 for the National Nuclear Security Administration shall not be available for the construction of the building:

(i) Amounts available for Directed Stockpile Work.

(ii) Amounts available for Naval Reactors.

(iii) Amounts available for the facility project in the Department of Energy Readiness and Technical Base designated 06-D-141.

(2) PRIOR FISCAL YEAR FUNDS.—Amounts authorized to be appropriated for the Department of Energy for a fiscal year before fiscal year 2013 and available for the facility project in the Department of Energy Readiness and Technical Base designated 04-D-125 (chemistry and metallurgy facility replacement project at Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico) shall be available for the construction of the building authorized by section 4215 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as added by subsection (a).

(c) LIMITATION ON ALTERNATIVE PLUTONIUM STRATEGY.—No funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or any other Act may be obligated or expended on any activities associated with a plutonium strategy for the National Nuclear Security Administration that does not include achieving full operational capability of the replacement project by December 31, 2026, as required by section 4215(e) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as added by subsection (a).

(d) NAVAL REACTOR STUDY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Deputy Administrator for Naval Reactors shall conduct a study of the replacement project, including an analysis of the cost, benefits, and risks with respect to nuclear safety.

(2) SUBMISSION.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Deputy Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the study under paragraph (1), including recommendations of the Deputy Administrator with respect to the project structure, oversight model, and potential cost savings of the replacement project.

(3) CONSIDERATION OF RECOMMENDATIONS.—In carrying out the replacement project, the Secretary of Energy shall consider the recommendations made by the Deputy Administrator in the report under paragraph (2) and incorporate such recommendations into the project as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(4) FUNDING.—The Secretary of Energy and the Deputy Administrator shall carry out this subsection using funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for the National Nuclear Security Administration that are not made available for the Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program.

(e) REPLACEMENT PROJECT DEFINED.—In this section, the term “replacement project” means the replacement project for the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building authorized by section 4215 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as added by subsection (a).

SEC. 3115. DESIGN AND USE OF PROTOTYPES OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

(a) PROTOTYPES.—Subtitle A of title XLV of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2651 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4509. DESIGN AND USE OF PROTOTYPES OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS FOR INTELLIGENCE PURPOSES.

“(a) PROTOTYPES.—The Administrator shall develop and carry out a plan for the national security laboratories and nuclear weapons production facilities to design and build prototypes of nuclear weapons to further intelligence estimates with respect to foreign nuclear weapons activities.

“(b) PROHIBITION ON PRODUCTION OF NUCLEAR YIELDS.—In carrying out subsection (a), the Administrator may not conduct any experiments that produce a nuclear yield.”

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4508 the following new item:

SEC. 3116. TWO-YEAR EXTENSION OF SCHEDULE FOR DISPOSITION OF WEAPONS-UsABLE PLUTONIUM AT SAVANNAH RIVER SITE, AIKEN, SOUTH CAROLINA.

Section 4306 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2566) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(3)—

(A) in subparagraph (C), by striking “2012” and inserting “2014”; and

(B) in subparagraph (D), by striking “2017” and inserting “2019”;

(A) in the matter preceding paragraph (1), by striking “2012” and inserting “2014”;

(B) in paragraph (1), by striking “2014” and inserting “2016”; and

(C) in paragraph (2), by striking “2020” each place it appears and inserting “2022”;

(4) in subsection (d)—

(A) in paragraph (1)—

(i) by striking “2014” and inserting “2016”; and

(ii) by striking “2019” and inserting “2021”;

and

(B) in paragraph (2)(A), by striking “2020” each place it appears and inserting “2022”; and

(5) in subsection (e), by striking “2023” and inserting “2025”.

SEC. 3117. TRANSPARENCY IN CONTRACTOR PERFORMANCE EVALUATIONS BY THE NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION LEADING TO AWARD FEES.

(a) PUBLICATION REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle A of title XLVIII of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2781 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4805. PUBLICATION OF CONTRACTOR PERFORMANCE EVALUATIONS LEADING TO AWARD FEES.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator shall take appropriate actions to make available to the public, to the maximum extent practicable, contractor performance evaluations conducted by the Administration of management and operating contractors of the nuclear security enterprise that results in the award of an award fee to the contractor concerned.

“(b) FORMAT.—Performance evaluations shall be made public under this section in a common format that facilitates comparisons of performance evaluations between and among similar management and operating contracts.”

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4803 the following new items:

“Sec. 4804. Notice-and-wait requirement applicable to certain third-party financing arrangements.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act, and shall apply with respect to contractor performance evaluations conducted by the National Nuclear Security Administration on or after that date.

SEC. 3118. MODIFICATION AND EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY ON ACCEPTANCE OF CONTRIBUTIONS FOR ACCELERATION OF REMOVAL OR SECURITY OF FISSIONABLE MATERIALS, RADIOLOGICAL MATERIALS, AND RELATED EQUIPMENT AT VULNERABLE SITES WORLDWIDE.

(a) PROGRAMS FOR WHICH FUNDS MAY BE ACCEPTED.—Paragraph (2) of section 3132(f) of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (50 U.S.C. 2569(f)) is amended to read as follows:

“(2) PROGRAMS COVERED.—The programs described in this paragraph are any programs within the Office of Defense Nuclear Nonproliferation of the National Nuclear Security Administration.”

(b) EXTENSION.—Paragraph (7) of such section is amended by striking “December 31, 2013” and inserting “December 31, 2018”.

SEC. 3119. LIMITATION ON AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS FOR CENTER OF EXCELLENCE ON NUCLEAR SECURITY.

(a) LIMITATION.—Of the funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2013 for the National Nuclear Security Administration, not more than $7,000,000 may be obligated or expended for the United States-China Center of Excellence on Nuclear Security until the date on which the Secretary of Energy submits to the appropriate congressional committees the report under subsection (b)(2).

(b) NUCLEAR SECURITY.—

(1) REVIEW.—The Secretary of Energy, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense, shall conduct a review of the existing and planned nonproliferation activities with the People's Republic of China as of the date of the enactment of this Act to determine if the engagement is directly or indirectly supporting the proliferation of nuclear weapons development and technology to other nations.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report certifying that the activities reviewed under paragraph (1) are not contributing to the proliferation of nuclear weapons development and technology to other nations.

(c) FORM.—The report under subsection (b)(2) may be submitted in unclassified form and may include a classified annex.

(d) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(1) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

SEC. 3120. IMPROVEMENT AND STREAMLINING OF THE MISSIONS AND OPERATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY AND NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Energy and the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall review and, to the extent practicable, revise the Department of Energy Acquisition Regulation and other regulations, rules, directives, orders, and policies that apply to the administration, execution, and oversight of the missions and operations of the Department of Energy and the National Nuclear Security Administration to improve and streamline such administration, execution, and oversight.

(b) IMPROVEMENT AND STREAMLINING.—In carrying out subsection (a), the Secretary and the Administrator shall review and, to the extent practicable, carry out the following actions:

(1) Streamline business processes and structures to reduce unnecessary, burdensome, or duplicative approvals.

(2) Delegate approval for work for others agreements and cooperative research and development agreements (except those that the Secretary or Administrator determine are high value or unique) to the lowest appropriate officials and streamline the approval processes.

(3) Establish processes for ensuring routine or low-risk procurement and subcontracting decisions are made at the discretion of the management and operating contractors while ensuring that the Secretary or Administrator apply appropriate oversight.

(4) Assess procurement thresholds as of the date of the enactment of this Act and take steps as appropriate to adjust such thresholds.

(5) Eliminate duplicative or low-value reports and data calls and ensure consistency in management and cost-accounting data.

(6) Actions to otherwise streamline, clarify, and eliminate redundancy in the regulations, rules, directives, orders, and policies described by subsection (a).

(c) BRIEFING.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary and the Administrator shall provide to the appropriate congressional committees a briefing on the review conducted under subsection (a), including the status of such review and any actions taken or planned to be taken to improve and streamline the regulations, rules, directives, orders, and policies described in such subsection.

(2) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(A) the congressional defense committees; and

(B) the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 3121. COST-BENEFIT ANALYSES FOR COMPETITION OF MANAGEMENT AND OPERATING CONTRACTS.

(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—The Administrator for Nuclear Security shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report described in subsection (b) by not later than 30 days after the date on which the Administrator awards a contract to manage and operate a facility of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(b) REPORT DESCRIBED.—A report described in this subsection is a report on a contract described by subsection (a) that includes—

(1) the expected cost savings resulting from the competition for the contract over the life of the contract;

(2) the costs of the competition for the contract, including the immediate costs of conducting the competition and any increased costs over the life of the contract;

(3) a description of—

(A) any disruption or delay in mission activities or deliverables resulting from the competition for the contract; and

(B) any benefits of the competition to mission performance or operations;

(4) how the competition for the contract complied with the Federal Acquisition Regulation regarding federally funded research and development centers, if applicable; and

(5) any other matters the Administrator considers appropriate.

(c) GAO REVIEW.—Not later than 90 days after each report is submitted to the congressional defense committees under subsection (a) or (d)(2), the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to such committees a review of such report.

(d) APPLICABILITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The requirement for reports under subsection (a) shall apply with respect to a contract described by such subsection that is awarded by the Administrator during fiscal years 2013 through 2017.

(2) FISCAL YEARS 2012 AND 2013 CONTRACTS.—For each contract described by subsection (a) that is awarded by the Administrator during fiscal years 2012 or 2013 before the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report described in subsection (b) by not later than 90 days after the date of such enactment.

SEC. 3122. PROGRAM ON SCIENTIFIC ENGAGEMENT FOR NONPROLIFERATION.

(a) PROGRAM REQUIRED.—

(1) SCIENTIFIC ENGAGEMENT.—The Secretary of Energy, acting through the Administrator for Nuclear Security, shall carry out a program on scientific engagement in countries selected by the Secretary for purposes of the program to advance global nonproliferation and nuclear security efforts.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The program under paragraph (1) shall include the following elements:

(A) Training and capacity-building to strengthen nonproliferation and security best practices.

(B) Engagement of scientists of the United States with foreign counterparts to advance nonproliferation goals.

(3) DISTINCT PROGRAM.—The program required by this subsection shall be a distinct program from the Global Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention program.

(b) LIMITATION.—

(1) REPORT ON COMMENCEMENT OF PROGRAM.—Of the funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2013 or any fiscal year thereafter for the National Nuclear Security Administration, not more than 50 percent may be obligated or expended under the program under subsection (a) until the date on which the Administrator submits to the appropriate congressional committees a report setting forth the following:

(A) For each country selected for the program as of the date of such report—

(i) a proliferation threat assessment prepared by the Director of National Intelligence; and

(ii) metrics for evaluating the effectiveness of the program.

(B) Accounting standards for the conduct of the program approved by the Comptroller General of the United States.

(2) FORM.—The report under paragraph (1) may be submitted in unclassified form and may include a classified annex.

(c) REPORTS ON MODIFICATION OF PROGRAM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 15 days before making any modification in the program under subsection (a) (including selecting a new country for the program, ceasing the selection of a country for the program, or modifying an element of the program), the Administrator shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on the modification.

(2) NEW COUNTRY.—If the modification covered by a report under paragraph (1) consists of the selection for the program of a country not previously selected for the program, the report shall include, for each such country, the matters described in subsection (b)(1)(A).

(3) FORM.—The report under paragraph (1) may be submitted in unclassified form and may include a classified annex.

(d) REPORT ON COORDINATION WITH OTHER U.S. NONPROLIFERATION PROGRAMS.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report describing the manner in which the program under subsection (a) coordinates with and complements, but does not duplicate, other nonproliferation programs of the Federal Government.

(e) COMPTROLLER GENERAL REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than two years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on the program under subsection (a).

(2) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The report under paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) An assessment by the Comptroller General of the effectiveness of the program, as determined in accordance with the metrics described in subsection (b)(1)(A)(ii).

(B) An assessment of how the program coordinates with, complements, or duplicates other nonproliferation programs of the Federal Government.

(C) Such other matters on the program as the Comptroller General considers appropriate.

(f) TERMINATION.—The authority to carry out the program under subsection (a) shall expire on September 30, 2016.

(g) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means the following:

- (1) The congressional defense committees.
- (2) The Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

SEC. 3123. COST CONTAINMENT FOR URANIUM CAPABILITIES REPLACEMENT PROJECT.

(a) EXECUTION PHASES FOR PROJECT.—Project 06-D-141 for the Y-12 Uranium Processing Facility, Y-12 National Security Complex, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, shall be hereafter known as the “Uranium Capabilities Replacement Project”. The project shall be broken into separate execution phases as follows:

- (1) Phase I, which shall consist of—
  - (A) processes and capabilities associated with building 9212, including uranium casting and uranium chemical processing; and
  - (B) the support, administration, and logistics facilities and the building structure and building-level utilities needed to carry out Phases II and III.

(2) Phase II, which shall consist of processes and capabilities associated with buildings 9215 and 9998, including uranium metalworking, machining, and inspection.

(3) Phase III, which shall consist of processes and capabilities associated with building 9204-2E, including radiography, assembly, disassembly, quality evaluation, and production certification operations of nuclear weapon secondaries.

(b) BUDGETING AND AUTHORIZATION FOR EACH PHASE.—

(1) BUDGETING FOR EACH PHASE REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Energy shall budget separately for each Phase under subsection (a) of the project referred to in that subsection.

(2) FUNDING PURSUANT TO SEPARATE AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Except as provided by paragraph (3), the Secretary may not proceed with a Phase under subsection (a) of the project referred to in that subsection except with funds expressly authorized to be appropriated for that Phase by law.

(3) UNUSED FUNDING FROM PHASE I.—After Phase I under subsection (a) is completed, the Secretary may use any unobligated funds made available for such Phase for Phase II or Phase III if the Secretary notifies the congressional defense committees before using such funds for Phase II or Phase III.

(c) COMPLIANCE OF PHASES WITH DOE ORDER ON PROGRAM AND PROJECT MANAGEMENT.—Each Phase under subsection (a) of the project referred to in that subsection shall comply with Department of Energy Order 413.3, relating to Program Management and Project Management for the Acquisition of Capital Assets.

(d) LIMITATION ON COST OF PHASE I.—The total cost of Phase I under subsection (a) of the project referred to in that subsection may not exceed $4,200,000,000. If the Administrator determines the total cost of Phase I will exceed $4,200,000,000, the Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed justification for such increase.

(e) ASSISTANCE.—

(1) NAVFAC.—In carrying out this section, the Secretary shall procure the services of the Commander of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command to assist the Secretary with respect to the program management, oversight, and design activities of the project referred to in subsection (a).

(2) SOURCE OF FUNDING.—The Secretary shall carry out paragraph (1) using funds made available for the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(f) GAO QUARTERLY REPORTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and quarterly thereafter until the date on which the project referred to in subsection (a) is completed, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on all Phases under such subsection.

(2) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The reports under paragraph (1) shall include—

(A) the progress on adhering to cost projections for the project referred to in subsection (a) and the progress on meeting the requirements of section 4713 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2753);

(B) the status of the technology readiness levels for equipment and processes that will accompany each Phase under subsection (a);

(C) independent cost estimates of such Phases;

(D) the programmatic structure of the relationship between the prime contractor and subcontractors; and

(E) any other issue that the Comptroller General determines appropriate with respect to the requirements, cost, schedule, or technology readiness levels of such project.

(g) NAVAL REACTOR STUDY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Deputy Administrator for Naval Reactors shall conduct a study of the project referred to in subsection (a), including an analysis of the cost, benefits, and risks with respect to nuclear safety.

(2) SUBMISSION.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Deputy Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the study under paragraph (1), including recommendations of the Deputy Administrator with respect to the project structure, oversight model, and potential cost savings of the project referred to in subsection (a).

(3) CONSIDERATION OF RECOMMENDATIONS.—In carrying out the project referred to in subsection (a), the Secretary of Energy shall consider the recommendations made by the Deputy Administrator in the report under paragraph (2) and incorporate such recommendations into the project as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(4) FUNDING.—The Secretary and the Deputy Administrator shall carry out this subsection using funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for the National Nuclear Security Administration that are not made available for the Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program.

(h) CAPE REVIEW.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation of the Department of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a review of the cost and schedule of the project referred to in subsection (a).

Subtitle C—Improvements to National Security Energy Laws

SEC. 3131. IMPROVEMENTS TO THE ATOMIC ENERGY DEFENSE ACT.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4002 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2501) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 4002. DEFINITIONS.

“In this division:

“(1) The term ‘Administration’ means the National Nuclear Security Administration.

“(2) The term ‘Administrator’ means the Administrator for Nuclear Security.

“(3) The term ‘classified information’ means any information that has been determined pursuant to Executive Order No. 12333 of December 4, 1981 (50 U.S.C. 401 note), Executive Order No. 12958 of April 17, 1995 (50 U.S.C. 435 note), or successor orders, to require protection against unauthorized disclosure and that is so designated.

“(4) The term ‘congressional defense committees’ means—

“(A) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate; and “(B) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

“(5) The term ‘nuclear security enterprise’ means the physical facilities, technology, and human capital of the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities.

“(6) The term ‘national security laboratory’ means any of the following:

“(A) Los Alamos National Laboratory, Los Alamos, New Mexico.

“(B) Sandia National Laboratories, Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Livermore, California.

“(C) Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, Livermore, California.

“(7) The term ‘nuclear weapons production facility’ means any of the following:

“(A) The Kansas City Plant, Kansas City, Missouri.

“(B) The Pantex Plant, Amarillo, Texas.

“(C) The Y-12 National Security Complex, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

“(D) The Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina.

“(E) The Nevada National Security Site, Nevada.

“(F) Any facility of the Department of Energy that the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Administrator and Congress, determines to be consistent with the mission of the Administration.

“(8) The term ‘restricted data’ has the meaning given such term in section 11 y. of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2014(y)).”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4002 and inserting the following new item:

(b) STOCKPILE STEWARDSHIP.—Section 4201(b)(5)(E) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2521(b)(5)(E)) is amended by striking “(as defined in section 3281 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2471))”.

(c) ANNUAL ASSESSMENTS.—Section 4205 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2525) is amended by striking subsection (i).

(d) TESTING OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4210 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2530) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 4210. TESTING OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

“(a) UNDERGROUND TESTING.—No underground test of nuclear weapons may be conducted by the United States after September 30, 1996, unless a foreign state conducts a nuclear test after this date, at which time the prohibition on United States nuclear testing is lifted.

“(b) ATMOSPHERIC TESTING.—None of the funds appropriated pursuant to the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103-160; 107 Stat. 1547) or any other Act for any fiscal year may be available to maintain the capability of the United States to conduct atmospheric testing of a nuclear weapon.”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the items relating to sections 4210 and 4211 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4210. Testing of nuclear weapons.”.

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 4211 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2531) is repealed.

(e) MANUFACTURING INFRASTRUCTURE.—Section 4212 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2532) is amended by striking subsections (d) and (e).

(f) CRITICAL DIFFICULTIES REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4213 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2533) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by striking “NUCLEAR WEAPONS LABORATORIES AND NUCLEAR WEAPONS PRODUCTION PLANTS” and inserting “NATIONAL SECURITY LABORATORIES AND NUCLEAR WEAPONS PRODUCTION FACILITIES”;

(B) in subsection (a)—

(i) by striking “Assistant Secretary of Energy for Defense Programs” and inserting “Administrator”;

(ii) by striking “nuclear weapons laboratory” and inserting “national security laboratory”;

(iii) by striking “production plant” and inserting “production facility”;

(C) in subsection (b)—

(i) in the heading, by striking “ASSISTANT SECRETARY” and inserting “ADMINISTRATOR”;

(ii) by striking “Assistant Secretary” each place it appears and inserting “Administrator”;

(D) by striking subsection (e).

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4213 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4213. Reports on critical difficulties at national security laboratories and nuclear weapons production facilities.”.

(g) PLAN FOR TRANSFORMATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4214 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2534) is amended—

(A) by striking “nuclear weapons complex” each place it appears (including the section heading) and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”;

(B) by striking subsections (b) and (d); and

(C) by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (b).

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4213, as inserted by subsection (f)(2), the following new item:

“Sec. 4214. Plan for transformation of National Nuclear Security Administration nuclear security enterprise.”.

(h) TRITIUM PRODUCTION PROGRAM.—Section 4231 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2541) is amended to read as follows: “SEC. 4231. TRITIUM PRODUCTION PROGRAM.

“(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—The Secretary of Energy shall establish a tritium production program that is capable of meeting the tritium requirements of the United States for nuclear weapons.

“(b) LOCATION OF TRITIUM PRODUCTION FACILITY.—The Secretary shall locate any new tritium production facility of the Department of Energy at the Savannah River Site, South Carolina.”.

(i) TRITIUM RECYCLING FACILITIES.—Section 4234 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2544) is amended—

(1) by striking “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Energy” and inserting “The Secretary of Energy”;

(2) by striking subsection (b).

(j) RESTRICTED DATA.—Section 4501 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2651) is amended by striking subsection (c).

(k) FOREIGN VISITORS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4502 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2652) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by striking “NATIONAL LABORATORIES” and inserting “NATIONAL SECURITY LABORATORIES”;

(B) by striking “national laboratory” each place it appears and inserting “national security laboratory”;

(C) in subsection (g), by striking paragraphs (3) and (4).

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4502 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4502. Restrictions on access to national security laboratories by foreign visitors from sensitive countries.”.

(l) BACKGROUND INVESTIGATIONS.—Section 4503 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2653) is amended—

(1) by striking “(a) IN GENERAL.”;

(2) by striking subsections (b) and (c); and

(3) by striking “national laboratory” and inserting “national security laboratory”.

(m) NUCLEAR DEFENSE INTELLIGENCE LOSSES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4505 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2656) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by striking “NUCLEAR” and inserting “ATOMIC”;

(B) in the heading of subsection (b), by striking “NUCLEAR” and inserting “ATOMIC ENERGY”;

(C) by striking “nuclear defense” each place it appears and inserting “atomic energy defense”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4505 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4505. Notice to congressional committees of certain security and counterintelligence failures within atomic energy defense programs.”.

(n) COUNTERINTELLIGENCE REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4507 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2658) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by striking “NATIONAL LABORATORIES” and inserting “NATIONAL SECURITY LABORATORIES”;

(B) in subsection (a), by striking “national laboratories” and inserting “national security laboratories”;

(C) in subsection (b), by striking “national laboratory” and inserting “national security laboratory”;

(D) by striking subsection (c).

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4507 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4507. Report on counterintelligence and security practices at national security laboratories.”.

(o) COMPUTER SECURITY REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4508 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2659)—

(A) in the heading, by striking “NATIONAL LABORATORY” and inserting “NATIONAL SECURITY LABORATORY”;

(B) in subsection (a) and (b), by striking “national laboratories” each place it appears and inserting “national security laboratories”;

(C) by striking subsections (e) and (f).

“Sec. 4508. Report on security vulnerabilities of national security laboratory computers.”.

(p) DOCUMENT REVIEW.—Section 4521 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2671) is amended by striking subsection (c).

(q) REPORTS ON LOCAL IMPACT ASSISTANCE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4604(f) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2704(f)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(3) In addition to the plans submitted under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall submit to Congress every six months a report setting forth a description of, and the amount or value of, all local impact assistance provided during the preceding six months under subsection (c)(6).”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 4851 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2821) is repealed.

(3) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4851.

(r) RECRUITMENT AND TRAINING.—Section 4622 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2722) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b)—

(A) by striking “(1) As part of” and inserting “As part of”;

(B) by striking paragraph (2); and

(2) by striking subsection (d).

(s) FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4623 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2723) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by striking “DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NUCLEAR WEAPONS COMPLEX” and inserting “NUCLEAR SECURITY ENTERPRISE”;

(B) in subsection (a), by striking “Department of Energy nuclear weapons complex” each place it appears and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”;

(C) in subsection (c), by striking “following” and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting “national security laboratories and nuclear weapons production facilities.”;

(D) in subsection (f)(2), by striking “the Department of Energy for” and inserting “the nuclear security enterprise for”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4623 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4623. Fellowship program for development of skills critical to the nuclear security enterprise.”.

(t) COST OVERRUNS.—Section 4713(a)(1)(A) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2753(a)(1)(A)) is amended—

(1) by striking “for Nuclear Security”;

(2) by striking “National Nuclear Security”.

(u) BUDGET REQUEST.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4731 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2771) is repealed.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4731.

(v) CONTRACTOR BONUSES.—Section 4802 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2782) is amended—

(2) by striking subsection (b); and

(3) by redesignating subsections (c) and (d) as subsections (b) and (c), respectively.

(w) FUNDS FOR RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT.—Section 4812 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2792) is amended—

(1) by striking subsections (b) through (d); and

(2) by redesignating subsection (e) as subsection (b).

(x) TECHNOLOGY PARTNERSHIPS.—Section 4813(c) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2794(c)) is amended by striking paragraph (5).

(y) UNIVERSITY COLLABORATION.—Section 4814 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2795) is amended by striking subsection (c).

(z) ENGINEERING AND MANUFACTURING RESEARCH.—Section 4832 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2812) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by striking “nuclear weapons complex” and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”; and

(2) by striking subsections (c) through (e).

(aa) PILOT PROGRAM REPORT.—Section 4833 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2813) is amended by striking subsection (e).

(bb) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2501 et seq.) is amended as follows:

(A) In section 4604(g)(3) (50 U.S.C. 2704(g)(3)), by striking “; the Pinnellas Plant, Florida.”.

(B) In the heading of section 4852 (50 U.S.C. 2822), by striking “NEVADA TEST SITE” and inserting “NEVADA NATIONAL SECURITY SITE”.

(C) By striking “Nevada Test Site” each place it appears and inserting “Nevada National Security Site”.

(D) By striking “Director of Central Intelligence” each place it appears and inserting “Director of National Intelligence”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is further amended by striking the item relating to section 4852 and inserting the following new item:

SEC. 3132. IMPROVEMENTS TO THE NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION ACT.

(a) NUCLEAR SECURITY ENTERPRISE REFERENCE.—

(1) FUTURE-YEARS NUCLEAR SECURITY PROGRAM.—Section 3253(b) of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2453(b)) is amended by striking “nuclear weapons complex” each place it appears and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”.

(2) GAO REPORTS.—Section 3255 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2455) is amended—

(A) in subsection (a), by striking “nuclear security complex” each place it appears and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”; and

(B) in subsection (b), by striking paragraph (3).

(3) DEFINITION.—Section 3281 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act

(50 U.S.C. 2471) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(6) The term ‘nuclear security enterprise’ means the physical facilities, technology, and human capital of the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities.”.

(b) TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS.—

(1) FUNDS AND PERSONNEL.—Section 3291 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2481) is amended—

(A) in subsection (c), by striking “specified in subsection (a)” and inserting “of the Administration”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new subsections:

“(d) TRANSFER OF FUNDS.—(1) Any balance of appropriations that the Secretary of Energy determines is available and needed to finance or discharge a function, power, or duty or an activity that is transferred to the Administration shall be transferred to the Administration and used for any purpose for which those appropriations were originally available. Balances of appropriations so transferred shall—

“(A) be credited to any applicable appropriation account of the Administration; or

“(B) be credited to a new account that may be established on the books of the Department of the Treasury; and shall be merged with the funds already credited to that account and accounted for as one fund.

“(2) Balances of appropriations credited to an account under paragraph (1)(A) are subject only to such limitations as are specifically applicable to that account. Balances of appropriations credited to an account under paragraph (1)(B) are subject only to such limitations as are applicable to the appropriations from which they are transferred.

“(e) PERSONNEL.—(1) With respect to any function, power, or duty or activity of the Department of Energy that is transferred to the Administration, those employees of the element of the Department of Energy from which the transfer is made that the Secretary of Energy determines are needed to perform that function, power, or duty, or for that activity, as the case may be, shall be transferred to the Administration.

“(2) The authorized strength in civilian employees of any element of the Department of Energy from which employees are transferred under this section is reduced by the number of employees so transferred.”.

(2) APPLICABILITY OF EXISTING LAWS AND REGULATIONS.—Section 3296 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2484) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 3296. APPLICABILITY OF PREEXISTING LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

“With respect to any facility, mission, or function of the Department of Energy that the Secretary of Energy transfers to the Administrator under section 3291, unless otherwise provided in this title, all provisions of law and regulations in effect immediately before the date of the transfer that are applicable to such facility, mission, or function shall continue to apply to the corresponding functions of the Administration.”.

(3) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in section 3291 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2481), as amended by paragraph (1), may be construed to affect any function or activity transferred by the Secretary of Energy to the Administrator for Nuclear Security before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) REPEAL OF EXPIRED PROVISIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The following sections of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2401 et seq.) are repealed:

(A) Section 3242 (50 U.S.C. 2442).

(B) Section 3292 (50 U.S.C. 2482).

(C) Section 3295 (50 U.S.C. 2483).

(D) Section 3297 (50 U.S.C. 2401 note).

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—The table of contents at the beginning of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act is amended by striking the items relating to sections 3242, 3292, 3295, and 3297.

(d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS TO THE NNSA ACT.—The National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2401 et seq.) is amended as follows:

(1) In section 3212(a)(2) (50 U.S.C. 2402(a)(2)), by striking “as added by section 3202 of this Act.”.

(2) In section 3253(b)(3) (50 U.S.C. 2453(b)(3)), by striking “section 3158 of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (42 U.S.C. 2121 note)” and inserting “section 4202(a) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2522(a))”.

(3) In section 3281(2) (50 U.S.C. 2471(2))—

(A) in subparagraph (C), by striking “Y-12 Plant” and inserting “Y-12 National Security Complex”; and

(B) in subparagraph (D), by striking “tritium operations facilities at the”.

(4) By striking “Nevada Test Site” each place it appears and inserting “Nevada National Security Site”.

(e) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT TO THE DOE ORGANIZATION ACT.—Section 643 of the Department of Energy Organization Act (42 U.S.C. 7253) is amended by redesignating the second subsection (b) as subsection (c).

SEC. 3133. CONSOLIDATED REPORTING REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO NUCLEAR STOCKPILE STEWARDSHIP, MANAGEMENT, AND INFRASTRUCTURE.

(a) CONSOLIDATED PLAN FOR STEWARDSHIP, MANAGEMENT, AND CERTIFICATION OF WARHEADS IN THE NUCLEAR WEAPONS STOCKPILE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4203 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2523) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 4203. NUCLEAR WEAPONS STOCKPILE STEWARDSHIP, MANAGEMENT, AND INFRASTRUCTURE PLAN.

“(a) PLAN REQUIREMENT.—The Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and other appropriate officials of the departments and agencies of the Federal Government, shall develop and annually update a plan for sustaining the nuclear weapons stockpile. The plan shall cover, at a minimum, stockpile stewardship, stockpile management, stockpile surveillance, program direction, infrastructure modernization, human capital, and nuclear test readiness. The plan shall be consistent with the programmatic and technical requirements of the most recent annual Nuclear Weapons Stockpile Memorandum.

“(b) SUBMISSIONS TO CONGRESS.—(1) In accordance with subsection (c), not later than March 15 of each even-numbered year, the Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a summary of the plan developed under subsection (a).

“(2) In accordance with subsection (d), not later than March 15 of each odd-numbered year, the Administrator shall submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed report on the plan developed under subsection (a).

“(3) The summaries and reports required by this subsection shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

“(c) ELEMENTS OF BIENNIAL PLAN SUMMARY.—Each summary of the plan submitted under subsection (b)(1) shall include, at a minimum, the following:

“(1) A summary of the status of the nuclear weapons stockpile, including the number and age of warheads (including both active and inactive) for each warhead type.

“(2) A summary of the status, plans, budgets, and schedules for warhead life extension programs and any other programs to modify, update, or replace warhead types.

“(3) A summary of the methods and information used to determine that the nuclear weapons stockpile is safe and reliable, as well as the relationship of science-based tools to the collection and interpretation of such information.

“(4) A summary of the status of the nuclear security enterprise, including programs and plans for infrastructure modernization and retention of human capital, as well as associated budgets and schedules.

“(5) Identification of any modifications or updates to the plan since the previous summary or detailed report was submitted under subsection (b).

“(6) Such other information as the Administrator considers appropriate.

“(d) ELEMENTS OF BIENNIAL DETAILED REPORT.—Each detailed report on the plan submitted under subsection (b)(2) shall include, at a minimum, the following:

“(1) With respect to stockpile stewardship and management—

“(A) the status of the nuclear weapons stockpile, including the number and age of warheads (including both active and inactive) for each warhead type;

“(B) for each five-year period occurring during the period beginning on the date of the report and ending on the date that is 20 years after the date of the report—

“(i) the planned number of nuclear warheads (including active and inactive) for each warhead type in the nuclear weapons stockpile; and

“(ii) the past and projected future total lifecycle cost of each type of nuclear weapon;

“(C) the status, plans, budgets, and schedules for warhead life extension programs and any other programs to modify, update, or replace warhead types;

“(D) a description of the process by which the Administrator assesses the lifetimes, and requirements for life extension or replacement, of the nuclear and non-nuclear components of the warheads (including active and inactive warheads) in the nuclear weapons stockpile;

“(E) a description of the process used in recertifying the safety, security, and reliability of each warhead type in the nuclear weapons stockpile;

“(F) any concerns of the Administrator that would affect the ability of the Administrator to recertify the safety, security, or reliability of warheads in the nuclear weapons stockpile (including active and inactive warheads);

“(G) mechanisms to provide for the manufacture, maintenance, and modernization of each warhead type in the nuclear weapons stockpile, as needed;

“(H) mechanisms to expedite the collection of information necessary for carrying out the stockpile management program required by section 4204, including information relating to the aging of materials and components, new manufacturing techniques, and the replacement or substitution of materials;

“(I) mechanisms to ensure the appropriate assignment of roles and missions for each national security laboratory and nuclear weapons production facility, including mechanisms for allocation of workload, mechanisms to ensure the carrying out of appropriate modernization activities, and mechanisms to ensure the retention of skilled personnel;

“(J) mechanisms to ensure that each national security laboratory has full and complete access to all weapons data to enable a rigorous peer-review process to support the annual assessment of the condition of the nuclear weapons stockpile required under section 4205;

“(K) mechanisms for allocating funds for activities under the stockpile management program required by section 4204, including allocations of funds by weapon type and facility; and

“(L) for each of the five fiscal years following the fiscal year in which the report is submitted, an identification of the funds needed to carry out the program required under section 4204.

“(2) With respect to science-based tools—

“(A) a description of the information needed to determine that the nuclear weapons stockpile is safe and reliable;

“(B) for each science-based tool used to collect information described in subparagraph (A), the relationship between such tool and such information and the effectiveness of such tool in providing such information based on the criteria developed pursuant to section 4202(a); and “(C) the criteria developed under section 4202(a) (including any updates to such criteria).

“(3) An assessment of the stockpile stewardship program under section 4201 by the Administrator, in consultation with the directors of the national security laboratories, which shall set forth—

“(A) an identification and description of—

“(i) any key technical challenges to the stockpile stewardship program; and

“(ii) the strategies to address such challenges without the use of nuclear testing;

“(B) a strategy for using the science-based tools (including advanced simulation and computing capabilities) of each national security laboratory to ensure that the nuclear weapons stockpile is safe, secure, and reliable without the use of nuclear testing;

“(C) an assessment of the science-based tools (including advanced simulation and computing capabilities) of each national security laboratory that exist at the time of the assessment compared with the science-based tools expected to exist during the period covered by the future-years nuclear security program; and

“(D) an assessment of the core scientific and technical competencies required to achieve the objectives of the stockpile stewardship program and other weapons activities and weapons-related activities of the Administration, including—

“(i) the number of scientists, engineers, and technicians, by discipline, required to maintain such competencies; and “(ii) a description of any shortage of such individuals that exists at the time of the assessment compared with any shortage expected to exist during the period covered by the future-years nuclear security program.

“(4) With respect to the nuclear security infrastructure—

“(A) a description of the modernization and refurbishment measures the Administrator determines necessary to meet the requirements prescribed in—

“(i) the national security strategy of the United States as set forth in the most recent national security strategy report of the President under section 108 of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 404a) if such strategy has been submitted as of the date of the plan;

“(ii) the most recent quadrennial defense review if such strategy has not been submitted as of the date of the plan; and

“(iii) the most recent Nuclear Posture Review as of the date of the plan;

“(B) a schedule for implementing the measures described under subparagraph (A) during the 10-year period following the date of the plan; and

“(C) the estimated levels of annual funds the Administrator determines necessary to carry out the measures described under subparagraph (A), including a discussion of the criteria, evidence, and strategies on which such estimated levels of annual funds are based.

“(5) With respect to the nuclear test readiness of the United States—

“(A) an estimate of the period of time that would be necessary for the Administrator to conduct an underground test of a nuclear weapon once directed by the President to conduct such a test;

“(B) a description of the level of test readiness that the Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, determines to be appropriate;

“(C) a list and description of the workforce skills and capabilities that are essential to carrying out an underground nuclear test at the Nevada National Security Site;

“(D) a list and description of the infrastructure and physical plants that are essential to carrying out an underground nuclear test at the Nevada National Security Site; and “(E) an assessment of the readiness status of the skills and capabilities described in subparagraph (C) and the infrastructure and physical plants described in subparagraph (D).

“(6) Identification of any modifications or updates to the plan since the previous summary or detailed report was submitted under subsection (b).

“(e) NUCLEAR WEAPONS COUNCIL ASSESSMENT.—(1) For each detailed report on the plan submitted under subsection (b)(2), the Nuclear Weapons Council established by section 179 of title 10, United States Code, shall conduct an assessment that includes the following:

“(A) An analysis of the plan, including—

“(i) whether the plan supports the requirements of the national security strategy of the United States or the most recent quadrennial defense review, as applicable under subsection (d)(4)(A), and the Nuclear Posture Review; and “(ii) whether the modernization and refurbishment measures described under subparagraph (A) of subsection (d)(4) and the schedule described under subparagraph (B) of such subsection are adequate to support such requirements.

“(B) An analysis of whether the plan adequately addresses the requirements for infrastructure recapitalization of the facilities of the nuclear security enterprise.

“(C) If the Nuclear Weapons Council determines that the plan does not adequately support modernization and refurbishment requirements under subparagraph (A) or the nuclear security enterprise facilities infrastructure recapitalization requirements under subparagraph (B), a risk assessment with respect to—

“(i) supporting the annual certification of the nuclear weapons stockpile; and “(ii) maintaining the long-term safety, security, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

“(2) Not later than 180 days after the date on which the Administrator submits the plan under subsection (b)(2), the Nuclear Weapons Council shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report detailing the assessment required under paragraph (1).

“(f) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) The term ‘budget’, with respect to a fiscal year, means the budget for that fiscal year that is submitted to Congress by the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code.

“(2) The term ‘future-years nuclear security program’ means the program required by section 3253 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2453).

“(3) The term ‘nuclear security budget materials’, with respect to a fiscal year, means the materials submitted to Congress by the Administrator in support of the budget for that fiscal year.

“(4) The term ‘quadrennial defense review’ means the review of the defense programs and policies of the United States that is carried out every four years under section 118 of title 10, United States Code.

“(5) The term ‘weapons activities’ means each activity within the budget category of weapons activities in the budget of the Administration.

“(6) The term ‘weapons-related activities’ means each activity under the Department of Energy that involves nuclear weapons, nuclear weapons technology, or fissile or radioactive materials, including activities related to—

“(A) nuclear nonproliferation;

“(B) nuclear forensics;

“(C) nuclear intelligence;

“(D) nuclear safety; and

“(E) nuclear incident response.”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4203 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 4203. Nuclear weapons stockpile stewardship, management, and infrastructure plan.”.

(b) REPEAL OF REQUIREMENT FOR BIENNIAL REPORT ON STOCKPILE STEWARDSHIP CRITERIA.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4202 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2522) is amended by striking subsections (c) and (d).

(2) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—The heading of such section is amended to read as follows: “STOCKPILE STEWARDSHIP CRITERIA”.

“Sec. 4202. Stockpile stewardship criteria.”.

(c) REPEAL OF REQUIREMENT FOR BIENNIAL PLAN ON MODERNIZATION AND REFURBISHMENT OF THE NUCLEAR SECURITY COMPLEX.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4203A of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2523A) is repealed.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4203A.

(d) REPEAL OF REQUIREMENT FOR ANNUAL UPDATE TO STOCKPILE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM PLAN.—Section 4204 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2524) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b)(2)(B), by striking “nuclear complex” and inserting “nuclear security enterprise”;

(2) by striking subsections (c) and (d); and

(3) by redesignating subsection (e) as subsection (c).

(e) REPEAL OF REQUIREMENT FOR REPORTS ON NUCLEAR TEST READINESS.—

(1) AEDA.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 4208 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2528) is repealed.

(B) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by striking the item relating to section 4208.

(2) NDAA FISCAL YEAR 1996.—Section 3152 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996 (Public Law 104-106; 110 Stat. 623) is repealed.

SEC. 3134. REPEAL OF CERTAIN REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

(a) GAO ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT REPORTS.—Section 3134 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84; 123 Stat. 2713) is amended—

(1) in subsection (c)—

(A) in paragraph (1), by striking “The Comptroller” and all that follows through “(2),” and inserting “Beginning on the date on which the report under subsection (b)(2) is submitted, the Comptroller General shall conduct a review”;

(B) by striking paragraph (2);

(C) by redesignating paragraph (3) as paragraph (2); and

(D) in paragraph (2), as so redesignated, by striking “the end of the period described in paragraph (2)” and inserting “August 30, 2012”; and

(2) in subsection (d)—

(A) in paragraph (1), by striking “subsection (c)(3)” and inserting “subsection (c)(2)”; and

(B) in paragraph (2), by striking “90 days” and all that follows through “(c)(3)” and inserting “April 30, 2016, or the date that is 210 days after the date on which the Secretary of Energy notifies the Comptroller General that all American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funds have been expended, whichever is earlier”.

(b) WORKFORCE RESTRUCTURING PLAN UPDATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 4604 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2704), as amended by section 3131(q), is amended—

(A) in subsection (b)(1), by striking “and any updates of the plan under subsection (e)”;

(B) by striking subsection (e);

(C) in subsection (f)—

(i) by striking paragraph (2); and

(ii) by redesignating paragraph (3), as added by such section 3131(q), as paragraph (2); and

(D) by redesignating subsections (f) and (g) as subsections (e) and (f), respectively.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 4643(d)(1) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2733(d)(1)) is amended by striking “section 4604(g)” and inserting “section 4604(f)”.

(c) UNCLASSIFIED CONTROLLED NUCLEAR INFORMATION QUARTERLY REPORT.—Section 148 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2168) is amended by striking subsection e.

Subtitle D—Reports

SEC. 3141. REPORTS ON LIFETIME EXTENSION PROGRAMS.

(a) PROTOTYPES.—Subtitle A of title XLII of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2521 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 4215, as added by section 3114(a)(1), the following new section:

“SEC. 4216. REPORTS ON LIFETIME EXTENSION PROGRAMS.

“(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—Before proceeding beyond phase 6.2 activities with respect to any lifetime extension program, the Nuclear Weapons Council established by section 179 of title 10, United States Code, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on such phase 6.2 activities, including—

“(1) an assessment of the lifetime extension options considered for the phase 6.2 activities, including whether the subsystems and components in each option are considered to be a refurbishment, reuse, or replacement of such subsystem or component; and

“(2) an assessment of the option selected for the phase 6.2 activities, including—

“(A) whether the subsystems and components will be refurbished, reused, or replaced; and “(B) the advantages and disadvantages of refurbishment, reuse, and replacement for each such subsystem and component.

“(b) PHASE 6.2 ACTIVITIES DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘phase 6.2 activities’ means, with respect to a lifetime extension program, the phase 6.2 feasibility study and option down-select.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4215, as added by section 3114(a)(2), the following new item:

“Sec. 4216. Reports on lifetime extension programs.”.

SEC. 3142. NOTIFICATION OF NUCLEAR CRITICALITY AND NON-NUCLEAR INCIDENTS.

(a) NOTIFICATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle C of title XLVI of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2731 et seq.), as amended by section 3161(a), is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4646. NOTIFICATION OF NUCLEAR CRITICALITY AND NON-NUCLEAR INCIDENTS.

“(a) NOTIFICATION.—The Secretary of Energy and the Administrator, as the case may be, shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a notification of a nuclear criticality incident resulting from a covered program that results in an injury or fatality or results in the shutdown, or partial shutdown, of a covered facility by not later than 15 days after the date of such incident.

“(1) A description of the incident, including the cause of the incident.

“(2) In the case of a criticality incident, whether the incident caused a facility, or part of a facility, to be shut down.

“(3) The effect, if any, on the mission of the Administration or the Office of Environmental Management of the Department of Energy.

“(4) Any corrective action taken in response to the incident.

“(c) DATABASE.—(1) The Secretary shall maintain a record of incidents described in paragraph (2).

“(2) An incident described in this paragraph is any of the following incidents resulting from a covered program:

“(A) A nuclear criticality incident that results in an injury or fatality or results in the shutdown, or partial shutdown, of a covered facility.

“(B) A non-nuclear incident that results in serious bodily injury or fatality at a covered facility.

“(d) COOPERATION.—In carrying out this section, the Secretary and the Administrator shall ensure that each management and operating contractor of a covered facility cooperates in a timely manner.

“(e) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) The term ‘appropriate congressional committees’ means—

“(A) the congressional defense committees; and

“(B) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate.

“(2) The term ‘covered facility’ means—

“(A) a facility of the nuclear security enterprise; and “(B) a facility conducting activities for the defense environmental cleanup program of the Office of Environmental Management of the Department of Energy.

“(3) The term ‘covered program’ means—

“(A) programs of the Administration; and

“(B) defense environmental cleanup programs of the Office of Environmental Management of the Department of Energy.”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4645, as added by section 3161(b), the following new item:

“Sec. 4646. Notification of nuclear criticality and non-nuclear incidents.”.

(b) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy and the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall each submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report detailing any incidents described in paragraph (2) that occurred during the 10-year period before the date of the report.

(2) INCIDENTS DESCRIBED.—An incident described in this paragraph is any of the following incidents that occurred as a result of programs of the National Nuclear Security Administration or defense environmental cleanup programs of the Office of Environmental Management of the Department of Energy:

(A) A nuclear criticality incident that resulted in an injury or fatality or resulted in the shutdown, or partial shutdown, of a facility of the nuclear security enterprise or a facility conducting activities for such defense environmental cleanup programs.

(B) A non-nuclear incident that results in serious bodily injury or fatality at such a facility.

(3) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(A) the congressional defense committees; and

(B) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate.

SEC. 3143. QUARTERLY REPORTS TO CONGRESS ON FINANCIAL BALANCES FOR ATOMIC ENERGY DEFENSE ACTIVITIES.

(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—Subtitle C of title XLVII of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2771 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4732. QUARTERLY REPORTS ON FINANCIAL BALANCES FOR ATOMIC ENERGY DEFENSE ACTIVITIES.

“(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—Not later than 15 days after the end of each fiscal year quarter, the Secretary of Energy shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the financial balances for each atomic energy defense program at the budget control levels used in the report accompanying the most current Act appropriating funds for energy and water development.

“(b) ELEMENTS.—Each report under subsection (a) shall set forth, for each program covered by such report, the following as of the end of the fiscal year quarter covered by such report:

“(1) The total amount authorized to be appropriated, including amounts authorized to be appropriated in the current fiscal year and amounts authorized to be appropriated for prior fiscal years.

“(2) The amount unobligated.

“(3) The amount unobligated but committed.

“(4) The amount obligated but uncosted.

“(c) PRESENTATION.—Each report under subsection (a) shall present information as follows:

“(1) For each program, in summary form and by fiscal year.

“(2) With financial balances in connection with funding under recurring DOE national security authorizations (as that term is defined in section 4701(1)) presented separately from balances in connection with funding under any other provisions of law.”.

“Sec. 4732. Quarterly reports on financial balances for atomic energy defense activities.”.

SEC. 3144. NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES STUDY ON PEER REVIEW AND DESIGN COMPETITION RELATED TO NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

(a) STUDY.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall enter into an agreement with the National Academy of Sciences to conduct a study of peer review and design competition related to nuclear weapons.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The study required by subsection (a) shall include an assessment of—

(1) the quality and effectiveness of peer review of designs, development plans, engineering and scientific activities, and priorities related to both nuclear and non-nuclear aspects of nuclear weapons;

(2) incentives for effective peer review;

(3) the potential effectiveness, efficiency, and cost of alternative methods of conducting peer review and design competition related to both nuclear and non-nuclear aspects of nuclear weapons, as compared to current methods;

(4) the known instances where current peer review practices and design competition succeeded or failed to find problems or potential problems; and

(5) such other matters related to peer review and design competition related to nuclear weapons as the Administrator considers appropriate.

(c) COOPERATION AND ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND PERSONNEL.—The Administrator shall ensure that the National Academy of Sciences receives full and timely cooperation, including full access to information and personnel, from the National Nuclear Security Administration and the management and operating contractors of the Administration for the purposes of conducting the study under subsection (a).

(d) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The National Academy of Sciences shall submit to the Administrator a report containing the results of the study conducted under subsection (a) and any recommendations resulting from the study.

(2) SUBMITTAL TO CONGRESS.—Not later than September 30, 2014, the Administrator shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the House of Representatives and the Senate the report submitted under paragraph (1) and any comments or recommendations of the Administrator with respect to the report.

(3) FORM.—The report submitted under paragraph (1) shall be in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SEC. 3145. REPORT ON DEFENSE NUCLEAR NON-PROLIFERATION PROGRAMS.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than March 1 of each year from 2013 through 2015, the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on the budget, objectives, and metrics of the defense nuclear nonproliferation programs of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(2) ELEMENTS.—The report required by paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) An identification and explanation of uncommitted balances that are more than the acceptable carryover thresholds, as determined by the Secretary of Energy, on a program-by-program basis.

(B) An identification of foreign countries that are sharing the cost of implementing defense nuclear nonproliferation programs, including an explanation of such cost sharing.

(C) A description of objectives and measurements for each defense nuclear nonproliferation program.

(D) A description of the proliferation of nuclear weapons threat and how each defense nuclear nonproliferation program activity counters the threat.

(E) A description and assessment of nonproliferation activities coordinated with the Department of Defense to maximize efficiency and avoid redundancies.

(F) A description of how the defense nuclear nonproliferation programs are prioritized to meet the most urgent nonproliferation requirements.

(b) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(1) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

(c) FORM.—The report required by subsection (a)(1) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SEC. 3146. STUDY ON REUSE OF PLUTONIUM PITS.

(a) STUDY.—Not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator for Nuclear Security, in coordination with the Nuclear Weapons Council established by section 179 of title 10, United States Code, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a study of plutonium pits, including—

(1) the availability of plutonium pits—

(A) as of the date of the report; and

(B) after such date as a result of the dismantlement of nuclear weapons; and

(2) an assessment of the potential for reusing plutonium pits in future life extension programs.

(b) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The study submitted under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) The feasibility and practicability of potential full or partial reuse options with respect to plutonium pits.

(2) The benefits and risks of reusing plutonium pits.

(3) A list of technical challenges that must be resolved to certify aged plutonium under dynamic loading conditions and the full stockpile-to-target sequence of weapons, including a program plan and timeline for resolving such technical challenges and an assessment of the importance of resolving outstanding materials issues on certifying aged plutonium pits.

(4) A list of the facilities that will perform the testing and experiments required to resolve the technical challenges identified under paragraph (3).

(5) The potential costs and cost savings of such reuse.

(6) The effects of such reuse on the requirements for plutonium pit manufacturing.

(7) An assessment of how such reuse affects plans to build a responsive nuclear weapons infrastructure.

SEC. 3147. ASSESSMENT OF NUCLEAR WEAPON PIT PRODUCTION REQUIREMENT.

(a) ASSESSMENT.—The Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of Energy and the Commander of the United States Strategic Command, shall assess the annual plutonium pit production requirement needed to sustain a safe, secure, and reliable nuclear weapon arsenal.

(b) REPORTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of Energy and the Commander of the United States Strategic Command, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report regarding the assessment conducted under subsection (a), including—

(A) an explanation of the rationale and assumptions that led to the current 50 to 80 plutonium pit production requirement, including the factors considered in determining such requirement;

(B) an analysis of whether there are any changes to the current 50 to 80 plutonium pit production requirement, including the reasons for any such changes;

(C) the cost and implications for national security of various smaller and larger pit production capacities, including with respect to—

(i) the ability to respond to geopolitical and technical risks;

(ii) the sustainment of the nuclear weapons stockpile, including options available for life extension programs; and

(iii) impacts on the requirements for the inactive and reserve nuclear weapons stockpile.

(2) UPDATE.—If the report under paragraph (1) does not incorporate the results of the Nuclear Posture Review Implementation Study, the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of Energy and the Commander of the United States Strategic Command, shall submit to the congressional defense committees an update to the report under paragraph (1) that incorporates the results of such study by not later than 90 days after the date on which such committees receive such study.

(c) FORM.—The reports under paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (b) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SEC. 3148. STUDY ON A MULTIAGENCY GOVERNANCE MODEL FOR NATIONAL SECURITY LABORATORIES.

(a) INDEPENDENT ASSESSMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator for Nuclear Security shall commission an independent assessment regarding the transition of the national security laboratories to multiagency federally funded research and development centers with direct sustainment and sponsorship by multiple national security agencies. The organization selected to conduct the independent assessment shall have recognized credentials and expertise in national security science and engineering laboratories.

(2) BACKGROUND MATERIAL.—The assessment shall leverage previous studies, including—

(A) the report published in 2009 by the Stimson Center titled “Leveraging Science for Security: A Strategy for the Nuclear Weapons Laboratories in the 21st Century”; and

(B) the Phase 1 report published in 2012 by the National Academy of Sciences titled “Managing for High-Quality Science and Engineering at the NNSA National Security laboratories”.

(3) ELEMENTS.—The assessment conducted pursuant to paragraph (1) shall include the following elements:

(A) An assessment of a new governance structure that—

(i) gives multiple national security agencies, including the Department of Defense, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Energy, and the intelligence community, direct sponsorship of the national security laboratories as federally funded research and development centers so that such agencies have more direct and rapid access to the assets available at the laboratories and the responsibility to provide sustainable support for the science and technology needs of the agencies at the laboratories;

(ii) reduces costs to the Federal Government for the use of the resources of the laboratories, while enhancing the stewardship of these national resources and maximizing their service to the Nation;

(iii) enhances the overall quality of the scientific research and engineering capability of the laboratories, including their ability to recruit and retain top scientists and engineers; and

(iv) maintains as paramount the capabilities required to support the nuclear stockpile stewardship and related nuclear missions.

(B) A recommendation as to which, if any, other laboratories associated with any national security agency should be included in the new governance structure.

(C) Options for implementing the new governance structure that minimize disruption of performance and costs to the government while rapidly achieving anticipated gains.

(D) Legislative changes and executive actions that would need to be made in order to implement the new governance structure.

(b) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than January 1, 2014, the organization selected to conduct the independent assessment under subsection (a)(1) shall submit to the Administrator and the congressional defense committees a report that contains the findings of the assessment.

(2) FORM.—The report under paragraph (1) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

(c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term “national security laboratory” has the meaning given that term in section 3281 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2471).

SEC. 3149. REPORT ON EFFICIENCIES IN FACILITIES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Nuclear Weapons Council established by section 179 of title 10, United States Code, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth the assessment of the Council as to the feasibility of finding further efficiencies in the facilities and functions of the National Nuclear Security Administration in order to reduce costs.

(b) PROCESS.—If the assessment of the Council in the report under subsection (a) is that excess facilities or duplicative functions exist and seeking efficiencies in the facilities and functions of the Administration is feasible and would reduce cost, the report shall include recommendations for a process to determine the manner in which such efficiencies should be accomplished, including an estimate of the time required to complete the process.

(c) LIMITATION ON AVAILABILITY OF CERTAIN FUNDS PENDING REPORT.—Amounts authorized to be appropriated by this title and available for the facility projects in the Department of Energy Readiness and Technical Base designated 04-D-125 and 06-D-141 may not be obligated or expended for CD-3, Start of Construction (as found in Department of Energy Order 413.3 B Program and Project Management for the Acquisition of Capital Assets), until the submittal under subsection (a) of the report required by that subsection.

SEC. 3150. STUDY ON REGIONAL RADIOLOGICAL SECURITY ZONES.

(a) STUDY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a study in accordance with paragraph (3).

(2) CONSULTATION.—The Comptroller General may, in conducting the study required under paragraph (1), consult with the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Secretary of State, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, and such other departments and agencies of the United States Government as the Comptroller General considers appropriate.

(3) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The study under paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) An assessment of the radioactive isotopes and associated activity levels that present the greatest risk to national and international security.

(B) A review of current efforts by the Federal Government to secure radiological materials abroad, including coordination with foreign governments, the European Union, the International Atomic Energy Agency, other international programs, and non-governmental organizations that identify, register, secure, remove, and provide for the disposition of high-risk radiological materials worldwide.

(C) A review of current efforts of the Federal Government to secure radiological materials domestically at civilian sites, including hospitals, industrial sites, and other locations.

(D) A definition of regional radiological security zones, including the subset of the materials of concern to be the immediate focus and the security best practices required to achieve that goal.

(E) An assessment of the feasibility, cost, desirability, and added benefit of establishing regional radiological security zones in high priority areas worldwide in order to facilitate regional collaboration in—

(i) identifying and inventorying high-activity radiological sources at high-risk sites;

(ii) reviewing national level regulations, inspections, transportation security, and security upgrade options; and

(iii) assessing opportunities for the harmonization of regulations and security practices among the nations of the region.

(F) An assessment of the feasibility, cost, desirability, and added benefit of establishing remote regional monitoring centers that would receive real-time data from radiological security sites, would be staffed by trained personnel from the countries in the region, and would alert local law enforcement in the event of a potential or actual terrorist incident or other emergency.

(G) An assessment of the feasibility and cost of securing radiological materials in the United States and through regional monitoring centers, taking into account the threat and consequences of a terrorist attack using fissile materials as compared to the threat and consequences of a terrorist attack using radiological materials.

(H) A list and assessment of the best practices used in the United States that are most critical in enhancing domestic radiological material security and could be used to enhance radiological security worldwide.

(I) An assessment of the United States entity or entities that would be best suited to lead efforts to establish a radiological security zone program.

(J) An estimate of the costs associated with the implementation of a radiological security zone program.

(K) An assessment of the known locations outside the United States housing high-risk radiological materials in excess of 1,000 curies.

(L) An assessment of how efforts to secure radiological materials might impact the available resources, capabilities, and capacity of the United States that would be used to secure fissile materials.

(4) FORM.—The study required under paragraph (1) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

(b) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this section, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(1) the Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate; and

(2) the Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Homeland Security, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 3151. REPORT ON ABANDONED URANIUM MINES.

(a) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Secretary of the Interior and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, shall undertake a review of, and prepare a report on, abandoned uranium mines in the United States that provided uranium ore for atomic energy defense activities of the United States.

(2) MATTERS TO BE ADDRESSED.—The report shall describe and analyze—

(A) the location of the abandoned uranium mines described in paragraph (1) on Federal, State, tribal, and private land, taking into account any existing inventories undertaken by Federal agencies, States, and Indian tribes, and any additional information available to the Secretary;

(B) the extent to which the abandoned uranium mines—

(i) pose, or may pose, a significant radiation hazard or other significant threat to public health and safety; and

(ii) have caused, or may cause, significant water quality degradation or other environmental degradation;

(C) a ranking of priority by category for the remediation and reclamation of the abandoned uranium mines;

(D) the potential cost and feasibility of remediating and reclaiming, in accordance with applicable Federal law, each category of abandoned uranium mines; and

(E) the status of any efforts to remediate and reclaim abandoned uranium mines.

(b) CONSULTATION.—In preparing the report under subsection (a), the Secretary shall consult with any other relevant Federal agencies, affected States and Indian tribes, and interested members of the public.

(c) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees the report under subsection (a)(1).

(2) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term “appropriate congressional committees” means—

(A) the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives; and

(B) the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate, the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Natural Resources of the House of Representatives.

(d) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section may be construed to affect any responsibility or liability of the Federal Government, a State, an Indian tribe, or a person with respect to the remediation of an abandoned uranium mine.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

SEC. 3161. USE OF PROBABILISTIC RISK ASSESSMENT TO ENSURE NUCLEAR SAFETY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subtitle C of title XLVI of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2731 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 4645. USE OF PROBABILISTIC RISK ASSESSMENT TO ENSURE NUCLEAR SAFETY OF FACILITIES OF THE ADMINISTRATION AND THE OFFICE OF ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT.

“(a) NUCLEAR SAFETY AT NNSA AND DOE FACILITIES.—The Administrator and the Secretary of Energy shall ensure that the methods for assessing, certifying, and overseeing nuclear safety at the facilities specified in subsection (c) use national and international standards and nuclear industry best practices, including probabilistic or quantitative risk assessment if sufficient data exist.

“(b) ADEQUATE PROTECTION.—The use of probabilistic or quantitative risk assessment under subsection (a) shall be to support, rather than replace, the requirement under section 182 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2232) that the utilization or production of special nuclear material will be in accordance with the common defense and security and will provide adequate protection to the health and safety of the public.

“(c) FACILITIES SPECIFIED.—Subsection (a) shall apply—

“(1) to the Administrator with respect to the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities; and

“(2) to the Secretary of Energy with respect to defense nuclear facilities of the Office of Environmental Management of the Department of Energy.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4644 the following new item:

“Sec. 4645. Use of probabilistic risk assessment to ensure nuclear safety of facilities of the Administration and the Office of Environmental Management.”.

SEC. 3162. SUBMITTAL TO CONGRESS OF SELECTED ACQUISITION REPORTS AND INDEPENDENT COST ESTIMATES ON LIFE EXTENSION PROGRAMS AND NEW NUCLEAR FACILITIES.

(a) SUBMITTAL REQUIRED.—Subtitle A of title XLII of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2521 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 4216, as added by section 3141(a), the following new section:

“SEC. 4217. SELECTED ACQUISITION REPORTS AND INDEPENDENT COST ESTIMATES ON LIFE EXTENSION PROGRAMS AND NEW NUCLEAR FACILITIES.

“(a) SELECTED ACQUISITION REPORTS.—(1) At the end of each fiscal-year quarter, the Secretary of Energy, acting through the Administrator, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on each nuclear weapon system undergoing life extension. The reports shall be known as Selected Acquisition Reports for the weapon system concerned.

“(2) The information contained in the Selected Acquisition Report for a fiscal-year quarter for a nuclear weapon system shall be the information contained in the Selected Acquisition Report for such fiscal-year quarter for a major defense acquisition program under section 2432 of title 10, United States Code, expressed in terms of the nuclear weapon system.

“(b) INDEPENDENT COST ESTIMATES.—(1) The Secretary, acting through the Administrator, shall submit to the congressional defense committees and the Nuclear Weapons Council established under section 179 of title 10, United States Code, an independent cost estimate of the following:

“(A) Each nuclear weapon system undergoing life extension at the completion of phase 6.2A, relating to design definition and cost study.

“(B) Each nuclear weapon system undergoing life extension before initiation of phase 6.5, relating to first production.

“(C) Each new nuclear facility within the nuclear security enterprise that is estimated to cost more than $500,000,000 before such facility achieves critical decision 2 in the acquisition process.

“(2) A cost estimate for purposes of this subsection may not be prepared by the Department of Energy or the Administration.

“(c) AUTHORITY FOR FURTHER ASSESSMENTS.—Upon the request of the Administrator, the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation and in consultation with the Administrator, may conduct an independent cost assessment of any initiative or program of the Administration that is estimated to cost more than $500,000,000.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of such Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to 4216, as added by section 3141(b), the following new item:

“Sec. 4217. Selected Acquisition Reports and independent cost estimates on life extension programs and new nuclear facilities.”.

SEC. 3163. CLASSIFICATION OF CERTAIN RESTRICTED DATA.

Section 142 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2162) is amended—

(1) in subsection d.—

(A) by inserting “(1)” before “The Commission”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) The Commission may restore to the Restricted Data category any information related to the design of nuclear weapons removed under paragraph (1) if the Commission and the Department of Defense jointly determine that—

“(A) the programmatic requirements that caused the information to be removed from the Restricted Data category are no longer applicable or have diminished;

“(B) the information would be more appropriately protected as Restricted Data; and

“(C) restoring the information to the Restricted Data category is in the interest of national security.

“(3) In carrying out paragraph (2), information related to the design of nuclear weapons shall be restored to the Restricted Data category in accordance with regulations prescribed for purposes of such paragraph.”; and

(2) in subsection e.—

(A) by inserting “(1)” before “The Commission”; and

(B) by striking “Central” and inserting “National”; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) The Commission may restore to the Restricted Data category any information concerning atomic energy programs of other nations removed under paragraph (1) if the Commission and the Director of National Intelligence jointly determine that—

“(A) the programmatic requirements that caused the information to be removed from the Restricted Data category are no longer applicable or have diminished;

“(B) the information would be more appropriately protected as Restricted Data; and

“(C) restoring the information to the Restricted Data category is in the interest of national security.

“(3) In carrying out paragraph (2), information concerning atomic energy programs of other nations shall be restored to the Restricted Data category in accordance with regulations prescribed for purposes of such paragraph.”.

SEC. 3164. ADVICE TO PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS REGARDING SAFETY, SECURITY, AND RELIABILITY OF UNITED STATES NUCLEAR WEAPONS STOCKPILE AND NUCLEAR FORCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1305 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (42 U.S.C. 7274p) is—

(1) transferred to the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2501 et seq.);

(2) inserted after section 4217 of such Act, as added by section 3162(a);

(3) redesignated as section 4218; and

(4) amended by amending subsection (f) to read as follows:

“(f) EXPRESSION OF INDIVIDUAL VIEWS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—No individual, including representatives of the President, may take any action against, or otherwise constrain, a director of a national security laboratory or a nuclear weapons production facility, a member of the Nuclear Weapons Council established under section 179 of title 10, United States Code, or the Commander of the United States Strategic Command from presenting the professional views of the director, member, or Commander, as the case may be, to the President, the National Security Council, or Congress regarding—

“(A) the safety, security, reliability, or credibility of the nuclear weapons stockpile and nuclear forces; or

“(B) the status of, and plans for, the capabilities and infrastructure that support and sustain the nuclear weapons stockpile and nuclear forces.

“(2) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1)(B) may be construed to affect the inter-agency budget process.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 4218 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(1) by striking “nuclear weapons laboratories” each place it appears and inserting “national security laboratories”; and

(2) by striking “nuclear weapons laboratory” each place it appears and inserting “national security laboratory”; and

(3) by striking “nuclear weapons production plants” each place it appears and inserting “nuclear weapons production facilities”; and

(4) by striking “nuclear weapons production plant” each place it appears and inserting “nuclear weapons production facility”; and

(5) by amending subsection (g) to read as follows:

“(g) REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PRESIDENT DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘representative of the President’ means the following:

“(1) Any official of the Department of Defense or the Department of Energy who is appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

“(2) Any member or official of the National Security Council.

“(3) Any member or official of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

“(4) Any official of the Office of Management and Budget.”.

(c) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents at the beginning of the Atomic Energy Defense Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4217, as added by section 3162(b), the following new item:

SEC. 3165. PILOT PROGRAM ON TECHNOLOGY COMMERCIALIZATION.

(a) PILOT PROGRAM.—The Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Technology Transfer Coordinator appointed under section 1001(a) of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (42 U.S.C. 16391(a)), may carry out a pilot program at a national security laboratory for the purpose of accelerating technology transfer from such laboratories to the marketplace with respect to technologies that directly advance the mission of the National Nuclear Security Administration.

(b) TERMINATION.—The authority to carry out the pilot program under subsection (a) shall terminate on the date that is two years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) REPORTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on the pilot program under subsection (a).

(2) ELEMENTS.—The report under paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) An identification of opportunities for accelerating technology transfer from national security laboratories to the marketplace.

(B) If the Secretary chooses to carry out the pilot program under subsection (a), a description of the plan to carry out such program.

(C) If the Secretary chooses not to carry out the pilot program under subsection (a), a description of why the program will not be carried out.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term “appropriate congressional committees” means the following:

(A) The Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives.

(B) The Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology of the House of Representatives.

(C) The Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.

(2) The term “national security laboratory” has the meaning given that term in section 3281 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2471).

SEC. 3166. CONGRESSIONAL ADVISORY PANEL ON THE GOVERNANCE OF THE NUCLEAR SECURITY ENTERPRISE.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established a congressional advisory panel to be known as the “Congressional Advisory Panel on the Governance of the Nuclear Security Enterprise” (in this section referred to as the “advisory panel”). The purpose of the advisory panel is to examine options and make recommendations for revising the governance structure, mission, and management of the nuclear security enterprise.

(b) COMPOSITION AND MEETINGS.—

(1) MEMBERSHIP.—The advisory panel shall be composed of 12 members appointed as follows:

(A) Two by the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives.

(B) Two by the ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives.

(C) Two by the chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate.

(D) Two by the ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate.

(E) One by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

(F) One by the minority leader of the House of Representatives.

(G) One by the majority leader of the Senate.

(H) One by the minority leader of the Senate.

(2) CO-CHAIRMEN.—Two members of the advisory panel shall serve as co-chairmen of the advisory panel. The co-chairmen shall be designated as follows:

(A) The chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives and the ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate, in consultation with the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the minority leader of the Senate, shall jointly designate one member of the advisory panel to serve as co-chairman of the advisory panel.

(B) The chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the ranking minority member of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, in consultation with the majority leader of the Senate and the minority leader of the House of Representatives, shall jointly designate one member of the advisory panel to serve as co-chairman of the advisory panel.

(3) SECURITY CLEARANCE REQUIRED.—Each individual appointed as a member of the advisory panel shall possess (or have recently possessed before the date of such appointment) the appropriate security clearance necessary to carry out the duties of the advisory panel.

(4) PERIOD OF APPOINTMENT; VACANCIES.—Each member of the advisory panel shall be appointed for the life of the advisory panel. Any vacancy in the advisory panel shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

(5) MEETINGS.—The advisory panel shall commence its first meeting by not later than March 1, 2013, so long as at least two members have been appointed under paragraph (1) by such date.

(c) COOPERATION FROM GOVERNMENT.—

(1) COOPERATION.—The advisory panel shall receive the full and timely cooperation of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Energy, and any other Federal official in providing the advisory panel with analyses, briefings, and other information, including access to classified information, necessary for the advisory panel to carry out its duties under this section. With respect to access to classified information, the Director of National Intelligence may determine which information is necessary under this paragraph.

(2) LIAISON.—The following heads of Federal agencies shall each designate at least one officer or employee of the respective agency to serve as a liaison officer between the agency and the advisory panel:

- (A) The Secretary of State.
- (B) The Secretary of Defense.
- (C) The Secretary of Energy.
- (D) The Secretary of Homeland Security.
- (E) The Director of National Intelligence.

(d) REPORTS REQUIRED.—

(1) INTERIM REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the advisory panel shall submit to the President, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Energy, the Committees on Armed Services and Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate, and the Committees on Armed Services and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives an interim report on the initial findings, conclusions, and recommendations of the advisory panel. To the extent practicable, the interim report shall address the matters described in paragraph (2) and focus on the immediate, near-term actions the advisory panel recommends be taken.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than February 1, 2014, the advisory panel shall submit to the President, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Energy, the Committees on Armed Services and Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate, and the Committees on Armed Services and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives a report on the findings, conclusions, and recommendations of the advisory panel. The report shall include the following:

(A) An assessment of each option considered by the advisory panel for revising the governance structure, mission, and management of the nuclear security enterprise, including the advantages, disadvantages, costs, risks, and benefits of each such option.

(B) The recommendation of the advisory panel with respect to the most appropriate governance structure, mission, and management of the nuclear security enterprise.

(C) Recommendations of the advisory panel with respect to—

(i) the appropriate missions of the nuclear security enterprise, including how complementary missions should be managed while ensuring focus on core missions;

(ii) the organization and structure of the nuclear security enterprise and the Federal agency responsible for such enterprise;

(iii) the roles, responsibilities, and authorities of Federal agencies, Federal officials, the national security laboratories and nuclear weapons production facilities, and the directors of such laboratories and facilities, including mechanisms for holding such officials and directors accountable;

(iv) the allocation of roles and responsibilities with respect to the mission, operations, safety, and security of the nuclear security enterprise;

(v) the relationships among the Federal agency responsible for the nuclear security enterprise and the National Security Council, the Nuclear Weapons Council, the Department of Energy, the Department of Defense, and other Federal agencies;

(vi) the interagency planning, programming, and budgeting process for the nuclear security enterprise;

(vii) the appropriate means for managing and overseeing the nuclear security enterprise, including the role of federally funded research and development centers, the role and impact of various contracting and fee structures, the appropriate role of contract competition and nonprofit and for-profit contractors, and the use of performance-based and transactional oversight;

(viii) the appropriate means for ensuring the health of the intellectual capital of the nuclear security enterprise, including recruitment and retention of personnel and enhancement of a robust professional culture of excellence;

(ix) the appropriate means for ensuring the health and sustainment of the critical capabilities and physical infrastructure of the nuclear security enterprise;

(x) infrastructure, rules, regulations, best practices, standards, and appropriate oversight mechanisms to ensure robust protection of the health and safety of workers and the public while also providing such workers the ability to effectively and efficiently carry out their mission;

(xi) the appropriate congressional committee structure for oversight of the nuclear security enterprise;

(xii) the length of the terms and suggested qualifications for senior officials of the Federal agency responsible for the nuclear security enterprise;

(xiii) contracting, budget planning, program management, and regulatory changes to reduce the cost of programs and administration without eroding mission effectiveness or requirements and ensuring robust protection of the health and safety of workers and the public; and

(xiv) statutory, regulatory, and policy changes necessary for implementing the recommendations of the advisory panel.

(D) An assessment of if and how the recommendations of the advisory panel will lead to greater mission focus and more effective and efficient program management for the nuclear security enterprise.

(E) Any other information or recommendations relating to the future of the nuclear security enterprise that the advisory panel considers appropriate.

(e) FUNDING.—Of the amounts authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense, not more than $3,000,000 shall be made available to the advisory panel to carry out this section.

(f) TERMINATION.—The advisory panel shall terminate not later than June 1, 2014.

(g) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term “national security laboratory” has the meaning given that term in section 4002(6) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as amended by section 3131(a).

(2) The term “nuclear security enterprise” has the meaning given that term in section 4002(5) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as amended by section 3131(a).

(3) The term “nuclear weapons production facility” has the meaning given that term in section 4002(7) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act, as amended by section 3131(a).

Subtitle F—American Medical Isotopes Production

SEC. 3171. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “American Medical Isotopes Production Act of 2012”.

SEC. 3172. DEFINITIONS.

In this subtitle:

(1) DEPARTMENT.—The term “Department” means the Department of Energy.

(2) HIGHLY ENRICHED URANIUM.—The term “highly enriched uranium” means uranium enriched to 20 percent or greater in the isotope U-235.

(3) LOW ENRICHED URANIUM.—The term “low enriched uranium” means uranium enriched to less than 20 percent in the isotope U-235.

(4) SECRETARY.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Energy.

SEC. 3173. IMPROVING THE RELIABILITY OF DOMESTIC MEDICAL ISOTOPE SUPPLY.

(a) MEDICAL ISOTOPE DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall carry out a technology-neutral program—

(A) to evaluate and support projects for the production in the United States, without the use of highly enriched uranium, of significant quantities of molybdenum-99 for medical uses;

(B) to be carried out in cooperation with non-Federal entities; and

(C) the costs of which shall be shared in accordance with section 988 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (42 U.S.C. 16352).

(2) CRITERIA.—Projects shall be evaluated against the following primary criteria:

(A) The length of time necessary for the proposed project to begin production of molybdenum-99 for medical uses within the United States.

(B) The capability of the proposed project to produce a significant percentage of United States demand for molybdenum-99 for medical uses.

(C) The capability of the proposed project to produce molybdenum-99 in a cost-effective manner.

(D) The cost of the proposed project.

(3) EXEMPTION.—An existing reactor in the United States fueled with highly enriched uranium shall not be disqualified from the program if the Secretary determines that—

(A) there is no alternative nuclear reactor fuel, enriched in the isotope U-235 to less than 20 percent, that can be used in that reactor;

(B) the reactor operator has provided assurances that, whenever an alternative nuclear reactor fuel, enriched in the isotope U-235 to less than 20 percent, can be used in that reactor, it will use that alternative in lieu of highly enriched uranium; and

(C) the reactor operator has provided a current report on the status of its efforts to convert the reactor to an alternative nuclear reactor fuel enriched in the isotope U-235 to less than 20 percent, and an anticipated schedule for completion of conversion.

(4) PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AND REVIEW.—The Secretary shall—

(A) develop a program plan and annually update the program plan through public workshops; and

(B) use the Nuclear Science Advisory Committee to conduct annual reviews of the progress made in achieving the program goals and make recommendations to improve program effectiveness.

(b) DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary shall carry out a program to provide assistance for—

(1) the development of fuels, targets, and processes for domestic molybdenum-99 production that do not use highly enriched uranium; and

(2) commercial operations using the fuels, targets, and processes described in paragraph (1).

(c) URANIUM LEASE AND TAKE-BACK.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall establish a program to make low enriched uranium available, through lease contracts, for irradiation for the production of molybdenum-99 for medical uses.

(2) TITLE.—The lease contracts shall provide for the producers of the molybdenum-99 to take title to and be responsible for the molybdenum-99 created by the irradiation, processing, or purification of uranium leased under this section.

(3) DUTIES.—

(A) SECRETARY.—The lease contracts shall require the Secretary—

(i) to retain responsibility for the final disposition of spent nuclear fuel created by the irradiation, processing, or purification of uranium leased under this section for the production of medical isotopes; and

(ii) to take title to and be responsible for the final disposition of radioactive waste created by the irradiation, processing, or purification of uranium leased under this section for which the Secretary determines the producer does not have access to a disposal path.

(B) PRODUCER.—The producer of the spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste shall accurately characterize, appropriately package, and transport the spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste prior to acceptance by the Department.

(4) COMPENSATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the lease contracts shall provide for compensation in cash amounts equivalent to prevailing market rates for the sale of comparable uranium products and for compensation in cash amounts equivalent to the net present value of the cost to the Federal Government for—

(i) the final disposition of spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste for which the Department is responsible under paragraph (3); and

(ii) other costs associated with carrying out the uranium lease and take-back program authorized by this subsection.

(B) DISCOUNT RATE.—The discount rate used to determine the net present value of costs described in subparagraph (A)(ii) shall be not greater than the average interest rate on marketable Treasury securities.

(5) AUTHORIZED USE OF FUNDS.—Subject to the availability of appropriations, the Secretary may obligate and expend funds received under leases entered into under this subsection, which shall remain available until expended, for the purpose of carrying out the activities authorized by this subtitle, including activities related to the final disposition of spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste for which the Department is responsible under paragraph (3).

(6) EXCHANGE OF URANIUM FOR SERVICES.—The Secretary shall not barter or otherwise sell or transfer uranium in any form in exchange for—

(A) services related to the final disposition of the spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste for which the Department is responsible under paragraph (3); or

(B) any other services associated with carrying out the uranium lease and take-back program authorized by this subsection.

(d) COORDINATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—The Department and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission shall ensure to the maximum extent practicable that environmental reviews for the production of the medical isotopes shall complement and not duplicate each review.

(e) OPERATIONAL DATE.—The Secretary shall establish a program as described in subsection (c)(3) not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(f) RADIOACTIVE WASTE.—Notwithstanding section 2 of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 (42 U.S.C. 10101), radioactive material resulting from the production of medical isotopes that has been permanently removed from a reactor or subcritical assembly and for which there is no further use shall be considered low-level radioactive waste if the material is acceptable under Federal requirements for disposal as low-level radioactive waste.

SEC. 3174. EXPORTS.

Section 134 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2160d) is amended by striking subsection c. and inserting the following:

“c. MEDICAL PRODUCTION LICENSE SUNSET.—Effective 7 years after the date of enactment of the American Medical Isotopes Production Act of 2012, the Commission may not issue a license for the export of highly enriched uranium from the United States for the purposes of medical isotope production.

“d. MEDICAL PRODUCTION LICENSE EXTENSION.—The period referred to in subsection c. may be extended for no more than 6 years if, no earlier than 6 years after the date of enactment of the American Medical Isotopes Production Act of 2012, the Secretary of Energy certifies to the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate that—

“(1) there is insufficient global supply of molybdenum-99 produced without the use of highly enriched uranium available to satisfy the domestic United States market; and

“(2) the export of United States-origin highly enriched uranium for the purposes of medical isotope production is the most effective temporary means to increase the supply of molybdenum-99 to the domestic United States market.

“e. PUBLIC NOTICE.—To ensure public review and comment, the development of the certification described in subsection d. shall be carried out through announcement in the Federal Register.

“f. JOINT CERTIFICATION.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—In accordance with paragraph (2), the ban on the export of highly enriched uranium for purposes of medical isotope production referred to in subsections c. and d. shall not go into effect unless the Secretary of Energy and the Secretary of Health and Human Services have jointly certified that—

“(A) there is a sufficient supply of molybdenum-99 produced without the use of highly enriched uranium available to meet the needs of patients in the United States; and

“(B) it is not necessary to export United States-origin highly enriched uranium for the purposes of medical isotope production in order to meet United States patient needs.

“(2) TIME OF CERTIFICATION.—The joint certification under paragraph (1) shall be made not later than 7 years after the date of enactment of the American Medical Isotopes Production Act of 2012, except that, if the period referred to in subsection c. is extended under subsection d., the 7-year deadline under this paragraph shall be extended by a period equal to the period of such extension under subsection d.

“g. SUSPENSION OF MEDICAL PRODUCTION LICENSE.—At any time after the restriction of export licenses provided for in subsection c. becomes effective, if there is a critical shortage in the supply of molybdenum-99 available to satisfy the domestic United States medical isotope needs, the restriction of export licenses may be suspended for a period of no more than 12 months, if—

“(1) the Secretary of Energy certifies to the Congress that the export of United States-origin highly enriched uranium for the purposes of medical isotope production is the only effective temporary means to increase the supply of molybdenum-99 necessary to meet United States medical isotope needs during that period; and

“(2) the Congress enacts a Joint Resolution approving the temporary suspension of the restriction of export licenses.

“h. DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section—

“(1) the term ‘alternative nuclear reactor fuel or target’ means a nuclear reactor fuel or target which is enriched to less than 20 percent in the isotope U-235;

“(2) the term ‘highly enriched uranium’ means uranium enriched to 20 percent or more in the isotope U-235;

“(3) a fuel or target ‘can be used’ in a nuclear research or test reactor if—

“(A) the fuel or target has been qualified by the Reduced Enrichment Research and Test Reactor Program of the Department of Energy; and

“(B) use of the fuel or target will permit the large majority of ongoing and planned experiments and medical isotope production to be conducted in the reactor without a large percentage increase in the total cost of operating the reactor; and

“(4) the term ‘medical isotope’ includes molybdenum-99, iodine-131, xenon-133, and other radioactive materials used to produce a radiopharmaceutical for diagnostic or therapeutic procedures or for research and development.”.

SEC. 3175. REPORT ON DISPOSITION OF EXPORTS.

Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, after consulting with other relevant agencies, shall submit to the Congress a report detailing the current disposition of previous United States exports of highly enriched uranium used as fuel or targets in a nuclear research or test reactor, including—

(1) their location;

(2) whether they are irradiated;

(3) whether they have been used for the purpose stated in their export license;

(4) whether they have been used for an alternative purpose and, if so, whether such alternative purpose has been explicitly approved by the Commission;

(5) the year of export, and reimportation, if applicable;

(6) their current physical and chemical forms; and

(7) whether they are being stored in a manner which adequately protects against theft and unauthorized access.

SEC. 3176. DOMESTIC MEDICAL ISOTOPE PRODUCTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 10 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2131 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 112. DOMESTIC MEDICAL ISOTOPE PRODUCTION.—

“a. The Commission may issue a license, or grant an amendment to an existing license, for the use in the United States of highly enriched uranium as a target for medical isotope production in a nuclear reactor, only if, in addition to any other requirement of this Act—

“(1) the Commission determines that—

“(A) there is no alternative medical isotope production target that can be used in that reactor; and

“(B) the proposed recipient of the medical isotope production target has provided assurances that, whenever an alternative medical isotope production target can be used in that reactor, it will use that alternative in lieu of highly enriched uranium; and

“(2) the Secretary of Energy has certified that the United States Government is actively supporting the development of an alternative medical isotope production target that can be used in that reactor.

“b. As used in this section—

“(1) the term ‘alternative medical isotope production target’ means a nuclear reactor target which is enriched to less than 20 percent of the isotope U-235;

“(2) a target ‘can be used’ in a nuclear research or test reactor if—

“(A) the target has been qualified by the Reduced Enrichment Research and Test Reactor Program of the Department of Energy; and

“(B) use of the target will permit the large majority of ongoing and planned experiments and medical isotope production to be conducted in the reactor without a large percentage increase in the total cost of operating the reactor;

“(3) the term ‘highly enriched uranium’ means uranium enriched to 20 percent or more in the isotope U-235; and

“(4) the term ‘medical isotope’ includes molybdenum-99, iodine-131, xenon-133, and other radioactive materials used to produce a radiopharmaceutical for diagnostic or therapeutic procedures or for research and development.”.

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 is amended by inserting the following new item at the end of the items relating to chapter 10 of title I:

SEC. 3177. ANNUAL DEPARTMENT REPORTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter for 5 years, the Secretary shall report to Congress on Department actions to support the production in the United States, without the use of highly enriched uranium, of molybdenum-99 for medical uses.

(b) CONTENTS.—The reports shall include the following:

(1) For medical isotope development projects—

(A) the names of any recipients of Department support under section 3173;

(B) the amount of Department funding committed to each project;

(C) the milestones expected to be reached for each project during the year for which support is provided;

(D) how each project is expected to support the increased production of molybdenum-99 for medical uses;

(E) the findings of the evaluation of projects under section 3173(a)(2); and

(F) the ultimate use of any Department funds used to support projects under section 3173.

(2) A description of actions taken in the previous year by the Secretary to ensure the safe disposition of spent nuclear fuel and radioactive waste for which the Department is responsible under section 3173(c).

SEC. 3178. NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES REPORT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall enter into an arrangement with the National Academy of Sciences to conduct a study of the state of molybdenum-99 production and utilization, to be provided to Congress not later than 5 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) CONTENTS.—The report shall include the following:

(1) For molybdenum-99 production—

(A) a list of all facilities in the world producing molybdenum-99 for medical uses, including an indication of whether these facilities use highly enriched uranium in any way;

(B) a review of international production of molybdenum-99 over the previous 5 years, including—

(i) whether any new production was brought online;

(ii) whether any facilities halted production unexpectedly; and

(iii) whether any facilities used for production were decommissioned or otherwise permanently removed from service; and

(C) an assessment of progress made in the previous 5 years toward establishing domestic production of molybdenum-99 for medical uses, including the extent to which other medical isotopes that have been produced with molybdenum-99, such as iodine-131 and xenon-133, are being used for medical purposes.

(2) An assessment of the progress made by the Department and others to eliminate all worldwide use of highly enriched uranium in reactor fuel, reactor targets, and medical isotope production facilities.

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

Sec. 3201. Authorization.

Sec. 3202. Improvements to the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

SEC. 3201. AUTHORIZATION.

There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013, $29,415,000 for the operation of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board under chapter 21 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286 et seq.).

SEC. 3202. IMPROVEMENTS TO THE DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Section 311 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by striking paragraph (4);

(2) in subsection (c)—

(A) in the heading, by striking “AND VICE CHAIRMAN” and inserting “, VICE CHAIRMAN, AND MEMBERS”;

(B) in paragraph (2), by striking “The Chairman” and inserting “In accordance with paragraph (5), the Chairman”;

(C) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(5) Each member of the Board, including the Chairman and Vice Chairman, shall—

“(A) have equal responsibility and authority in establishing decisions and determining actions of the Board;

“(B) have full access to all information relating to the performance of the Board’s functions, powers, and mission; and

“(C) have one vote.”.

(b) MISSION AND FUNCTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 312 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286a) is amended—

(A) in the heading, by inserting “MISSION AND” before “FUNCTIONS”;

(B) by redesignating subsections (a) and (b) as subsections (b) and (c), respectively;

(C) by inserting before subsection (b), as redesignated by subparagraph (B), the following new subsection (a):

“(a) MISSION.—The mission of the Board shall be to provide independent analysis, advice, and recommendations to the Secretary of Energy to inform the Secretary, in the role of the Secretary as operator and regulator of the defense nuclear facilities of the Department of Energy, in providing adequate protection of public health and safety at such defense nuclear facilities.”; and

(D) in subsection (b), as so redesignated—

(i) in the heading, by striking “IN GENERAL” and inserting “FUNCTIONS”; and

(ii) in paragraph (5), by inserting “, and specifically assess risk (whenever sufficient data exists),” after “shall consider”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 is amended by striking the item relating to section 312 and inserting the following new item:

“Sec. 312. Mission and functions of the Board.”.

(c) BOARD RECOMMENDATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 315 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286d) is amended—

(A) by redesignating subsections (a) through (h) as subsections (b) through (i), respectively;

(B) by inserting before subsection (b), as redesignated by subparagraph (A), the following new subsection:

“(a) SUBMISSION OF RECOMMENDATIONS.—(1) Subject to subsections (h) and (i), not later than 30 days before the date on which the Board transmits a recommendation to the Secretary of Energy under section 312, the Board shall transmit to the Secretary in writing a draft of such recommendation and any related findings, supporting data, and analyses to ensure the Secretary is adequately informed of a formal recommendation and to provide the Secretary an opportunity to provide input to the Board before such recommendation is finalized.

“(2) The Secretary may provide to the Board comments on a draft recommendation transmitted by the Board under paragraph (1) by not later than 30 days after the date on which the Secretary receives the draft recommendation. The Board may grant, upon request by the Secretary, additional time for the Secretary to transmit comments to the Board.

“(3) After the period of time in which the Secretary may provide comments under paragraph (2) elapses, the Board may transmit a final recommendation to the Secretary.”; and

(C) by amending subsection (b), as so redesignated, to read as follows:

“(b) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY AND COMMENT.—Subject to subsections (h) and (i), after the Secretary of Energy receives a recommendation from the Board under subsection (a)(3), the Board shall promptly make available to the public such recommendation and any related correspondence from the Secretary by—

“(1) providing such recommendation and correspondence to the public in the regional public reading rooms of the Department of Energy; and

“(2) publishing in the Federal Register—

“(A) such recommendation and correspondence; and

“(B) a request for the submission to the Board of public comments on such recommendation that provides interested persons with 30 days after the date of the publication in which to submit comments, data, views, or arguments to the Board concerning the recommendation.”.

(2) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Such section 315 is further amended—

(A) in subsection (c), as redesignated by paragraph (1)(A)—

(i) in paragraph (1), by striking “subsection (a)” and inserting “subsection (b)”;

and

(ii) in paragraph (2), by striking “subsection (h)” and inserting “subsection (i)”;

(B) in subsection (d), as so redesignated, by striking “subsection (a) or (b)” and inserting “subsection (b) or (c)”;

(C) in subsection (e), as so redesignated—

(i) by striking “subsection (b)(1)” and inserting “subsection (c)(1)”;

(ii) by striking “subsection (h)” and inserting “subsection (i)”;

(D) in subsection (g), as so redesignated—

(i) in paragraph (1), as so redesignated, by striking “subsection (e)” and inserting “subsection (f)”;

(ii) in paragraph (2), by striking “, to the Committees on Armed Services and on Appropriations of the Senate, and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives” and inserting “and to such committees”;

(E) in subsection (h), as so redesignated—

(i) in paragraph (1), as so redesignated, by striking “through (d)” and inserting “through (e)”;

(ii) in paragraph (3), by striking “and the Speaker”;

(F) by striking “Committees on Armed Services and on Appropriations of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives” each place it appears and inserting “Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate”.

(d) REPORTS.—Section 316 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286e) is amended by striking “Committees on Armed Services and on Appropriations of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives” each place it appears and inserting “Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate”.

(e) INFORMATION TO CONGRESS.—Section 320 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286h-1) is amended—

(1) by striking “submitted to the Congress” and inserting “submitted to the Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives and the Committees on Armed Services, Appropriations, and Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate”;

(2) by striking “the Congress.” and inserting “such committees.”.

(f) INSPECTOR GENERAL.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 21 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 322. INSPECTOR GENERAL.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than October 1, 2013, the Board shall enter into an agreement with an agency of the Federal Government to procure the services of the Inspector General of such agency for the Board, in accordance with the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.). Such Inspector General shall have expertise relating to the mission of the Board.

“(b) BUDGET.—In the budget materials submitted to the President by the Board in connection with the submission to Congress, pursuant to section 1105 of title 31, United States Code, of the budget for each fiscal year, the Board shall ensure that a separate, dedicated procurement line item is designated for the services of an Inspector General under subsection (a).”.

(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 321 the following new item:

“Sec. 322. Inspector General.”.

(g) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 313(j)(2) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286b) is amended by striking “section” and all that follows through “implementation” and inserting “section 312(b)(1), the implementation”.

(h) SAFETY STANDARDS.—Nothing in this section or in the amendments made by this section shall be construed to cause a reduction in nuclear safety standards.

TITLE XXXIV—NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

Sec. 3401. Authorization of appropriations.

SEC. 3401. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) AMOUNT.—There are hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Energy $14,909,000 for fiscal year 2013 for the purpose of carrying out activities under chapter 641 of title 10, United States Code, relating to the naval petroleum reserves.

(b) PERIOD OF AVAILABILITY.—Funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in subsection (a) shall remain available until expended.

TITLE XXXV—MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

Sec. 3501. Authorization of appropriations for national security aspects of the merchant marine for fiscal year 2013.

Sec. 3502. Application of the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

Sec. 3503. Limitation of National Defense Reserve Fleet vessels to those over 1,500 gross tons.

Sec. 3504. Donation of excess fuel to maritime academies.

Sec. 3505. Clarification of heading.

Sec. 3506. Transfer of vessels to the National Defense Reserve Fleet.

Sec. 3507. Amendments relating to the National Defense Reserve Fleet.

Sec. 3508. Extension of Maritime Security Fleet program.

Sec. 3509. Container-on-barge transportation.

Sec. 3510. Short sea transportation.

Sec. 3511. Maritime environmental and technical assistance.

Sec. 3512. Identification of actions to enable qualified United States flag capacity to meet national defense requirements.

Sec. 3513. Maritime workforce study.

Sec. 3514. Maritime administration vessel recycling contract award practices.

Sec. 3515. Requirement for barge design.

Sec. 3516. Eligibility to receive surplus training equipment.

Sec. 3517. Coordination with other laws.

SEC. 3501. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR NATIONAL SECURITY ASPECTS OF THE MERCHANT MARINE FOR FISCAL YEAR 2013.

Funds are hereby authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013, to be available without fiscal year limitation if so provided in appropriations Acts, for the use of the Department of Transportation for Maritime Administration programs associated with maintaining national security aspects of the merchant marine, as follows:

(1) For expenses necessary for operations of the United States Merchant Marine Academy, $77,253,000, of which—

(A) $67,253,000 shall remain available until expended for Academy operations; and

(B) $10,000,000 shall remain available until expended for capital asset management at the Academy.

(2) For expenses necessary to support the State maritime academies, $16,045,000, of which—

(A) $2,400,000 shall remain available until expended for student incentive payments;

(B) $2,545,000 shall remain available until expended for direct payments to such academies; and

(C) $11,100,000 shall remain available until expended for maintenance and repair of State maritime academy training vessels.

(3) For expenses necessary to dispose of vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet, $12,717,000, to remain available until expended.

(4) For expenses to maintain and preserve a United States-flag merchant marine to serve the national security needs of the United States under chapter 531 of title 46, United States Code, $186,000,000.

(5) For the cost (as defined in section 502(5) of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 (2 U.S.C. 661a(5)) of loan guarantees under the program authorized by chapter 537 of title 46, United States Code, $3,750,000, all of which shall remain available until expended for administrative expenses of the program.

SEC. 3502. APPLICATION OF THE FEDERAL ACQUISITION REGULATION.

Section 3502(b) of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001, as enacted into law by Public Law 106-398 (114 Stat. 1654A-490), is amended by striking “the enactment of this Act” and inserting “contract award”.

SEC. 3503. LIMITATION OF NATIONAL DEFENSE RESERVE FLEET VESSELS TO THOSE OVER 1,500 GROSS TONS.

Section 57101(a) of title 46, United States Code, is amended by inserting “of 1,500 gross tons or more or such other vessels as the Secretary of Transportation shall determine are appropriate” after “Administration”.

SEC. 3504. DONATION OF EXCESS FUEL TO MARITIME ACADEMIES.

Section 51103(b) of title 46, United States Code, is amended by striking so much as precedes paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

“(b) PROPERTY FOR INSTRUCTIONAL PURPOSES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation may cooperate with and assist the institutions named in paragraph (2) by making vessels, fuel, shipboard equipment, and other marine equipment, owned by the United States Government and determined by the entity having custody and control of such property to be excess or surplus, available to those institutions for instructional purposes, by gift, loan, sale, lease, or charter on terms and conditions the Secretary considers appropriate. The consent of the Secretary of the Navy shall be obtained with respect to any property from National Defense Reserve Fleet vessels (50 U.S.C. App. 1744) where such vessels are either Ready Reserve Force vessels or other National Defense Reserve Fleet vessels determined to be of sufficient value to the Navy to warrant their further preservation and retention.”.

SEC. 3505. CLARIFICATION OF HEADING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The section designation and heading for section 57103 of title 46, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

“§ 57103. Donation of nonretention vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The analysis for chapter 571 of title 46, United States Code, is amended by striking the item relating to section 57103 and inserting the following:

“57103. Donation of nonretention vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet.”.

SEC. 3506. TRANSFER OF VESSELS TO THE NATIONAL DEFENSE RESERVE FLEET.

Section 57101 of title 46, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(c) AUTHORITY OF FEDERAL ENTITIES TO TRANSFER VESSELS.—All Federal entities are authorized to transfer vessels to the National Defense Reserve Fleet without reimbursement subject to the approval of the Secretary of Transportation and the Secretary of the Navy with respect to Ready Reserve Force vessels and the Secretary of Transportation with respect to all other vessels.”.

SEC. 3507. AMENDMENTS RELATING TO THE NATIONAL DEFENSE RESERVE FLEET.

Subparagraphs (B), (C), and (D) of section 11(c)(1) of the Merchant Ship Sales Act of 1946 (50 U.S.C. App. 1744(c)(1)) are amended to read as follows:

“(B) activate and conduct sea trials on each vessel at a frequency that is deemed necessary;

“(C) maintain and adequately crew, as necessary, in an enhanced readiness status those vessels that are scheduled to be activated in 5 or less days;

“(D) locate those vessels that are scheduled to be activated near embarkation ports specified for those vessels; and”.

SEC. 3508. EXTENSION OF MARITIME SECURITY FLEET PROGRAM.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—Section 53101 of title 46, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by amending paragraph (4) to read as follows:

“(4) FOREIGN COMMERCE.—The term ‘foreign commerce’ means—

“(A) commerce or trade between the United States, its territories or possessions, or the District of Columbia, and a foreign country; and

“(B) commerce or trade between foreign countries.”;

(2) by striking paragraph (5);

(3) by redesignating paragraphs (6) through (13) as paragraphs (5) through (12), respectively; and

(4) by amending paragraph (5), as so redesignated, to read as follows:

“(5) PARTICIPATING FLEET VESSEL.—The term ‘participating fleet vessel’ means any vessel that—

“(A) on October 1, 2015—

“(i) meets the requirements of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 53102(c); and

“(ii) is less than 20 years of age if the vessel is a tank vessel, or is less than 25 years of age for all other vessel types; and

“(B) on December 31, 2014, is covered by an operating agreement under this chapter.”.

(b) VESSEL ELIGIBILITY.—Section 53102(b) of such title is amended to read as follows:

“(b) VESSEL ELIGIBILITY.—A vessel is eligible to be included in the Fleet if—

“(1) the vessel meets the requirements of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of subsection (c);

“(2) the vessel is operated (or in the case of a vessel to be constructed, will be operated) in providing transportation in foreign commerce;

“(3) the vessel is self-propelled and—

“(A) is a tank vessel that is 10 years of age or less on the date the vessel is included in the Fleet; or

“(B) is any other type of vessel that is 15 years of age or less on the date the vessel is included in the Fleet;

“(4) the vessel—

“(A) is suitable for use by the United States for national defense or military purposes in time of war or national emergency, as determined by the Secretary of Defense; and

“(B) is commercially viable, as determined by the Secretary; and

“(5) the vessel—

“(A) is a United States-documented vessel; or

“(B) is not a United States-documented vessel, but—

“(i) the owner of the vessel has demonstrated an intent to have the vessel documented under chapter 121 of this title if it is included in the Fleet; and

“(ii) at the time an operating agreement for the vessel is entered into under this chapter, the vessel is eligible for documentation under chapter 121 of this title.”.

(c) OPERATING AGREEMENTS.—Section 53103 of such title is amended—

(1) by amending subsection (b) to read as follows:

“(b) EXTENSION OF EXISTING OPERATING AGREEMENTS.—

“(1) OFFER TO EXTEND.—Not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this paragraph, the Secretary shall offer, to an existing contractor, to extend, through September 30, 2025, an operating agreement that is in existence on the date of enactment of this paragraph. The terms and conditions of the extended operating agreement shall include terms and conditions authorized under this chapter, as amended from time to time.

“(2) TIME LIMIT.—An existing contractor shall have not later than 120 days after the date the Secretary offers to extend an operating agreement to agree to the extended operating agreement.

“(3) SUBSEQUENT AWARD.—The Secretary may award an operating agreement to an applicant that is eligible to enter into an operating agreement for fiscal years 2016 through 2025 if the existing contractor does not agree to the extended operating agreement under paragraph (2).”; and

(2) by amending subsection (c) to read as follows:

“(c) PROCEDURE FOR AWARDED NEW OPERATING AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary may enter into a new operating agreement with an applicant that meets the requirements of section 53102(c) (for vessels that meet the qualifications of section 53102(b)) on the basis of priority for vessel type established by military requirements of the Secretary of Defense. The Secretary shall allow an applicant at least 30 days to submit an application for a new operating agreement. After consideration of military requirements, priority shall be given to an applicant that is a United States citizen under section 50501 of this title. The Secretary may not approve an application without the consent of the Secretary of Defense. The Secretary shall enter into an operating agreement with the applicant or provide a written reason for denying the application.”.

(d) REPEAL OF EARLY TERMINATION BY CONTRACTOR.—Section 53104 of such title is amended—

(1) in subsection (c), by striking paragraph (3); and

(2) in subsection (e), by striking “an operating agreement under this chapter is terminated under subsection (c)(3), or if”.

(e) TRANSFER OF OPERATING AGREEMENTS.—Section 53105 of such title is amended—

(1) by amending subsection (e) to read as follows:

“(e) TRANSFER OF OPERATING AGREEMENTS.—A contractor under an operating agreement may transfer the agreement (including all rights and obligations under the operating agreement) to any person that is eligible to enter into the operating agreement under this chapter if the Secretary and the Secretary of Defense determine that the transfer is in the best interests of the United States. A transaction shall not be considered a transfer of an operating agreement if the same legal entity with the same vessels remains the contracting party under the operating agreement.”; and

(2) by amending subsection (f) to read as follows:

“(f) REPLACEMENT VESSELS.—A contractor may replace a vessel under an operating agreement with another vessel that is eligible to be included in the Fleet under section 53102(b), if the Secretary, in conjunction with the Secretary of Defense, approves the replacement of the vessel.”.

(f) PAYMENTS.—Section 53106 of such title is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(1), by striking “and” after the semicolon at the end of subparagraph (B), and by striking subparagraph (C) and inserting the following:

“(C) $3,100,000 for each of fiscal years 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, and 2018;

“(E) $3,700,000 for each of fiscal years 2022, 2023, 2024, and 2025.”;

(2) in subsection (c)(3)(C), by striking “a LASH vessel.” and inserting “a lighter aboard ship vessel.”; and

(3) by striking subsection (f).

(g) EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS AGREEMENTS.—Section 53107(b)(1) of such title is amended to read as follows:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—An Emergency Preparedness Agreement under this section shall require that a contractor for a vessel covered by an operating agreement under this chapter shall make commercial transportation resources (including services) available, upon request by the Secretary of Defense during a time of war or national emergency, or whenever the Secretary of Defense determines that it is necessary for national security or contingency operation (as that term is defined in section 101 of title 10, United States Code).”.

(h) REPEAL OF WAIVER OF AGE RESTRICTION.—Section 53109 of such title is repealed.

(i) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 53111 of such title is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (2); and

(2) by amending paragraph (3) to read as follows:

“(3) $186,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, and 2018;

“(5) $222,000,000 for each fiscal year thereafter through fiscal year 2025.”.

(j) EFFECTIVE DATE OF AMENDMENTS.—The amendments made by—

(1) paragraphs (2), (3), and (4) of subsection (a) take effect on December 31, 2014; and

(2) subsection (f)(2) take effect on December 31, 2014.

SEC. 3509. CONTAINER-ON-BARGE TRANSPORTATION.

(a) ASSESSMENT.—The Maritime Administrator shall assess the potential for using container-on-barge transportation in short sea transportation (as such term is defined in section 55605 of title 46, United States Code).

(b) FACTORS.—In conducting the assessment under subsection (a), the Administrator shall consider—

(1) the environmental benefits of increasing container-on-barge movements in short sea transportation;

(2) the regional differences in the use of short sea transportation;

(3) the existing programs established at coastal and Great Lakes ports for establishing awareness of deep sea shipping operations;

(4) the mechanisms necessary to ensure that implementation of a plan under subsection (c) will not be inconsistent with anti-trust laws; and

(5) the potential frequency of container-on-barge service at short sea transportation ports.

(c) RECOMMENDATIONS.—The assessment under subsection (a) may include recommendations for a plan to increase awareness of the potential for use of container-on-barge transportation.

(d) DEADLINE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this title, the Administrator shall submit the assessment required under this section to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 3510. SHORT SEA TRANSPORTATION.

(a) PURPOSE.—Section 55601 of title 46, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking “landside congestion.” and inserting “landside congestion or to promote short sea transportation.”;

(2) in subsection (c), by striking “coastal corridors” and inserting “coastal corridors or to promote short sea transportation”;

(3) in subsection (d), by striking “that the project may” and all that follows through the end of the subsection and inserting “that the project uses documented vessels and—

“(1) mitigates landside congestion; or

“(2) promotes short sea transportation.”;

and

(4) in subsection (f), by striking “shall” each place it appears and inserting “may”.

(b) DOCUMENTATION.—Section 55605 of title 46, United States Code, is amended in the matter preceding paragraph (1) by striking “by vessel” and inserting “by a documented vessel”.

SEC. 3511. MARITIME ENVIRONMENTAL AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 503 of title 46, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 50307. Maritime environmental and technical assistance

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation may engage in the environmental study, research, development, assessment, and deployment of emerging marine technologies and practices related to the marine transportation system through the use of public vessels under the control of the Maritime Administration or private vessels under United States registry, and through partnerships and cooperative efforts with academic, public, private, and non-governmental entities and facilities.

“(b) REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary of Transportation may—

“(1) identify, study, evaluate, test, demonstrate, or improve emerging marine technologies and practices that are likely to achieve environmental improvements by—

“(A) reducing air emissions, water emissions, or other ship discharges;

“(B) increasing fuel economy or the use of alternative fuels and alternative energy (including the use of shore power); or

“(C) controlling aquatic invasive species; and

“(2) coordinate with the Environmental Protection Agency, the United States Coast Guard, and other Federal, State, local, or tribal agencies, as appropriate.

“(c) COORDINATION.—Coordination under subsection (b)(2) may include—

“(1) activities that are associated with the development or approval of validation and testing regimes; and

“(2) certification or validation of emerging technologies or practices that demonstrate significant environmental benefits.

“(d) ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary of Transportation may accept gifts, or enter into cooperative agreements, contracts, or other agreements with academic, public, private, and non-governmental entities to carry out the activities authorized under subsection (a).”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of contents for chapter 503 of title 46, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 50306 the following:

“50307. Maritime environmental and technical assistance.”.

SEC. 3512. IDENTIFICATION OF ACTIONS TO ENABLE QUALIFIED UNITED STATES FLAG CAPACITY TO MEET NATIONAL DEFENSE REQUIREMENTS.

Section 501(b) of title 46, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking “When the head” and inserting the following:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—When the head”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) DETERMINATIONS.—The Maritime Administrator shall—

“(A) for each determination referred to in paragraph (1), identify any actions that could be taken to enable qualified United States flag capacity to meet national defense requirements;

“(B) provide notice of each such determination to the Secretary of Transportation and the head of the agency referred to in paragraph (1) for which the determination is made; and “(C) publish each such determination on the Internet Web site of the Department of Transportation not later than 48 hours after notice of the determination is provided to the Secretary of Transportation.

“(3) NOTICE TO CONGRESS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The head of an agency referred to in paragraph (1) shall notify the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate—

“(i) of any request for a waiver of the navigation or vessel-inspection laws under this section not later than 48 hours after receiving such a request; and

“(ii) of the issuance of any such waiver not later than 48 hours after such issuance.

“(B) CONTENTS.—Such head of an agency shall include in each notification under subparagraph (A)(ii) an explanation of—

“(i) the reasons the waiver is necessary; and

“(ii) the reasons actions referred to in paragraph (2)(A) are not feasible.”.

SEC. 3513. MARITIME WORKFORCE STUDY.

(a) TRAINING STUDY.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study on the training needs of the maritime workforce.

(b) STUDY COMPONENTS.—The study shall—

(1) analyze the impact of maritime training requirements imposed by domestic and international regulations and conventions, companies, and government agencies that charter or operate vessels;

(2) evaluate the ability of the United States maritime training infrastructure to meet the needs of the maritime industry;

(3) identify trends in maritime training;

(4) compare the training needs of United States mariners with the vocational training and educational assistance programs available from Federal agencies to evaluate the ability of Federal programs to meet the training needs of United States mariners;

(5) include recommendations to enhance the capabilities of the United States maritime training infrastructure; and

(6) include recommendations to assist United States mariners and those entering the maritime profession to achieve the required training.

(c) FINAL REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this title, the Comptroller General shall submit a report on the results of the study to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 3514. MARITIME ADMINISTRATION VESSEL RECYCLING CONTRACT AWARD PRACTICES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of this title, the Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct an assessment of the source selection procedures and practices used to award the Maritime Administration's National Defense Reserve Fleet vessel recycling contracts. The Comptroller General shall assess the process, procedures, and practices used for the Maritime Administration's qualification of vessel recycling facilities. The Comptroller General shall report the findings to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate, and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives.

(b) ASSESSMENT.—The assessment under subsection (a) shall include a review of whether the Maritime Administration's contract source selection procedures and practices are consistent with law, the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), and Federal best practices associated with making source selection decisions.

(c) CONSIDERATIONS.—In making the assessment under subsection (a), the Comptroller General may consider any other aspect of the Maritime Administration's vessel recycling process that the Comptroller General deems appropriate to review.

SEC. 3515. REQUIREMENT FOR BARGE DESIGN.

Not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this title, the Maritime Administrator shall complete the design for a containerized, articulated barge, as identified in the dual-use vessel study carried out by the Administrator and the Secretary of Defense, that is able to utilize roll-on/roll-off or load-on/load-off technology in marine highway maritime commerce.

SEC. 3516. ELIGIBILITY TO RECEIVE SURPLUS TRAINING EQUIPMENT.

Section 51103(b)(2)(C) of title 46, United States Code, is amended by inserting “or a training institution that is an instrumentality of a State, Territory, or Commonwealth of the United States or District of Columbia or a unit of local government thereof” after “a nonprofit training institution”.

SEC. 3517. COORDINATION WITH OTHER LAWS.

(a) EARLIER ENACTMENT OF COAST GUARD AND MARITIME TRANSPORTATION ACT OF 2012.—If the date of the enactment of the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012 (H.R. 2838, 112th Congress) is before the date of the enactment of this Act:

(1) Sections 3501, 3503 through 3507, and 3509 through 3516 of this Act, and any amendments made by those sections, shall not go into effect.

(2) Section 501(b)(3)(A) of title 46, United States Code (as added by section 301(2) of the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012), is amended by striking “the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate” and inserting “the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate”.

(3) Section 414(c) of the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012 is amended by striking “the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives” and inserting “the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives”.

(b) LATER ENACTMENT OF COAST GUARD AND MARITIME TRANSPORTATION ACT OF 2012.—If the date of the enactment of the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012 (H.R. 2838, 112th Congress) is after the date of the enactment of this Act, sections 301, 402 through 408, 410 through 412, 414, and 415 of such Act, and any amendments made by those sections, shall not go into effect.

SEC. 4001. AUTHORIZATION OF AMOUNTS IN FUNDING TABLES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Whenever a funding table in this division specifies a dollar amount authorized for a project, program, or activity, the obligation and expenditure of the specified dollar amount for the project, program, or activity is hereby authorized, subject to the availability of appropriations.

(b) MERIT-BASED DECISIONS.—A decision to commit, obligate, or expend funds with or to a specific entity on the basis of a dollar amount authorized pursuant to subsection (a) shall—

(1) be based on merit-based selection procedures in accordance with the requirements of sections 2304(k) and 2374 of title 10, United States Code, or on competitive procedures; and

(2) comply with other applicable provisions of law.

(c) RELATIONSHIP TO TRANSFER AND PROGRAMMING AUTHORITY.—An amount specified in the funding tables in this division may be transferred or reprogrammed under a transfer or reprogramming authority provided by another provision of this Act or by other law. The transfer or reprogramming of an amount specified in such funding tables shall not count against a ceiling on such transfers or reprogrammings under section 1001 or section 1522 of this Act or any other provision of law, unless such transfer or reprogramming would move funds between appropriation accounts.

(d) APPLICABILITY TO CLASSIFIED ANNEX.—This section applies to any classified annex that accompanies this Act.

(e) ORAL AND WRITTEN COMMUNICATIONS.—No oral or written communication concerning any amount specified in the funding tables in this division shall supersede the requirements of this section.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 4310), to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

Compliance with rules of the House of Representatives and Senate regarding earmarks and congressionally directed spending items

Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives and Rule XLIV(3) of the Standing Rules of the Senate, neither this conference report nor the accompanying joint statement of managers contains any congressional earmarks, congressionally directed spending items, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits, as defined in such rules.

Summary of discretionary authorizations and budget implication

The budget request for national defense discretionary programs within the jurisdiction of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives for fiscal year 2013 was $631.6 billion. Of this amount, $525.3 billion was requested for base Department of Defense programs, $88.5 billion was requested for overseas contingency operations, and $17.8 billion was requested for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

The conference agreement would authorize $633.3 billion in fiscal year 2013, including $527.5 billion for base Department of Defense programs, $88.5 billion for overseas contingency operations, and $17.4 billion for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

The following two tables summarize the discretionary authorizations in the agreement and the equivalent budget authority levels for fiscal year 2013 defense programs.

DIVISION A—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE
AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE I—PROCUREMENT

BUDGET ITEMS

M1 Abrams upgrade program

The budget request included $74.3 million in Weapons and Tracked Combat Vehicles,

Army (WTCV) for the M1 Abrams upgrade program.

The House bill would authorize $255.4 million in WTCV for the M1 Abrams upgrade program.

The Senate amendment would authorize $91.0 million in WTCV for advanced procurement of long-lead items for M1 Abrams upgrades.

The agreement authorizes $209.3 million in WTCV for the M1 Abrams upgrade program.

The conferees remain concerned about risk in the current and future tank industrial base and direct the Secretary of the Army's attention to the views expressed in the House report to accompany H.R. 4310 (H. Rpt. 112-479) and the Senate report to accompany

S. 3254 (S. Rpt. 112-173) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013. SPIDERNET/Spectral Warrior hardware

The budget request included $49.3 million to purchase and upgrade satellite communications systems for the Navy.

The Senate amendment would increase that line item by $2.0 million to provide a cloud network for Spectral Warrior terminals in support of requirements of the commanders of the combatant commands.

The House bill would approve the budget request.

The conferees agree to recommend an additional $2.0 million for this program in section 4101 of this Act. The conferees note that the Department of Defense requested a transfer of funds of $2.0 million in March 2012 as an additional authorization to initiate this new program.

AC-130 aircraft electro-optical and infrared sensors

The budget request included $20.3 million to purchase various items of equipment to meet combat mission requirements for U.S. Special Operations Command forces.

The Senate amendment would increase the authorization of appropriations by $6.0 million to procure color electro-optical and infrared imaging sensors for AC-130 aircraft used by U.S. Special Operations Command forces in ongoing contingency operations.

The House bill would approve the budget request.

The conferees agree to recommend an additional $6.0 million for this program in section 4101 of this Act. The conferees note that the Department of Defense requested a transfer of funds of $8.0 million in November 2012 as an additional authorization to initiate this new program.

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations
Authorization of appropriations (sec. 101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 101) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for procurement for the Army, the Navy and Marine Corps, the Air Force, and Defense-Wide activities, as specified in the funding table in section 4101.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 101).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Army Programs

Multiyear procurement authority for Army CH-47 helicopters (sec. 111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would grant the Secretary of the Army authority to enter into a multiyear procurement contract in accordance with section 2306b of title 10, United States Code, for up to 5 years for CH-47 helicopters.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 111).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Reports on airlift requirements of the Army (sec. 112)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 112) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit annual reports on the time-sensitive or mission-critical airlift requirements of the Army, including an accounting of sorties flown in support of these requirements during the previous year. The first report would have been required on October 31, 2012. The requirement for the annual report would expire in fiscal year 2017.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to change the due date for the first report to March 31, 2013.

Subtitle C—Navy Programs

Extension of Ford class aircraft carrier construction authority (sec. 121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 122) that would allow the Secretary of the Navy to buy all Ford-class aircraft carriers over a 6 year period, rather than over a 5 year period as currently allowed.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 122) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to buy Ford-class aircraft carriers designated CVN-79 and CVN-80 over a 6 year period.

The Senate recedes.

Multiyear procurement authority for Virginia class submarine program (sec. 122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 126) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to buy not more than 10 Virginia-class submarines under a multiyear procurement contract. The provision would also permit the Secretary to use incremental funding in that multiyear contract.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 124) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to buy Virginia-class submarines under a multiyear procurement contract. The provision would also permit the Secretary to use incremental funding for Virginia-class submarines to be procured during fiscal years 2013 through 2018 if the Secretary: (1) determines that such an approach would permit the Navy to procure an additional Virginia-class submarine in fiscal year 2014; and (2) intends to use the funding for that purpose.

The House recedes.

Multiyear procurement authority for Arleigh Burke class destroyers and associated systems (sec. 123)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 125) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to buy not more than 10 Arleigh Burke-class destroyers under a multiyear procurement contract. The House provision did not specify which version of Arleigh Burke-class destroyers would be authorized within that authority.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 125) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to buy up to 10 Arleigh Burke-class Flight IIA destroyers under a multiyear procurement contract.

The House recedes.

Limitation on availability of amounts for second Ford class aircraft carrier (sec. 124)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 123) that would limit fiscal year 2013 obligations for the Ford-class aircraft carrier program to 50 percent of the amount in the budget, pending submission of a report by the Secretary of the Navy to the congressional defense committees setting forth a description of the program management and cost control measures that will be employed in constructing the second Ford-class aircraft carrier.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Refueling and complex overhaul of the U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln (sec. 125)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 127) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to provide funding for the refueling and complex overhaul (RCOH) of the U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln incrementally over a 2 year period. The provision would authorize $1,613.4 million for that purpose.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 121).

The House recedes with an amendment that would reduce the authorized amount by $96.1 million.

Late this year, the Navy requested and was granted authority to reprogram $96.1 million from other fiscal year 2012 programs to support the U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln RCOH. This reduces the need to authorize the originally requested amount.

Designation of mission modules of the Littoral Combat Ship as a major defense acquisition program (sec. 126)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 127) that would require the Secretary of Defense to designate the effort to develop and produce all variants of the mission modules in support of the Littoral Combat Ship program as a major defense acquisition program under section 2430 of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on Littoral Combat Ship designs (sec. 127)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 128) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the designs of the Littoral Combat Ship, including comparative cost and performance information for both designs of such ship.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Comptroller General review of Littoral Combat Ship program (sec. 128)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 129) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a review of the Littoral Combat Ship (LCS) program's quality and a review of the U.S. Navy's operational and sustainment support strategy for the program. In particular, the provision would direct the Comptroller General to review whether the Secretary of the Navy was complying with regulations in accepting delivery of LCS vessels.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the acceptance compliance review to LCS-1 and LCS-2, the two lead ships in the program.

The conferees note the Navy Board of Inspection and Survey released a July 2012 report regarding LCS "Material Condition and Maintainability." This report highlights numerous sustainment issues that the conferees expect the Navy's LCS Council to address. The conferees specifically note concerns with training requirements, Title 10 compliance for long-term maintenance requirements, potential operational impediments, corrosion control challenges, and manning, among other issues. The conferees also expect the Comptroller General to address these shortfalls, in addition to any other deficiencies he may find, and identify the steps the Navy is taking to ensure success for the long-term sustainment of LCS.

Sense of Congress on importance of engineering in early stages of shipbuilding (sec. 129)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 130) that would state the sense of Congress about the importance of prioritizing early engineering in large ship construction. The provision would also encourage the Secretary of the Navy to do so.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Sense of Congress on nuclear-powered ballistic submarines (sec. 130)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 121) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to maintain a minimum of 12 ballistic missile submarines in the fleet.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that is a sense of Congress stating the importance of maintaining a 12 ballistic missile submarine fleet.

Sense of Congress on Marine Corps amphibious lift and presence requirements (sec. 131)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 131) that would state the sense of Congress that:

(1) the Department of Defense should carefully evaluate the maritime force structure necessary to execute demand for forces by the commanders of the combatant commands;

(2) the Department of the Navy should carefully evaluate amphibious lift capabilities to meet current and projected requirements;

(3) the Department of the Navy should consider prioritization of investment in and procurement of the next-generation of amphibious assault ships, as a component of the balanced battle force;

(4) the next-generation amphibious assault ships should maintain survivability protection;

(5) operation and maintenance requirements analysis, as well as the potential to leverage a common hull form design, should be considered to reduce total ownership cost and acquisition cost; and

(6) maintaining a robust amphibious ship building industrial base is vital for the future of the national security of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 130).

The House recedes.

Sense of the Senate on Department of the Navy fiscal year 2014 budget request for tactical aviation aircraft (sec. 132)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 131) that would express the sense of the Senate that, if the budget request of the Department of the Navy for fiscal year 2014 for F-18 aircraft includes a request for funds for more than 13 new F-18 aircraft, the budget request of the Department of the Navy for fiscal year 2014 for F-35 aircraft should include a request for funds for not fewer than 6 F-35B aircraft and 4 F-35C aircraft, presuming that development, testing, and production of the F-35 aircraft are proceeding according to current plans.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle D—Air Force Programs

Reduction in number of aircraft required to be maintained in strategic airlift aircraft inventory (sec. 141)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 142) that would require the Commander, U.S. Transportation Command, to submit a report assessing the operational risk for meeting the geographical combatant commanders' airlift requirements with a fleet of less than 301 inter-theater airlift aircraft. The House bill would not allow retirements that would result in a strategic airlift force of fewer than 301 aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 141) that would permit the Air Force to reduce the number of strategic airlift aircraft in its inventory from 301 aircraft to 275 aircraft. It would require that the Secretary of the Air Force maintain any C-5A aircraft retired after September 30, 2012, in inviolate storage, with only the Secretary of Defense permitted to authorize the Air Force to take any spare parts from those aircraft.

The Senate amendment also included a provision (sec. 1708) that would prevent the Air Force from using any fiscal year 2013 funds to divest, retire, or transfer, or prepare to divest, retire, or transfer, any aircraft of the Air Force assigned to units of the Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve as of May 31, 2012. The provision would permit an exception to this prohibition for C-5A strategic airlift aircraft, if the Secretary of the Air Force were to replace such aircraft through a transfer of C-5B, C-5M, or C-17 aircraft so as to maintain all Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve units impacted by such divestment or retirement at current or higher assigned manpower levels to operate the transferred aircraft.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would permit the Air Force to reduce the number of strategic airlift aircraft in its inventory from 301 aircraft to 275 aircraft, but only after the Department of Defense conducts a comprehensive study that assesses the end-to-end, full-spectrum mobility requirements for all aspects of the National Military Strategy derived from the National Defense Strategy. The provision would also require that the Secretary of the Air Force preserve each C-5 aircraft that is retired by the Secretary during a period in which the total inventory of strategic airlift aircraft of the Secretary is less than 301, such that the retired aircraft: (1) is stored in flyable condition; (2) can be returned to service; and (3) is not used to supply parts to other aircraft, unless specifically authorized by the Secretary of Defense upon a request by the Secretary of the Air Force.

Retirement of B-1 bomber aircraft (sec. 142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 141) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to maintain 36 combat-coded B-1 bomber aircraft beyond fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Avionics systems for C-130 aircraft (sec. 143)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 144) that would prevent the Secretary of the Air Force from terminating the C-130 Avionics Modernization Program (AMP) until 180 days after the Institute for Defense Analyses submits to the congressional defense committees a cost-benefit analysis of modernizing the legacy C-130 airlift fleet with C-130 AMP as compared to only modernizing the legacy C-130 airlift fleet with a reduced scope program for avionics and mission planning systems.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 143) that would delay Air Force implementation of the cancellation or modification of the AMP for the C-130 aircraft until 30 days after the receipt of a report submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delay implementation of any cancellation or modification of the C-130 AMP effort until a period of 90 days has elapsed after the date on which the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees the results of a cost-benefit analysis conducted by the Institute for Defense Analyses.

Treatment of certain programs for the F-22A Raptor aircraft as major defense acquisition programs (sec. 144)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 142) that would require that the Air Force report F-22A modernization and upgrade programs under the system of the Selected Acquisition Reports (SAR).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would provide that: (1) the Secretary of Defense treat both Increment 3.2B of the F-22A modernization program and any future increment to modernize F-22A aircraft, if viewed as a standalone program as a major defense acquisition program (MDAP), as an MDAP, requiring the submission of a SAR to Congress; and (2) the Secretary of the Air Force report at least annually on the cost, schedule and performance of the F-22A Reliability and Maintainability Maturation Program (RAMMP) and the F-22A Structural Retrofit Program (SRP II).

The conferees find that requiring the Department of Defense (DOD) to establish as an MDAP Increment 3.2B, and possibly other increments, of the Air Force's F-22 modernization program, would help ensure that these large, top-priority programs are subject to proper congressional oversight.

However, the conferees find that doing the same for the RAMMP and SRP II efforts would not be appropriate. The Air Force is pursuing these efforts in addition to modernization and is spending substantial levels of research and development and procurement funding to ensure that the F-22A satisfies its original reliability and performance requirements.

Given that these efforts are currently estimated to cost about $1.9 billion, the conferees, therefore find that continuing congressional oversight of these efforts is warranted and that separate annual reports on these efforts can assist in this oversight. Rather than view these efforts as only a continuously reprioritized list of maintainability initiatives that grow as more is learned, the conferees expect that the DOD will baseline these efforts in a way that will allow the DOD and Congress to gauge their progress on cost, schedule and performance over time. The conferees expect that the DOD will provide these baselines in the first report it would deliver to Congress under this provision.

Subtitle E—Joint and Multiservice Matters
Multiyear procurement authority for V-22 joint aircraft program (sec. 151)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 124) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a multiyear contract to buy V-22 aircraft for the Department of the Navy, the Department of the Air Force, and the United States Special Operations Command.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 151) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into one or more multiyear contracts for this purpose.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would allow the Secretary to enter into one or more multiyear contracts to buy V-22 aircraft.

Procurement of space-based infrared systems satellites (sec. 152)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 147) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into a fixed-price contract to procure two Space Based Infrared System (SBIRS) satellites, authorize incremental funding of the two SBIRS satellites over a period not to exceed 6 years, and establish a limitation on the total funds to be obligated and expended for the procurement. This section would also require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on contract details, cost savings, and plans for reinvesting the cost savings into capability improvements for future blocks of SBIRS satellites.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Limitation on availability of funds for evolved expendable launch vehicle program (sec. 153)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 146) that would limit 10 percent of the obligation or expenditure of fiscal year 2013 funds authorized for the evolved expendable launch vehicle program until the Secretary of the Air Force submits a report describing the details of the acquisition approach. The report would include the anticipated savings, the planned number of launch vehicle booster cores to be procured, the number of years that the contract will last, an assessment of when new entrants will be certified to compete for evolved expendable launch vehicle class launches, the projected launch manifest with possible opportunities for new entrants to compete, and any other relevant analysis used to inform the acquisition strategy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes and amends the House provision to remove the sense of Congress.

Limitation on availability of funds for retirement of RQ-4 Global Hawk unmanned aircraft systems (sec. 154)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 152) that would prevent the Department of Defense from expending any funds to retire, prepare to retire, or place in storage RQ-4 Block 30 Global Hawk unmanned aircraft systems. The provision would also require that the Secretary of the Air Force maintain the operational capability of each RQ-4 Block 30 Global Hawk unmanned aircraft system belonging to the Air Force or delivered to the Air Force until the end of calendar year 2014.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Requirement to set F-35 aircraft initial operational capability dates (sec. 155)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 151) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to establish an initial operational capability (IOC) date for the F-35A. The provision would also require the Secretary of the Navy to establish an IOC date for the F-35B and the F-35C. The provision would further require that the Secretaries report on the details of such initial operational capability to the congressional defense committees by December 31, 2012.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delay the requirement for the Secretaries to establish IOC dates and report on the details until June 1, 2013.

Shallow Water Combat Submersible program (sec. 156)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 153) that would require the Commander of U.S. Special Operations Command (USSOCOM), not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act, to provide the congressional defense committees with a report on the Shallow Water Combat Submersible Program (SWCS) describing: efforts by the contractor and USSOCOM to more accurately track schedule and cost; the revised timeline for SWCS initial and full operational capability; and the projected cost to meet the basis of issue requirement. The provision would also require that the Commander submit quarterly updates on the metrics from the earned value management system with which the Command is tracking cost and scheduled performance of the contractor. That requirement shall lapse once the SWCS has completed operational testing and has been found to be operationally effective and operationally suitable.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations and Low-Intensity Conflict to provide the required reports in coordination with the Commander of USSOCOM and modify the reporting requirements.

Requirement that tactical manned intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance aircraft and unmanned aerial vehicles use specified standard data link (sec. 157)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 153) that would amend section 141 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163), as amended by section 143 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84), to require that, in carrying out a solicitation for a common data link (CDL), the Secretary of Defense must ensure that such solicitation complies with the most recently issued CDL specification standard of the Department of Defense, and does not include any proprietary or undocumented interface or waveform as a requirement or evaluation criterion of such solicitation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) clarify that the requirement for use of data formats consistent with the architectural standard known as STANAG 4586 would apply to unmanned systems only; and (2) extend the waiver authority of the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Logistics, and Technology to cover aircraft that are being acquired under a special access program, if that program would not otherwise be considered a major defense acquisition program.

Study on small arms and small-caliber ammunition capabilities (sec. 158)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889A) that would require the Secretary of Defense to contract with a federally funded research and development center to conduct a study of Army small arms and ammunition capabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with technical and clarifying amendments.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Extension of multiyear procurement authority for F/A-18E, F/A-18F, and EA-18G aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 123) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to modify the current multiyear contract for F/A-18E, F/A-18F, and EA-18G aircraft to extend the current multiyear contract to include fiscal year 2014 production of these aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The Navy informed the conferees that the Navy could achieve no savings using a multiyear contract for buying the 13 aircraft planned for fiscal year 2014, compared to buying them under an annual contract.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2012 Procurement of Ammunition, Navy and Marine Corps funds

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 128) that would permit the Secretary of the Navy to use, subject to appropriations, prior year funds that have been made available from program cancellations reflected in the fiscal 2013 budget request.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2012 Procurement, Marine Corps funds for procurement of weapons and combat vehicles

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 129) that would permit the Secretary of the Navy to use, subject to appropriations, prior year funds that have been made available from program cancellations reflected in the fiscal 2013 budget request.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

SPIDERNET/Spectral Warrior hardware

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 132) that would increase the authorization of appropriations by $2.0 million to provide a cloud network for Spectral Warrior terminals in support of requirements of the commanders of the combatant commands.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to recommend an additional $2.0 million for this program in section 4101 of this Act.

Limitation on availability of funds for divestment or retirement of C-27J aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 143) that would prohibit the Air Force from using any available funds to divest, retire, or transfer, or prepare to divest, retire, or transfer, any C-27J aircraft. The prohibition would remain in place until the 180 days after: (1) the Director of the Congressional Budget Office had submitted a life-cycle cost analysis of C-27J, C-130H, and C-130J; and (2) the Secretary of the Air Force submits the report required by section 112 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Review of C-130 force structure

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 145) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to conduct a review of the C-130 force structure and report on a number of matters, including how the Secretary will determine which C-130 aircraft will be retired or relocated during fiscal years 2014 through 2018, and details of the costs incurred, avoided, or saved with respect to retiring or relocating C-130 aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2011 and 2012 funds for aircraft procurement for the Air Force

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 145) that would permit the Secretary of the Air Force to use, subject to appropriations, prior year funds that have been made available from program cancellations reflected in the fiscal 2013 budget request.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for full-rate production of Handheld, Manpack, and Small Form/Fit radios under the Joint Tactical Radio System program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 152) that would limit the availability of funds for the full-rate production of Handheld, Manpack, and Small Form/Fit radios under the Joint Tactical Radio System (JTRS) program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that during 2012 the Department of Defense (DOD) and Army took significant steps to clarify plans for competition within the JTRS program. These steps included acquisition decision memoranda for the JTRS program issued by the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics in July and October, and a certification regarding Army competition by the Secretary of the Army received by the congressional defense committees on November 29, 2012. The conferees strongly agree with the direction provided to the JTRS program by these documents regarding the conduct of full and open competition for full-rate production of the handheld and manpack radios within the JTRS program. The conferees expect these competitions to be conducted in a manner that allows non-program of record vendors with qualified systems a free and open chance to compete. In addition, the conferees support DOD's current plan for similar competitions in future years. These future competitions provide the best path to acquire the latest, best, and most affordable communications technology solutions to meet military requirements and at the same time avoid locking in long-term, sole-source contract arrangements that discourage competition. Given the rapidly changing nature of technology in the area of communications, the conferees encourage the DOD to constantly reexamine acquisition plans in this area in order to ensure that the DOD acquires the very best and most affordable equipment possible.

AC-130 aircraft electro-optical and infrared sensors

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 154) that would increase the authorization of appropriations by $6.0 million to procure color electro-optical and infrared imaging sensors for AC-130 aircraft used by U.S. Special Operations Command forces in ongoing contingency operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to recommend an additional $6.0 million for this program in section 4101 of this Act.

TITLE II—RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION BUDGET ITEMS

Detailed digital radio frequency modulation countermeasures studies and simulations

The budget request included $277.4 million in PE65457A for research and development of Army integrated air and missile defense systems.

The Senate amendment would authorize an additional $38.0 million for a new program to conduct detailed digital radio frequency modulation (DRFM) countermeasures studies and simulations to develop algorithms to address this threat change in support of the accelerated fielding of a new capability in Patriot, Sentinel, and Integrated Air and Missile Defense for the requirements of the commanders of the combatant commands.

The House bill would approve the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an additional $38.0 million in PE65457A in section 4201 for a new DRFM program. The conferees note that the Department of Defense requested a transfer of funds of $38.0 million in March 2012 as an additional authorization to initiate this new program.

Relocation of C-band radar from Antigua to H.E. Holt Station in Western Australia to enhance space situational awareness capabilities

The budget request included $267.3 million in PE 64425F for research and development of space situational awareness systems.

The Senate amendment would authorize, within appropriations authorized for fiscal year 2013, the Secretary of the Air Force to obligate up to $3.0 million to initiate a new program for the relocation and research and development activities to enhance space situational awareness capabilities through the repurposing of the C-band radar at Antigua, the relocation of that radar to the H.E. Holt Station in Western Australia, and upgrades of the hardware and software of that radar to meet space situational awareness mission needs, operational testing of that radar, and transfer of jurisdiction of that radar to the Air Force Space Command for operations and sustainment by September 30, 2016.

The House bill would approve the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize $3.0 million in PE 64425F within section 4201 for this program, and to take an offsetting general reduction of the same amount. The conferees note that the Department of Defense requested a transfer of funds of $3.0 million in April 2012 as an additional authorization to initiate this new program.

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 201) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Department of Defense for research, development, test, and evaluation as specified in the funding table in section 4201.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 201).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements, Restrictions, and Limitations

Next-generation long-range strike bomber aircraft nuclear certification requirement (sec. 211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to make certain that the next-generation long-range strike bomber will be capable of using strategic weapons by the date it receives declaration of initial operational capability (IOC) and nuclear certified to use strategic weapons no later than 2 years after declaration of IOC.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with the understanding that the provision is consistent with the current Air Force plans for nuclear certification of the long-range strike bomber.

Extension of limitation on availability of funds for Unmanned Carrier-launched Surveillance and Strike system program (sec. 212)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that would limit the ability of the Secretary of Defense to obligate more than 75 percent of the total authorized amount of fiscal year 2013 program funds for the unmanned carrier-launched airborne surveillance and strike system (UCLASS) program until the Department of Defense makes certain certifications and established acquisition baselines for the program. The provision would also prevent the Secretary of the Navy from reducing the number of prime contractors working on the UCLASS to one prime contractor for the technology development phase of such program prior to the program achieving the critical design review (CDR) milestone and would specify that the program could not achieve CDR until October 1, 2016.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would:

(1) limit the ability of the Secretary of Defense to obligate more than 75 percent of the total authorized amount of fiscal year 2013 program funds for the UCLASS program until the Department made certain certifications and established acquisition baselines for the program;

(2) specify that the Secretary of the Navy may not reduce the number of prime contractors working on the UCLASS to one prime contractor until the program achieves the preliminary critical design review milestone; and

(3) require that the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics:

(a) assess the completeness of the preliminary design reviews of the program for each participating prime contractor; and

(b) certify that each preliminary design review of the program was complete and was not abbreviated, when compared to preliminary design reviews conducted for other major defense acquisition programs.

Limitation on availability of funds for milestone A activities for an Army medium range multi-purpose vertical takeoff and landing unmanned aircraft system (sec. 213)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would limit the use of funds for Milestone A activities for the MQ-18 Medium Range Multi-Purpose Vertical Take-off and Landing Unmanned Aircraft System (UAS) until the Chairman of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council certifies that: (1) the MQ-18 UAS is required to meet a capability in the Department of Defense manned and unmanned medium-altitude intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance force structure; and (2) that an existing UAS cannot meet the required capability or be modified to meet the required capability.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change that limitation to apply to any such Army UAS, not just the MQ-18.

Use of funds for conventional prompt global strike program (sec. 214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 235) that would require a competitive procedure for any solicitation involving the use of fiscal year 2013 funds for ground testing activities of the prompt global strike program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would give waiver authority to the competitive solicitation procedure if the Secretary of Defense determines that such procedure is not feasible, notifies congressional defense committees and a period of 5 days elapse after the date of such notification.

Next Generation Foundry for the Defense Microelectronics Activity (sec. 215)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 211) that would prohibit the expenditure of funds for the Next Generation Foundry for the Defense Microelectronics Activity until a microelectronics strategy is submitted to the congressional defense committees, as well as an estimate of the full life-cycle costs for the upgrade to the Foundry.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add an assessment of the manufacturing capability of the United States to produce three-dimensional integrated circuits to serve national defense interests.

Advanced rotorcraft initiative (sec. 216)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require a report on the strategy for the use of integrated design teams and agile prototyping approaches for the development of advanced rotorcraft capabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that removes any consideration of the restructuring of the Joint Multirole Rotorcraft program given that the Army has recently improved the program by increasing the technology demonstrators from one to two.

Subtitle C—Missile Defense Programs

Prohibition on the use of funds for the MEADS program (sec. 221)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 229) that would prohibit fiscal year 2013 funds for the Department of Defense from being obligated or expended for the Medium Extended Air Defense System.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 236).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Availability of funds for Iron Dome short-range rocket defense program (sec. 222)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 227) that would authorize funds for the Department of Defense to provide to the Government of Israel for the Iron Dome short-range rocket defense program.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 237).

The House recedes.

The conferees note that in a letter to the House Committee on Armed Services, dated September 11, 2012, Dr. Frank Kendall, Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics, stated that the Department of Defense agrees with the committee that the Department “needs to obtain appropriate data rights to Iron Dome technology to ensure us the ability to use that data for U.S. defense purposes and to explore potential co-production opportunities.”

The conferees support this policy and expect the Department to keep the congressional defense committees informed of developments and progress on this issue.

Authority for relocation of certain Aegis weapon system assets between and within the DDG-51 class destroyer and Aegis Ashore programs in order to meet mission requirements (sec. 223)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 236) that would provide authority for the Secretary of the Navy to transfer Aegis weapon system equipment with ballistic missile defense capability to the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) for use in the Aegis Ashore system in Romania, to permit meeting the deployment schedule of December 2015. The provision would also require the Director of MDA to transfer similar equipment to the Navy later to replace any equipment transferred by the Navy to MDA, for the Navy to use in the DDG-51 class destroyer program.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 126).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Evaluation of alternatives for the precision tracking space system (sec. 224)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 231) that would limit the availability of funds for the Precision Tracking Space System (PTSS) until a federally funded research and development center begins an analysis of alternatives for PTSS, and the terms of reference for such analysis are submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation (CAPE) to conduct an independent cost estimate and an evaluation of alternatives for PTSS, and submit the analysis to the congressional defense committees. The provision would limit the availability of more than 75 percent of the fiscal year 2013 funds for PTSS until the Director of CAPE completes the evaluation of alternatives and the approved terms of reference for the evaluation are submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The conferees understand that, as part of the evaluation of alternatives for PTSS, the Director of CAPE plans to consider a variety of sensor systems and options, including planned sensor development programs. The conferees believe such consideration will be valuable to the evaluation of alternatives.

Next generation Exo-atmospheric Kill Vehicle (sec. 225)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 222) that would require the Director of the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on a plan to use the advanced kill vehicle for the Standard Missile-3 Block IIB missile for the Ground-based Midcourse Defense (GMD) system.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 234) that would require the Director of MDA to develop and submit a plan for enhancing the current GMD Exo-atmospheric Kill Vehicle (EKV) and options for the competitive development of a next generation EKV for the GMD system.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modernization of the Patriot air and missile defense system (sec. 226)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 235) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit to the congressional defense committees a plan for support of the long term requirements in connection with the modernization of the Patriot air and missile defense system.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Evaluation and environmental impact assessment of potential future missile defense sites in the United States (sec. 227)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 223) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that a missile defense site on the East Coast of the United States is operational by no later than December 31, 2015.

The provision would also require the Secretary to evaluate three possible locations for the site and to prepare an environmental impact statement for each location. Finally, the provision would require the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to develop and submit, with the President's budget request for fiscal year 2014, a plan to deploy missile defense interceptors on the East Coast.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to evaluate at least three possible additional locations in the United States—at least two of which would be on the East Coast—that would be best suited for future deployment of a missile defense interceptor site to protect the homeland against long-range missile threats from nations such as North Korea and Iran. The amendment would also require the Secretary to prepare an environmental impact statement for each location the Secretary evaluates. Finally, the amendment would require the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to develop a contingency plan for the deployment of a potential future homeland missile defense interceptor site, in case the President determines to proceed with such additional deployment, and to notify the congressional defense committees when such contingency plan has been developed.

Homeland ballistic missile defense (sec. 228)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 231) that would state the sense of Congress concerning homeland ballistic missile defense and require a report on the status of efforts to improve the homeland ballistic missile defense capability of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Regional ballistic missile defense (sec. 229)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 234) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on regional missile defense architectures.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 232) that would state the sense of Congress concerning regional missile defense, and would require a report describing the status and progress of regional missile defense programs and efforts.

The House recedes with an amendment that would incorporate the elements of its provision into the Senate provision.

NATO contributions to missile defense in Europe (sec. 230)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 230) that would limit the availability of funds for certain activities of the Phased Adaptive Approach (PAA) to missile defense in Europe until certain conditions were met with respect to cost-sharing arrangements with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) for the PAA in Europe.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a report from the Secretary of Defense on the contributions of NATO allies, individually and collectively, to missile defense in Europe.

Report on test plan for the ground-based mid-course defense system (sec. 231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 225) that would require the Department of Defense to conduct a flight test of the Ground-based Midcourse Defense (GMD) system, using a Ground-Based Interceptor equipped with a Capability Enhanced-1 (CE-1) exo-atmospheric kill vehicle (EKV), against an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) target, not later than December 31, 2013.

The House bill also contained a related provision (sec. 233) that would require the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) to prepare and submit a plan to conduct at least three flight tests of the GMD system every 2 years, unless the Director of MDA certifies that such a plan would not be feasible or cost effective.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision. The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide to the congressional defense committees a report on the test program for the GMD system. The report would contain an assessment of various GMD test options, including the feasibility, advisability, and cost effectiveness of accelerating the date for testing the GMD system against an ICBM-range target, and of conducting GMD flight tests at a pace of three tests every 2 years. The amendment would also require the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation to review the report and include the Director's views in an appendix to the report.

Sense of Congress on missile defense (sec. 232)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1237) that would establish limitations and conditions on international agreements relating to missile defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress concerning the continued development and deployment of missile defenses and concerning limitations on missile defenses.

Sense of Congress on the submittal to Congress of the homeland defense hedging policy and strategy report of the Secretary of Defense (sec. 233)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 239) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Defense should submit to Congress the homeland defense hedging policy and strategy report required by section 233 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle D—Reports

Mission packages for the Littoral Combat Ship (sec. 241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 251) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to produce a report, in consultation with the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, on the mine countermeasures warfare, antisubmarine warfare, and surface warfare mission packages for the Littoral Combat Ship.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Study on electronic warfare capabilities of the Marine Corps (sec. 242)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 241) that would require the Commandant of the Marine Corps to conduct a study on the future capabilities of the Marine Corps with respect to electronic warfare. The Commandant would be required to address the following: (1) a detailed plan for EA-6B Prowler aircraft squadrons; (2) a solution for the replacement of such aircraft; (3) concepts of operation for future air-ground task force electronic warfare capabilities of the Marine Corps; and (4) any other issues that the Commandant determined to be appropriate.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the study requirement to focus on a solution for the replacement of the capability of the EA-6B, not the aircraft itself. Conditional requirement for report on amphibious assault vehicles for the Marine Corps (sec. 243)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 253) that would require the Secretary of the Navy and the Commandant of the Marine Corps to jointly submit to the congressional defense committees a report by February 1, 2013, if the ongoing Marine Corps ground combat vehicle fleet mix study recommends the acquisition of a Marine Personnel Carrier (MPC). The report would include an explanation of the role of the MPC in fulfilling the two Marine Expeditionary Brigades (MEB) forcible entry requirement; the fraction of the assault echelon of the MEBs comprised of MPCs, along with an assessment of the operational risks associated with using ship-to-shore connectors to ferry MPCs rather than tanks and artillery; and an estimate of the acquisition and life-cycle costs of a split fleet of Amphibious Combat Vehicles (ACVs) and MPCs as compared to the costs of a pure fleet of ACVs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would drop the reporting requirements regarding the role of MPCs in forcible entry operations. The Marine Corps states that MPCs will not be employed during the assault or forcible entry phase of the two MEB forcible entry force. The Marine Corps affirms that there will not be any competition between MPCs and other supporting force elements (such as tanks and artillery) for connectors during amphibious assault operations, or between MPCs and ACVs and other forces for deck space.

Report on cyber and information technology research investments of the Air Force (sec. 244)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 245) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a study of Air Force cyber operations research, science and technology.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision, but the Senate report (S. Rept. 112-173) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (S. 3254) contained similar directive report language.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include the directive report language from S. Rept. 112-173 in the provision. National Research Council review of defense science and technical graduate education needs (sec. 245)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 242) that would direct the Department of Defense (DOD) to have the National Research Council conduct a review of specialized degree-granting graduate programs in the Department in engineering, applied sciences, and management.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that clarifies the scope of the subjects of the review.

The conferees recognize that fostering and increasing the science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and technology management skills of the DOD workforce is an ongoing challenge. The conferees look forward to discussing these challenges with the Department as the terms of reference for this effort are developed.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Eligibility for Department of Defense laboratories to enter into educational partnerships with educational institutions in territories and possessions of the United States (sec. 251)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 251) that would allow Department of Defense laboratories to enter into educational partnerships with educational institutions in U.S. territories and possessions.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 214).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Regional advanced technology clusters (sec. 252)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 252) that would allow the Secretary of Defense to utilize the research and engineering network of the Department of Defense to support regional advanced technology clusters established by the Secretary of Commerce. This provision would also designate a lead office in the Department to be the main focal point to interact with regional advanced technology clusters.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment removing the creation of the office, but expanding the reporting requirement.

Sense of Congress on increasing the cost-effectiveness of training exercises for members of the Armed Forces (sec. 253)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 272) expressing the sense of Congress in support of emerging technologies that would increase the cost effectiveness of training exercises for members of the Armed Forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Unmanned combat air system

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to: (1) conduct additional technology development risk reduction activities for the unmanned carrier-launched airborne surveillance and strike system (UCLASS) program, using the unmanned combat air system; and (2) preserve a competitive acquisition environment for the UCLASS program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2012 Navy research, development, test, and evaluation funds

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 213) that would permit the Secretary of the Navy to use, subject to appropriations, prior year funds that have been made available from program cancellations reflected in the fiscal 2013 budget request.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for future manned ground moving target indicator capability of the Air Force

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 214) that would prohibit obligation of funding for any activity, including pre-Milestone

A activities, to initiate a new start acquisition program to provide the Air Force with a manned ground moving target indicator (GMTI) capability or manned dismount moving target indicator capability until 90 days after submission of a report by the Secretary of the Air Force.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Air Force's analysis of alternatives (AoA) for a GMTI capability recommended a combination of: (1) manned aircraft based on smaller business jets; (2) and unmanned capability in the form of the Global Hawk Block 40 unmanned system.

The Air Force Chief of Staff testified that the Air Force could not afford to implement the recommendations of the AoA. Nevertheless, the Air Force has not proposed any alternative plan to modernize or replace the manned GMTI capability, and associated on-board command and control capability, currently provided by the Joint Surveillance and Target Attack Radar System (JSTARS).

The conferees believe that the capability provided by the JSTARS is a critical element of the future Air Force intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) fleet. The conferees note that the Air Force's Fleet Viability Board raised concerns about the long-term supportability of JSTARS aircraft, which are based on a 60 year-old commercial aircraft design. The conferees further note that rapid advances in the areas of sensors and communication links may make it difficult for the Air Force to precisely define long-term future requirements in this mission area at this time.

Nevertheless, the Air Force needs to develop a plan to provide an updated GMTI capability meeting joint warfighting requirements. The capability must include the flexibility to incorporate current and future sensor and communications architectures that can be integrated as they evolve in the future. The conferees are concerned that, absent such a modernization plan, the Air Force may lose its ability to provide this capability to the joint force in the future.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2012 Air Force research, development, test, and evaluation funds

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 215) that would permit the Secretary of the Air Force to use, subject to appropriations, prior year funds that have been made available from program cancellations reflected in the fiscal 2013 budget request.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Relocation of C-band radar from Antigua to H.E. Holt Station in Western Australia to enhance space situational awareness capabilities

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 216) that would authorize, within appropriations authorized for fiscal year 2013, the Secretary of the Air Force to obligate up to $3.0 million to initiate a new program for the relocation and research and development activities to enhance space situational awareness capabilities through the repurposing of the C-band radar at Antigua, the relocation of that radar to the H.E. Holt Station in Western Australia, and upgrades of the hardware and software of that radar to meet space situational awareness mission needs, operational testing of that radar, and transfer of jurisdiction of that radar to the Air Force Space Command for operations and sustainment by September 30, 2016.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize $3.0 million in section 4201 for this program.

Vertical lift platform technology demonstrations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 216) that would authorize up to $5.0 million for a program to develop and flight-demonstrate vertical lift platform technologies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision for the authorization of funds, but contained a provision (sec. 212) requiring a report on the strategy for the use of integrated platform design teams and agile prototyping approaches for the development of advanced rotorcraft capabilities.

The House recedes.

Detailed digital radio frequency modulation countermeasures studies and simulations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 217) that would authorize an additional $38.0 million for a new program to conduct detailed digital radio frequency modulation (DRFM) countermeasures studies and simulations to develop algorithms to address this threat change in support of the accelerated fielding of a new capability in Patriot, Sentinel, and Integrated Air and Missile Defense for the requirements of the commanders of the combatant commands.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an additional $38.0 million in section 4201 for a new DRFM program.

Procurement of AN/TPY-2 radars

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 221) that would require the Secretary of Defense to procure two AN/TPY-2 radars, and to submit a report on the feasibility of developing an AN/TPY-2 radar on a rotating turntable to allow the radar to change directions quickly.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are aware of proposals to place AN/TPY-2 radars on rotating turntables to permit the radars to turn and track threat missiles in flight. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, providing an analysis of the concept of developing an AN/TPY-2 radar on a rotational platform. The analysis shall include consideration of the technical feasibility and advisability, as well as the potential utility for missile defense or any other missions, of developing and deploying such a rotating radar, including potential advantages and disadvantages, costs, risks, and mobility considerations.

Ground-based Midcourse Defense system

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 224) that would require certain funding levels for the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense has stated that it intends to maintain Missile Field-1 (MF-1) at Fort Greely, Alaska in a storage status that would permit it to be refurbished to operational status to deploy six additional Ground-Based Interceptors (GBIs), if that is determined to be necessary. The conferees want to be confident that this missile field could be available to increase our homeland defense capabilities if the future threat to the homeland should warrant it.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than 180 days after the enactment of this Act, on the steps the Department of Defense plans to take to keep MF-1 available for possible operational use in the future, if determined to be necessary. The report should include a description of the planned cost of maintaining MF-1 in the planned storage status, and the actions, timeline, circumstances, and estimated costs that would be required to return MF-1 to an operational status with six GBIs.

Deployment of SM-3 IIB interceptors on land and sea

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 226) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the Standard Missile-3 (SM-3) Block II B interceptor missile is deployable both on land and on ships.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that after the submission of the President's budget request for fiscal year 2013, the Missile Defense Agency made the decision that the SM-3 Block IIB missile will be compatible for use with land-based Aegis Ashore sites and with Aegis Ballistic Missile Defense ships. Consequently, the missile will be developed to be deployable on ships, as well as on land.

Sea based X-band radar

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 228) that would require the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) to ensure that the Sea-Based X-band radar (SBX) is maintained in a status such that the radar may be deployed in less than 14 days and for at least 60 days each year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense has placed the SBX radar in a Limited Test Support Status that would permit it to be deployed within 30 days and to operate for up to 60 days at sea each year. The conferees direct the Director of the MDA to submit to the congressional defense committees, not later than 90 days after the enactment of this Act, an assessment of the potential benefits and drawbacks of reducing the deployment readiness timeline of SBX from 30 to 14 days.

Plan to improve discrimination and kill assessment capability of ballistic missile defense systems

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 232) that would require the Director of the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) to develop and submit a plan to improve the discrimination and kill assessment capability of Ballistic Missile Defense Systems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Director of the MDA to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than 120 days after the enactment of this Act, describing MDA's plans, programs, and activities to improve the discrimination and kill assessment capabilities of the Ballistic Missile Defense System, particularly with respect to the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system. The report may be submitted in classified form.

Readiness and flexibility of intercontinental ballistic missile force

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 238) that gives the Secretary of Defense, in a manner consistent with international agreements, the authority to retain intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) launch facilities supporting the deployed strategic nuclear delivery vehicles within the limit of 800 deployed and non-deployed strategic launchers; maintain ICBM on alert or operationally deployed; and preserve ICBM silos in operational or warm status.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees believe it is important to ensure that the Air Force in its ICBM Master Plan and System Roadmap detail a long-term sustainment acquisition strategy to ensure the existing ICBMs and their supporting infrastructure are well maintained through 2030. The conferees direct the Air Force and the Navy to brief the congressional defense committees not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act on joint Air Force and Navy activities in support of the ICBM Master Plan and the Trident II D5 life extension program that can be jointly undertaken and cost-shared. The conferees expect the Air Force to fully brief the congressional defense committees on the Analysis of Alternative for the Ground Based Strategic Deterrent, including when available, its terms of reference.

Report on three-dimensional integrated circuit manufacturing capabilities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 243) that would require a comprehensive assessment of U.S. manufacturing capability for three-dimensional integrated circuits to serve national defense interests.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes. The required assessment is included elsewhere in this Act.

Report on efforts to field new directed energy weapons

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 244) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees summarizing efforts within the Department of Defense (DOD) to transition mature and maturing directed energy (DE) technologies to new operational weapon systems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees urge the DOD and military services to begin transitioning DE technologies to operational weapon systems once such technologies have been demonstrated at a sufficient level of maturity in relevant operational environments. The conferees direct the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering, with the military services, to brief the congressional defense committees in conjunction with the submission of the President's budget request for fiscal year 2014 on: 1) An assessment of the maturity of high energy laser and high power microwave technologies and the challenges needed to be overcome to transition these technologies from research efforts to operational capabilities; and 2) The state of DOD's activities linking science and technology demonstrations to operational goals to fieldable prototype systems.

Comptroller General annual reports on the acquisition program for the Amphibious Combat Vehicle

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 252) that would require the Comtroller General of the United States to conduct an annual review of the Marine Corps Amphibious Combat Vehicle (ACV) acquisition program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. The ACV is early in its acquisition life cycle and a forthcoming Analysis of Alternatives will inform Marine Corps development and resource decisions, rendering the Comptroller's report early to need.

Briefing on power and energy research conducted at University Affiliated Research Centers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 253) that would require a briefing on the power and energy-related research being conducted at Department of Defense (DOD) University Affiliated Research Centers (UARCs).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives no later than March 1, 2013, on power and energy-related research being conducted at DOD UARCs. The briefing shall include a description of the research activities being conducted at these UARCs, including those related to energy efficiency and renewable energy technologies such as for lighting, heating, ventilation, and air-conditioning systems, and the integration of renewable and non-renewable energy technologies.

Transfer of administration of Ocean Research and Resources Advisory Panel from Department of the Navy to National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 271) that would transfer the responsibility for administration of the Ocean Research Advisory Panel from the Department of the Navy to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration of the Department of Commerce.

The House amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE III—OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Operation and maintenance funding (sec. 301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 301) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and agencies of the Department of Defense for expenses, not otherwise provided for, for operation and maintenance, as specified in the funding table in section 4301.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 301).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Energy and Environment

Training range sustainment plan and training range inventory (sec. 311)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 311) that would amend section 348 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364) by extending through 2018 the Department of Defense requirement to submit an annual report to Congress on its progress to evaluate training constraints caused by limitations on the use of military land, marine areas, and airspace and progress being made in developing a comprehensive plan to address these limitations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Authority of Secretary of a military department to enter into cooperative agreements with Indian tribes for land management associated with military installations and State-owned National Guard installations (sec. 312)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 317) that would amend the Sikes Act (16 U.S.C. 670 et seq) to authorize the Secretary of a military department to enter into cooperative agreements with Indian tribes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Department of Defense guidance on environmental exposures at military installations and briefing regarding environmental exposures to members of the Armed Forces (sec. 313)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 315) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a plan for a material solution to measure environmental exposures and to brief that plan to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 311) that would require the Secretary to issue guidance relating to how the military departments and other defense agencies deal with the possible exposure of individuals to environmental contamination at military installations.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would combine the two provisions into a single provision, with some modifications.

Report on status of targets in implementation plan for operational energy strategy (sec. 314)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 349) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit an annual report on the status of the targets listed in the document entitled "Operational Energy Strategy: Implementation Plan, Department of Defense, March 2012".

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would only require the above report if the annual report for fiscal year 2011 required under section 2925(b) of title 10, United States Code, is not submitted to the congressional defense committees by December 31, 2012.

Limitation on obligation of Department of Defense funds from Defense Production Act of 1950 for biofuel refinery construction (sec. 315)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 314) that would prohibit the use of funds authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense (DOD) in fiscal year 2013 from being obligated or expended for the production or sole purchase of an alternative fuel if the cost exceeds the cost of traditional fossil fuels used for the same purpose, except for continued testing purposes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that none of the fiscal year 2013 Defense Production Act (DPA) funds may be obligated or expended for the construction of a biofuel refinery until the DOD receives matching DPA contributions from the Department of Energy and equivalent contributions from the Department of Agriculture for the same purpose.

Sense of Congress on protection of Department of Defense airfields, training airspace, and air training routes (sec. 316)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1086) that would express the sense of the Senate on the importance of protecting Department of Defense (DOD) airfields, airspace, and air training routes from encroachment and the need to develop comprehensive guidance to protect those assets.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the context of the provision with respect to DOD operational risk assessment and the DOD Siting Clearinghouse.

The conferees expect that the DOD guidance encouraged by this provision will provide further clarification for the assessment of an unacceptable risk to the national security of the United States as defined in Part 211 of title 32, Code of Federal Regulations.

Subtitle C—Logistics and Sustainment

Expansion and reauthorization of multi-trades demonstration project (sec. 321)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 321) that would amend section 338 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), as most recently amended by section 329 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 322).

The Senate recedes.

Restoration and amendment of certain provisions relating to depot-level maintenance and core logistics capabilities (sec. 322)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 322) that would further amend sections 2460 and 2464 of title 10, United States Code, as amended by sections 321 and 327 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 321) that would repeal the amendments made by sections 321 and 327 and revive sections 2460 and 2464 as in effect prior to the enactment of Public Law 112-81.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend the revived sections 2460 and 2464 to: (1) clarify the treatment of nuclear refueling opportunities for aircraft carriers; and (2) require the Secretary of Defense to submit a biennial report to Congress on core depot-level maintenance and repair capability requirements and sustaining workloads.

The conferees note that this provision includes conforming changes to sections 2366a and 2366b of title 10, United States Code. Sections 2366a and 2366b, as amended by this provision, would require a determination of the applicability of core logistics capabilities requirements prior to a Milestone A decision, an assessment of core logistics capabilities and associated sustaining workloads prior to a Milestone B decision, and a detailed definition of core logistics capabilities and associated sustaining workloads prior to any contract for low-rate initial production of a major defense acquisition program. The purpose of these requirements is to ensure that the Department of Defense fully considers and plans for life cycle sustainment needs, including core logistics capabilities, early in the acquisition cycle. In the view of the conferees, the Department has too often limited its sustainment options by deferring key decisions until a major weapon system is ready, or nearly ready, to be fielded. The early consideration of and deliberate planning for sustainment needs required by this provision should preserve a broader range of options and result in a more comprehensive and balanced approach to core logistics capabilities.

Rating chains for system program managers (sec. 323)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 323) that would require that the Secretary of the Air Force, in managing system program management responsibilities for sustainment programs not assigned to a program executive officer or a direct reporting program manager, comply with the Department of Defense Instructions regarding assignment of program responsibility.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree that this direction should not be construed to be taking any particular position on the Air Force's plans to reorganize the Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC). Elsewhere in this Act, the conferees recommend a requirement that the Secretary of Defense provide a report on the Air Force's planned reorganization of AFMC organizations.

Subtitle D—Readiness

Intergovernmental support agreements with State and local governments (sec. 331)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 331) that would authorize the Department of Defense to enter into intergovernmental support agreements with State or local government for the procurement of installation support services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify the provision and prevent abuse of the new authority.

Expansion and reauthorization of pilot program for availability of working-capital funds for product improvements (sec. 332)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 333) that would expand and reauthorize a pilot program resourced through working capital funds for product improvements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees encourage the Services to use this pilot authorization to use working capital funds to pursue initiatives costing less than $1,000,000 for each item that would upgrade, modernize, or retrofit a component or subsystem of an existing weapon system platform or major end item of a weapon system currently sustained in the service inventory.

The limitation on the use of this pilot program to pursue significant change to capabilities is intended by the conferees to preclude the use of working capital funds to develop new versions of equipment, to expand the performance envelope of a current system, or to acquire new types of systems, while still allowing for performance enhancements that improve reliability, sustainability, and maintainability in current systems.

Department of Defense national strategic ports study and Comptroller General studies and reports on strategic ports (sec. 333)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3510) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Defense should expedite completion of the study of strategic ports in the United States. The provision would also direct that the Comptroller General: (1) review the Secretary's report; and (2) conduct his own review of the status of strategic ports.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to direct the Comptroller General to conduct a sufficiency review of the Secretary's report.

Subtitle E—Reports

Annual report on Department of Defense long-term corrosion strategy (sec. 341)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 331) that would amend section 371 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181, 10 U.S.C. 2228) to require the Department of Defense to provide additional information on corrosion projects in reports to Congress. The additional information includes validated returns on investment for completed corrosion projects, activities, and information on how corrosion funding is used for military projects, the Technical Corrosion Collaboration pilot program, and other corrosion-related activities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Report on joint strategy for readiness and training in a C4ISR-denied environment (sec. 342)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 341) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the readiness of the joint force to conduct operations in environments where there is no access to command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (C4ISR) systems. The provision also would require the development of a C4ISR-denied environment roadmap and exercise plan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Comptroller General review of annual Department of Defense report on prepositioned materiel and equipment (sec. 343)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 342) that would amend section 2229a(b)(1) of title 10, United States Code, by altering the report deadline.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 332).

The Senate recedes.

Modification of report on maintenance and repair of vessels in foreign shipyards (sec. 344)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 343) that would modify section 7310(c) of title 10, United States Code, to expand a reporting requirement to cover privately owned vessels that are operated pursuant to a contract entered into by the Military Sealift Command, the Maritime Administration, or the U.S. Transportation Command.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would expand the report to cover privately owned vessels, but would exclude proprietary information from the data required in the report for those vessels.

Extension of deadline for Comptroller General report on Department of Defense service contract inventory (sec. 345)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 344) that would extend the deadline for a statutorily mandated Government Accountability Office report on the Department of Defense inventory of service contracts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle F—Limitations and Extension of Authority

Repeal of redundant authority to ensure interoperability of law enforcement and emergency responder training (sec. 351)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 351) that would amend section 372 of title 10,

United States Code, to ensure that Department of Defense support to a federal, state, or local law enforcement or emergency response agency to prepare for or respond to an emergency involving chemical or biological agents is consistent with the national preparedness system and other statutory changes made since the creation of the Department of Homeland Security.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 343) that would result in an identical outcome.

The Senate recedes.

Aerospace control alert mission (sec. 352)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 352) that would: (1) prevent Department of Defense from spending any funds to disestablish or downgrade any of the 18 level 5 aerospace control alert (ACA) defense locations in existence as of the date of the enactment of this Act; and (2) establish a consolidated budget justification display that fully identifies the baseline ACA budget for each of the military services, and encompasses all programs and activities of the ACA mission.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to eliminate the language prohibiting disestablishing or downgrading ACA locations. The conferees understand that the Air Force now has no plans to disestablish any ACA units.

Limitation on authorization of appropriations for the National Museum of the United States Army (sec. 353)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 353) that would limit the obligation or expenditure of funds for the National Museum of the United States Army until the Secretary of the Army submits to the congressional defense committees written certification that sufficient private funding has been raised to fund construction of the "baseline museum" and that at least 50 percent of the baseline museum has been completed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for retirement or inactivation of Ticonderoga class cruisers or dock landing ships (sec. 354)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 354) that would limit the obligation and expenditure of funds authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2013 for the retirement, inactivation, or storage of a cruiser or dock landing ship. The provision would provide an exception for the retirement of the U.S.S. Port Royal (CG-73). Finally, the provision would require the Secretary of the Navy to maintain the operational capability and perform the necessary maintenance of the cruisers and dock landing ships in support of operational requirements of the combatant commands.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 344) that would express the sense of the Congress on Navy fleet requirements, including the fact that the Secretary of the Navy should maintain the operational capability and perform the necessary maintenance and for each cruiser and dock landing ship belonging to the Navy.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the exception for the retirement of the U.S.S. Port Royal. The U.S.S. Port Royal incurred significant damage following a grounding incident in 2009. Although the Navy indicates that the ship never completely recovered from the grounding, the Navy has not provided adequate analysis and cost data on the structural condition of the ship.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Navy to conduct a detailed material condition assessment of the U.S.S. Port Royal that will:

(1) include a comprehensive inspection of the ship's major structural, machinery, electrical, combat and weapons systems elements;

(2) identify the necessary repairs and modernization, including detailed costs to make those repairs and upgrades, that would be required for the ship to meet its expected service life, consistent with other ships in the Ticonderoga-class;

(3) be conducted by the Navy, with the results evaluated by the appropriate Navy technical authority; and

(4) be reviewed by an independent board of subject matter experts, from industry and the Department of Defense.

The conferees further direct the Secretary to submit the results of that assessment, along with results of independent reviews of that assessment, to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act. The conferees further direct that the Government Accountability Office conduct a sufficiency review of this report. The Secretary shall also provide the congressional defense committees a status update on the assessments within 120 days of enactment of this Act.

Renewal of expired prohibition on return of veterans memorial objects without specific authorization in law (sec. 355)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 355) that would prohibit the transfer of a veterans memorial object to a foreign country unless the transfer is specially authorized by law or the transfer is made after September 30, 2017.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1093).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle G—National Commission on the Structure of the Air Force

National commission on the structure of the Air Force (secs. 361–367)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (secs. 1701–1707) that would create a commission to study the appropriate makeup of the Air Force, considering that the Department of the Air Force draws upon active duty forces, the Air Force Reserve, and the Air National Guard.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would have the commission focus on longer-term decisions, but would not freeze near-term force structure changes pending the recommendations of the commission. The amendment would also adjust the direction to the commission from focusing on maximizing achievable costs savings to a focus on maximizing and appropriately balancing affordability, efficiency, effectiveness, capability, and readiness.

Subtitle H—Other Matters

Military working dog matters (sec. 371)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 361) that would require the Secretary of Defense to change the classification of military working dogs from equipment to canine members of the armed forces, establish and maintain a system to provide for the lifetime veterinary care of retired military working dogs by contracting with a private non-profit entity, establish policies to ease the cost of transporting retired military working dogs for the purposes of adoption, and create a decoration or other recognition for military working dogs killed in action or that perform meritorious acts in service to the United States. The provision would also authorize the service secretaries to transfer retired military working dogs if no suitable adoption is available at the military facility where the dog is located.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1049) that would authorize the service secretaries to transfer retired military working dogs if no suitable adoption is available at the military facility where the dog is located, authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish and maintain a system to provide for the veterinary care of retired military working dogs, and authorize the recognition of military working dogs that are killed, wounded, or missing in action and military working dogs that perform an exceptionally meritorious or courageous act in service to the United States.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the service secretaries to transfer retired military working dogs if no suitable adoption is available at the military facility where the dog is located, and authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish and maintain a system to provide for the veterinary care of retired military working dogs, provided that no federal government funds are provided for that purpose.

Comptroller General review of handling, labeling, and packaging procedures for hazardous material shipments (sec. 372)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 363) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a review of the policies and procedures of the Department of Defense (DOD) for handling, labeling and packaging hazardous material shipments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees expect DOD, during the period while the review by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) is under way, to continue to ensure the safety of the public and the security of sensitive and hazardous shipments, and to monitor driver and carrier performance. Within 60 days of completion of the GAO review, the Secretary of Defense shall ensure that DOD re-engages with the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives regarding the appropriate level of mandatory safety standards. The conferees also intend that DOD will still conduct the review required by the Item of Special Interest entitled "Safety and security standards for Department of Defense hazardous materials transport" contained in Senate Report 112-173 accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act of 2013 (S. 3254) and report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives within 30 days of the completion of that review.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Authorization of appropriations of funds for inactivation execution of the U.S.S. Enterprise

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 302) that would provide incremental funding authority for inactivating the U.S.S. Enterprise (CVN-65), and would limit the total amount to be obligated and expended by the Secretary of the Navy for this activity to no more than $708.0 million.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Funding of agreements under the Sikes Act

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 312) that would amend the Sikes Act (16 U.S.C. 670 et seq) to allow funds committed by the Department of Defense for a cooperative agreement to be made in a lump sum and retained in an interest bearing account.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modification of definition of chemical substance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 312) that would modify the definition of chemical substance contained in section 2602 of title 15, United States Code, known as the Toxic Substances Control Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Exemption of Department of Defense from alternative fuel procurement requirement

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 313) that would exempt the Department of Defense from section 526 of the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (Public Law 110-140), regarding greenhouse gas emissions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Southern sea otter military readiness areas

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 316) that would, among other things, create military readiness areas near the coast of southern California.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress regarding decontamination of former bombardment area on island of Culebra, Puerto Rico

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 318) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the former bombardment area on the island of Culebra, Puerto Rico.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives have received the report required by Section 2815 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383). The U.S. Navy used parts of Culebra as a bombardment area for several decades before the property was transferred by deed from the United States to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in 1982 at the Commonwealth's request. The report identified the Former Bombardment Area on the island of Culebra as priority 2 when applying the Munitions Response Site Prioritization Protocol to identify the relative risks posed, which is the highest relative risk ranking possible for a Munitions Response Site that is known or suspected to contain only conventional military munitions. Therefore, the conferees encourage the Department of Defense to continue working with the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico to address unexploded munitions for the protection of the public who visit the area, specifically Flamenco Beach, Carlos Rosario Trail and Beach, and Tamarindo Beach.

Sense of Congress regarding the performance of commercially available activities by Department of Defense civilian employees

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 323) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the performance of commercially available activities by Department of Defense civilian employees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Center of Excellence for the National Guard State Partnership Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 334) that would amend chapter 5 of title 32, United States Code, by authorizing the Chief of the National Guard Bureau to maintain a Center of Excellence for the National Guard State Partnership Program to provide training opportunities for units and members of the active and reserve components for the purpose of improving the skills for such units and members when deployed to complete the mission of the State Partnership Program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Comptroller General of the United States report reviewing methodology of Department of Defense relating to costs of performance by civilian employees, military personnel, and contractors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 345) that would require the Comptroller General to review Department of Defense methodology relating to costs of performance by civilian employees, military personnel, and contractors.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to conduct a review of Department of Defense Directive-Type Memorandum 09-007 entitled "Estimating and Comparing the Full Costs of Civilian and Military Manpower and Contractor Support" or successor guidance to determine whether the methodology used in the memorandum reflects the actual, relevant, and quantifiable costs to taxpayers of performance by Federal civilian employees, military personnel, and contractors. In conducting this review, the conferees expect the Comptroller General to consult with appropriate officials in the Department of Defense, to include, at a minimum, the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation, and the Office of Management and Budget, and with experts and interested parties in the private sector. The conferees direct the Comptroller General to submit a report including his findings and recommendations to the congressional defense committees by not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act. The report shall contain the results of the review and make recommendations for any statutory or policy changes that the Comptroller General determines are necessary to ensure that the memorandum reviewed appropriately addresses the actual, relevant, and quantifiable costs to taxpayers for Federal civilian employees, military personnel, and contractors.

Report on medical evacuation policies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 346) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report on Department of Defense policies, procedures, and guidelines for helicopter evacuation of injured service members performed by unarmed Army helicopters and armed Air Force helicopters. The provision would also require the Comptroller General to submit to the congressional defense committees an analysis of this report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees commend the Department of Defense for its continuous efforts to improve aeromedical evacuation standards and operations, which have contributed to the highest survival rate for wounded and ill service members in United States history.

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to provide to the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives a declassified version of the May 2012 Chairman of the Joint Chiefs review of aeromedical evacuation procedures in the United States Central Command area of responsibility. In addition, the conferees note that the report accompanying the House bill (H. Rept. 112-479) contains an item of special interest that directs the Secretary of the Army to establish, by September 1, 2012, a Department-wide standard that requires all in-flight medical care providers to be critical care flight paramedic certified within the next 3 years. The conferees direct the Army to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with a briefing on the status of its compliance with the certification mandates set forth in the House report, and its plans to continuously advance the quality and effectiveness of aeromedical evacuation standards and operations, no later than March 1, 2013.

Report on providing telecommunications services to uniformed personnel transiting through foreign airports

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 347) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the feasibility of providing market rate or below-market rate telecommunications services to service members transiting through foreign airports while traveling to and from overseas deployments, and to investigate allegations of telecom companies specifically targeting uniformed military personnel in transit overseas, charging them above-market rates for telecom services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are aware of instances where U.S. service members transiting through international airports experienced unexpectedly high rates for international telephone calls. The conferees recognize that foreign companies may charge high rates for operator-assisted international telephone service back to the United States and are concerned that this practice is disadvantageous to service members transiting to and from foreign locations, often returning from overseas deployments. The conferees expect commanders and the Department to do more to educate service members about telecommunications rates when transiting foreign airports and encourage the Department to provide alternative, lower-cost methods of communication for service members returning from deployments, where possible.

Survey and report on personal protection equipment needed by members of the Armed Forces deployed on the ground in combat zones

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 348) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a survey among members and former members of the Armed Forces requesting information related to personal protection equipment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Assistance for homeland defense mission training

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 362) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide funding assistance for the operation and maintenance of any State training center certified by the Federal Emergency Management Agency as capable of providing emergency response training.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Funding for maintenance of force structure of the Air Force pending commission recommendations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1709) that would authorize an additional $1.4 billion to pay for additional Air Force force structure required by another provision in the Senate bill (sec. 1708).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Air Force assessments of the effects of proposed movements of airframes on joint readiness training

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1711) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to: (1) undertake an assessment of the effects of currently proposed movements of Air Force airframes on Green Flag East and Green Flag West joint readiness training; and (2) if the Secretary determines it appropriate, submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth a proposal to make future replacements of capabilities for purposes of augmenting training at the joint readiness training center or for such other purposes as the Secretary considers appropriate.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to assess the effects of the Department of the Air Force force structure retirements, divestments, and transfers on joint readiness training, particularly military airlift support and combined arms combat training exercises with other services, and to provide the congressional defense committees a report by April 1, 2013, with the results of Secretary's assessment, including the Secretary's recommendations for improving participation in joint training opportunities.

TITLE IV—MILITARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS

Subtitle A—Active Forces

End strengths for active forces (sec. 401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 401) that would authorize the following end strengths for active duty personnel of the armed forces as of September 30, 2013: Army, 552,100; Navy, 322,700; Marine Corps, 197,300; and Air Force, 330,383.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 401) that would authorize active duty end strength for the Air Force of 329,597.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize active duty end strength for the Air Force of 329,460.

End strength levels for the active forces for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY2013		Change from
		Request	Recommendation	FY 2013 request	FY 2012 authorized
Army .....	562,000	552,100	552,100	0	–9,900
Navy .....	325,700	322,700	322,700	0	–3,000
Marine Corps .....	202,100	197,300	197,300	0	–4,800
Air Force .....	332,800	328,900	329,460	560	–3,340
DOD Total .....	1,422,600	1,401,000	1,401,560	560	–21,040

Revision in permanent active duty end strength minimum levels (sec. 402)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 402) that would establish the following minimum end strengths for active duty personnel as of September 30, 2013: Army, 552,100; Navy, 322,700; Marine Corps, 197,300; and Air Force 330,383.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish minimum active duty end strengths for the Army of 542,700, for the Marine Corps of 193,500, and for the Air Force of 329,460. The amendment would also authorize the Secretary of Defense to reduce end strengths below the minimum levels established in this section by up to 0.5 percent.

Minimum end strength levels for active duty personnel for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY2013	Change from
		Recommendation	FY 2012
Army .....	547,400	542,700	–4,700
Navy .....	325,700	322,700	–3,000
Marine Corps .....	202,100	193,500	–8,600
Air Force .....	332,800	329,460	–3,340
DOD Total .....	1,408,000	1,388,360	–19,640

Annual limitation on end strength reductions for regular component of the Army and Marine Corps (sec. 403)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 403) that would require the President to submit to Congress as part of the annual budget a certification that reductions in Army and Marine Corps end strength would not undermine ability to meet the requirements of the National Security Strategy, increase security risks, or compel members to endure diminished dwell time between deployments. The provision would also limit annual reductions in Army and Marine Corps end strength to no more than 15,000 soldiers and 5,000 marines measured from that service's end strength at the end of the preceding fiscal year. Finally, the provision would prohibit the use of Overseas Contingency Operations (OCO) funding to pay for end strength requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would remove the certification requirement and OCO budgeting restriction.

The conferees remain concerned with the pace of the planned drawdown of the ground forces while the nation is still at war, as well as the impact of further defense budget reductions on personnel accounts. It is imperative that the Department fully fund its end strength requirements in accordance with the services' force reduction plans in the annual budgets through 2017.

Additional Marine Corps personnel for the Marine Corps Security Guard Program (sec. 404)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 402) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to develop and implement a plan to increase the number of members of the Marine Corps assigned to the Marine Corps Embassy Security Group at Quantico, Virginia, and Marine Security Group Regional Commands and Marine Security Group detachments at United States embassies, consulates, and other diplomatic facilities by up to 1,000 marines. The purpose of the increase is to provide additional end strength and resources to support enhanced Marine Corps security at embassies and consulates, and other diplomatic facilities.

The provision would further require the President to provide certain funding information on the marine security guard program with the budget submission for fiscal years 2014 through 2017. The provision would require that the Marine Corps fully resource the embassy security mission without degrading readiness to fulfill its requirements under the National Military Strategy prescribed by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Finally, the provision would require the Secretary to submit a report to Congress by October 1, 2013, and annually thereafter through 2017, on implementation of program increases required by this provision.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the annual reports through 2017 to one report due no later than October 1, 2013, and would make other technical and conforming amendments.

The provision will ensure that the increase in the Marine Corps security guard program in any year up to 1,000 additional marines will be authorized and funded over and above end strength needed for the Marine Corps' core mission requirements. The conferees believe that enhanced embassy security and support of the Marine Corps' core missions are essential, that one mission shall not be funded at the expense of the other, and that each must be fully resourced in future budget requests so as not to undermine readiness, as required by this provision.

Subtitle B—Reserve Forces

End strengths for Selected Reserve (sec. 411)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 411) that would authorize the following end strengths for Selected Reserve personnel, including the end strengths for reserves on active duty in support of the reserves, as of September 30, 2013: the Army National Guard of the United States, 358,200; the Army Reserve, 205,000; the Navy Reserve, 62,500; the Marine Corps Reserve, 39,600; the Air National Guard of the United States, 106,005; the Air Force Reserve, 72,428; and the Coast Guard Reserve, 9,000.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 411) that would authorize end strength for the Air National Guard of 106,435.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize end strengths for the Air National Guard of 105,700 and the Air Force Reserve of 70,880.

End strength levels for the Selected Reserve for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY 2013		Change from
		Request	Recommendation	FY 2013 request	FY 2012 authorized
Army National Guard .....	358,200	358,200	358,200	0	0
Army Reserve .....	205,000	205,000	205,000	0	0
Navy Reserve .....	66,200	62,500	62,500	0	-3,700
Marine Corps Reserve .....	39,600	39,600	39,600	0	0
Air National Guard .....	106,700	101,600	105,700	4,100	-1,000
Air Force Reserve .....	71,400	70,500	70,880	380	-520
DOD Total .....	847,100	837,400	841,880	4,480	-5,220
Coast Guard Reserve .....	10,000	9,000	9,000	0	-1,000

End strengths for Reserves on active duty in support of the reserves (sec. 412)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 412) that would authorize the following end strengths for reserves on active duty in support of the reserve components as of September 30, 2013: the Army National Guard of the United States, 32,060; the Army Reserve, 16,277; the Navy Reserve, 10,114; the Marine Corps Reserve, 2,261; the Air National Guard of the United States, 14,952; and the Air Force Reserve, 2,888.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 412) that would authorize end strength for the Air National Guard of 14,871.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize end strength for the Air National Guard of 14,765.

End strength levels for reserves on active duty in support of the reserves for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY 2013		Change from
		Request	Recommendation	FY 2013 request	FY 2012 authorized
Army National Guard .....	32,060	32,060	32,060	0	0
Army Reserve .....	16,261	16,277	16,277	0	16

End strengths for military technicians (dual status) (sec. 413)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 413) that would authorize the following end strengths for military technicians (dual status) as of September 30, 2013: the Army National Guard of the United States, 27,210; the Army Reserve, 8,395; the Air National Guard of the United States, 22,272; and the Air Force Reserve, 10,946.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 413) that would authorize the following end strengths for military technicians (dual status): the Army Reserve, 8,445; the Army National Guard, 28,380; the Air Force Reserve, 10,716; and the Air National Guard, 22,313.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize end strengths for the Air National Guard of 22,180 and for the Air Force Reserve of 10,400.

End strength levels for military technicians (dual status) for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY 2013		Change from
		Request	Recommendation	FY 2013 request	FY 2012 authorized
Army National Guard .....	27,210	28,380	27,210	-1,170	0
Army Reserve .....	8,395	8,445	8,395	-50	0
Air National Guard .....	22,509	21,101	22,180	1,079	-329
Air Force Reserve .....	10,777	10,283	10,400	117	-377
DOD Total .....	68,891	68,209	68,185	-24	-706

Fiscal year 2013 limitation on number of non-dual status technicians (sec. 414)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 414) that would establish the following personnel limits for the reserve components of the Army and Air Force for non-dual status technicians as of September 30, 2013: the Army National Guard of the United States, 1,600; the Air National Guard of the United States, 350; the Army Reserve, 595; and the Air Force Reserve, 90.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 414).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Personnel limitations for non-dual status technicians for fiscal year 2013 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2012 authorized	FY 2013		Change from
		Request	Recommendation	FY 2013 request	FY 2012 authorized
Army National Guard .....	1,600	1,600	1,600	0	0
Army Reserve .....	595	595	595	0	0
Air Force Reserve .....	90	90	90	0	0

Subtitle C—Authorization of Appropriations
Military personnel (sec. 421)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 421) that would authorize appropriations for military personnel at the levels identified in section 4401 of division D of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 421).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE V—MILITARY PERSONNEL POLICY

Subtitle A—Officer Personnel Policy
Generally

Limitation on number of Navy flag officers on active duty (sec. 501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 501) that would amend sections 526 and 5150 of title 10, United States Code, to eliminate the exemption for the Director of the Nurse Corps and the Director of the Medical Service Corps from counting against the statutory limit on Navy flag officers on active duty and to increase the statutory limit of flag officers on active duty in the Navy to 161.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to increase the statutory limit of flag officers on active duty in the Navy to 162 and to change the effective date from October 1, 2013 to October 1, 2012 for increasing by one the number of Marine Corps general officers on active duty.

Reinstatement of authority for enhanced selective early retirement boards and early discharges (sec. 502)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 501) that would amend section 638a of title 10, United States Code, to extend until December 31, 2018, the authority to convene selection boards to consider the discharge of regular officers below the grade of lieutenant colonel or commander who have served on active duty for at least 1 year in their current grade, are not on a promotion list, and are not eligible for retirement.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend section 638a of title 10, United States Code, to extend until December 31, 2018, the authority for enhanced selective early retirement boards and early discharges.

Modification of definition of joint duty assignment to include all instructor assignments for joint training and education (sec. 503)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 503) that would amend section 668(b)(1)(B) of title 10, United States Code, to remove the limitations on the types of instructors included in the definition of “joint duty assignment”.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Exception to required retirement after 30 years of service for Regular Navy Warrant officers in the grade of Chief Warrant Officer, W-5 (sec. 504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 502) that would amend section 1305(a) of title 10, United States Code, to increase from 30 years to 33 years the total active military service a Navy warrant officer in the grade of chief warrant officer, W-5, may serve prior to being statutorily retired for length of service.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 502).

The Senate recedes.

Extension of temporary authority to reduce minimum length of active service as a commissioned officer required for voluntary retirement as an officer (sec. 505)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 504) that would amend sections 3911, 6323, and 8911 of title 10, United States Code, to extend the authority until September 30, 2018, for the secretaries of the military departments to reduce from 10 to 8 the number of years of commissioned service required for a service member to retire as an officer.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Temporary increase in the time-in-grade retirement waiver limitation for lieutenant colonels and colonels in the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps and commanders and captains in the Navy (sec. 506)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 505) that would amend section 1370 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to authorize the service secretaries to reduce the time in grade requirement for retirement in the grades of lieutenant colonel and colonel in the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps and commander and captain in the Navy from not less than 3 years to not less than 2 years during fiscal years 2013 through 2018 for up to 4 percent of the officers in that service serving in that grade.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modification to limitations on number of officers for whom service-in-grade requirements may be reduced for retirement in grade upon voluntary retirement (sec. 507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 506) that would amend section 1370 of title 10, United States Code, to increase the number of brigadier generals and major generals of the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps and rear admirals (lower half) and rear admirals of the Navy for whom a reduction of time in grade for retirement is authorized during fiscal years 2013 through 2017.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to increase to 10 percent of the authorized active duty strength in that grade the number of brigadier generals and major generals of the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps and rear admirals (lower half) and rear admirals of the Navy for whom a reduction of time in grade for retirement is authorized during fiscal years 2013 through 2017.

Air Force Chief of Chaplains (sec. 508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 503) that would establish the positions of Chief of Chaplains and Deputy Chief of Chaplains in the Air Force and require that officers selected for these positions be recommended by a board of officers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend chapter 805 of title 10, United States Code, to establish the position of the Chief of Chaplains in the Air Force in the grade of major general, and require that the officer selected for this position be recommended by a board of officers that, insofar as practicable, is subject to the procedures applicable to selection boards convened under chapter 36, United States Code.

Subtitle B—Reserve Component Management

Codification of staff assistant positions for Joint Staff related to National Guard and Reserve matters (sec. 511)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 511) that would amend chapter 5 of title 10, United States Code, to codify the positions of the Assistant to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for National Guard Matters and the Assistant to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for Reserve Matters. The provision would also add a new requirement that each Assistant to the Chairman have significant joint duty experience as determined by the Chairman.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Automatic Federal recognition of promotion of certain National Guard warrant officers (sec. 512)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 512) that would automatically extend federal recognition to members of the National Guard who are promoted from the grade of warrant officer 1 (W-1) to chief warrant officer 2 (W-2) to fill a vacancy in a federally recognized unit in the National Guard.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Availability of Transition Assistance Advisors to assist members of reserve components who serve on active duty for more than 180 consecutive days (sec. 513)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1052) that would amend chapter 58 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to establish as part of the Transition Assistance Program a Transition Assistance Advisor program to provide professionals in each state to assist certain members of the National Guard in accessing certain benefits and health care provided by the Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Chief of the National Guard Bureau to establish a program to provide Transition Assistance Advisors in each state to serve as points of contact to assist eligible members of the reserve components in accessing certain benefits and health care.

Subtitle C—General Service Authorities

Authority for additional behavioral health professionals to conduct pre-separation medical exams for post-traumatic stress disorder (sec. 518)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 522) that would amend section 1177(a) of title 10, United States Code, to expand the scope of providers that may conduct pre-administrative separation medical examinations for post-traumatic stress disorder to include licensed clinical social workers and psychiatric nurse practitioners.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 523).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize licensed clinical social workers and psychiatric advanced practice registered nurses to conduct pre-administrative separation medical examinations for post-traumatic stress disorder.

The conferees note that this provision would not affect the statutory requirement that these examinations be reviewed by appropriate authorities responsible for reviewing and approving separation cases.

Diversity in the Armed Forces and related reporting requirements (sec. 519)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 507) that would require the Secretary of Defense and Secretary of Homeland Security in the case of the Coast Guard, to develop and implement a plan to accurately measure the efforts of the Department of Defense (DOD) and Department of Homeland Security (DHS) in the case of the Coast Guard, to achieve a force reflective of the diverse population of the United States eligible for military service. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense and Secretary of Homeland Security to develop a uniform definition of diversity. Finally, the provision would require annual reports to the congressional defense committees on the progress of DOD and DHS in achieving their diversity goals.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 521) that would require biennial reports to the congressional defense committees through fiscal year 2017.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require annual reports on the achievement of diversity goals through fiscal year 2017 and would make other technical and conforming changes.

Limitation on reduction in number of military and civilian personnel assigned to duty with service review agencies (sec. 520)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 662) that would amend section 1559 of title 10, United States Code, to extend from December 31, 2013, to December 31, 2016, the limitation on the reduction in the number of military and civilian personnel assigned to duty in the service review agencies of the military departments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of temporary increase in accumulated leave carryover for members of the Armed Forces (sec. 521)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 526) that would extend until September 20, 2015, the authority for certain members to carry over 75 days of leave from one fiscal year to the next, rather than 60.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Modification of authority to conduct programs on career flexibility to enhance retention of members of the Armed Forces (sec. 522)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 521) that would amend section 533 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417) to include full-time active guard and reserve members in the population eligible for the career intermission pilot program, to clarify that accrued leave may be carried forward through the period of inactive service, and to clarify that participants in the program who become ill or injured during their period of inactive service may be processed for retirement or separation under chapters 55 and 61 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 522).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Prohibition on waiver for commissioning or enlistment in the Armed Forces for any individual convicted of a felony sexual offense (sec. 523)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 527) that would prohibit the granting of waivers for commissioning or enlistment in the Armed Forces of an individual who has been convicted of certain sexual offenses under federal or state law.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Quality review of Medical Evaluation Boards, Physical Evaluation Boards, and Physical Evaluation Board Liaison Officers (sec. 524)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 753) that would require the Secretary of Defense to standardize, assess, and monitor the quality assurance programs of the military departments to evaluate the performance of medical evaluation boards, physical evaluation boards, and physical evaluation board liaison officers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Reports on involuntary separation of members of the Armed Forces (sec. 525)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 524) that would require the service secretaries to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 30 days after the end of each quarter of the calendar year in 2013 and 2014, a report on members of the regular components who were involuntarily separated from active duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the report to service members involuntarily separated from active duty for reasons other than for cause and would require the report not later than 30 days after the end of each 6-month period during calendar years 2013 and 2014.

Report on feasibility of developing gender-neutral occupational specialties currently closed to women (sec. 526)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 526) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report evaluating the feasibility of incorporating gender-neutral occupational standards for military occupational specialties currently closed to women.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on education and training and promotion rates for pilots of remotely piloted aircraft (sec. 527)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 942) that would require the Secretary and the Chief of Staff of the Air Force to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by January 31, 2013, on remotely piloted aircraft (RPA) pilot promotion and education rates.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the due date for the report to 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Impact of numbers of members within the Integrated Disability Evaluation System on readiness of Armed Forces to meet mission requirements (sec. 528)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 404) that would require that members within the Integrated Disability Evaluation System (IDES) not count toward the end strength authorizations for active duty members prescribed for each fiscal year 2013 through 2018.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the secretary concerned to provide with the President's budget submission for fiscal years 2014 through 2018 a statement concerning the degree to which the disability population within that service impacts that service's readiness to meet ongoing mission requirements and dwell time. The amendment would also require that the secretary concerned provide a plan to mitigate any adverse impact.

Subtitle D—Military Justice and Legal Matters

Clarification and enhancement of the role of Staff Judge Advocate to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (sec. 531)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 531) that would amend sections 806(a) (Article 6(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice), 5041, and 5046(a) of title 10, United States Code, to clarify and enhance the role of the Staff Judge Advocate to the Commandant of the Marine Corps.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 531).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Additional information in reports on annual surveys of the Committee on the Uniform Code of Military Justice (sec. 532)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 532) that would amend subsection section 946 of title 10, United States Code (article 146 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ)), to require the Code Committee to address the following additional matters in its annual report: compliance with processing time goals; cases in which court-martial convictions are reversed as a result of command influence or denial of the right to a speedy review; any provision of the UCMJ that is held unconstitutional; developments in appellate case law relating to courts-martial involving allegations of sexual misconduct; issues associated with implementing legislatively directed changes to the UCMJ or the Manual for Courts-Martial; measures implemented to ensure the ability of judge advocates to competently participate as trial and defense counsel in, and preside as military judges over, capital cases, national security cases, sexual assault cases, and proceedings of military commissions; and the independent views of the Judge Advocates General and the Staff Judge Advocate to the Commandant of the Marine Corps on the sufficiency of resources within their service to perform military justice functions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Code Committee to address the following additional matters in its annual report: compliance with processing time goals; cases in which court-martial convictions are reversed as a result of command influence or denial of the right to a speedy review; any provision of the UCMJ that is held unconstitutional; measures implemented to ensure the ability of judge advocates to competently participate as trial and defense counsel in, and preside as military judges over, capital cases, national security cases, sexual assault cases, and proceedings of military commissions; and the independent views of the Judge Advocates General and the Staff Judge Advocate to the Commandant of the Marine Corps on the sufficiency of resources within their service to perform military justice functions.

Protection of rights of conscience of members of the Armed Forces and chaplains of such members (sec. 533)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 536) that would require the armed forces to accommodate the moral principles and religious beliefs of service members concerning appropriate and inappropriate expression of human sexuality and would prohibit use of such conscience, principles, or beliefs as the basis of any adverse personnel action, discrimination, or denial of promotion, schooling, training, or assignment. The provision would also prohibit any member of the armed forces from directing, ordering, or requiring a chaplain to perform any duty, rite, ritual, ceremony, service, or function that is contrary to the conscience, moral principles, or religious beliefs of the chaplain, or contrary to the moral principles and religious beliefs of the endorsing faith group of the chaplain; or discriminating or taking any adverse personnel action against a chaplain on the basis of the refusal by the chaplain to comply with any such direction, order, or requirement.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the armed forces to accommodate the beliefs of a service member reflecting the conscience, moral principles, or religious beliefs of the member and, in so far as practicable, would prohibit use of such beliefs as the basis of any adverse personnel action, discrimination, or denial of promotion, schooling, training, or assignment. The amendment would also prohibit a member of the armed forces from requiring a chaplain to perform any rite, ritual, or ceremony that is contrary to the conscience, moral principles, or religious beliefs of the chaplain, or discriminating or taking adverse personnel actions against a chaplain for failing to comply with a requirement to perform any rite, ritual, or ceremony that is contrary to the conscience, moral principles, or religious beliefs of the chaplain.

The conferees intend to accommodate the beliefs of service members, but preserve the authority to take disciplinary or administrative action for speech or conduct that violates the Uniform Code of Military Justice, including actions and speech that threaten good order and discipline.

Reports on hazing in the Armed Forces (sec. 534)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 535) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing by May 1, 2013, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on efforts by the Department of Defense and the Coast Guard to prevent hazing of members of the armed forces and to respond to and resolve alleged hazing incidents involving members of the armed forces.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 543) that would require the service secretaries, in consultation with their respective service chiefs, and the Secretary of Homeland Security for the Coast Guard when it is not operating as a service in the Navy, to submit a report not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act on hazing in their service.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the service secretaries, and the Secretary of Homeland Security in the case of the Coast Guard, to submit the report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate, and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives. The amendment would also require the report to include an evaluation of the definition of hazing and an assessment of the feasibility of establishing a database to track, respond to, and resolve hazing incidents.

Subtitle E—Member Education and Training Opportunities and Administration

Transfer of Troops-to-Teachers Program from Department of Education to Department of Defense and enhancements to the Program (sec. 541)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 541) that would amend chapter 58 of title 10, United States Code, to transfer responsibility and authority for operation and administration of the Troops-to-Teachers Program from the Department of Education to the Department of Defense and enhance the program.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 563) that would enhance the Troops-to-Teachers program.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would transfer and enhance the Troops-to-Teachers program.

Support of Naval Academy athletic and physical fitness programs (sec. 542)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 542) that would amend chapter 603 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into agreements, including collaborative agreements, with the Naval Academy Athletic Association to manage any aspect of the athletic and physical fitness programs of the Naval Academy.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 553) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into contracts, cooperative agreements, and leases with the Naval Academy Athletic Association for the purpose of supporting the athletic and physical fitness programs of the Naval Academy.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Expansion of Department of Defense pilot program on receipt of civilian credentialing for military occupational specialty skills (sec. 543)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 544) that would amend section 558 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) to expand the pilot program on receipt of civilian credentialing for skills required for military occupational specialties.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

State consideration of military training in granting certain State certifications and licenses as a condition on the receipt of funds for veterans employment and training (sec. 544)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099B) that would amend section 4102A of title 38, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to require states that accept certain funds for veterans' employment and training to consider military training and experience when granting state certifications and licenses for nursing assistants, commercial drivers' licenses, and emergency medical technicians.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary to require consideration of military training and experience when granting state certifications and licenses for nonemergency medical professionals, emergency medical professionals, and commercial driver's licenses and would require the Secretary to publish certain information on the Internet website of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Department of Defense review of access to military installations by representatives of institutions of higher education (sec. 545)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 543) that would require the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to conduct a review to determine the extent of the access that representatives of for-profit educational institutions have to military installations and whether there are adequate safeguards in place to regulate such access.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a review to assess the extent of access that representatives of institutions of higher education have to military installations and to submit a report on the results of this review to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Report on Department of Defense efforts to standardize educational transcripts issued to separating members of the Armed Forces (sec. 546)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 561) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the efforts of the Department of Defense to standardize the educational transcripts issued to members of the armed forces on their separation from the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the report to be submitted not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Comptroller General of the United States reports on joint professional military education matters (sec. 547)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 562) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study of Joint Professional Military Education and research institutions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle F—Reserve Officers' Training Corps and Related Matters

Repeal of requirement for eligibility for in-State tuition of at least 50 percent of participants in Senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps program (sec. 551)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 556) that would amend section 2107(c)(1) of title 10, United States Code, to repeal the requirement that at least 50 percent of midshipmen and cadets appointed under section 2107 of title 10, United States Code, qualify for and receive in-state tuition rates at their respective institutions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Consolidation of military department authority to issue arms, tentage, and equipment to educational institutions not maintaining units of Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (sec. 552)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 558) that would amend chapter 102 of title 10, United States Code, to consolidate under one section of law all military department authority to issue arms, tentage, and equipment to educational institutions not maintaining units of the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modification of requirements on plan to increase the number of units of the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (sec. 553)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 557) that would amend section 548 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417) to modify the requirement that the Secretary of Defense develop and implement a plan to establish and support not less than 3,700 units of the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (JROTC) not later than September 30, 2020, to a requirement for not less than 3,000 and not more than 3,700 units by September 30, 2020; to authorize service secretaries to determine that all support provided to youth development programs in the armed forces is consistent with funding limitations and the achievement of the objectives of such programs; and to change the due date for required annual reports after 2012 to not later than March 31 of 2015, 2018, and 2020.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees not later than March 31, 2013, a revised plan for the development and support of JROTC units.

Comptroller General report on Reserve Officers' Training Corps programs (sec. 554)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 560) that would require the Com-

troller General of the United States to submit to the congressional defense committees not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this Act a report on: (1) whether the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) programs of the Departments of the Army, Navy, and Air Force are effectively meeting current and projected requirements for newly commissioned officers in the armed forces, (2) the cost-effectiveness and productivity of current ROTC programs; and (3) the adequacy of current oversight and criteria for closure of ROTC programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle G—Defense Dependents' Education and Military Family Readiness

Continuation of authority to assist local educational agencies that benefit dependents of members of the Armed Forces and Department of Defense civilian employees (sec. 561)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 561) that would authorize $25.0 million for continuation of the Department of Defense (DOD) assistance program to local educational agencies (LEAs) that are impacted by the enrollment of dependent children of military members and DOD civilian employees. The provision would also authorize $5.0 million for assistance to LEAs with significant changes in enrollment of school-aged dependents of military members and civilian employees due to base closures, force structure changes, or force relocations.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 572) that would authorize $25.0 million for the assistance program to LEAs impacted by the enrollment of dependent children of military members and civilian employees.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize $25.0 million for continuation of the assistance program to LEAs that are impacted by the enrollment of dependent children of military members and DOD civilian employees. The amendment would also authorize $5.0 million for assistance to LEAs with significant changes in enrollment of school-aged dependents of military members and civilian employees due to base closures, force structure changes, or force relocations, and extend for 2 years the authority to provide such assistance. Additionally, an obsolete funding reference would be repealed.

The conferees note that for more than two decades, Congress has authorized and appropriated DOD funds to supplement the federal Impact Aid program administered by the U.S. Department of Education, which provides assistance to local school districts with concentrations of federally connected children, including those who reside on Indian lands and military bases, and compensates school districts that have lost tax revenue because federal land is exempt from local property taxes. DOD Impact Aid funds are authorized for districts in which military dependents make up at least 20 percent of average daily attendance, assistance for children with severe disabilities, and assistance for school districts significantly affected by base realignment and closure or relocation of military units.

In a March 2011 report, the Comptroller General found that, "Little is known about the specific use and effectiveness of DOD Impact Aid and there are no national data on military dependent students as a group" ("Education of Military Dependent Students: Better Information Needed to Assess Student Performance" (GAO-11-231)).

The conferees note that supplemental funding for LEAs has never been requested by DOD and comes at a cost by drawing from funds required for military readiness and operations, and believe that in light of current fiscal challenges faced by DOD, the availability of information on the effective use of funds realigned from readiness to supplement other federal assistance programs takes on greater importance. Therefore, the conferees direct DOD to continue its work with the U.S. Department of Education to obtain data on student performance for military connected children based on its commitment, noted in the January 2011 report titled "Strengthening Our Military Families," and to work in collaboration with the congressional defense committees to identify effective strategies for the use of supplemental assistance to LEAs to improve academic performance by and support of military connected children, including those with severe disabilities, for future consideration by Congress should DOD funds be made available for this purpose.

Impact Aid for children with severe disabilities (sec. 562)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 571) that would authorize $5.0 million in Operation and Maintenance, Defense-wide, for Impact Aid payments for children with disabilities using the criteria set forth in section 363 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), for continuation of Department of Defense assistance to local educational agencies that benefit eligible military dependents with severe disabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Amendments to the Impact Aid program (sec. 563)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 573) that would amend title VIII of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7701 et seq.) to: simplify the calculation to determine the payment owed to federal property districts and establish a foundation payment for eligible districts; clarify how to calculate eligible children displaced from housing located on federal property due to renovation, rebuilding, or demolition; and accelerate the deadline for the Department of Education to make final payments to districts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: provide a second option when determining a school district's foundation payment, expedite past year foundation payments, and clarify foundation payments for districts determined eligible after fiscal year 2010; and clarify the process whereby eligibility determinations for displaced children are made in order to allow payments to be finalized more quickly, and remove references to "demolition". The amendment would sunset after 2 years, after which the provisions would be repealed.

Transitional compensation for dependent children who are carried during pregnancy at time of dependent-abuse offense committed by an individual while a member of the Armed Forces (sec. 564)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 562) that would amend section 1059 of title 10, United States Code, to include children who were carried during pregnancy at the time of a dependent abuse offense within the program to provide transitional compensation for spouses and dependents of service members separated for such offenses. The provision would also clarify that spouses and dependents who are not residing with the service member at the time of the abuse offense are eligible for the compensation.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 661).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modification of authority to allow Department of Defense domestic dependent elementary and secondary schools to enroll certain students (sec. 565)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 563) that would authorize the dependent of an active duty service member or federal employee who had been enrolled in the overseas defense dependents' education school system and was evacuated to enroll in a Department of Defense (DOD) domestic elementary and secondary education school near the safe haven where they were evacuated, for the duration of the school year. The provision would also authorize the dependent of an active duty service member who was enrolled in the defense dependents' education school system overseas who, upon returning to the United States, is enrolled in an elementary or secondary school operated by a local educational agency to enroll in the DOD Education Activity Virtual School on a tuition-paying basis.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 575) that would authorize the tuition-free enrollment in DOD elementary and secondary schools for dependents who have left a school overseas pursuant to an authorized departure or evacuation order and whose safe haven location is within commuting distance of a DOD school. The provision would also authorize the Secretary of Defense to allow the enrollment of dependents of active duty service members located in the United States who are transitioning from a DOD overseas school to be able to take courses in the DOD Education Activity Virtual School on a tuition-paying basis.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the dependent of an active duty service member or federal employee who had been enrolled in the overseas defense dependents' education school system and was evacuated to enroll in a DOD domestic elementary and secondary education school near the safe haven where they were evacuated. Such enrollment would be limited only for the duration of the school year, unless waived by the Secretary of Defense. The provision would also authorize the dependent of an active duty service member who was enrolled in the defense dependents' education school system overseas who, upon returning to the United States, is enrolled in an elementary or secondary school operated by a local educational agency to enroll in the DOD Education Activity Virtual School on a tuition-paying basis.

Noncompetitive appointment authority regarding certain military spouses (sec. 566)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 574) that would codify and expand existing authority for noncompetitive hiring in the civilian workforce of certain military spouses. Under current regulations (5 C.F.R. 315.612), spouses of active duty service members on permanent change of station orders, spouses of 100 percent disabled service members injured while on active duty, and unremarried widows or widowers of a service member who was killed on active duty are eligible for noncompetitive appointments. This provision would expand this hiring authority to all military spouses who relocate to a service member's permanent duty station, remove the 2 year limitation on length of hiring eligibility for spouses who relocate, and specify use of the Department of Veterans Affairs' schedule for rating disabilities to determine a 100 percent disability-rating.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with several clarifying amendments stating that: in order to be eligible, a relocating spouse of a service member must be married to the member on or prior to the permanent change of station of the member; the single appointment per duty station limitation applies to a permanent appointment; and specifying the rules regarding the spouse of a disabled or deceased service member.

Report on future of family support programs of the Department of Defense (sec. 567)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 577) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the anticipated future of Department of Defense and service family support programs over the next 5 years. The report would include an assessment by the Secretary of the Army of the Family Readiness Support Assistant (FRSA) program and a description of any planned or anticipated changes to that program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the anticipated future of Department of Defense and service family support programs over the next 5 years.

The conferees note that service members have raised concerns over the future of the Army's FRSA program and request that the Secretary ensure that a detailed discussion of the future plans for the FRSA program are included in this report.

Sense of Congress regarding support for Yellow Ribbon Day (sec. 568)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 566) that would express the sense of Congress in support of the goals and ideals of Yellow Ribbon Day in honor of members of the armed forces and American civilians serving overseas in defense of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 576).

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the support of Congress for the goals and ideals of Yellow Ribbon Day in honor of service members and other individuals of the United States who are serving overseas.

The conferees note that the yellow ribbon is often recognized as a symbol of support for members of the armed forces and other American individuals serving overseas apart from their families and loved ones and that designation of a Yellow Ribbon Day would serve as an additional reminder for all people of the United States of the continued sacrifice of these citizens.

Subtitle H—Improved Sexual Assault Prevention and Response in the Armed Forces
Armed Forces Workplace and Gender Relations Surveys (sec. 570)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 578) that would amend section 481 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Armed Forces Workplace and Gender Relations Surveys to solicit information on assaults involving service members. The provision would also alter the timetable for conducting the Armed Forces Workplace and Equal Opportunity Surveys and the Armed Forces Workplace and Gender Relations Surveys.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority to retain or recall to active duty reserve component members who are victims of sexual assault while on active duty (sec. 571)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 582) that would amend chapter 1209 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize members of the reserve components who are alleged victims of sexual assault committed on active duty to remain on active duty or to be recalled to active duty for up to 180 days to complete a line of duty determination.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 541) that would authorize retention on active duty, or recall to active duty, until completion of the line of duty determination.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Additional elements in comprehensive Department of Defense policy on sexual assault prevention and response (sec. 572)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 534) that would require the service secretaries to establish a record on the disposition of any report of sexual assault.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 573) that would require that information on sexual assault prevention and response be prominently posted at specified locations throughout the Department of Defense.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 579) that would require commanders of certain units to conduct an organizational climate assessment that includes sexual assault and equal opportunity elements within 120 days after the commander assumes command and annually thereafter.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 580) that would require the secretaries of the military departments to verify and track compliance of commanders in conducting organizational climate assessments.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 585) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a general education campaign to notify members of the armed forces regarding the authorities available for the correction of military records when a member experiences any retaliatory personnel action for making a report of sexual assault or sexual harassment.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 542) that would require additional elements to be included in the Department of Defense comprehensive sexual assault and prevention policy.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 542(a)(7)) that would provide that the revised comprehensive policy for the Department of Defense sexual assault prevention and response program include a requirement to assign responsibility to receive and investigate complaints for the violation or failure to provide the rights of a crime victim established by section 3771 of title 18, United States Code, as applicable to members of the armed forces and civilian personnel of the Department of Defense.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to modify the revised comprehensive policy for the Department of Defense sexual assault prevention and response program to include the following new requirements: (1) that the service secretaries initiate and retain for a specified period a record on the disposition of allegations of sexual assault; (2) that commanders of certain commands and units conduct within 120 days of assuming command and at least annually thereafter a climate assessment for the purposes of preventing and responding to sexual assaults; (3) to post and widely disseminate information about resources available to report and respond to sexual assaults; and (4) for a general education campaign to notify service members of the authorities available for the correction of military records when a member experiences any retaliatory personnel action for making a report of sexual assault or sexual harassment.

The conferees note that the Senate report (S. Rept. 112-173) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for 2013 (S. 3254) requires the Secretary of Defense to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than January 7, 2013, on the practicability and advisability of extending additional rights under the Crime Victims' Rights Act (18 U.S.C. 3771) to victims involved in cases tried by courts-martial and a means for seeking redress for failure to be afforded such rights.

Establishment of special victim capabilities within the military departments to respond to allegations of certain special victim offenses (sec. 573)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 571) that would require the secretaries of the military departments to establish special victim teams for investigation, prosecution, and victim support in connection with child abuse, serious domestic violence, or sexual offenses under the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 542(a)(1) and (b)).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe regulations under which the service secretaries would be required to establish special victim capabilities.

Enhancement to training and education for sexual assault prevention and response (sec. 574)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 572) that would require the Secretary of Defense to include sexual assault prevention and response training in the training for new or prospective commanders at all levels of command. The provision would also require that the Department of Defense sexual assault policy be carefully explained to each new service member during initial entry and accession training.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 542(a)(3) and (4)).

The Senate recedes.

Modification of annual Department of Defense reporting requirements regarding sexual assaults (sec. 575)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 574) that would amend section 1631 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) to require the Secretaries of the military departments to include additional information in the case synopsis portion of the annual report on sexual assaults.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 546).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require additional information to be included in reports regarding sexual assaults involving members of the armed forces beginning with the report required to be submitted by March 1, 2014.

Independent reviews and assessments of Uniform Code of Military Justice and judicial proceedings of sexual assault cases (sec. 576)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 533) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish an independent panel to conduct a review and assessment of judicial proceedings under the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) involving sexual assault and related offenses in order to develop potential improvements in such proceedings.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a Response Systems Panel to conduct an independent review and assessment of the systems used to investigate, prosecute, and adjudicate crimes involving adult sexual assault and related offenses under article 120 of the UCMJ (10 U.S.C. 920) for the purpose of developing recommendations regarding how to improve the effectiveness of such systems. The amendment would also require the Secretary to establish a Judicial Proceedings Panel to conduct an independent review and assessment of judicial proceedings conducted under the UCMJ involving adult sexual assault and related offenses for the purpose of developing recommendations for improvements to such proceedings.

The conferees acknowledge the progress made by the Department of Defense in developing policies, programs, and tracking of the crime of sexual assault. The conferees view the purpose of the panels established by this section as a means to achieve a greater understanding of sexual assault in the military and how effectively sexual assault is addressed through the UCMJ as well as to identify any needed reforms in systems used to investigate, prosecute, and adjudicate the crime of sexual assault.

The conferees expect the Response Systems Panel to conduct a comprehensive review that will provide the conferees and the Department of Defense with a factual basis for making reforms to the systems used to investigate, prosecute and adjudicate adult sexual assault offenses under Article 120 the UCMJ. This panel, among other things, shall address issues such as: (1) how the military system for adjudicating sexual assault offenses compares to civilian systems in terms of protections for defendants and mitigation of potential punishments; (2) the impact of the method for selection of court members for trials by court-martial when compared to jury selection in civilian courts; (3) why victims are reluctant to report that they have been sexually assaulted; (4) the adequacy and appropriateness of medical care and legal support provided to victims of sexual assault; (5) whether medical records and rape kits are properly preserved; (6) allegations that commanders are unresponsive or indifferent to reports of sexual assault; (7) assertions that measures other than courts-martial are used inappropriately to address allegations of sexual assault or to shield alleged perpetrators who are considered superior performers; (8) the allegation that commanders are not held accountable for failure to enforce policies and laws related to adult sexual assault crimes and for failure to investigate and to hold service members who commit sexual assaults accountable for their actions; (9) whether victims of sexual assault who receive mental health counseling should be required to report such counseling when seeking a security clearance; (10) whether the military careers of victims who report sexual assaults are adversely affected; (11) how Military Rules of Evidence (MRE) 412 (relevance of alleged victim's sexual behavior or sexual predisposition) and 513 (psychotherapist-patient privilege) differ from civilian applications in ways that adversely impact on the willingness of victims to report sexual assaults and testify in court proceedings; and (12) the unique relationship between a trainer and trainee in basic military training.

The conferees expect the Judicial Proceedings Panel to build on the findings of the Response Systems Panel and to address, among other things: (1) whether MRE 412 and 513 are correctly applied; (2) the application of the "good military character" defense under MRE 404 and 405; and (3) whether subjecting victims to cross examination at Article 32, UCMJ, investigations discourages victims from reporting sexual assaults or participating in legal proceedings to hold assailants accountable.

With regard to the support rendered to the panels, the conferees expect that the department's Sexual Assault and Prevention Office (SAPRO) will be involved; however, in order to ensure that the SAPRO will not be diverted from its other missions, the conferees expect that the primary responsibility for supporting and resourcing the panels will come from other department and military service assets.

Retention of certain forms in connection with Restricted Reports on sexual assault at request of the member of the Armed Forces making the report (sec. 577)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 544) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that copies of Department of Defense Forms 2910 and 2911 filed in connection with a restricted report of sexual assault involving a member of the armed forces are retained for the longer of 50 years or the time provided for the retention of such forms in connection with unrestricted reports of sexual assault.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require retention of these reports at the request of a service member who files a restricted report of sexual assault.

General or flag officer review of and concurrence in separation of members of the Armed Forces making an Unrestricted Report of sexual assault (sec. 578)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 581) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a review of all unrestricted reports of sexual assault made by members of the armed forces since October 1, 2000, to determine the number of members who were subsequently separated from the service and the circumstances of and grounds for such separation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a policy to require a general or flag officer to review the circumstances of, and grounds for, the proposed involuntary separation of any service member who: (1) made an unrestricted report of a sexual assault; (2) is recommended for involuntary separation from the armed forces within 1 year after making the unrestricted report of a sexual assault; and (3) requests a review on the grounds that the member believes the recommendation for involuntary separation was initiated in retaliation for making the report. The concurrence of the general or flag officer conducting the review is required in order to separate a member who requests the review.

Department of Defense policy and plan for prevention and response to sexual harassment in the Armed Forces (sec. 579)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 575) that would require the secretaries of the military departments to include information on sexual harassment in the annual Department of Defense report on sexual assault.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 545) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a comprehensive policy to prevent and respond to sexual harassment in the armed forces.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a comprehensive policy to prevent and respond to sexual harassment in the armed forces and to develop a plan to collect information and data regarding substantiated incidents of sexual harassment involving members of the armed forces.

Subtitle I—Suicide Prevention and Resilience

Enhancement of oversight and management of Department of Defense suicide prevention and resilience programs (sec. 580)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 751) that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, to establish within the Office of the Secretary of Defense a position with responsibility for oversight and management of all suicide prevention and resilience programs and all preventative behavioral health programs of the Department of Defense (DOD), including those of the military departments and the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, to establish within the Office of the Secretary of Defense a position with responsibility for oversight of all suicide prevention and resilience programs of DOD and each of the military departments.

Reserve component suicide prevention and resilience program (sec. 581)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 512) that would amend chapter 1007 of title 10, United States Code, to codify the Suicide Prevention and Community Health and Response Program for National Guard and reserve component members, to move it from within the Office for Reintegration Programs to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, and to repeal subsection (i) of section 582 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (10 U.S.C. 10101 note). The program would terminate on October 1, 2015.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend chapter 1007 of title 10, United States Code, to codify the Suicide Prevention and Community Health and Response Program for National Guard and reserve component members, to require the Secretary of Defense to provide training on suicide prevention, resilience, and community healing and response at Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program events and activities, to move the program from within the Office for Reintegration Programs to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, and to repeal subsection (i) of section 582 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (10 U.S.C. 10101 note). The program would terminate on October 1, 2017.

Comprehensive policy on prevention of suicide among members of the Armed Forces (sec. 582)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 752) that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, to develop and implement a comprehensive program on the prevention of suicide among members of the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, to develop within the Department of Defense a comprehensive policy on the prevention of suicide among service members.

Study of resilience programs for members of the Army (sec. 583)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 528) that would require the Secretary of the Army to carry out a research program on resilience of members of the Army to determine the effectiveness of the current Comprehensive Soldier and Family Fitness Program and to verify the current Army means to reduce trends in high risk or self-destructive behavior.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Army to conduct a study of resilience programs within the Army. The amendment would also require that the study draw upon professionally accepted measurements and assessments to evaluate the impact of such programs.

Subtitle J—Other Matters

Issuance of prisoner-of-war medal (sec. 584)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 551) that would amend section 1128 of title 10, United States Code, to eliminate the requirement that foreign armed forces be “hostile to the United States” as a prerequisite for requiring the Secretary concerned to award the prisoner-of-war (POW) medal to any person taken prisoner or held captive while serving with the armed forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary concerned, pursuant to uniform regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, to issue a POW medal to any person serving with the armed forces under circumstances which the Secretary concerned finds to have been comparable to those under which persons have generally been held captive by enemy armed forces during periods of armed conflict.

The conferees note that the current POW medal statute contemplates the award only in the context of armed conflict or other action against an enemy of the United States and requires issuance of the award in these situations. The conferees believe this should continue to be the norm. However, the conferees also recognize that there may be circumstances when an individual serving with the armed forces is held captive by other than an enemy armed force, by other than a hostile nation, or during times other than periods of armed conflict in conditions comparable to those in which the POW medal is now required. For this reason, the conferees recommend amendment of current law to give the service secretaries the authority to issue an award in appropriate cases where the conditions of captivity are comparable to those in which a POW is held by enemy armed forces.

The conferees are aware of the inconsistent application of the statute by the Department of Defense and the Department of the Air Force to the U.S. airmen interned at Wauwilermoos, Switzerland, during World War II. Some internees have been awarded the medal, while the vast majority have not. In the conferees’ view, this is the result of inconsistent interpretations of provisions of the current law that would be removed by this provision. Furthermore, from the information provided to the conferees, it appears these individuals were held in conditions comparable to those in which POWs are held by enemy armed forces. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to review the cases of the Wauwilermoos internees to determine if such an award is merited under the regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, and to award the medal in appropriate cases.

Technical amendments relating to the termination of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology under defense base closure and realignment (sec. 585)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099) that would make technical amendments to the charter of the American Registry of Pathology in section 177 of title 10, United States Code, to remove the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, which was disestablished under past defense base closure and realignment actions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modification of requirement for reports in Federal Register on institutions of higher education ineligible for contracts and grants for denial of ROTC or military recruiter access to campus (sec. 586)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 559) that would amend section 983 of title 10, United States Code, to delete the requirement for the Secretary of Defense to publish in the Federal Register once every 6 months a list of each institution of higher education that is ineligible for contracts and grants because the Secretary has determined that the institution has a policy or practice that prohibits or prevents the establishment of a Senior Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (SROTC) unit or a student at that institution from enrolling in a SROTC unit at another institution of higher education.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Acceptance of gifts and services related to educational activities and voluntary services to account for missing persons (sec. 587)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 523) that would amend section 1501 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to accept gratuitous or voluntary services to assist in accounting for missing personnel.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 582) that would amend sections 2601(i)(2), 1588(a), and chapter 155 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the acceptance of voluntary services to facilitate accounting for missing persons and to authorize military museums and military education programs to enter into cooperative agreements with certain nonprofit entities.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend sections 2601 and 1588 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the acceptance of services that benefit the education of service members and their family members, and voluntary services to facilitate accounting for missing persons.

Display of State, District of Columbia, commonwealth, and territorial flags by the Armed Forces (sec. 588)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1096) that would amend section 2249b of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that whenever the official flags of all 50 States are displayed by the armed forces, such display shall include the flags of the District of Columbia, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would repeal the provision in section 2249b of title 10, United States Code, that prohibits the use of funds to prescribe or enforce any rule that arbitrarily excludes the official flag of any State, territory, or possession of the United States from any display of the flags of the States, territories, and possessions of the United States at an official ceremony of the Department of Defense.

Enhancement of authorities on admission of defense industry civilians to certain Department of Defense educational institutions and programs (sec. 589)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1048) that would amend section 7049(a) and 9314a(a) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize enrollment of eligible defense industry employees in educational programs leading to a professional continuing education certificate in the Naval Defense Development Program and the Air Force Institute of Technology and increase the maximum number of such employees who may enroll at each educational institution to 250 employees at any one time.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would retain the current limit of 125 defense industry employees authorized to be enrolled in the Naval Defense Development Program and the Air Force Institute of Technology at any one time and would require the Secretary of Defense to request an increase in this limit if the Secretary determines that it is in the best interest of the Department of Defense.

Extension of authorities to carry out a program of referral and counseling services to veterans at risk of homelessness who are transitioning from certain institutions (sec. 590)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1087) that would amend section 2023(d) of title 38, United States Code, to extend for 1 year the authority of the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the Secretary of Labor to carry out a program of referral and counseling services to veterans at risk of homelessness who are transitioning from certain institutions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Inspection of military cemeteries under the jurisdiction of Department of Defense (sec. 591)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 594) that would amend section 1(d) of Public Law 111-339 to require the Inspector General of the Department of Defense, instead of the Secretary of the Army, to report on the execution of and compliance with Army Directive 2010-04 on Enhancing the Operations and Oversight of the Army National Cemeteries Program, dated June 10, 2010, in fiscal year 2013. The provision would also amend section 592(d)(2) of Public Law 112-81 (124 Stat. 3592) to provide the Inspector General of the Department of Defense and the Secretaries of the military departments an additional 6 months to meet the inspection and reporting requirements required by that section.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on results of investigations and reviews conducted with respect to Port Mortuary Division of the Air Force Mortuary Affairs Operations Center at Dover Air Force Base (sec. 592)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1070) that would require the establishment of a Federal Mortuary Affairs Advisory Commission.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the investigations and reviews that were conducted with respect to the improper handling and preparation of the remains of deceased members of the armed forces and civilians at the Port Mortuary Division of the Air Force Mortuary Affairs Operations Center at Dover Air Force Base, including a summary of actions taken as a result of these reviews.

Preservation of editorial independence of Stars and Stripes (sec. 593)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 591) that would require the Secretary of Defense to extend the lease for the commercial office space in the District of Columbia currently occupied by the editorial staff and management operations of Stars and Stripes until the Secretary can provide space in a Government-owned facility located within the National Capital Region that is geographically remote from the Defense Media Activity's facilities at Fort Meade, Maryland.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than February 1, 2013, describing the implementation of this provision.

The conferees expect the Secretary to provide space in a qualifying Government-owned facility no later than the termination date of the current lease extension, which is November 25, 2013. The conferees direct that the current lease extension shall not be extended further without prior consultation with the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

National public awareness and participation campaign for Veterans' History Project of American Folklife Center (sec. 594)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1098) that would require the Director of the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress to carry out a national public awareness and participation campaign for the Veterans' History Project of the American Folklife Center.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on accuracy of data in the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (sec. 595)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 584) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act a plan to improve the completeness and accuracy of the data contained in the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Sense of Congress that the bugle call commonly known as Taps should be designated as the National Song of Military Remembrance (sec. 596)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 592) that would express the sense of Congress that "Taps" should be designated as the National Song of Remembrance.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1088).

The House recedes.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Sense of Senate on inclusion of assignments as academic instructor at the military service academies as joint duty assignments

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 504) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Secretary of Defense should include assignments in which military officers are assigned as instructors responsible for preparing and presenting academic courses on the faculty of the United States Military Academy, the United States Naval Academy, or the United States Air Force Academy as joint duty assignments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to designate assignments of military officers as instructors on the faculty of the United States Military Academy, the United States Naval Academy, or the United States Air Force Academy as the equivalent of a joint duty assignment for the purpose of satisfying the joint duty requirements established in section 661 of title 10, United States Code.

Authority for appointment of persons who are lawful permanent residents as officers of the National Guard

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 511) that would amend section 313(b)(1) of title 32, United States Code, to authorize a lawful permanent resident to be eligible for appointment as an officer of the National Guard.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

On-line tracking of certain reserve duty

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 513) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish an on-line means by which members of the Ready Reserve of the Armed Forces can track their operational active-duty service performed after January 28, 2008.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on mechanisms to ease the reintegration into civilian life of members of the National Guard and Reserves following a deployment on active duty

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 513) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study of the adequacy of mechanisms for the reintegration into civilian life of members of the National Guard and Reserves following a deployment on active duty in the armed forces, and to report to the congressional defense committees not later than 180 days after the enactment of this Act on the results of that study.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the annual Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program report, required by section 582 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) and section 597 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84), already addresses reintegration issues affecting members of the National Guard and Reserves.

Authorized leave available for members of the armed forces upon birth or adoption of child

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 524) that would increase the number of days of non-chargeable leave from 21 to 42 that a service member may be granted following adoption of a child. The provision would also provide that the other service member of a dual military couple be awarded 10 days of non-chargeable leave that could be taken while the primary caregiver is on adoption leave.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Command responsibility and accountability for remains of members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps who die outside the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 525) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure continuous military command responsibility and accountability for the remains of each deceased member of the military services who died outside the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Compliance with medical profiles issued for members of the armed forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 527) that would require the Secretary of a military department to ensure that commanding officers do not prohibit or restrict the ability of physicians to issue a medical profile and that they comply with the terms of a medical profile issued to a member of the armed forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe medical guidance is critical in advising commanders of potential problems, physical limitations, and potential situations that could be harmful to the service member or detrimental to the mission. Medical officials have the responsibility for documenting medical determinations and recommendations to commanders in the form of a profile. Commanders are responsible for assignment of military duties that are commensurate with the profile. The conferees expect that commanders will comply with service regulations and policies regarding assignment of duties to and deployment of service members who have a medical profile.

Persons who may exercise disposition authority regarding charges involving certain sexual misconduct offenses under the Uniform Code of Military Justice

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 532) that would require the Secretary of Defense to require the secretaries of the military departments to restrict disposition authority under the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) for certain sexual offenses to officers who have authority to convene special courts-martial and who are in the grade of O-6 (colonel or Navy captain) or higher.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has already exercised the authority granted to the Secretary under Article 22 of the UCMJ to withhold initial disposition authority from commanders who do not possess at least special court-martial convening authority and who are not in the grade of O-6 (colonel or Navy captain) or higher for specified sexual offenses under the UCMJ. Elsewhere in this act, an independent panel is required to monitor the implementation of the Secretary's policy withholding initial disposition authority.

Use of military installations as sites for marriage ceremonies or marriage-like ceremonies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 537) that would prohibit military installations or other property owned or rented by, or otherwise under the control of the Department of Defense, from being used to officiate, solemnize, or perform a marriage or marriage-like ceremony involving anything other than the union of one man with one woman.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Coordination between Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program and Small Business Development Centers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 538) that would require the Department of Defense to assist each State to coordinate services under the Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program with Small Business Development Centers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Inclusion of the School of Advanced Military Studies Senior Level Course as a senior level service school

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 551) that would amend section 2151(b)(1) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Senior Level Course of the School of Advanced Military Studies of the Army Command and General Staff College to offer Joint Professional Military Education Phase II (JPME II) instruction and credit.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand that the Senior Level Course of the School of Advanced Military Studies of the Army Command and General Staff College is a fellowship of the Army War College. The conferees recommend that JPME II credit for participants in this fellowship be awarded through the Army War College.

Award of Purple Heart to members of the armed forces who were victims of the attacks at recruiting station in Little Rock, Arkansas, and at Fort Hood, Texas

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 552) that would require the Secretary concerned to award the Purple Heart to members of the armed forces who were killed or wounded in the attacks that occurred at the recruiting station in Little Rock, Arkansas, on June 1, 2009, and at Fort Hood, Texas, on November 5, 2009.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 525) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the service secretaries, to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than March 1, 2013, a report on the advisability of modifying the criteria for the award of the Purple Heart to military personnel, and the Defense Medal of Freedom to civilian personnel, who are killed or wounded in a terrorist attack within the United States that is determined to be inspired by ideological, political, or religious beliefs that give rise to terrorism.

The conference agreement does not include these provisions.

Modification of eligibility for associate degree programs under the Community College of the Air Force

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 552) that would amend section 9315(b) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize enlisted members of the armed forces other than the Air Force participating in joint-service medical training and education or serving as instructors in such training and education to participate in associate degree programs of the Community College of the Air Force (CCAF).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The House report (H. Rept. 112-78) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (H.R. 1540) requires a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the results of a review of the feasibility and cost of allowing enlisted members from the other services, including the U.S. Coast Guard, to participate in the CCAF's associate degree program. This briefing, which has not yet been provided, was required within 180 days after enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81). The conferees await this briefing before making changes to the eligibility requirements for the CCAF's associate degree program.

Advancement of Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager, United States Air Force (retired) on the retired list

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 553) that would entitle Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager, United States Air Force (retired), to hold the rank of major general while on the retired list of the Air Force.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

In section 563 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375), Congress authorized the President to appoint, by and with the consent of the Senate, Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager, United States Air Force (retired), to the grade of major general on the retired list of the Air Force. This authorization is still in effect.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to conduct a good-faith review of Brigadier General Yeager's outstanding military record to ascertain whether the President should nominate him for appointment to the grade of major general on the retired list of the Air Force.

Authorization for award of the Medal of Honor to First Lieutenant Alonzo H. Cushing for acts of valor during the Civil War

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 554) that would authorize the President to award the Medal of Honor to First Lieutenant Alonzo H. Cushing for conspicuous acts of gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life and beyond the call of duty in the Civil War.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that this decision does not prejudice the final outcome with regard to the award of the Medal of Honor to First Lieutenant Alonzo Cushing, nor does it preclude further action by Congress.

Rather, the conferees require a better understanding of the process used and materials available to the Department of Defense and the military services for considering Medal of Honor recommendations for acts of heroism during the Civil War. The conferees are concerned about the ability to examine events that occurred nearly 150 years ago and to make individual determinations in a consistent, equitable, and well-informed manner.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the service secretaries, to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act, on the process and materials used by review boards for consideration of Medal of Honor recommendations for acts of heroism that occurred during the Civil War.

Grade of commissioned officers in uniformed medical accession programs

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 554) that would amend sections 2114(b) and 2121(c) of title 10, United States Code, to eliminate the requirement that officers serve in the grade of O-1 throughout their medical education.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority for service commitment for reservists who accept fellowships, scholarships, or grants to be performed in the Selected Reserve

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 555) that would amend section 2603(b) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize members of the Selected Reserve to fulfill a service obligation incurred for acceptance of a fellowship, scholarship, or grant by serving on active duty for a period of at least three times the length of the period of the education or training, or in the Selected Reserve for a period of at least five times the length of the period of the education or training.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Retroactive award of Army Combat Action Badge

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 555) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to award the Army Combat Action Badge to a person who, while a member of the Army, participated in combat during which the person personally engaged, or was personally engaged by, the enemy at any time during the period beginning on December 7, 1941, and ending on September 18, 2001.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on Navy review, findings, and actions pertaining to Medal of Honor nomination of Marine Corps Sergeant Rafael Peralta

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 556) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report describing the Navy review, findings, and actions pertaining to the Medal of Honor nomination of Marine Corps Sergeant Rafael Peralta.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Protection of child custody arrangements for parents who are members of the armed forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 564) that would amend title II of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (50 U.S.C. App. 521 et seq) to provide that if a court renders a temporary custody order based solely on the deployment or anticipated deployment of a service member, the court shall require the reinstatement of the prior custody order upon the return of the servicemember from deployment, unless the court finds that reinstatement is not in the best interest of the child. The provision would also prohibit a court from considering the absence of a servicemember by reason of deployment, or the possibility of deployment, in determining the best interest of a child.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Treatment of relocation of members of the armed forces for active duty for purposes of mortgage refinancing

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 565) that would amend section 303 of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (50 U.S.C. App. 533) to authorize a service member to refinance a principal residence in circumstances where the service member was unable to continue residing in the residence by virtue of receiving permanent change of station orders, or when deployed or mobilized in support of a military operation for a period of at least 18 months.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Continued submission of progress reports regarding certain incident information management tools

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 576) that would require the Secretary of Defense to continue to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the establishment of the Defense Incident-Based Reporting System and the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database until the Secretary certifies that both systems are fully functional and operational.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has reported that the Defense Incident-Based Reporting System and the Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database are fully functional and operational and that the Services are contributing the necessary information to each system. The conferees want to ensure that all sexual assault incidents are accurately documented to facilitate appropriate oversight.

Briefings on Department of Defense actions regarding sexual assault prevention and response in the armed forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 577) that would require the Secretary of Defense, or the designee of the Secretary, to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the status of implementation of the sexual assault provisions in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 112-81), and other initiatives of the Secretary of Defense and service secretaries to address sexual assault involving members of the armed forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Family briefings concerning accountings for members of the armed forces and Department of Defense civilian employees listed as missing

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 581) that would amend section 1501 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Affairs to conduct periodic briefings for families of missing persons on Department of Defense activities to account for those persons.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Inclusion of information on substantiated reports of sexual harassment in member's official service record

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 583) that would require that a notation of substantiated reports of sexual harassment against a member of the military services be included in the service record of the member.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress on military sexual trauma

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 584) that would express the sense of the Congress that the Secretary of Veterans Affairs should expand efforts to raise awareness about military sexual trauma and the treatment and services that the Department provides to victims.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

In light of the fact that the available data shows an overwhelming number of military sexual trauma claims go unreported within the Department of Defense, making it very difficult for veterans to show proof of the assault when filing claims with the Department of Veterans Affairs for post-traumatic stress disorder and other mental health conditions caused by military sexual trauma, the conferees believe the Secretary of Veterans Affairs should review the disability process to ensure that victims of military sexual trauma who file claims for service connection do not face unnecessary or overly burdensome requirements in order to claim disability benefits with the Department. The conferees also encourage the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to expand efforts to raise awareness about treatment and services provided to victims of sexual assault.

Posthumous honorary promotion of Sergeant Paschal Conley to second lieutenant in the Army

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 585) that would authorize the President to issue an appropriate posthumous honorary commission promoting Sergeant (retired) Paschal Conley to second lieutenant in the Army.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees believe that the President has authority to issue this posthumous commission pursuant to Article II, Section 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Department of Defense Sexual Assault and Harassment Oversight and Advisory Council

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 586) that would amend chapter 7 of title 10, United States Code, to establish a Sexual Assault and Harassment Oversight and Advisory Council.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Inclusion of freely associated states within scope of Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 590) that would amend section 2031(a) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize service secretaries to establish and maintain Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps units at qualifying secondary educational institutions in the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, or the Republic of Palau.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Recommended conduct during sounding of bugle call commonly known as "Taps"

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 593) that would amend chapter 3 of title 36, United States Code, to establish the recommended conduct of persons during the sounding of the bugle call known as "Taps".

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Pilot program to provide transitional assistance to members of the armed forces with a focus on science, technology, engineering, and mathematics

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 595) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct pilot programs to provide transitional assistance to members of the armed forces with a focus on science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are encouraged by the Department of Defense, Department of Veterans Affairs, and Department of Labor revised Transition Assistance Program that will provide a structured, integrated transition model with a goal of career readiness for military personnel as they transition out of military service. The conferees recognize that the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics offer critically needed opportunities for job growth and American competitiveness, and urge that the revised plan include elements to encourage transitioning service members to acquire and develop these skills.

Sense of Congress regarding the recovery of the remains of certain members of the armed forces killed in Thurston Island, Antarctica

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 596) that would express the sense of the Congress reaffirming its support for the recovery and return to the United States of the remains of crewmembers who died as a result of the crash of a Navy aircraft known as George One over Thurston Island, Antarctica. The provision would also encourage the Department of Defense to review the facts and research pertaining to the crash and to pursue new efforts to achieve this goal.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Navy previously assessed the feasibility of recovering the George One crew and, owing to the location of the crash, logistics support, climate in the region, potential hazard to the recovery team, and cost, determined that the difficulty and risk involved with a recovery is too great, and therefore designated the George One to be the final resting place of those who lost their lives in the crash.

Report on effects of multiple deployments

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 597) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a report on the effects of multiple deployments on the well-being of military personnel and any recommended changes to health evaluations prior to redeployments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Establishment of chain of command for Army National Military Cemeteries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 598) that would require the Secretary of the Army to establish a chain of command for the Army National Military Cemeteries, to include a military commander of the Army National Military Cemeteries to replace the current civilian director upon the termination of the tenure of the director.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Military salute during recitation of pledge of allegiance by members of the Armed Forces not in uniform and by veterans

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 599) that would amend section 4 of title 4, United States Code, to authorize members of the armed forces not in uniform and veterans to render the military salute during the recitation of the pledge of allegiance.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE VI—COMPENSATION AND OTHER PERSONEL BENEFITS

Subtitle A—Pay and Allowances

Fiscal year 2013 increase in military basic pay (sec. 601)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 601) that would authorize a pay raise for members of the uniformed services of 1.7 percent effective January 1, 2013. This across-the-board pay raise is equal to the Administration request.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of authority to provide temporary increase in rates of basic allowance for housing under certain circumstances (sec. 602)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 603) that would extend for 1 year the authority of the Secretary of Defense to temporarily increase the rate of basic allowance for housing in areas impacted by natural disasters or experiencing a sudden influx of personnel.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Basic allowance for housing for two-member couples when one member is on sea duty (sec. 603)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 602) that would authorize certain uniformed service members in a pay grade below E-6, who are assigned to sea duty, and who are married to another uniformed service member to receive a basic allowance for housing (BAH) in circumstances where they currently do not qualify. Current law requires that both married members be in a pay grade below E-6, have no dependents, and be simultaneously assigned to sea duty.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Rates of basic allowance for housing for members performing active Guard and Reserve duty (sec. 604)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 603) that would amend section 403(g) of title 37, United States Code, to prohibit the rate of basic allowance for housing (BAH) paid to a member of the Army National Guard or Air National Guard to be reduced upon the transition of the member between active duty and full-time National Guard duty when the transition occurs without a break in active service.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 601) that would require that BAH for Army and Air National Guard members on full-time duty be based on their permanent duty station and not modified upon the transition of the member between active duty and full-time National Guard duty so long as the transition occurs without a break in active service.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add a new subsection to section 403(g) of title 37, United States Code, to require that the BAH paid to a member of a reserve component performing active guard and reserve duty as defined in section 101(d)(6) of title 10, United States Code, be based on their permanent duty station in most cases, even when the member is mobilized for service on active duty. The amendment would further require that during such transitions between active duty and active guard and reserve duty, affected members continue to retain uninterrupted eligibility for BAH rate protection as provided for under sections (b)(6) and (c)(2) of the section, so long as the member remains on active duty without a break in service. Finally, the amendment would require that members receiving BAH at a rate higher than provided for under this provision, as of the date of enactment of this Act, continue to receive the higher rate until such time as they are reassigned for duty at their permanent duty station, when they shall begin to receive BAH at the prevailing rate in effect at that duty station. The Secretary concerned, with approval of the Secretary of Defense, may continue to pay the higher rate in certain cases to ensure fairness and equity or to serve the best interests of the United States.

Payment of benefit for nonparticipation of eligible members in Post-Deployment/Mobilization Respite Absence program due to Government error (sec. 605)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 605) that would require the Secretary of Defense to pay eligible individuals $200 per day for days earned under the Post-Deployment/Mobilization Respite Absence (PDMRA) program, when the individuals were unable to use those days due to government error, as determined by a board for the correction of military records.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 602).

The House recedes with a technical amendment to allow the Secretary concerned to determine the required government error by processes other than through a board for the correction of military records.

Subtitle B—Bonuses and Special and Incentive Pays

One-year extension of certain bonus and special pay authorities for reserve forces (sec. 611)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend for 1 year the authority to pay the Selected Reserve reenlistment bonus, the Selected Reserve affiliation or enlistment bonus, special pay for enlisted members assigned to certain high-priority units, the Ready Reserve enlistment bonus for persons without prior service, the Ready Reserve enlistment and reenlistment bonus for persons with prior service, the Selected Reserve enlistment and reenlistment bonus for persons with prior service, travel and transportation expenses for inactive-duty training outside normal commuting distance, and income replacement for reserve component members experiencing extended and frequent mobilization for active duty service.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 611).

The Senate recedes.

One-year extension of certain bonus and special pay authorities for health care professionals (sec. 612)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 612) that would extend for 1 year the authority to pay the nurse officer candidate accession bonus, education loan repayment for certain health professionals who serve in the Selected Reserve, accession and retention bonuses for psychologists, the accession bonus for registered nurses, incentive special pay for nurse anesthetists, special pay for Selected Reserve health professionals in critically short wartime specialties, the accession bonus for dental officers, the accession bonus for pharmacy officers, the accession bonus for medical officers in critically short wartime specialties, and the accession bonus for dental specialist officers in critically short wartime specialties.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 612).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

One-year extension of special pay and bonus authorities for nuclear officers (sec. 613)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 613) that would extend for 1 year the authority to pay the special pay for nuclear-qualified officers extending period of active service, the nuclear career accession bonus, and the nuclear career annual incentive bonus.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 613).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

One-year extension of authorities relating to title 37 consolidated special pay, incentive pay, and bonus authorities (sec. 614)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 614) that would extend for 1 year the general bonus authority for enlisted members, the general bonus authority for officers, special bonus and incentive pay authorities for nuclear officers, special aviation incentive pay and bonus authorities for officers, and special bonus and incentive pay authorities for officers in health professions. The provision would also extend for 1 year the authority to pay hazardous duty pay, assignment or special duty pay, skill incentive pay or proficiency bonus, and retention incentives for members qualified in critical military skills or assigned to high priority units.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 614).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

One-year extension of authorities relating to payment of other title 37 bonuses and special pays (sec. 615)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 615) that would extend for 1 year the authority to pay the aviation officer retention bonus, assignment incentive pay, the reenlistment bonus for active members, the enlistment bonus, the accession bonus for new officers in critical skills, the incentive bonus for conversion to military occupational specialty to ease personnel shortage, the incentive bonus for transfer between armed forces, and the accession bonus for officer candidates.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 615).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Increase in maximum amount of officer affiliation bonus for officers in the Selected Reserve (sec. 616)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 616) that would increase the maximum amount of the officer affiliation bonus for officers in the Selected Reserve from $10,000 to $20,000.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 616).

The Senate recedes.

Increase in maximum amount of incentive bonus for reserve component members who convert military occupational specialty to ease personnel shortages (sec. 617)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 617) that would amend section 326 of title 37, United States Code, to increase the maximum amount of the incentive bonus to convert military occupational specialty to ease personnel shortages from $2,000 to $4,000 in the case of a member of a reserve component.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 617).

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle C—Travel and Transportation Allowances

Permanent change of station allowances for members of Selected Reserve units filling a vacancy in another unit after being involuntarily separated (sec. 621)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 631) that would amend sections 474 and 476 of title 37, United States Code, to authorize the payment of travel and transportation allowances for certain members of the Selected Reserve, their dependents, and household effects when the member is involuntarily separated due to force structure reductions between October 1, 2012, and December 31, 2018, and fills a critical vacancy in another unit of the Selected Reserve that is at least 150 miles from the member's residence.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Authority for comprehensive program for space-available travel on Department of Defense aircraft (sec. 622)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 632) that would add a new section 2641c to title 10, United States Code, that would codify the authority of the Secretary of Defense to establish a program to provide transportation to active and reserve component members, retirees, certain widows, and dependents on Department of Defense (DOD) aircraft on a space-available basis beginning January 1, 2014, or such earlier date as determined by the Secretary pursuant to regulation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would incorporate the authority in section 2641b of title 10, United States Code, relating to space-available travel for retired members residing in Commonwealths or possessions of the United States for certain health care services, within the program authority provided by this provision. The amendment would also require the Secretary to submit to the congressional defense committees an initial implementation report describing the basis for the establishment of a travel program under this provision, categories of individuals who would be provided travel under the program, how the Secretary would ensure that the program was conducted in a budget-neutral manner, and the metrics by which the Secretary would monitor the efficiency and effective execution of the program.

The conferees emphasize that the purpose of no-cost, space-available travel on military aircraft is to assist military members and their families in responding to emergent personal circumstances and arduous duty conditions and to provide a means of respite from the rigors of active duty, for members of the active and reserve components. The option to seek space-available travel has also been offered, at a lower priority, to military retirees in recognition of their careers of service and to authorized members of the Selected Reserve. The conferees note that the authority given to the Secretary in this provision includes the discretion to limit travel under the program to one or more categories of traveler in order to control costs and ensure the safety, security, and efficient processing of travelers. The conferees expect the Secretary to exercise this discretion, when necessary, to ensure the program's efficiency and budget neutrality, and to maintain priority of travel for active duty members and their families, especially during peak travel times and at the busiest travel locations.

In executing a space-available travel program, DOD must provide accurate information about the hardships aspiring space-available travelers are likely to experience. As DOD noted in its December 2007 report to Congress on space-available travel, "current eligible Space-A travelers often experience disillusionment because of the contrast between the perceived promises of Space-A travel . . . and the reality of arduous conditions often encountered when using the system." The conferees believe that DOD should do more to educate potential travelers on these realities.

Subtitle D—Benefits and Services for Members Being Separated or Recently Separated

Extension of authority to provide two years of commissary and exchange benefits after separation (sec. 631)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 631) that would extend through December 31, 2018, the authority for service members involuntarily separated from military service to continue to use commissary and exchange stores during the 2 year period following separation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Transitional use of military family housing (sec. 632)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 632) that would reinstate authority to permit service members who are involuntarily separated from military service to continue to reside, along with their families, in military family housing provided or leased by the Department of Defense for up to 180 days following the date of such separation. The provision would also clarify that such members would not be authorized to draw the basic allowance for housing during this period. The authority provided under this provision would expire December 31, 2018.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle E—Disability, Retired Pay, and Survivor Benefits

Repeal of requirement for payment of Survivor Benefit Plan premiums when participant waives retired pay to provide a survivor annuity under Federal Employees Retirement System and terminating payment of the Survivor Benefit Plan annuity (sec. 641)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 651) that would amend sections 1450 and 1452 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that military retirees who have elected to participate in the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) and who subsequently elect to waive their military retired pay in favor of a survivor annuity under the Federal Employees Retirement System, do not have to continue paying premiums under SBP.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 641).

The Senate recedes.

Repeal of automatic enrollment in Family Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance for members of the Armed Forces married to other members (sec. 642)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 642) that would amend section 1967 of title 38, United States Code, to remove service members from automatic enrollment as a dependent under the Family Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance program when they are insured on their own behalf under the Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Clarification of computation of combat-related special compensation for chapter 61 disability retirees (sec. 643)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 643) that would amend section 1413a of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that the maximum award under the combat-related special compensation (CRSC) statute may not, when combined with the amount of retired pay payable to the retiree after mandatory reductions are taken pursuant to sections 5304 and 5305 of title 38, United States Code, cause the total of such combined payments to exceed the amount of retired pay the member would have been entitled to based solely on years of service. The provision would be effective on October 1, 2013.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would make the provision effective on January 1, 2013.

Subtitle F—Commissary and Non-appropriated Fund Instrumentality Benefits and Operations

Repeal of certain recordkeeping and reporting requirements applicable to commissary and exchange stores overseas (sec. 651)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 642) that would eliminate the requirement that the Secretary of Defense report to Congress the changes in restrictions on the sale of merchandise by commissary and exchange stores overseas that are required to prevent the resale of such merchandise in violation of treaty obligations of the United States or host nation laws.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Treatment of Fisher House for the Families of the Fallen and Meditation Pavilion at Dover Air Force Base, Delaware, as a Fisher House (sec. 652)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 643) that would amend section 2493(a) of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that primary next of kin, other family members, and escorts of family members of service members who die while located or serving overseas are authorized users of the Fisher House for the Families of the Fallen and Meditation Pavilion at Dover Air Force Base, Delaware.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 583).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle G—Military Lending

Additional enhancements of protections on consumer credit for members of the Armed Forces and their dependents (sec. 661)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 652) that would amend section 987 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that States may not waive the application of consumer protections enacted for the benefit of state residents on the basis of nonresident or military status of an individual covered under that section. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to consult with federal regulators at least once every 2 years in carrying out the duties required under section 987, and would remove the Office of Thrift Supervision from the list of federal regulators with whom the Secretary is required to consult. Finally, the provision would be effective no later than 1 year from the date of enactment of this Act, or such earlier date as determined by the Secretary of Defense in regulation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment that would include the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection on the list of federal regulators with whom the Secretary is required to consult.

Effect of violations of protections on consumer credit extended to members of the Armed Forces and their dependents (sec. 662)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 653) that would amend section 987 of title 10, United States Code, to provide for civil liability in United States district court for violations of consumer protections for service members and dependents under that section.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 655) that would further amend section 987 of title 10, United States Code, to require that the protections afforded by that section be enforced by the agencies specified in section 108 of the Truth in Lending Act (15

U.S.C. 1607) in the manner set forth in that section or as set forth under any other applicable authorities available to such agencies by law.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees expect that, for the purposes of the enforcement authority under this section, a violation of the Military Lending Act would be treated as though it were a violation of the Truth in Lending Act.

Consistent definition of dependent for purposes of applying limitations on terms of consumer credit extended to certain members of the Armed Forces and their dependents (sec. 663)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 661) that would amend section 987(i) of title 10, United States Code, to conform the definition of dependent under that section with the definition of dependent contained in subparagraphs (A), (D), (E), and (I) of section 1072(2) of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 654).

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle H—Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission
Purpose, scope, and definitions (sec. 671)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1601) that would establish a short title for this series of provisions creating the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1602) that would establish the purpose of the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission as: (1) ensuring the long-term viability of the All-Volunteer Force; (2) enabling a high quality of life for military families; and (3) modernizing and achieving fiscal sustainability of the compensation and retirement systems.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 1603) that would establish definitions for common terms used in the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission Act of 2012.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would remove the short title and amend the first purpose of the commission to ensure the long term viability of the All-Volunteer Force by sustaining the required human resources of that force during all levels of conflict and economic conditions. The House amendment would also require the Commission, prior to making recommendations for changes to the military compensation and retirement systems, to examine all laws and policies of the Federal Government concerning payment of government benefits to current and former service members, veterans, and family members, including survivors, as well as laws and policies affecting various programs and benefits under the Department of Veterans Affairs, including outlays from the various federal trust funds supporting those programs. The amendment would further require that the Commission consider the interrelationship between and among the various federal benefits affecting service members, veterans, survivors, and their families in developing recommendations on the military compensation and retirement systems.

Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission (sec. 672)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1604) that would establish in the executive branch an independent commission called the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission. The provision would provide that the Commission be composed of nine members appointed by the President, in consultation with the Chairman and Ranking Members of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives. The provision would provide that the President designate one member as the Commission's Chairman. The provision would require that Commission members have significant expertise in federal compensation and retirement systems, including the military compensation and retirement systems, private sector compensation, retirement, or human resource systems, actuarial science, and be selected based on their knowledge and experience with the uniformed services and the military compensation and retirement systems. The provision would require that at least five members of the Commission have active duty military experience, that at least one member have experience as an enlisted member of the armed forces, that at least one member have experience as a member of a reserve component, and that at least one member was a spouse of a military member, or be someone with significant experience in military family issues. Finally, the provision would prohibit the appointment of individuals as members of the Commission who are, or were within the year preceding appointment, employed by a veterans service organization or military-related advocacy group or association.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 1608) that would establish the pay rate for members of the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission as the daily equivalent of the annual rate of basic pay for level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code. The provision would set the pay rate for the Chairman of the Commission as the daily equivalent of the annual rate of pay for level III of the Executive Schedule under section 5314 of title 5, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would provide that the Commission be composed of nine members, with the President appointing one, the Majority Leader and Minority Leader of the Senate appointing two each in consultation with the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate, respectively, and the Speaker and Minority Leader of the House of Representatives appointing two each in consultation with the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, respectively. The amendment would also eliminate the requirements for individuals appointed to the Commission to have experience as a member of the uniformed services or as a spouse of a member.

Commission hearings and meetings (sec. 673)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1605) that would require the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission to conduct hearings on recommendations for legislative changes under consideration, and that all hearings be open to the public, except those in which classified information might be considered. The provision would require that any hearing open to the public be advertised on a federal website no less than 14 days prior to the hearing. The provision would require the Commission to hold its initial meeting within 30 days of all members being appointed. The provision would establish that five members constitute a quorum of the Commission. Lastly, the provision would require the Commission to seek written public comment on recommendations under consideration.

The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 1611) that would authorize the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission to lease space and acquire personal property to the extent funds are available.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Administrator of General Services, within 90 days after enactment of this Act and in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to identify and make available suitable excess space within the Federal space inventory to house the operations of the Commission.

Principles and procedure for Commission recommendations (sec. 674)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1606) that would require the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission to conduct a review of the military retirement and compensation systems in the context of current compensation and retirement programs, force management objectives, and changes in life expectancy and the labor force. The provision would require the President, within 5 months of the establishment of the Commission, to establish and transmit to Congress and the Commission principles for modernizing the military compensation and retirement systems, including maintaining recruitment and retention of the best military personnel, modernizing the active and reserve military compensation and retirement systems, differentiating between active and reserve military service, differentiating between service in the armed forces and service in the other uniformed services, and ensuring the fiscal sustainability of the military compensation and retirement systems. The provision would require that recommendations of the Commission grandfather the benefits of service members who first became a member of a uniformed service before the date of enactment of a military compensation and retirement modernization act, except that such recommendations may include an opt-in mechanism for members who would choose to be covered by some or all of the provisions of a military compensation and retirement modernization act.

The provision would require the Secretary of Defense, within 9 months of the establishment of the Commission, to transmit to Congress and the Commission the Secretary's recommendations for military compensation and retirement modernization, and would require the Secretary to consult the Secretaries of Health and Human Services, Commerce, and Homeland Security on recommendations that affect the Public Health Service, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the U.S. Coast Guard, respectively. The provision would require the Commission to conduct public hearings on the Secretary's recommendations. The provision would require the Commission, within 15 months of its establishment, to transmit to the President and Congress a report containing its findings, conclusions, and recommendations for modernizing the military compensation and retirement systems, and legislative proposals necessary to implement those recommendations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that the retired pay of currently serving members who joined a uniformed service prior to the date of enactment of an Act to modernize the military compensation and retirement systems could not be less than they would be eligible to receive under the current military compensation and retirement system, nor may the date at which they are eligible to receive such retired pay be adjusted to the financial detriment of the member. Further, the House amendment would prohibit the adjustment of retired pay of retired service members retired as of the date of enactment of an Act to modernize the military compensation and retirement systems by any change enacted pursuant to such an Act.

Consideration of Commission recommendations by the President (sec. 675)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1607) that would require the President, within 60 days of receiving the report of the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission, to transmit to Congress and the Commission a report approving or disapproving the Commission's recommendations. The provision would also provide for a procedure for the Commission to revise its recommendations in response to disapproval by the President. Finally, the provision would provide for expedited and protected consideration of military compensation and retirement modernization legislation in the Senate and the House of Representatives, without amendment, and without being subject to points of order, other than budget points of order.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would remove the provisions concerning expedited and protected consideration of military compensation and retirement modernization legislation by the Congress.

Executive Director (sec. 676)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1609) that would require the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission to appoint, and fix the rate of pay of, an Executive Director in accordance with section 3161 of title 5, United States Code. The provision would prohibit the appointment as Executive Director of any person having served on active duty in the armed forces, as a civilian employee of the Department of Defense, or as an employee of a veterans service organization or military-related advocacy group or association during the 1-year period preceding the date of appointment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Staff (sec. 677)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1610) that would authorize the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission Executive Director to appoint and fix the rate of pay of additional personnel to serve as staff for the Commission. The provision would limit the number of Department of Defense personnel detailed to the Commission to no more than one-third of the total personnel employed as staff, and would prohibit the employment of or detail to the Commission staff of anyone employed by the Department of Defense who was involved in the formation of recommendations for military compensation and retirement modernization. The provision would limit the number of personnel eligible for military retired pay to no more than one-fourth of the total personnel serving as Commission staff. The provision would prohibit a person from serving on the Commission staff if that person had been employed by a veterans service organization or military-related advocacy group or association within the 1-year period preceding employment on the Commission staff. Finally, the provision would prohibit the service of any staff member to the Commission employed by or detailed from the Department of Defense from being considered in that staff member's efficiency or fitness report.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the limitations on detailees from the Department of Defense to any executive branch department, and would also extend the protections concerning performance reviews to staff members detailed or employed by any of the uniformed services.

Judicial review precluded (sec. 678)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1612) that would preclude the actions of the President, the Secretary of Defense, and the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission from judicial review.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Termination (sec. 679)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1613) that would provide for the termination of the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission no later than 26 months after the Commission's establishment date.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Funding (sec. 680)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1613) that would require that of the amounts authorized to be appropriated for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2013, up to $10.0 million shall be available to the Military Compensation and Retirement Modernization Commission to carry out its duties under this title.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

SUBTITLE I—OTHER MATTERS

Equal treatment for members of Coast Guard Reserve called to active duty under title 14, United States Code (sec. 681)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 663) that would include mobilization under section 712 of title 14, United States Code, within the definition of "contingency operation" in section 101 of title 10, United States Code, and would make the application of the change retroactive to April 19, 2010, for the purpose of credit for certain benefits.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the retroactive date to December 31, 2011.

Report regarding Department of Veterans Affairs claims process transformation plan (sec. 682)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1085) that would require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to submit to Congress, not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, a plan to reduce the current backlog of pending claims for benefits under laws administered by the Secretary and more efficiently process claims for such benefits in the future, including a plan to partner with non-federal entities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that the report include a detailed explanation of the Veterans Benefits Administration Claims Transformation Plan.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Modification of program guidance relating to the award of Post-Deployment/Mobilization Respite Absence administrative absence days to members of the reserve components under DOD Instruction 1327.06

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 604) that would grandfather certain members of the reserve components deployed in support of a contingency operation prior to October 1, 2011, who were adversely impacted by policy changes issued on that date affecting the Post-Deployment/Mobilization Respite Absence program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the issue was addressed by Public Law 112-120, enacted into law on May 25, 2012.

Travel and transportation allowances for non-medical attendants for members receiving care in a residential treatment program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 621) that would authorize travel and transportation allowances for qualified non-medical attendants for members receiving care in a residential treatment program if the attending health care professional or hospital commander deems that participation in treatment by the non-medical attendant is essential to the treatment of the member.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees have been informed that the Department of Defense is revising its Military Health System policies and the TRICARE benefit for substance use disorder treatment in response to the findings of an internal review conducted last year and the recent Institute of Medicine (IOM) Study on "Substance Use Disorders in the U.S. Armed Forces" made publicly available on September 17, 2012. Changes to the TRICARE benefit with respect to intensive outpatient and office-based services are currently under internal review and coordination.

Regarding intensive outpatient services, the conferees have been informed that the TRICARE Management Activity (TMA) has issued a regulatory clarification to managed care support contractors on the scope of the partial hospitalization program (PHP) benefit, allowing for the reimbursement of PHP services, defined as a time-limited, ambulatory, active-treatment program that offers therapeutically intensive, coordinated, and structured clinical services within a stable therapeutic environment. Full-day, half-day, evening, and weekend programs may be included. The conferees have also been informed that TRICARE now allows for the reimbursement of half-day partial hospitalization, defined as treatment of a minimum of 3 hours per day but less than 6 hours per day. These two regulatory clarifications allow for PHP services to be provided less than 5 days per week or for 3 hours per day, which TRICARE refers to as half-day partial hospitalization, but may also be called "intensive outpatient" care at facilities providing such outpatient services.

Charitable organizations eligible for donations of unusable commissary store food and other food prepared for the armed forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 641) that would clarify that the Secretary of Defense may make donations of unusable food to charitable food banks, food pantries, and soup kitchens.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense is currently authorized to donate unusable, unmarketable, and unsaleable food to certain entities and encourage the Secretary to utilize this authority to the maximum extent practicable.

Purchase of sustainable products, local food products, and recyclable materials for resale in commissary and exchange store systems

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 644) that would require the governing body providing oversight and management direction to the military exchange and commissary systems to establish guidelines for the identification of fresh meat, poultry, seafood, produce, and other products raised or produced through sustainable methods that are not harmful to the environment. The provision would also require the governing body to establish, not later than September 30, 2017, goals for all exchange and commissary stores to purchase sustainable products, local food products, and recyclable materials.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees understand that the Department of Defense is currently working to develop and implement policies to increase the availability of sustainable products and local food products in the commissary and exchange store systems, and encourage the Department to make every effort to provide consumers with sustainable and local product choices wherever feasible.

Enhancement of protections on consumer credit for members of the armed forces and their dependents

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 651) that would amend section 987 of title 10, United States Code, to require that vehicle title loans and payday loans, regardless of duration or whether they are open- or closed-end, are included within the definition of "consumer credit" contained in regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Defense pursuant to that section. The provision would also require the Secretary to develop a policy on the predatory extension of credit through installment loans that target members of the armed forces and their dependents.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees recognize the progress the Department of Defense has made since consumer protections for military members and their dependents against predatory lending were enacted in the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364), codified in section 987 of title 10, United States Code. A recent report by the Consumer Federation of America, The Military Lending Act Five Years Later, found that "the law has been largely effective in curbing predatory . . . lending to covered borrowers." Nevertheless, the report found that many predatory lenders have modified their products to avoid coverage by the Department's rules implementing section 987, and recommended that "the Department of Defense . . . conduct an internal study of service members, financial counselors, and legal assistance/JAG officers to ascertain the impact of the current set of . . . rules on the use of defined products, problems caused by similar and emerging products, and the use of allotments to pay for commercial credit."

The conferees are concerned that the Department must remain vigilant to eliminate continuing, evolving predatory lending practices targeting service members and their families, and believe the Department should review its regulations implementing section 987, to address changes in the industry and the evolution of lending products offered since 2007, continuing use of predatory marketing practices, and other abuses identified by consumer protection advocates, including the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's Office of Servicemember Affairs.

The conferees direct the Secretary to conduct surveys of counselors, legal assistance attorneys, service members, and other appropriate personnel, and to consult with both consumer protection advocacy groups and representatives of the financial services industry to determine if changes to rules implementing section 987 are necessary to protect covered borrowers from continuing and evolving predatory lending practices, and to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives no later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act on the results of such review.

Mortgage protection for members of the armed forces, surviving spouses, and certain veterans

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 664) that would amend section 303 of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (50 U.S.C. App 533) to expand certain mortgage protections for service members, surviving spouses, and veterans; to make knowing violations of these protections a criminal offense; and to increase civil penalties for violations of these protections.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Study on issuing identification cards to certain members upon discharge

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 665) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study to assess the feasibility of issuing identification cards to certain service members upon discharge from the service.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on issuance by Armed Forces Medical Examiner of death certificates for members of the armed forces who die on active duty abroad

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 662) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the issuance by the Armed Forces Medical Examiner of death certificates for members of the armed forces who die on active duty abroad.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE VII—HEALTH CARE PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—TRICARE and Other Health Care Benefits

Extension of TRICARE Standard coverage and TRICARE dental program for members of the Selected Reserve who are involuntarily separated (sec. 701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 702) that would amend section 1076d(b) of title 10, United States Code, to authorize 180 days of extended coverage through December 31, 2018, under the program known as TRICARE Reserve Select for members of the Selected Reserve who are involuntarily separated without cause under other than adverse conditions. The provision would also amend section 1076a(a)(1) to authorize extended coverage through December 31, 2018, for members of the Selected Reserve enrolled in the TRICARE dental program.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 701) that would authorize similar periods of extended coverage under TRICARE Reserve Select and the TRICARE dental program for members of the Selected Reserve, on a permanent basis.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Inclusion of certain over-the-counter drugs in TRICARE uniform formulary (sec. 702)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 702) that would amend section 1074g of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Department of Defense to place selected over-the-counter drugs on the uniform formulary and make such drugs available to eligible beneficiaries. An over-the-counter drug would only be included on the uniform formulary if the Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee finds that the drug is cost-effective and clinically effective. The provision would also authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish a copayment amount for these drugs, if appropriate.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment clarifying that the Secretary is authorized to not charge any copayment for over-the-counter drugs under this provision.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense has been providing selected over-the-counter drugs with no beneficiary copayment under demonstration authority for several years, and that the pilot program has resulted in significant savings to the Department. The conferees encourage the Department to continue to implement the authority provided by this section in a similar manner.

Modification of requirements on mental health assessments for members of the Armed Forces deployed in connection with a contingency operation (sec. 703)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 713) that would amend section 1074m(a) of title 10, United States Code, to align mandatory post-deployment person-to-person mental health assessments for certain service members with other existing health assessments. The provision would also limit the pre-deployment mental health assessments required under this section to those service members who will be subjected or exposed to operational risk factors during deployment in a contingency operation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend section 1074m(a) of title 10, United States Code, to align mandatory post-deployment person-to-person mental health assessments for certain service members with other existing health assessments by changing the required assessment period from between 180 days after deployment to 1 year after deployment, to between 180 days after deployment to 18 months after deployment.

Use of Department of Defense funds for abortions in cases of rape and incest (sec. 704)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 711) that would authorize the use of Department of Defense funds for abortions in cases of rape or incest.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Pilot program on certain treatments of autism under the TRICARE program (sec. 705)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 704) that would authorize behavioral health treatment, including applied behavior analysis therapy, for autism spectrum disorders when prescribed by a physician to be covered under the basic TRICARE program for certain beneficiaries.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 705) that would authorize behavioral health treatment, including applied behavior analysis therapy, for all developmental disabilities as defined by section 15002(8) of title 42, United States Code, including autism spectrum disorders, when prescribed by a physician to be covered under the basic TRICARE program for certain beneficiaries.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a 1-year pilot program to provide for the treatment of autism spectrum disorders, including applied behavior analysis, for all TRICARE beneficiaries covered under the basic program.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense (DOD) has been ordered by the District Court for the District of Columbia to provide coverage under the basic TRICARE benefit for applied behavior analysis. The conferees understand that the plaintiffs and DOD have each submitted motions to reconsider the court order. The conferees have provided DOD this 1-year authority in order to allow DOD to assess such coverage independent from litigation proceedings.

Pilot program on enhancements of Department of Defense efforts on mental health in the National Guard and Reserves through community partnerships (sec. 706)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 725) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to carry out a pilot program to enhance the efforts of the Department of Defense (DOD) in research, treatment, education, and outreach on mental health, substance use disorders, and traumatic brain injury in members of the National Guard and reserves, their family members, and their caregivers through community partners. The provision would also authorize the Secretary to award grants to these community partners.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 722) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to carry out a research program to assess the feasibility and advisability of enhancing the efforts of the DOD in research, treatment, education, and outreach on mental health, substance use disorders, and traumatic brain injury in reserve component members, their families, and their caregivers.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary to carry out a pilot program to enhance the efforts of DOD in research, treatment, education, and outreach on mental health, substance use disorders, and traumatic brain injury in members of the National Guard and reserves, their family members, and their caregivers through agreements with community partners.

Sense of Congress on health care for retired members of the uniformed services (sec. 707)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 701) that would express the sense of Congress that career members of the uniformed services and their families endure unique and extraordinary demands and make extraordinary sacrifices over the course of a 20-30 year military career, and that those decades of sacrifice constitute a pre-paid premium for health care during retirement.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 706) that would express the sense of Congress that career members of the uniformed services and those who are medically retired, and their families, endure unique and extraordinary demands and make extraordinary sacrifices in protecting freedom for all Americans, and that access to quality health care services is an earned benefit during retirement in acknowledgment of their contributions of service and sacrifice.

The House recedes.

Subtitle B—Health Care Administration Authority for automatic enrollment in TRICARE Prime of dependents of members in pay grades above pay grade E-4 (sec. 711)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 712) that would require all dependents of members in pay grade E-4 or below to be automatically enrolled in TRICARE Prime, and would authorize the Secretary of Defense to automatically enroll dependents of members in pay grade E-5 or higher in TRICARE Prime.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Cost-sharing rates for the pharmacy benefits program of the TRICARE program (sec. 712)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 718) that would establish cost-sharing rates under the TRICARE pharmacy benefits program for fiscal year 2013 in statute, and in fiscal years 2014 and beyond, would limit annual increases in pharmacy copayments to the amount equal to the cost of living adjustment percentage increase in retiree pay.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish cost-sharing rates under the TRICARE pharmacy benefits program for fiscal year 2013 in statute, and would in fiscal years 2014 through 2022 limit any annual increases in pharmacy copayments to increases in retiree cost of living adjustments. The provision would also enable the Department of Defense to delay increasing copayments until the aggregate increase amounts to at least 1 dollar. Beyond fiscal year 2022, the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to increase copayments as the Secretary considers appropriate.

Clarification of applicability of certain authority and requirements to subcontractors employed to provide health care services to the Department of Defense (sec. 713)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 715) that would amend section 1089(a) of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that subcontractors providing health care under personal services contracts are covered for medical malpractice purposes under the Federal Tort Claims Act (28 U.S.C. 1346(b), 2671-2680)

in the same manner as government employees providing the same services, as requested by the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 721).

The House recedes.

Expansion of evaluation of the effectiveness of the TRICARE program (sec. 714)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 703) that would amend section 717(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996 (Public Law 104-106) to update the reporting requirements of the Department of Defense report, "Evaluation of the TRICARE Program: Access, Cost, and Quality," to reflect the Department's practice of reporting on access, cost, and quality broadly for the military health care system, not solely for retirees as required by current law. The provision would also require the Department to evaluate access, cost, and quality for military dependent children under the age of 21 and for dependents of active-duty members with severe disabilities and special needs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Requirement to ensure the effectiveness and efficiency of health engagements (sec. 715)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 714) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs and the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) to develop a process to ensure that health engagements conducted by the Department of Defense (DOD) are effective and efficient in meeting the national security goals of the United States. The provision would also authorize the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with USUHS, to conduct pilot programs to assess the effectiveness of the processes developed to ensure the efficiency and effectiveness of health engagements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy and the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs, to develop a process to ensure that health engagements conducted by DOD are effective and efficient in meeting the national security goals of the United States. The provision would also authorize the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs to establish a measure of effectiveness learning tool to assess the effectiveness of processes developed to ensure the efficiency and effectiveness of health engagements.

The conferees understand that the USUHS and its Center for Disaster and Humanitarian Assistance Medicine have focused efforts on the use of health as a means of ensuring security, stability, and enduring partnerships in specific areas of interest throughout the world; and are developing a process that will allow for identification of best practices, analyses, and policy assessment. The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to consult with USUHS with regard to its work in this area to ensure that global health engagements are effective and efficient means of engagement toward our national security goals.

Pilot program for refills of maintenance medications for TRICARE for Life beneficiaries through the TRICARE mail-order pharmacy program (sec. 716)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 717) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a 5-year pilot program to refill prescription maintenance medications for TRICARE for Life beneficiaries through TRICARE's national mail-order pharmacy program. The provision would allow beneficiaries to opt out of the mail-order program after 1 year, and would authorize the Secretary to waive the mail-order requirement on an individual basis if the Secretary deems it appropriate.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to conduct the 5-year mail-order pilot program for TRICARE for Life beneficiaries, but would also authorize beneficiaries to fill both initial and refill prescriptions at military treatment facilities, and authorize the Secretary to promulgate regulations to address instances where a beneficiary attempts to refill prescriptions at a retail pharmacy rather than through the mail-order program or at a military treatment facility.

Subtitle C—Mental Health Care and Veterans Matters

Sharing between Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs of records and information retained under the medical tracking system for members of the Armed Forces deployed overseas (sec. 723)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 755) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to jointly enter into a memorandum of understanding providing for the sharing between departments of the results of examinations and other records on members of the armed forces that are retained and maintained with respect to the medical tracking system for members deployed overseas.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Participation of members of the Armed Forces in peer support counseling programs of the Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 724)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 756) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to jointly enter into a memorandum of understanding providing for certain members of the armed forces to volunteer or be considered for employment as peer counselors under certain peer support counseling programs carried out by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Research and medical practice on mental health conditions (sec. 725)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 757) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish an organization to carry out programs and activities designed to provide for the translation of research on the diagnosis and treatment of mental health conditions into policy on medical practices.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide for the translation of research on the diagnosis and treatment of mental health conditions into policy on medical practices.

Transparency in mental health care services provided by the Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 726)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 759) that would require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to develop and implement a comprehensive set of measures to assess mental health care services provided by the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with several technical amendments.

Expansion of Vet Center Program to include furnishing counseling to certain members of the Armed Forces and their family members (sec. 727)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 760) that would authorize the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to provide counseling and mental health services to certain members of the armed forces and their family members at vet centers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Organization of the Readjustment Counseling Service in the Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 728)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 762) that would organize within the Veterans Health Administration the Readjustment Counseling Service to provide readjustment counseling and services to certain veterans, members of the armed forces, and their family members.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Recruitment of mental health providers for furnishing mental health services on behalf of the Department of Veterans Affairs without compensation from the Department (sec. 729)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 763) that would require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to carry out a national program of outreach to societies, community organizations, nonprofit organizations, and government entities in order to recruit mental health providers to provide mental health care services for the Department on a part-time, without-compensation basis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with several technical amendments.

Peer support (sec. 730)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 764) that would amend section 1720F(j) of title 38, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to establish and carry out a peer support counseling program as a part of the existing comprehensive program designed to reduce the incidence of suicide among veterans.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle D—Reports and Other Matters

Plan for reform of the administration of the military health system (sec. 731)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 719) that would amend section 716 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) to require the Secretary of Defense to implement and complete any recommendations included in the report on the review of the administration of the military health system submitted by the Comptroller General before restructuring or reorganizing the military health system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a detailed plan to implement reforms to the governance of the military health system described in the memorandum of the Deputy Secretary of Defense dated March 2012. The amendment would require the Secretary of Defense to submit the plan to the congressional defense committees on specified dates in 2013, and would limit the obligation of specified funds until the Secretary submits the contents of the plan to the congressional defense committees. The amendment would also require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit to the congressional defense committees a review of the contents of the plan.

The conferees expect appropriate officials of the Department to be responsive to requests from the Comptroller General of the United States and the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives for briefings and updates on the Department's progress in implementation of governance reform.

Future availability of TRICARE Prime throughout the United States (sec. 732)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 704) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report setting forth the policy of the Department of Defense on the future availability of TRICARE Prime under newly awarded TRICARE managed care contracts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report setting forth the policy of the Department of Defense on the future availability of TRICARE Prime for eligible beneficiaries in all TRICARE regions throughout the United States, to include a description of a plan to provide assistance to affected individuals to identify health care providers in their transition from TRICARE Prime to TRICARE Standard.

Extension of Comptroller General report on contract health care staffing for military medical treatment facilities (sec. 733)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 721) that would extend the deadline for the Comptroller General of the United States to submit the report required by section 726(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) on the contracting activities used by the military departments to provide health care professional services by civilian providers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of Comptroller General report on women-specific health services and treatment for female members of the Armed Forces (sec. 734)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 722) that would extend the deadline for the Comptroller General of the United States to submit the report required by section 725(c) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) on health care services for female service members.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Study on health care and related support for children of members of the Armed Forces (sec. 735)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 723) that would express the sense of Congress that TRICARE should be proactive in meeting children's health care needs and that a comprehensive review of TRICARE policies and programs is necessary, to include children with special needs and chronic health care conditions. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to establish a working group to review the TRICARE program with respect to providing pediatric health care, including special and chronic health care needs, and to make recommendations to ensure children of members of the armed forces have access to appropriate care.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study on the health care and related support provided by the Secretary to military dependent children, and to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the study, including a plan to improve and continuously monitor the access of dependent children to quality health care.

The conferees note that a requirement to expand the annual evaluation of TRICARE to include family members and children with special needs is included elsewhere in this Act.

Report on strategy to transition to use of human-based methods for certain medical training (sec. 736)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 724) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report that outlines a strategy to refine and, when appropriate, transition to using human-based training methods for the purpose of training service members in the treatment of combat trauma injuries by October 1, 2017. The provision would also require an annual report on the development and implementation of human-based training methods for training service members in the treatment of combat trauma injuries.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report that outlines a strategy, including a detailed timeline, to refine and, when appropriate, transition to using human-based training methods for the purpose of training service members in the treatment of combat trauma injuries.

Study on incidence of breast cancer among members of the Armed Forces serving on active duty (sec. 737)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 726) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to jointly conduct a study on the incidence of breast cancer among active-duty members, reserve component members, and veterans.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study on the incidence of breast cancer among members of the armed forces serving on active duty.

Performance metrics and reports on Warriors in Transition programs of the military departments (sec. 738)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 731) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act and every 180 days thereafter until September 30, 2017, data on the longitudinal status of service members participating in a Warriors in Transition program. The data would document the performance of the Department of Defense in addressing the physical health, mental and behavioral health, educational and vocational aptitude and capabilities, and other appropriate matters, at specified periods during the service members' participation in the program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a policy containing uniform performance outcome measurements to be used by each service secretary in tracking and monitoring service members in the Warriors in Transition programs. The Secretary of Defense would be required to submit a report on this policy to the congressional defense committees no later than 180 days after enactment of this Act and annually thereafter until 2018.

Plan to eliminate gaps and redundancies in programs of the Department of Defense on psychological health and traumatic brain injury (sec. 739)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 733) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on a plan to streamline Department of Defense (DOD) programs that address psychological health and traumatic brain injury (TBI).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress in support of the efforts of the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the Secretary of Defense to educate service members, veterans, their families, the medical community, and the public on the causes, symptoms, and treatment of post traumatic stress disorder. The amendment would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a plan to improve the coordination and integration of DOD programs that address service member TBI and psychological health.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Medical and dental care contracts for certain members of the National Guard

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 703) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that each individual who receives medical or dental care under a contract entered into by the National Guard of a State meets standards of medical and dental readiness upon mobilization of the individual.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Mental health assessments for members of the armed forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 705) that would amend section 1074m(a) of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to provide person-to-person mental health screenings once during each 180 day period during which a member is deployed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to develop a policy to provide mental health assessments to service members while they are deployed in a contingency operation, if personnel in deployed units whose responsibilities include providing unit health care services are available and the use of those services for this purpose would not impair their capacity to perform higher priority tasks.

Unified Medical Command

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 711) that would amend chapter 6 of title 10, United States Code, to require the President to establish a unified combatant medical command for medical operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Availability of certain fertility preservation treatments for members of the armed forces on active duty

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 712) that would provide fertility preservation treatments as a medical benefit for service members who have been diagnosed with a condition for which the recommended course of treatment could cause infertility.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs issued policy guidance to the military departments and TRICARE Management Activity on April 3, 2012, to make assisted reproductive services available for seriously ill or severely injured active duty service members, and authorized the use of supplemental health care program funds for this purpose. The conferees have been informed that the Department of Defense is also reviewing fertility preservation for service members prior to deployment in support of contingency operations, and conducting an ongoing review of fertility options for service members who have sustained genitourinary injuries.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on implementation of the "Policy for Assisted Reproductive Services for the Benefit of Seriously or Severely Ill/Injured (Category II and III) Active Duty Service Members" no later than June 1, 2013. The report shall include data on experience since issuance of the policy, including an analysis of the types of injuries or illness of those who sought the procedures, the procedures that were sought, what procedures or services were provided by both military treatment facilities and civilian providers, and an assessment of issues concerning quality of life and costs. In addition, the report shall provide an assessment of the feasibility and advisability of providing fertility preservation treatment for service members both in relation to deployment in support of contingency operations and as a result of illness or injury. The conferees expect the report to include recommendations for changes in policy or legislation that may be necessary to provide such services to military service members who, as a consequence of illness or injury, require assistance for procreative ability.

Cooperative health care agreements between the military departments and non-military health care entities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 713) that would authorize the secretary of each military department to establish cooperative health care agreements between military installations and local or regional health care entities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense was provided the authority to enter into cooperative health care agreements under section 713 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (10 U.S.C. 1073 note), and that the Secretary may delegate this authority.

Pilot program on increased third-party collection reimbursements in military medical treatment facilities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 716) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a pilot program to assess the feasibility of using revenue-cycle improvement processes to increase amounts collected by military treatment facilities from third party payers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are encouraged by ongoing efforts of the Department of Defense to identify and analyze industry best practices to improve reimbursements from third-party payers for charges for health care services incurred by the United States at military treatment facilities. The conferees request that the Department examine revenue-cycle improvement processes as part of this effort.

Increased collaboration with NIH to combat triple negative breast cancer

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 727) that would require the Department of Defense to work in collaboration with the National Institutes of Health to identify specific genetic and molecular targets and biomarkers for triple negative breast cancer and to provide information that will enable triple negative breast cancer patients to be identified earlier and aid the development of therapies for the disease.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Pilot program on payment for treatment of members of the armed forces and veterans for traumatic brain injury and post-traumatic stress disorder

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 728) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to each carry out a 5-year pilot program to establish a process to provide payment for treatments of traumatic brain injury or post-traumatic stress disorder received by service members and veterans in health care facilities other than military treatment facilities or Department of Veterans Affairs medical facilities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Congressional support for greater awareness of post-traumatic stress disorder

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 729) that would express congressional support for the efforts of the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the Secretary of Defense to educate service members, veterans, their families, and the public about the causes, symptoms, and treatment of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). The provision would also express support for the creation of an advisory committee on PTSD to coordinate Department of Defense, Department of Veterans Affairs, and other executive departments and agencies for the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of PTSD.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that language expressing the sense of Congress in support of greater awareness for PTSD is included elsewhere in this Act.

Report on Department of Defense support of members of the armed forces who experience traumatic injury as a result of vaccinations required by the Department

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 732) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the secretaries of the military departments, to report on the adequacy and effectiveness of the policies, procedures, and systems of the Department of Defense in providing support to service members who experience traumatic injury as a result of a vaccination required by the Department.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on implementation of recommendations of the Comptroller General of the United States on prevention of hearing loss among members of the armed forces

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 734) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the status of implementation of the recommendations of the Comptroller General of the United States in the report "Hearing Loss Prevention: Improvements to DOD Hearing Conservation Programs Could Lead to Better Outcomes" (GAO-11-114, January 2011).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees request the Secretary of Defense to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with a briefing no later than March 1, 2013 on the status of implementation of the Comptroller General's recommendations to prevent hearing loss.

Sense of Senate on mental health counselors for members of the armed forces, veterans, and their families

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 735) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs should develop a plan to ensure a sustainable flow of qualified counselors to meet the long-term needs of members of the armed forces, veterans, and their families.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Prescription drug take-back program for members of the armed forces and their dependents

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 736) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Attorney General to jointly carry out a program under which members of the armed forces and their dependents may deliver controlled substances to such facilities as may be jointly determined by the Secretary and Attorney General to be disposed of in accordance with section 302(g) of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 822(g)).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees have been informed that the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) has drafted a comprehensive Notice of Proposed Rulemaking to implement the Secure and Responsible Drug Disposal Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-273). The conferees urge the DEA to ensure the Department of Defense is provided the opportunity to review and provide comment on the rule, and expect that the Department of Justice will keep Congress informed of these efforts.

Assessment of adequacy of mental health care benefits under the TRICARE program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 754) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, to enter into a contract with an appropriate independent entity to assess whether the mental health care benefits available for members of the armed forces and other covered beneficiaries under the TRICARE program are adequate to meet the needs of such members and beneficiaries for mental health care.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Disposal of controlled substances

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 758) that would require the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration to enter into a memorandum of understanding with each of the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to establish procedures under which service members or veterans may deliver a controlled substance to an employee of the Department of Defense or the Department of Veterans Affairs in accordance with section 302(g) of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 822(g)).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees have been informed that the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) has drafted a comprehensive Notice of Proposed Rulemaking to implement the Secure and Responsible Drug Disposal Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-273). The conferees urge the DEA to ensure the Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs are each provided the opportunity to review and provide comment on the rule, and expect that the Department of Justice will keep Congress informed of these efforts.

Authority for Secretary of Veterans Affairs to furnish mental health care through facilities other than vet centers to immediate family members of members of the armed forces deployed in connection with a contingency operation

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 761) that would authorize the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to provide mental health care to family members of certain members of the armed forces through Department of Veterans Affairs medical facilities, telemental health modalities, and such community, nonprofit, private, and other third parties as the Secretary considers appropriate. This authority would expire 3 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE VIII—ACQUISITION POLICY, ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT, AND RELATED MATTERS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Acquisition Policy and Management

Treatment of procurements on behalf of the Department of Defense through the Work for Others program of the Department of Energy (sec. 801)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 801) that would exempt procurements through the Department of Energy (DOE) Work for Others program from requirements applicable to interagency transactions of the Department of Defense (DOD) under section 801 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify procurement requirements applicable to DOD procurements through the DOE Work for Others program for the purposes of section 801. In general, the conferees understand that DOD officials are required to comply with the requirements of the Defense Supplement to the Federal Acquisition Regulation (DFARS), but that DFARS requirements are not applicable to officials of other federal agencies, except to the extent that they implement statutory requirements specific to interagency transactions.

Accordingly, DOD procurements of property and services through the DOE Work for Others program comply with the requirements of section 801 if they are consistent with the Federal Acquisition Regulation and other laws and regulations that apply to procurements of property and services by Federal agencies generally, and with the following laws and regulations specific to DOD transactions through the DOE Work for Others program:

(A) the Memorandum of Agreement Between the Department of Defense and the Department of Energy Governing Department of Defense Funded Work Performed at the Department of Energy Laboratories and Facilities (dated September 16, 2010), or a successor agreement;

(B) the Memorandum of the Director of Defense Procurement and Acquisition Policy on Department of Defense-Wide Policy for Using the Department of Energy's Work for Others Program to Access DOE-Owned Research, Development and Production Facilities through Interagency Agreements (dated September 30, 2011), or a successor policy;

(C) the Standard Interagency Agreement Part A for DOD Components and all DOE activities (dated December 16, 2010), or a successor agreement;

(D) the Department of Energy Acquisition Regulations; and

(E) Department of Energy Order 481.1C, Work for Others (Non-Department of Energy Funded Work (dated January 24, 2005) as amended, or a successor order.

Review and justification of pass-through contracts (sec. 802)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 822) that would prohibit the Department of Defense and other federal agencies from awarding a contract for the performance of services unless the contractor agrees that at least 50 percent of the direct labor on the contract will be performed by the contractor or by a subcontractor that is specifically identified in the contract.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State, and the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) to revise guidance applicable to contracts, task orders, and delivery orders awarded by such agencies for which the prime contractor is expected to subcontract more than 70 percent of the total cost of work to be performed and ensure that contracting officers consider alternative contracting structures and approaches and justify their decisions in writing.

The conferees note that Section 52.215-22 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation, which implements the requirements of section 866 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417), requires offerors for certain contracts, task orders, and delivery orders, to notify the government in their proposals if they intend to subcontract more than 70 percent of the total cost of the work to be performed. In accordance with Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) memorandum 11-PSP-003(R), DCAA is responsible for reviewing pass-through charges in connection with any such contract, task order, or delivery order to ensure that such charges are reasonable. In accordance with applicable DCAA standards, pass-through charges may be determined to be reasonable because they are in accordance with a prime contractor's established rates, even in a case where the prime contractor does little more than monitor the performance of a subcontractor. In such cases, the issue that should be addressed by contracting officials is not whether the charges are reasonable, but whether the contract structure and approach is in the best interest of the Department of Defense, the Department of State, or USAID.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to report to the congressional defense committees not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act on the implementation of this provision by the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and USAID. The Comptroller General's review should assess existing statutes and regulations relating to pass-through contracts and pass-through charges and make any recommendations that the Comptroller General determines to be appropriate.

Availability of amounts in Defense Acquisition Workforce Development Fund (sec. 803)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 823) that would clarify the extent to which amounts in the Defense Acquisition Workforce Development Fund (DAWDF) may be used for training of temporary members of the acquisition workforce. The provision would also extend direct hiring authority for the Department of Defense acquisition workforce for an additional 2 years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would update the amounts available in the DAWDF to reflect the Department's current plans for the acquisition workforce.

Department of Defense policy on contractor profits (sec. 804)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 824) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review the profit guidelines in the Department of Defense Supplement to the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment requiring the Secretary to obtain the views of experts and interested parties before completing the review and clarifying that Congress does not intend the review to reach any pre-ordained conclusion.

The conferees direct the Secretary to provide periodic updates to the congressional defense committees on the conduct, progress, and results of the required review.

Modification of authorities on internal controls for procurements on behalf of the Department of Defense by certain nondefense agencies (sec. 805)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 825) that would repeal the requirement for the Department of Defense Inspector General to submit periodic follow-up reports on internal controls for procurements made by the Department through specified federal agencies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect the Inspector General to determine the need for follow-on reports on the basis of a risk assessment that weighs the vulnerability of inter-agency contracting against other contracting vulnerabilities.

Extension of authority relating to management of supply-chain risk (sec. 806)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 826) that would extend to January 1, 2016, the pilot authority under section 806 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the authority to September 30, 2018, and require the Department of Defense to develop criteria for evaluating the effectiveness of the program, assess the program on the basis of such criteria, and report to the congressional defense committees on the results.

Sense of Congress on the continuing progress of the Department of Defense in implementing its Item Unique Identification Initiative (sec. 807)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 827) that would express the sense of the Senate in support of efforts by the Department of Defense to implement its item unique identification initiative.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment that would make the provision a sense of Congress.

Subtitle B—Provisions Relating to Major Defense Acquisition Programs
Limitation on use of cost-type contracts (sec. 811)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 801) that would prohibit the use of cost-type contracts for the production of major defense acquisition programs unless the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics determines that a cost-type contract is needed to provide a required capability in a timely and cost-effective manner.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the applicability of the provision.

The conferees believe that the Department of Defense should select the contract type for a production program that is consistent with the level of risk for the program. Consistent with sound acquisition practice, however, very few major defense acquisition programs should be in production unless program risk has already been reduced to a manageable level. Therefore, the conferees expect the Under Secretary to be judicious in applying the authority to grant exceptions under this provision.

Estimates of potential termination liability of contracts for the development or production of major defense acquisition programs (sec. 812)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 804) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on any case in which the potential termination liability under a contract for the development or production of major defense acquisition programs exceeds $100 million.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) direct the Government Accountability Office to report to the congressional defense committees on the extent to which the Department of Defense (DOD) is considering potential termination liability as a factor in entering and in terminating contracts for major defense acquisition programs; and (2) require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to review relevant acquisition guidance and take such steps as are necessary to ensure that potential termination liability is so considered.

The conferees expect DOD to ensure that information regarding potential termination liability on contracts for the development or production of major defense acquisition programs, including estimates of potential termination liability and how such termination liability is likely to increase or decrease over the period of performance, is available to the congressional defense committees upon request.

Technical change regarding programs experiencing critical cost growth due to change in quantity purchased (sec. 813)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 805) that would clarify the actions to be taken by the Department of Defense in the case of programs that exceed thresholds for critical cost growth due only to a change in the quantity of items to be purchased.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of requirement to review ongoing programs initiated before enactment of Milestone B certification and approval process (sec. 814)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 806) that would repeal the requirement for the Department of Defense to conduct annual reviews of programs initiated before the enactment of the certification requirements in section 2366b of title 10, United States Code to determine whether or not they meet the requirements under that section.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Amendments to General Contracting Authorities, Procedures, and Limitations

Modification of time period for congressional notification of the lease of certain vessels by the Department of Defense. (sec. 821)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 811) that would amend section 2401 of title 10, United States Code, by modifying the time period for congressional notification of the lease of certain vessels from 30 days of continuous session to 60 days.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 886) that would change the notice period from 30 days of continuous session to 30 days.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of authority for use of simplified acquisition procedures for certain commercial items (sec. 822)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 812) that would extend the authority for use of simplified acquisition procedures for certain commercial items to January 1, 2015.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to report to the congressional defense committees, the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, and the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform by October 1, 2013, on the use of this authority. The Comptroller General's report should address, at a minimum: (1) the extent of use of the authority; (2) the cited rationales for use of the authority; (3) the acquisition outcomes that have resulted; and (4) any waste, fraud, or abuse that have resulted from the use of the authority.

Codification and amendment relating to life-cycle management and product support requirements (sec. 823)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 813) that would codify and amend the life cycle management and product support requirements for major weapon systems in section 805 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Codification of requirement relating to Government performance of critical acquisition functions (sec. 824)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 814) that would codify section 820 of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364), regarding government performance of critical acquisition functions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment adding certain positions to the list of critical acquisition functions, as requested by the Department of Defense.

Competition in acquisition of major subsystems and subassemblies on major defense acquisition programs (sec. 825)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 815) that would restrict Department of Defense obligations for operations and maintenance pending a certification that the Department of Defense is implementing the requirement in section 202 of the Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-23) for competition throughout the life cycle of major weapon systems.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 802) that would strengthen the competition requirements in section 202.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees agree that the full implementation of section 202, including the requirement to ensure competition throughout the life cycle of major weapon systems, can help reduce costs, improve contractor performance, and result in better products for the warfighter. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to revise the guidance on operation and support costs for major weapon systems required by section 832 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 an appropriate emphasis on the importance of competition in holding down such costs.

Compliance with Berry Amendment required for uniform components supplied to Afghan military or Afghan National Police (sec. 826)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 819) that would require the Department of Defense to comply with section 2533a of title 10, United States Code, known as the Berry amendment, in purchases of textile components for the production and supply of uniforms to the Afghan National Army or the Afghan National Police.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 867).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Enhancement of whistleblower protections for contractor employees (sec. 827)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 844) that would strengthen protections for contractor employees who blow the whistle on waste, fraud, and abuse on Department of Defense (DOD) contracts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) revise the provision to ensure that it fully covers contractors of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, as well as DOD; (2) clarify that whistleblower remedies may include only reasonable attorneys' fees; (3) modify the provision on arbitration agreements; and (4) exclude elements of the intelligence community from coverage.

The conferees agree that whistleblower complaints related to commercial aviation safety issues are uniquely within the expertise of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), and should be investigated through FAA whistleblower procedures set forth in section 106(t) of title 49, United States Code (section 341 of Public Law 112-95), to the maximum extent practicable. The conferees direct the DOD Inspector General to work with the FAA Office of Audit and Evaluation and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration to address commercial aviation safety issues. The conferees note that DOD remains responsible for the oversight and regulation of public use aircraft, as defined in section 40102(a)(41)(E) of title 49, United States Code.

Pilot program for enhancement of contractor employee whistleblower protections (sec. 828)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 844A) that would provide enhanced statutory protections for employees of civilian agency contractors who blow the whistle on waste, fraud, and abuse on federal contracts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) clarify that whistleblower remedies may include only reasonable attorneys' fees; (2) modify the provision on arbitration agreements; (3) exclude elements of the intelligence community from coverage; and (4) sunset the provision after 4 years.

Extension of contractor conflict of interest limitations (sec. 829)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 845) that would require the Secretary of Defense to determine whether contractor conflict of interest limitations should be extended to additional categories of contractors.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment requiring the Secretary of Defense to document in writing the results of the review, including the findings and recommendations of the review and the basis for those findings and recommendations. The conferees direct the Secretary to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees on these matters, upon request.

Repeal of sunset for certain protests of task and delivery order contracts (sec. 830)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 846) that would repeal the sunset date in section 2304c(e) of title 10, United States Code, regarding the authority to file bid protests for certain task and delivery order contracts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Guidance and training related to evaluating reasonableness of price (sec. 831)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 841) that would authorize the Department of Defense (DOD) to require contractors to provide additional data, including certified cost or pricing data, when necessary to evaluate the price reasonableness of certain commercial items that are procured for the support of a major system.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require DOD to issue guidance on the use of the authority provided by sections 2379 and 2306a(d) of title 10, United States Code to evaluate the reasonableness of contractor prices.

The conferees have determined that sections 2379 and 2306a(d) provide the Department with the authority that it needs to obtain price information and uncertified cost information, when necessary to evaluate the price reasonableness of commercial items. The inconsistent use of this authority by the Department appears to have created uncertainty in the vendor community without assuring reasonable prices. The conferees expect the guidance required by this section to address these problems.

Department of Defense access to, use of, and safeguards and protections for contractor internal audit reports (sec. 832)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 843) that would clarify the access of the Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) to contractor internal audit reports and supporting materials.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the limited purposes for which such audit access is provided and establish safeguards and protections to ensure that audit materials are not used for any other purposes. Subsection (b) of the provision would establish documentation requirements for DCAA requests of internal audit reports or supporting materials. The conferees direct the Director of DCAA to provide the required documentation to the congressional defense committees, upon request. The conferees understand that the documentation provided to the congressional defense committees would not include copies of any contractor internal audit reports or supporting materials.

Contractor responsibilities in regulations relating to detection and avoidance of counterfeit electronic parts (sec. 833)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 816) that would provide that costs associated with the use of counterfeit parts are allowable costs on the defense contracts of a contractor that has a system to detect and avoid such parts that has been reviewed and approved by the Department of Defense and that gives timely notice to the Government of any discovery or suspicion of such parts in its supply chain if: (1) the parts were procured from a trusted supplier; or (2) the parts were provided to the contractor as government-furnished property in accordance with part 45 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would provide that such costs are allowable costs only if the parts were provided to the contractor as government-furnished property.

Subtitle D—Provisions Relating to Contracts in Support of Contingency Operations

Extension and expansion of authority to acquire products and services produced in countries along a major route of supply to Afghanistan (sec. 841)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 821) that would extend and expand authority for the Department of Defense to acquire supplies on a non-competitive basis in certain countries that are assisting the Department's efforts in Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 866) that would extend the same authority.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete a limitation on the use of funds until the Government of Pakistan agrees to take certain steps, which have now taken place.

Limitation on authority to acquire products and services produced in Afghanistan (sec. 842)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 822) that would update section 886 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 and prohibit the use of the authority provided by that section until such a time as the Secretary of Defense determines that the Government of Afghanistan is not taxing assistance provided by the United States to Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would update section 886, but exclude the new prohibition.

The conferees agree that actions taken by the Government of Afghanistan to tax assistance provided by the United States to Afghanistan are in violation of existing agreements between the United States and Afghanistan. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to report to the congressional defense committees not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act on steps that the U.S. government has taken or plans to take to address this problem.

Responsibility within Department of Defense for operational contract support (sec. 843)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 861) that would require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe in regulations the chain of authority and responsibility within the Department of Defense for policy planning and execution of contract support for overseas contingency operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the provision to address operational contract support in overseas operations of all kinds.

Data collection on contract support for future overseas contingency operations involving combat operations (sec. 844)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 862) that would require annual reports on contract support for any future overseas contingency operation meeting specified criteria.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) require the Secretary of Defense (DOD), the Secretary of State, and the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development to ensure that their agencies have the capability in place to collect and report relevant data on contract support for future overseas contingency operations; and (2) require the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to report to the appropriate congressional committees on the adequacy of data collection systems established for this purpose.

The ability of the DOD and other federal agencies to effectively manage and coordinate contractors depends on the timely availability of reliable data upon which to make informed decisions. If data is lacking or is unreliable, there may not be an appropriate basis for measuring or assessing the effectiveness of contracting, making policy decisions, and ensuring transparency of government operations.

In Iraq and Afghanistan, DOD and other federal agencies have been unable to accurately track data on contracts and contractors. In 2004, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Project and Contracting Office developed the Iraq Reconstruction Management System (IRMS) to serve as a single database for tracking, coordinating, and managing all U.S. Government agency projects receiving Iraq Relief and Reconstruction Funds. According to the Special Inspector General for Iraq Reconstruction, IRMS had a short design life and rapidly became operationally unreliable and unstable. DOD and other agencies frequently used internal systems to track and manage their own projects. In July 2008, DOD and the Department of State agreed to use the Synchronized Predeployment Operational Tracker (SPOT) as a common database and system of record for data on contracts and contractor personnel. However, GAO and others have raised serious questions about the reliability of the data contained in SPOT. The conferees conclude that improved contract data systems are critical to ensure sound decision-making and transparency in future overseas operations.

Inclusion of operational contract support in certain requirements for Department of Defense planning, joint professional military education, and management structure (sec. 845)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 863) that would require the Department of Defense to address issues arising out of contract support for overseas contingency operations in several military systems and processes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the provision applies to all types of operational contract support and delete subsection (c) of the Senate provision relating to joint professional military education.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the curriculum established for each phase of joint professional military education pursuant to section 2154 of title 10, United States Code, includes content appropriate for such phase on requirements definition, program management for operational contract support, contracting for operational contract support, and the strategic impact of contracting on military missions.

Requirements for risk assessments related to contractor performance (sec. 846)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 864) that would require the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development to perform risk assessments and develop risk mitigation plans for risks associated with contractor performance of critical functions in support of any contingency operation that is expected to continue for more than 1 year and require the expenditure of more than $250.0 million for contract support.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the provision and add a requirement that operational plans developed by combatant commanders address potential risks associated with reliance on contractors to perform critical functions.

Extension and modification of reports on contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan (sec. 847)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 865) that would extend for 2 years the requirement for an annual report on contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan pursuant to section 863 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), as amended by section 835 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Responsibilities of Inspectors General for overseas contingency operations (sec. 848)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 869) that would establish the oversight responsibilities of the Inspectors General of the Department of Defense, the Department of Defense, and the United States Agency for International Development for overseas contingency operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment streamlining the provision.

The conferees agree that establishing clear oversight responsibility is essential to minimize fraud, waste, and abuse in future overseas contingency operations.

Oversight of contracts and contracting activities for overseas contingency operations in responsibilities of Chief Acquisition Officers of Federal agencies (sec. 849)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 871) that would establish the responsibility of the Chief Acquisition Officers of federal agencies for providing oversight of contracts and contracting activities of their agencies in support of overseas contingency operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Reports on responsibility within Department of State and the United States Agency for International Development for contract support for overseas contingency operations (sec. 850)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 872) that would require the Secretary of State and the Administrator for the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) to submit a report to Congress on contract support for overseas contingency operations, including an assessment of the relevant agency chain of command, procedures and processes, and strategies for improvements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree on the importance of a clear chain of responsibility for policy, planning, execution, and management of contract support for overseas contingency operations. The need for further clarification on this issue is underscored by Government Accountability Office report GAO-12-854R, "Agency Actions to Address Recommendations by the Commission on Wartime Contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan," which noted that the Department of State and USAID have no plans to implement approximately two-thirds of the recommendations of the Commission on Wartime Contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Database on price trends of items and services under Federal contracts (sec. 851)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 874) that would require the Administrator for Federal Procurement Policy to establish a database of information on price trends for items and services under contracts with the Federal Government.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense (DOD) already maintains a database of price information pursuant to section 892 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) and the "Better Buying Power" initiative of the Secretary of Defense. The conferees understand that the DOD database will serve as a model for the government-wide database and that the Department will not be required to establish a new database to comply with the requirements of this section.

Information on corporate contractor performance and integrity through the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System (sec. 852)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 875) that would require a modification to the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System to include information on parent, subsidiary, and successor entities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Inclusion of data on contractor performance in past performance databases for executive agency source selection decisions (sec. 853)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 876) that would require the prompt inclusion of data on contractor performance in past performance databases and establish the timeline for contractor comments and responses.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that this section would extend to civilian agencies requirements that are identical to the requirements already applicable to the Department of Defense pursuant to section 806 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Requirements and limitations for suspension and debarment officials of the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development (sec. 861)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 881) that would require the suspension and debarment officials of the military departments and the Defense Logistics Agency, and of the Department of State and the United States Agency for International Development, to be independent of acquisition officials and to develop written policies for the consideration and documentation of referrals and decisions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify and streamline the provision. The conferees direct suspension and debarment officials to ensure that the documentation guidance required by this provision addresses, at a minimum, documentation requirements for decisions to suspend or debar, decisions not to suspend or debar, decisions to decline to pursue suspension or debarment, and administrative agreements entered into in lieu of suspension or debarment.

Uniform contract writing system requirements (sec. 862)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 882) that would require the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development to establish uniform standards and requirements for the processing of procurement requests, contracts, receipts, and invoices.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Extension of other transaction authority (sec. 863)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 887) that would extend for 5 years the authority for the Secretary of Defense to carry out a pilot program for the acquisition of certain prototypes pursuant to "other transactions" under section 845 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103-160).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to review the authority extended by this provision and make a recommendation as to whether the authority should be made permanent. The conferees expect the Secretary to ensure that applicable guidance provides appropriate safeguards against abuse before seeking permanent authority.

Report on allowable costs of compensation of contractor employees (sec. 864)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 842) that would reduce the limitation on allowable compensation for defense contractor employees from the median amount of compensation provided to senior executives in large United States corporations (currently $763,000) to the maximum level of compensation for federal employees, which is set at the annual salary of the Vice President of the United States (currently $230,700). The provision would also require a report by the Department of Defense Inspector General on allowable costs of employee compensation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require a report by the Comptroller General on allowable costs of employee compensation. The conferees conclude that Congress should have the benefit of this review before mandating a new or revised cap on such compensation.

Reports on use of indemnification agreements (sec. 865)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 847) that would require the Department of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on the use of indemnification agreements in defense contracts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Plan to increase number of contractors eligible for contracts under Air Force NETCENTS-2 contract (sec. 866)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889C) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a plan to increase the number of contractors eligible to be awarded contracts under the Air Force's Network-Centric Solutions-2 (NETCENTS-2) indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contract. The Secretary would be required to submit that plan to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Inclusion of information on prevalent grounds for sustaining bid protests in annual protect report by Comptroller General to Congress (sec. 867)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889D) that would require the Comptroller General to include information on common grounds for sustaining bid protests in annual reports to Congress.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Management structure for developmental test and evaluation

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 803) that would clarify the oversight and supervisory responsibilities of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Developmental Test and Evaluation over the chief developmental testers and lead developmental test and evaluation organizations of the military departments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note the matters addressed in the Senate provision are addressed elsewhere in the conference agreement.

Prohibition on contracting with persons that have business operations with state sponsors of terrorism

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 803) that would prohibit the Department of Defense from entering contracts with persons that have business operations with state sponsors of terrorism.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Additional definition relating to production of specialty metals within the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 817) that would provide a statutory definition for the term “produced” as used in section 2533b of title 10, United States Code, requiring that specialty metals be produced in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that section 823 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) required the Secretary of Defense to review and revise the regulatory definition for the term “produced,” as necessary and appropriate. On July 24, 2012—almost a year after the statutory deadline—a proposed rule revising the definition was published for comment in the Federal Register. The conferees are disappointed by this delay and urge the Secretary to complete the regulatory process as quickly as possible.

Assessment of infrared technology sectors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 818) that would direct the Department of Defense (DOD) to conduct an assessment and report on the health and status of various sectors of the national defense infrared technology industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to assess the health and status of the relevant industrial base sectors critical to the design, development, and manufacturing of infrared technologies of interest to the national defense community. The technologies of interest include, but are not limited to, focal plane arrays, as well as associated electronics, cooling technologies, and integrated imaging systems. The assessment shall leverage the on going DOD sector-by-sector, tier-by-tier industrial base assessment activities by the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manufacturing and Industrial Base Policy and the Department of Defense shall brief the congressional defense committees on the findings of the assessment within 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

One-year extension of temporary limitation on aggregate annual amount available for contract services

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 821) that would extend for 1 year the limitation on aggregate annual spending for contract services in section 808 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the level of authorized spending for contract services is addressed elsewhere in this conference report.

Enhancement of review of acquisition process for rapid fielding of capabilities in response to urgent operational needs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 831) that would strike the requirement in section 804 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) that the streamlined acquisition process for rapid fielding of capabilities in response to urgent operational needs be used only for capabilities that can appropriately be acquired under fixed-price contracts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Location of contractor-operated call centers in the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 832) that would require that any call center operated pursuant to a Department of Defense contract be located in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Consideration and verification of information relating to effect on domestic employment of award of defense contracts

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 833) that would authorize Department of Defense officials to consider information relating to the effect on employment in the United States in making award decisions for competitive proposals.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Requirement to include trafficking in persons in performance assessments of defense contractors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 835) that would require the inclusion of trafficking in persons in any performance assessment of a defense contractor or subcontractor.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The issue of trafficking in persons by defense contractors, subcontractors, and by labor recruiters, brokers, and agents for such contractors and subcontractors, is comprehensively addressed elsewhere in the conference report.

Short title

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 860) that would provide a short title for the wartime subcontracting subtitle of the bill.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Sense of Senate on the contributions of Latvia and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization member nations to the success of the Northern Distribution Network

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 868) that would express the sense of the Senate commending Latvia and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member states along the Northern Distribution Network (NDN) for their contributions in maintaining reliable lines of supply for U.S. and coalition forces in Afghanistan. The provision would also express support for efforts by the Department of Defense (DOD) to procure goods from Latvia and other NATO member states along the NDN when competitively-priced quality products are available.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note the mutually-beneficial relationship that the United States has with Latvia and other NATO member nations along the NDN for supplying U.S. and coalition forces in Afghanistan. The conferees encourage DOD to continue to cultivate this important relationship.

Agency reports and inspector general audits of certain information on overseas contingency operations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 870) that would require inspector general audits of certain information provided by the Department of Defense (DOD), the Department of State (State), and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that a separate provision of this Act would clarify the responsibility of the Inspectors General of DOD, State, and USAID for reviewing and ascertaining the accuracy of information provided by federal agencies relative to obligations and expenditures, costs of programs and projects, accountability of funds, and the award and execution of major contracts, grants, and agreements in support of contingency operations.

Professional education for Department of State personnel on acquisition for Department of State support and participation in overseas contingency operations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 873) that would require the Secretary of State to develop and administer a course of professional education on acquisition for specified Department of State personnel.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree on the importance of professional education on acquisition matters for key personnel responsible for contract support in overseas contingency operations and expect the Department of State to take appropriate steps to ensure the development and implementation of suitable training courses. The conferees intend to work with the committees of jurisdiction in the Senate and the House of Representatives to ensure proper oversight of these efforts.

Public availability of database of senior Department of Defense officials seeking employment with defense contractors

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 877) that would require that information in the database established pursuant to section 847(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) be made available to the public.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the database established pursuant to section 847(b) consists of written legal opinions prepared by DOD ethics officials and provided to DOD personnel on an individual basis to help guide their conduct.

Additional bases for suspension or debarment

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 881A) that would provide for mandatory consideration of suspension or debarment in certain circumstances.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Comptroller General of the United States review of use by the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development of urgent and compelling exception to competition

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 883) that would require the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to review the use by the Department of Defense (DOD), the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development of the unusual and compelling urgency exception to full and open competition.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to report to the appropriate congressional committees by not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act on the use of the urgent and compelling exception by the DOD, the Department of State, and the United States Agency for International Development. The Comptroller General's report should address, at a minimum, the following: (1) the pattern of use of the exception by acquisition organizations; (2) the range of items or services acquired through the use of the exception; (3) the process for reviewing and approving justifications involving the exception; (4) whether the justifications meet the requirements of the Federal Acquisition Regulation; (5) the extent to which the exception is used as a basis for sole-source procurements, and whether such use is justified; and (6) agency compliance with the statutory requirement to limit the duration of contracts awarded pursuant to the exception.

Authority to provide fee-for-service inspection and testing by Defense Contract Management Agency for certain critical equipment in the absence of a procurement contract

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 884) that would authorize the Defense Contract Management Agency (DCMA) to accept reimbursement from a manufacturer or assembler for testing and inspection of an item when the nature of the item requires such inspection or testing as a precondition to government acceptance of the item under a future government contract.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand that the Department of Defense (DOD) requested this authority to enable contractors who choose to proceed with the development of new defense products at their own risk to have those products tested and qualified in advance of the award of a contract, shortening the lead times necessary to meet military requirements. However, the conferees are concerned that the proposed legislation included no mechanisms to ensure that: (1) small businesses that cannot afford to pay for inspection or testing have equal access to the program; and (2) the program is used only for high priority military needs and not to advantage particular manufacturers or products in a competitive market. The conferees are also concerned that DCMA may not be the most appropriate, or the only, testing resource that should be made available for the purpose of pre-award testing. The conferees remain open to a future legislative proposal that addresses these issues.

Report by the suspension and debarment officials of the military departments and the Defense Logistics Agency

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889) that would require the suspension and debarment officials of the military departments and the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) to report to the congressional defense committees on the timeliness of suspension and debarment processes and decisions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the suspension and debarment officials of the military departments and DLA, in coordination with Department of Defense officials responsible for preparing suspension and debarment cases, to report to the congressional defense committees on: (1) target goals for preparing and processing suspension and debarment cases; (2) average times for preparing and processing suspension and debarment cases; and (3) if the military department or DLA is not meeting target goals, an explanation for the shortcoming and a description of actions that have been taken or will be taken to ensure that target goals for preparing and processing suspension and debarment cases are met in the future.

Annual report on defense contracting fraud

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889B) that would require the Department of Defense to report annually on contracts awarded to companies that have previously been indicted for, settled charges of, been fined for, or been convicted of fraud. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE IX—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT

Subtitle A—Department of Defense Management

Additional duties of Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manufacturing and Industrial Base Policy and amendments to Strategic Materials Protection Board (sec. 901)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 901) that would amend section 139c of title 10, United States Code, to specify the duties of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manufacturing and Industrial Base Policy. The provision would also amend section 187 of title 10, United States Code, to realign the membership of the Strategic Materials Protection Board.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees are concerned that responsibility for the secure supply of materials critical to national security, which supports the defense industrial base, is decentralized throughout the Department of Defense. Therefore, the conferees believe that in order to support a more coherent, comprehensive strategy as it pertains to materials critical to national security, the office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manufacturing and Industrial Base Policy should provide relevant policy guidance and oversight of matters that pertain to ensuring reliable resource availability of materials critical to national security.

Requirement for focus on urgent operational needs and rapid acquisition (sec. 902)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 902) that would require the Secretary of Defense to designate a senior official to be the focal point within the Department of Defense (DOD) to lead the Department's urgent operational needs and rapid acquisition efforts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that this provision does not require the creation of a new position or a new office, but can be addressed by the designation of a senior official in an existing position. DOD Directive 5000.71, dated August 24, 2012, establishes the Warfighter Senior Integration Group as a standing DOD-wide forum to lead and facilitate rapid responses to urgent operational needs identified by combatant commanders and assigns key policy and implementation responsibilities to the Director of the Joint Rapid Acquisition Cell.

The conferees also note that Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Instruction 3170.01H, issued January 10, 2012, and the Manual for the Operation of the Joint Capabilities Integration and Development System, issued January 19, 2012, establish a new category of requirement, known as Joint Emergent Operational Needs (JEON). Under the Instruction and the Manual, JEONs may be acquired through rapid fielding processes developed for acquisitions to meet Joint Urgent Operational Needs (JUON). The Instruction and the Manual make little distinction between JUONs and JEONs: both go through the same rapid acquisition process, both are authorized to use the same expedited alternatives to Analyses of Alternatives, both are permitted to proceed directly to procurement "without the need to develop and validate any of the other associated JCIDS [Joint Capabilities Integration Development System] documents"; and both are assessed for long-term operational utility only after they have been fielded. Unlike JUONs, however, JEONs are not subject to statutory requirements limiting them to capabilities that can be fielded within 2 years, do not require extensive development, are based on proven technologies, and can be appropriately acquired through fixed price contracts.

The conferees conclude that JEONs must be more than a process for avoiding the upfront planning requirements of the Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-23) and the limitations established in section 804(b) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383). Accordingly, the conferees direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics, in coordination with the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to develop additional guidance for JEONs, including:

criteria for assessing the urgency of requirements (including a determination of the likelihood of "an anticipated or pending contingency operation"); standards for ensuring that technologies are sufficiently mature to be suitable for rapid acquisition; procedures for ensuring the appropriate consideration of alternative solutions; and processes for ensuring appropriate cost-performance trade-offs, sound cost estimates, and robust testing and systems engineering.

In the absence of well-developed protections along these lines, the conferees do not believe that rapid acquisition processes are an appropriate mechanism to meet requirements identified as JEONs.

Finally, the conferees note that Section 804 required the Secretary of Defense to conduct a comprehensive review of the Department's urgent operational needs and rapid acquisition processes and report the findings to the congressional defense committees by January 2012. The conferees are disappointed that the Department has yet to transmit the required report.

Designation of Department of Defense senior official for enterprise resource planning system data conversion (sec. 903)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 903) that would require the Secretary of Defense to designate a senior official in the Department of Defense with principal responsibility for coordination and management oversight of data conversion for enterprise resource planning systems and set forth the responsibilities of that senior official.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Additional responsibilities and resources for Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Developmental Test and Evaluation (sec. 904)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 904) that would clarify the responsibilities and resources available to the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Developmental Test and Evaluation (DASD(DT&E)).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) authorize the DASD(DT&E) to communicate directly to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD(AT&L)) on matters within the statutory responsibilities of the office; (2) clarify the oversight and supervisory responsibilities of the DASD(DT&E) over the chief developmental testers and lead developmental test and evaluation organizations of the military departments; (3) ensure that the DASD(DT&E) is consulted on assessments of technical maturity and integration risk of critical technologies at key stages in the acquisition process; (4) provide for the DASD(DT&E) to serve concurrently as the Director of the Defense Test Resource Management Center (TRMC); (5) require that the DASD(DT&E) be provided sufficient professional staff and civilian personnel to carry out the statutory responsibilities of the office; (6) ensure that the DASD(DT&E) has prompt access to test records and data relating to major defense acquisition programs; (7) require that the DASD(DT&E) and the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Systems Engineering provide separate reports to Congress; (8) provide for separate sections in the DASD(DT&E)'s report addressing the activities of the TRMC and assessing the adequacy of resources available to the DASD(DT&E) and to matrixed organizations, including the lead developmental test and evaluation organizations of the military departments; (9) require the USD(AT&L) to report annually to the congressional defense committees on any decision by a major defense acquisition program to disregard the recommendations of the DASD(DT&E) regarding either elements to be included in the developmental test and evaluation plan for the program or the readiness of the program to proceed to initial operational testing and evaluation; and (10) require the USD(AT&L) to notify the congressional defense committees of any decision to conduct developmental testing on a major defense acquisition program without an approved test and evaluation plan in place.

The Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-23) established the position of DASD(DT&E) because of a recognition that developmental testing and evaluation plays a critical role in identifying and correcting problems in major weapon systems early, before they lead to excessive cost overruns and schedule delays. For this reason, the conferees are disappointed that the Department of Defense has not yet fully resourced the office of DASD(DT&E) and has not always included DASD(DT&E) in key meetings regarding major defense acquisition programs. The conferees are also troubled that the military departments have not always provided test records and data in a timely manner and have not given adequate attention to shortcomings identified by DASD(DT&E) in developmental testing. The conferees expect the Department to take prompt and aggressive action to address these shortcomings.

The conferees note that the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the DASD(DT&E) has sufficient professional staff of military and civilian personnel to enable the Deputy Assistant Secretary to carry out the duties and responsibilities prescribed by law. In this regard, the conferees are particularly concerned by the low number of members of the senior executive service who have been assigned to the Office of Developmental Test and Evaluation. The conferees direct the USD(AT&L), as he evaluates the organization and staffing of his office, to give careful consideration to the question whether the DASD(DT&E) is adequately resourced and appropriately placed within the office.

Definition and report on terms "preparation of the environment" and "operational preparation of the environment" for joint doctrine purposes (sec. 905)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 901) that would require the Secretary of Defense to formally define the terms "preparation of the environment (PE)" and "operational preparation of the environment (OPE)" for the purposes of Joint Doctrine and provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report, including: the definitions of PE and OPE, examples of PE and OPE activities highlighting application of the concepts and drawing distinctions between the two types of activities, and an assessment of the respective roles of special operations and general purpose forces in conducting PE and OPE activities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the reporting format to include a classified annex.

The conferees are concerned that, despite frequent use, the terms PE and OPE are not accurately defined or clearly understood, and are often used interchangeably to describe various Title 10 activities by special operations and general purpose forces. Furthermore, the conferees believe the inadequate definition of these terms has resulted in confusion within the military, friction in the interagency coordination process, and reduced congressional oversight by the defense committees. In responding to subsections (b)(2), (b)(4), and (b)(5) of the required report, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide examples of activities meeting the definitions of operational preparation of the environment and preparation of the environment as well as an assessment of the appropriate roles of special operations forces and general purpose forces in carrying out such activities in all relevant domains, including land, sea, air, space, and cyber.

Information for Deputy Chief Management Officer of the Department of Defense from the military departments and Defense Agencies for defense business system investment reviews (sec. 906)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 904) that would ensure that the Deputy Chief Management Officer of the Department of Defense has access to information relevant to the performance of the functions of that office.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle B—Space Activities

Reports on Integration of Acquisition and Capability Delivery Schedules for Segments of Major Satellite Acquisition Programs and Funding for Such Programs (sec. 911)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 911) that would direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to submit an annual assessment for 5 years on the synchronization of satellite, ground, and user terminal segments of space major defense acquisition programs. For each such space program for which a primary capability of such program will be operable by one program segment at least 1 year after the date on which such capability is operable by another program segment, the Under Secretary would provide the cause of the delay, identify the steps the Department is taking to improve the alignment of when the program segments become operable, and outline the related challenges, costs, and risks. The assessment would also include a description of the impact to the mission of the space system from the delay.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 913) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to track concurrently the development of both the satellite and ground systems and to report to Congress corrective measures that will be taken when the satellite and ground systems are more than 1 year apart in synchronization.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require a report on each major satellite acquisition program assessing the integration of acquisition and delivery of capabilities of program segments and, if the program is determined to be non-integrated, what the impacts are on mission and what measures should be taken to ensure the program is integrated. The amendment requires the milestone decision authority to submit a similar report as part of the documentation used to approve the acquisition of a major satellite program and again at milestone B. The amendment requires, if after submission of the report, the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics determines the program is non-integrated, the Under Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report identifying its impact on mission, measures to improve acquisition, and any risks and challenges that impede the ability to integrate the program. The Under Secretary shall continue to update the report with the President's budget submission to Congress for 5 years unless the program becomes integrated before that time. If the program continues to be non-integrated at the end of 5 years, the Government Accountability Office shall review the program and submit the results of the review to the congressional defense committees.

Commercial space launch cooperation (sec. 912)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 916) that would provide authorities for the Department of Defense to enter into contracts with private entities for cooperation on launch ranges and facilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 912).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that this provision applies only to bases and launch facilities administered by the Department of Defense and is intended for those commercial entities who already operate at Department of Defense sites or will be required to operate there due to the nature of the mission they are conducting.

Limitations on international agreements concerning outer space activities (sec. 913)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 913) that would prohibit funds authorized to be appropriated by this or any other Act for use by the Secretary of Defense or the Director of National Intelligence to limit the activities of the Department of Defense or the Intelligence Community in outer space to implement or comply with an international agreement concerning outer space activities unless such agreement is ratified by the Senate or authorized by statute. The provision would require a report not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act by the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense on the negotiations on an international agreement concerning outer space activities. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress, including all committees with an interest in outer space activities, an unclassified annual report by January 1st of each year, detailing foreign countries, including the names of such countries, with counter-space programs that could be a threat to the national security or commercial space systems of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a certification by the President that, if the United States becomes a signatory to a non-legally binding international agreement concerning an International Code of Conduct for Outer Space Activities or any other similar agreement, the agreement has no legally binding effect for limiting activities by the United States in outer space. Furthermore, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Director of National Intelligence to certify that the agreement is equitable, enhances national security, and has no militarily significant impact on the United States' ability to conduct military or intelligence activities in outer space. The amendment would require regular briefings to Congress on the status of any negotiation leading to such a non-legally binding international agreement concerning an International Code of Conduct for Outer Space Activities or any other similar agreement. If the United States becomes a signatory to a non-legally binding international agreement concerning an International Code of Conduct for Outer Space Activities or other similar agreement, the amendment would require notification to Congress at least 60 days prior to signing such an agreement by the head of each agency or department of the Federal Government addressing the effects of such action.

The conferees do not intend the certification requirement in this provision to set any legislative precedent regarding non-legally binding international agreements, which shall each be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

Operationally Responsive Space Program Office (sec. 914)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 911) that would give acquisition authority for the Operationally Responsive Space (ORS) Program Office to the Program Executive Officer for Space and change the head of the office reporting structure from the Department of Defense Executive Agent for Space to the Commander of the Air Force Space and Missile Command. The provision would require an Executive Committee made up of the Commander of the Air Force Space Command; the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics; the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command; and the Executive Agent for Space, which would chair the board. The provision grants authority to transfer up to $60.0 million from the Weather Follow On Satellite Program, to the extent provided in appropriations acts to other higher priority programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delete the Follow On Weather Satellite and add the Army and Navy space program commanders to the Executive Committee to ensure that decisions are made accounting for the joint nature of the ORS program office.

The conferees instruct the Commander of the Air Force Space and Missile Systems Center to which the Office now reports, to provide a plan to the congressional defense committees, not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, that discusses how the existing and future technologies and operational systems developed in the ORS program are to be integrated into service acquisition programs to meet combatant command requirements.

Report on overhead persistent infrared technology (sec. 915)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 912) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence, to submit to the congressional defense committees, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, and the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, within 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, a report on Overhead Persistent Infrared (OPIR) technology that specifically addresses the following: (1) an assessment of whether there are further opportunities for the Department of Defense and the intelligence community to capitalize on increased data sharing, fusion, interoperability, and exploitation; and (2) a recommendation as to how to better coordinate efforts between the Department and the intelligence community for exploitation of OPIR sensor data. The provision would also require that not later than 90 days after the Department delivers its report to the congressional defense committees, the Comptroller General of the United States assess the Department's report to ensure it is comprehensive, fully supported, and sufficiently detailed. Further, the Comptroller General shall identify any shortcomings, limitations, or other matters that affect the quality or findings of the Department's report on OPIR.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would expand the assessment to include elements of the Joint OPIR Integrated Space Trade (JOIST) study by the Department of Defense and intelligence community as it pertains to OPIR technology requirements, strategy, plan, and budget for the entire space layer of the Department of Defense and intelligence community with supporting ground architecture for current and next generation OPIR with respect to missile warning, missile defense, battlespace awareness, and technical intelligence. The amendment also shortens the reporting requirement from 270 days to 180 days.

Assessment of foreign components and the space launch capability of the United States (sec. 916)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 914) that would require the Secretary of Defense to direct a federally funded research and development center to conduct an independent assessment on the national security implications of continuing to use foreign component and propulsion systems for launch vehicles under the evolved expendable launch program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to conduct the independent study. It should be emphasized that given the cost to perform studies, the Under Secretary should use the most cost effective method possible. This provision is not directing the Under Secretary to contract outside the Department to perform the assessment, but to use the many federal advisory panels that advise the Under Secretary if at all possible.

Report on counter space technology (sec. 917)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 915) that would require a report, to be submitted to the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives and Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, not later than 1 year after enactment of this Act and annually thereafter for 2 years, which details key space technologies that could be used, or are being sought, by a foreign country with a counter space or ballistic missile program, and should be subject to export controls by the United States or an ally of the United States, as appropriate.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would add the Counter Space Technology List at the Department of State as part of the information the report is to be based on.

Subtitle C—Intelligence-Related Activities Authority to provide geospatial intelligence support to certain security alliances and regional organizations (sec. 921)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 921) that would amend section 443 of title 10, United States Code, to provide the Director of the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) the authority to provide regional organizations with defense or security components and security alliances of which the United States is a member with imagery intelligence and geospatial information support. The provision would also require, in each case of providing imagery intelligence or geospatial information support to a regional organization or security alliance, the Director of the NGA to: (1) ensure that such intelligence and such support are not provided by such regional organization or such security alliance to any other person or entity; (2) notify the congressional defense committees, Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives, and the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate that the Director of the NGA has provided such intelligence or support; and (3) coordinate the provision of such intelligence and such support with the commander of the appropriate combatant command.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 921) that would allow the NGA Director to also share information with international organizations. The Senate provision did not include requirements described in (1), (2), and (3) of the House provision described above.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require, in lieu of the conditions described in (1), (2), and (3) of the House provision, the NGA director to submit a report by January 15, 2014 and 2015, on the information support provided during the preceding years, including an identification of each organization or alliance receiving such support, and the number of times such support was provided.

Technical amendments to reflect change in name of National Defense Intelligence College to National Intelligence University (sec. 922)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 922) that would provide a technical correction to Section 2161 of title 10, United States Code, to account for the redesignation of the National Defense Intelligence College as the National Intelligence University.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Review of Army Distributed Common Ground System (sec. 923)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 922) that would direct the Secretary of the Army to assign oversight of the Distributed Common Ground System-Army (DCGS-A) cloud acquisition effort to the Army's Chief Information Officer (CIO)/G-6. The provision would require the CIO to conduct an audit of the program and provide an assessment and recommendations to the Secretary of the Army and Chief of Staff of the Army by December 1, 2012.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Army to direct the Army Systems Acquisition Review Council to review the DCGS-A program and report to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act. The review would include an assessment of: (1) the acquisition strategy; (2) current technical performance as compared to requirements; (3) competitive procedures for incorporating new capabilities, including through product fly-offs; (4) plans and mechanisms to incorporate industry best practices and to ensure compatibility with the Joint Information Environment; (5) the adequacy of investments to maximize ease of use; (6) the Army's preparations to ensure that enterprise knowledge management and training for DCGS is compatible with force structure planning; and (7) the need for changes in the DCGS-A program.

The conferees expect the Army to ensure that the DCGS-A acquisition process is open to the agile and competitive adoption or incorporation of advanced commercial tools and capabilities, whether they be licensed products or based on unlicensed open source technology or software. Where comparable in cost and performance, such commercial or commercial open source capabilities should have at least an equal status to government-funded development activities with contractors based on "open source" technology or software foundations.

Electro-optical imagery (sec. 924)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 930) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Director of National Intelligence to sustain through fiscal year 2013 the commercial electro-optical (EO) imagery collection capacity planned under the Enhanced View program approved in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81). The provision also would require the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to conduct a comprehensive analysis of imagery requirements for the Department of Defense

(DOD). The provision would in addition require the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) to conduct a study, based on the DOD requirements, of the potential role of commercial-class imagery in meeting the needs of the government. The provision would require the completion of these studies in time to inform decisions on the fiscal year 2014 budget and the fiscal year 2015 budget request by Congress. Finally, the provision would require CBO to examine whether the administration's proposed actions on commercial imagery are consistent with Presidential policy directives, the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), and statute.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would remove: (1) the requirement that the administration sustain through fiscal year 2013 the commercial imagery collection capacity planned under the Enhanced View program previously approved by Congress; and (2) the requirement that CBO assess whether the administration's decision to reduce purchases of commercial industry and procure from only one company is consistent with policy, FAR, and statute.

The conferees note that, in the wake of the government's budget decisions, the two commercial EO imagery companies decided to merge, which, if upheld by an ongoing Department of Justice review, would undermine the rationale for the Senate provision's requirement to sustain collection capacity at previously approved levels. If the corporate merger is rejected as anti-competitive, the conferees will consider the state of the industrial base in their assessment of the results of the requirements and capabilities studies mandated in this conference agreement.

Defense Clandestine Service (sec. 925)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 932) that would prohibit the obligation of appropriated Military Intelligence Program (MIP) funds in fiscal year 2013 to exceed the number of personnel conducting or supporting human intelligence (HUMINT) within the Department of Defense (DOD) as of April 20, 2012. This provision would also require the Office of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation (CAPE) to provide an estimate of the total cost of the Defense Clandestine Service (DCS) to the congressional defense and intelligence committees.

The provision also would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence (USDI) to provide a report to the congressional defense and intelligence committees by February 1, 2013, that provides or explains: (1) where DOD case officers will be deployed or based and a schedule for those deployments; (2) certification that the prospective locations can and will accommodate these deployments; (3) the objectives established for each military service, U.S. Special Operations Command, and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) to improve career management for case officers and the plans to achieve the objectives of the DCS; and (4) any Memoranda of Agreement or Understanding necessary to implement planned reforms with other departments and agencies and between DOD components.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would prohibit the use of funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act to increase the civilian manpower on hand, conducting or supporting HUMINT, in excess of the fill-rate of such personnel as of April 20, 2012. If, as of the date of enactment of this Act, the civilian fill-rate exceeds the fill-rate as of April 20, 2012, the Secretary of Defense must take appropriate action to promptly reduce the fill-rate, consistent with reduction in force procedures, to that as of April 20, 2012, unless the Secretary, within 30 days, provides a detailed justification for each of the additional civilians. If the Secretary chooses to submit justifications for the increased civilian fill-rates, the fill-rate during the remainder of fiscal year 2013 cannot exceed the fill-rate as of the date of enactment of this Act.

The justification provided by the Secretary shall address the questions contained in the classified annex to this report regarding any additional civilian personnel added to the DCS beyond the number employed in the Defense HUMINT enterprise as of April 20, 2012.

The amendment would also prohibit the use of funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act to increase the positions in the DOD served by members of the armed forces conducting or supporting HUMINT, in excess of the number of positions, or billets, as of April 20, 2012.

The amendment would also require that CAPE consult with the Office of the Director of National Intelligence in conducting the required cost estimate of DCS.

The conferees support the efforts of the USDI and the DIA Director to reform the Defense HUMINT enterprise and provide multi-intelligence support to the military. However, the conferees agree that the DCS initiative should be limited in scope until the Department of Defense can demonstrate that it can correct longstanding problems in the recruitment, management, and execution of the clandestine service; that the service provides a unique capability to the Department of Defense; that the return on investment from further expansion in this mission area will be greater than that from alternative investments in other priorities, in the context of overall personnel and budget reductions; and that the proposed growth of the clandestine service and deployments can be supported.

The conferees recommend that the Secretary of Defense consider, in future budget requests, proposing split funding between the National Intelligence Program and MIP budgets for the DCS, in light of the stated objective of focusing collection on the needs of the Department of Defense.

Subtitle D—Cyberspace-Related Matters
Implementation strategy for Joint Information Environment (sec. 931)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 923) that would require the Department of Defense (DOD) to undertake comprehensive network consolidation and redesign to improve performance and enhance cybersecurity, and to free up personnel to achieve an appropriate balance between U.S. Cyber Command's mission capabilities. In the event that the rate at which personnel freed up from network consolidation is insufficient, or if the personnel available are not able to meet the requirements for supporting U.S. Cyber Command's offensive missions, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to take appropriate action to provide qualified personnel in the required timeframe.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would, in recognition of the activities already underway within DOD to rationalize the Department's networks under the Joint Information Environment (JIE) initiative, direct the Secretary of Defense to define the strategy for implementing the JIE. The required strategy would include: (1) the Secretary's vision for the JIE; (2) the key milestones, costs, metrics, and resources needed to achieve this vision; (3) the acquisition strategy and management plan for the JIE; (4) the key technical and policy challenges for implementation; (5) identification of dependencies and gaps with respect to other initiatives (such as data center consolidation and information technology efficiencies); and (6) plans for addressing the personnel challenges associated with manning, training, operating, and defending the JIE.

The amendment would also modify the Senate provision by requiring the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to provide personnel to meet validated requirements for the JIE and for the full spectrum of cyber operations to support the missions and plans of the combatant commands and the national cyber defense mission of the Department, including offensive cyber operations.

The conferees are concerned about shortfalls in the number and quality of cyber personnel available to support the on-net intelligence collection, preparation of the environment, defensive, and offensive missions of the Department. The conferees understand that U.S. Cyber Command is currently defining the required number and skills of such personnel, in conjunction with the military services, combatant commands, and the Office of the Secretary of Defense. The conferees believe the number of highly skilled cyber operators that could be required and the difficulty in recruiting, training, and retaining them, is daunting. The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has committed to provide Congress with his initial planning to address this personnel issue early in the coming calendar year.

Finally, the conferees note that the report accompanying the House bill (H. Rept. 112-479) directs the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of the enactment of this Act that identifies the National Guard units that have a computer network defense role and describes that role. The conferees direct that the Secretary's cyber personnel planning and reporting to Congress include consideration of the National Guard.

Next-generation host-based cyber security system for the Department of Defense (sec. 932)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 924) that would require the Department of Defense (DOD) Chief Information Officer (CIO) and the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD(AT&L)) to develop a strategy to acquire next-generation host-based cybersecurity tools and capabilities, and provide that strategy to Congress in conjunction with the President's budget request for fiscal year 2015.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the CIO to consult with the USD(AT&L) and the Commander of U.S. Cyber Command in the development of the strategy and to ensure the consideration of commercial applications in acquiring security tools for integration into the next-generation host-based security system.

The conferees recognize that increased and improved threat intelligence is a critical component for the future cybersecurity posture of the military. Further, the conferees believe that the Department of Defense should do more to broaden the types and sources of cyber threat intelligence data to support the common operational picture, including data from host-based security systems, network flow data, and network hunting information.

Additionally, the conferees believe that U.S. Cyber Command, along with the military services and combat support agencies, should do more concept development and experimentation with these new sources of cyber intelligence information to understand how to better utilize these sources in day-to-day operations.

Improvements in assurance of computer software procured by the Department of Defense (sec. 933)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 925) that would mandate multiple actions to improve the security and quality of computer software code used by the Department of Defense (DOD), and enhance the ability of the DOD to compete software maintenance and upgrades.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would eliminate most of the specific required actions in the Senate provision, providing latitude to the DOD to develop or define methods and policies to improve software security and to measure their effectiveness. The amendment would not specifically require DOD to develop or update best practice software development and acquisition models to improve the security of software, or to measure contractor compliance with such models; to develop, and require proof of compliance with, secure software coding standards; to require program managers to develop and implement secure software coding plans; to make use of third-party software code assessment centers in government and the private sector; or to make use of software repositories.

Instead, the provision would mandate that the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD(AT&L)) develop a baseline software assurance policy for the lifecycle of covered systems. The elements of the policy must include the mandated use of automated vulnerability analysis tools throughout the lifecycle of covered systems; the identification and prioritization of software security vulnerabilities and remediation strategies, and to reflect them in contract requirements; and the "promotion" of best practices and standards for achieving software security and quality. The USD(AT&L) also would be required collect data on the implementation of the policy and measure the effectiveness of the policy.

The conferees agree that DOD can and must make major improvements in the base level of security of the software it procures, including both custom-developed and commercial products modified or adapted specifically for DOD requirements. The conferees believe that improved software security need not be more costly or take more time to develop. Security must be designed, engineered, and tested into product development.

Leading commercial companies now understand the importance of secure software and have adopted disciplined, repeatable processes and techniques to achieve it. Industry associations and individual companies, as well as the National Security Agency (NSA) and the National Institute of Standards and Technology, claim that the National Information Assurance Partnership is truly transforming the Common Criteria process to ensure that security is built into commercial software products and objectively verified. The conferees are concerned that the DOD acquisition process and policies do not appear to have a defined role for Common Criteria. As the Department looks at how to translate remediation strategies into contract requirements and source selection criteria, the conferees direct that USD(AT&L) examine the potential role for Common Criteria product certifications in acquisitions of commercial software for covered systems, including commercial software packages that are integrated by or with custom code developed by DOD contractors.

The conferees also note that DOD officials from USD(AT&L) and the Office of the Chief Information Officer have expressed the need for a focused research and development effort to improve automated tools for discovering vulnerabilities in software, and to look at opportunities to push the state-of-the-art in emerging areas such as research into the use of formal methods. The conferees expect that this commitment will be reflected in the Department's software security policy and future budget requests. Similarly, consistent with the direction in the Senate report (S. Rept. 112-173) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (S. 3254), the conferees expect USD(AT&L) to make maximum use of software code analysis tools in development and use by NSA to support the acquisition of secure software.

Competition in connection with Department of Defense tactical data link systems (sec. 934)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 926) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD(AT&L)):

- (1) To develop an inventory of all data links in use and in development in the Department of Defense;
- (2) To conduct a business case analysis of each data link program and make a determination whether there is adequate competition in development, maintenance, upgrade, and new procurement, and if not, whether the program should be opened up to competition;
- (3) For each data link program that is identified for increased competition, to develop a plan that addresses how any policy, legal, programmatic, or technical barriers to competition will be overcome; and
- (4) For each program where competition is determined to be inadvisable, to prepare a justification for that conclusion.

The Senate provision would also require the USD(AT&L) to provide a report to Congress in conjunction with the submission of the fiscal year 2015 budget request, and the Comptroller General to conduct a separate evaluation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would drop the requirement for a formal "business case" analysis, as well as the requirement for a separate evaluation by the Comptroller General.

Collection and analysis of network flow data (sec. 935)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 928) that would allow the Department of Defense (DOD) Chief Information Officer (CIO), in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence (USDI), and the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy to take advantage of the research and development activities and capabilities of the Community Data Center (CDC) managed by the Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA) to enhance DOD's capabilities to collect, analyze, and store so-called network flow data records. The purpose of the provision would be to improve DOD's capabilities to handle its own voluminous flow data records, and to potentially make this technology available for the defense of the country voluntarily through the Tier 1 Internet Service Providers (ISPs).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would include companies that are not Tier 1 Internet Service Providers but are managed security service providers in the requirement to coordinate DOD research and development activities.

The conferees recognize that increased and improved threat intelligence is a critical component for the future cybersecurity posture of the military. Further, the conferees believe that the DOD should do more to broaden the types and sources of cyber threat intelligence data to support the common operational picture, including data from host-based security systems, network flow data, and network hunting information.

Additionally, the conferees believe that United States Cyber Command, along with the military services and combat support agencies, should do more concept development and experimentation with these new sources of cyber intelligence information to understand how to better utilize these sources in day-to-day operations.

Competition for large-scale software database and data analysis tools (sec. 936)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 929) that would prohibit the use of the National Security Agency's (NSA) Accumulo cloud computing database by other Department of Defense (DOD) components after September 30, 2013, unless the Chief Information Officer (CIO) certifies that there are no viable commercial open source databases that have the security features of Accumulo, or that Accumulo itself has become a successful open source database project. The provision also would require that DOD and intelligence community officials coordinate fully on the use by DOD components of cloud computing infrastructure and services offered by the intelligence community for purposes other than intelligence analysis to ensure consistency with the DOD information technology efficiencies initiative, data center and server consolidation plans, and cybersecurity plans and policies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the Senate provision: (1) to require DOD to conduct an analysis of large-scale software database and analysis tools, including technical requirements and available commercial, open source, and government solutions, and to report to Congress the results within 180 days of the enactment of this Act; and (2) to require competitive procedures for acquisitions of large-scale software database and analysis tools. In the event that a component decides not to use competitive procedures under the Federal Acquisition Regulations, the CIO and the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics would be required to provide notification to Congress of such decisions and the rationale for such decisions on a quarterly basis. This approval requirement would have a sunset limitation of 5 years.

The conferees note that the marketplace for commercial and commercially-supported open source "big data" analytics is vibrant, booming, and constantly innovating. These capabilities are becoming increasingly important for DOD as it strives for information technology efficiencies and superior performance across multiple mission areas and support functions. The conferees believe that DOD must have an especially strong reason for rejecting competitive acquisition approaches for such capabilities.

The conferees note that DOD has already determined that the Accumulo database that NSA developed using government and contract engineers is a successful open-source project that is supported by commercial companies. The conferees expect that future acquisitions of Accumulo would be executed through such commercial vendors.

Federal Acquisition Regulations and government policy favors acquisition of commercial products over government-developed solutions when such commercial products can meet the government's needs. Recently, because of market trends and opportunities, DOD organizations are more reluctant to buy licensed commercial software products using traditional licensing models, in part due to the availability and attractiveness of open-source software. This trend overall is positive in that it puts pressure on industry to make better products more economically.

However, the conferees believe it is also possible for government-funded, essentially in-house development programs that unjustifiably compete with the private sector to spring up under the "open source" banner. While the conferees are fully supportive of open-source initiatives, government-off-the-shelf (GOTS) programs are GOTS programs by any name, and should be avoided whenever and wherever there are competitive commercial alternatives, regardless of whether the GOTS software is government-owned or even "open-sourced" while it is being developed or after the fact.

Software licenses of the Department of Defense (sec. 937)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 931) that would direct the Chief Information Officer of the Department of Defense (DOD) to conduct an inventory within 180 days of existing software licenses owned by DOD, including those in use and not in use.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees look forward to working with the DOD to ensure the committees are briefed annually on progress being made to implement the plan. The conferees expect DOD to effectively and efficiently manage its resources, including the number of software licenses it procures, to eliminate waste and unnecessary duplication to the maximum extent practicable.

Sense of Congress on potential security risks to Department of Defense networks (sec. 938)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 934) that would express the sense of the Senate regarding potential risks to the security of Department of Defense (DOD) networks from the incorporation of equipment and software from foreign sources, and the need for DOD authority and processes to mitigate such risks beyond those that already exist for covered National Security Systems acquired by DOD. The provision would also acknowledge the difficulty involved in blocking sales of information technology systems and services due to concerns about cybersecurity while maintaining our commitment to free trade and fair and transparent competition.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the provision from a sense of the Senate to a sense of the Congress, and to drop the "Findings" section.

The conferees are aware that cybersecurity threats are pervasive and serious, including through the supply chain of information technology equipment and software. Semiconductor manufacturing is already dominated by foreign producers, presenting supply chain risk management challenges. In a number of instances, foreign manufacturers of telecommunications equipment, including advanced wireless technology, are gaining global market share due to high quality and low prices. Competitive market forces ensure that commercial providers of consumer, business, and government systems and services will choose equipment and associated software from these manufacturers. In some cases, like Huawei Industries and ZTE Corporation, this competitive position stems in part from inappropriate government subsidies and other forms of assistance.

The conferees are concerned that some of these companies also present clear cybersecurity supply chain risks that the U.S. Government must address. For instance, the conferees are aware that the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States has blocked the attempt by Huawei to acquire United States technology firms on two occasions and the National Security Agency and the Secretary of Commerce have advised two major United States telecommunications carriers against selecting Huawei as a supplier. Such supply chain threats require increased attention, as well as additional and varied tools for dealing with such supply chain challenges. For that reason, the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) provided authority and mechanisms for the Secretary of Defense to control these supply chain risks. That legislation only addressed National Security Systems, leaving many information technology systems and missions exposed to these kinds of supply chain risks. The conferees recognize that blocking sales from providers of information technology systems and services due to concerns about cybersecurity risks, while maintaining our commitment to free trade and fair and transparent competition, poses difficult policy challenges.

Quarterly cyber operations briefings (sec. 939)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 942) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a quarterly briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on significant military cyberspace operations that were carried out by the Department of Defense in the preceding quarter.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Sense of Congress on the United States Cyber Command (sec. 940)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 935) that includes a number of findings and would express the sense of Congress and the Secretary of Defense should brief and consult with Congress before any decision is made to recommend to the President to elevate United States Cyber Command from a sub-unified command to a unified command.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress the Secretary of Defense should brief and consult with Congress when the Secretary makes any such proposal to the President. The amendment also would drop the findings section from the provision.

Reports to Department of Defense on penetrations of networks and information systems of certain contractors (sec. 941)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 936) that would require: (1) the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence (USDI) to establish a process and criteria for designating what companies among those that conduct classified activities with the Department of Defense (DOD), and which of their networks and information systems, must report cyber intrusions to DOD; (2) designating companies to report cyber intrusions of these networks and information systems, including a description of the penetration technique, and a sample of the malicious software, if available; and (3) designating companies, upon the request of DOD, to provide access by DOD to those networks and information systems, so that DOD can study the penetration and ascertain what DOD information might have been stolen.

The provision would also require the USDI to establish this reporting process in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy, the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics, the DOD Chief Information Officer, and the Commander of U.S. Cyber Command.

Finally, the provision would prohibit dissemination outside of DOD of information obtained or derived through the process that is not created by or for DOD without the approval of the contractor.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) place the Secretary of Defense in charge of creating the breach reporting process; (2) require that the Secretary of Defense designate a senior official to establish criteria for designating which contractors and which networks and information systems that process or contain information created by or for DOD that is subject to enhanced protection would be subject to the reporting requirement; (3) add to the reporting requirement a summary of information that has been potentially compromised; (4) establish procedures to allow access by DOD personnel for forensic analysis that are limited to determining whether DOD information was successfully exfiltrated and provide for reasonable protection of trade secrets, commercial or financial information, and information that can be used to identify a specific person; and (5) limit the application of this section until the date on which the Secretary establishes the procedures and criteria required by this legislation. The amendment also would provide technical changes to the definition of cleared defense contractors.

The conferees emphasize that the procedures developed pursuant to this provision, in general, should exclude access to information that is not essential to understanding and preventing penetrations potentially resulting in the loss of DOD information and should protect the privacy of private-sector communications.

The conferees are aware that DOD is working on a Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation (DFAR) rulemaking that would mandate cyber breach reporting from a potential pool of contractors much wider than the cleared defense contractors designated in this provision, as well as standards for the protection of DOD information across the entire defense industrial base (DIB). The conferrees note that this provision is intended to be compatible with, and provide support for, that eventual DFAR rule. As such, the conferees also expect DOD to consult with industry as it develops the reporting process pursuant to this provision.

The conferees also encourage DOD to build on the existing voluntary DIB information sharing program, where practical and sensible to do so, including such areas as the definition of reportable events, and the forensics damage assessment process allowing contractors to remove proprietary or other types of information before DOD forensics teams copy information or "image" systems.

The conferees recognize that as the lead federal agency designated by the President for coordinating with the DIB, DOD has a critical role in supporting cyber security matters involving the DIB. To fulfill DOD's obligations as the sector-specific agency for the national DIB critical infrastructure sector, as outlined in DOD Directive 3020.40 "DOD Policy and Responsibilities for Critical Infrastructure," DOD must work cooperatively with industry to create a successful public-private partnership that can provide timely and effective defenses for the nation's cyber infrastructure. The conferees also emphasize that this provision is not intended to apply to telecommunications and Internet service provider networks that merely transmit DOD information between DIB companies, within DIB companies, between DOD elements, or to and from DOD, unless such services are provided under requirements for the enhanced protection of DOD information.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Advice on military requirements by Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff and Joint Requirements Oversight Council (sec. 951)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 951) that would amend section 153 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify the role of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Joint Requirements Oversight Council in identifying, assessing, and approving military requirements and related functions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Enhancement of responsibilities of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding the national military strategy (sec. 952)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would consolidate and clarify the requirements for the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's submission or update, if any, of the National Military Strategy, and the annual submission of the Chairman's Risk Assessment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with technical and clarifying amendments.

One-year extension of authority to waive reimbursement of costs of activities for nongovernmental personnel at Department of Defense regional centers for security studies (sec. 953)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 954) that would extend for 1 year the current authority under section 941(b) of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417), as amended by section 941 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383), for the five Regional Centers for Security Studies of the Department of Defense to waive the reimbursement costs required under section 184(f) of title 10, United States Code, for personnel of nongovernmental organizations and international organizations to participate in activities of the centers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete the requirement for the Comptroller General of the United States to assess the effectiveness of the Regional Centers for Security Studies.

The conferees remain concerned about the activities of five Regional Centers for Security Studies of the Department of Defense, particularly as they relate to their support to the geographic combatant commanders. Therefore, the conferees direct the Comptroller General of the United States to assess: (1) the effectiveness of the Regional Centers for Security Studies in meeting the centers' objectives and advancing the priorities of the Department of Defense; (2) the extent to which the centers perform a unique function within the interagency community; (3) measures of effectiveness and impact indicators each center uses to internally evaluate its programs; (4) oversight mechanisms within the Department of Defense; (5) the depth and extent of support the centers provide to the geographic combatant commanders; (6) whether the centers' activities are duplicated by other entities in the Department of Defense or United States Government; (7) the benefits, if any, of waiving reimbursement costs for personnel of nongovernmental organizations and international organizations to participate in activities of the centers on an ongoing basis; and (8) other matters the Comptroller General may deem appropriate. The Comptroller General would be required to submit a report of such assessment by June 30, 2013, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives.

National Language Service Corps (sec. 954)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 955) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish and maintain within the Department of Defense a National Language Service Corps.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 941).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish and maintain within the Department of Defense a National Language Service Corps.

Savings to be achieved in civilian personnel workforce and service contractor workforce of the Department of Defense (sec. 955)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 341) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and begin implementation of a plan to achieve savings in funding for the civilian workforce and the service contractor workforce of the Department of Defense (DOD) from fiscal year 2012 through fiscal year 2017 that are not less, as a percentage of such funding, than the savings in funding for military personnel achieved by the planned reduction in military end strength contained in the budget request for fiscal year 2013.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require DOD to achieve savings in the total funding for each covered workforce from fiscal year 2012 through fiscal year 2017 that are not less, as a percentage of such funding, than the savings in funding for basic military personnel pay achieved from reductions in military end strengths over the same period of time. The conferees understand that current DOD plans call for a 5 percent reduction in military end strength through fiscal year 2017.

The conference amendment would also: (1) require the Secretary to ensure that the efficiencies plan is developed in a manner that is consistent with statutory force planning requirements and ensures that the DOD civilian and contract services workforces are appropriately sized to support defense needs; (2) require the Secretary to consider statutorily required workload analyses and risk assessments in determining core or critical functions to be excluded from the savings requirements; and (3) require the Government Accountability Office to report on the extent to which savings are being achieved and the provision is being implemented in a manner consistent with statutory sourcing and workforce management requirements.

Expansion of persons eligible for expedited Federal hiring following completion of National Security Education Program scholarship (sec. 956)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 952) that would amend section 1902(k) of title 50, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Secretary of State, or the head of a federal agency or office identified by the Secretary of Defense as having national security responsibilities to appoint to positions in the excepted service eligible individuals who have successfully completed the requirements of the National Security Education Program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Secretary of State, or the head of a federal agency or office identified by the Secretary of Defense as having national security responsibilities to appoint to positions in the excepted service eligible individuals who have successfully completed the requirements of the National Security Education Program, provided they have not received such an appointment previously.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Redesignation of the Department of the Navy as the Department of the Navy and Marine Corps

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 905) that would redesignate the Department of the Navy as the Department of the Navy and the Marine Corps and redesignate the position of the Secretary of the Navy as the Secretary of the Navy and Marine Corps.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Department of Defense representation in dispute resolution regarding surrender of Department of Defense bands of electromagnetic frequencies

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 914) that would amend section 1062(b)(1) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (Public Law 106-65, 47 U.S.C. 921 note) to require that the Department of Defense (DOD) be adequately represented in the inter-agency spectrum reallocation process.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees recognize the criticality of the radio frequency spectrum to national economic growth and our national security capabilities. As the importance of spectrum to the national economy increases, it is essential that the needs and concerns of the DOD be adequately considered during reallocation, sharing, or auction of spectrum impacting national security capabilities.

The conferees are concerned that by not including specific national security representation, the Technical Panel and the Dispute Resolution Board, established under section 6701 of The Middle Class Tax Relief Act of 2012 (Public Law 112-96), may make decisions that could result in arbitrary determinations regarding the "sufficiency" of spectrum reallocation or sharing transition plans addressing national security capabilities and any dispute that may arise thereafter, without adequate input from the DOD. To ensure these equities are considered, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to determine whether the needs and concerns of the DOD have been adequately considered and addressed during the processes of identifying frequencies to be surrendered and transition planning, including review of transition plans by the Technical Panel and any dispute resolution by the Dispute Resolution Board, impacting national security capabilities.

Further, the conferees expect the National Telecommunications and Information Administration ensure that the rules and procedures implementing the Technical Panel and Dispute Resolution Board as required by Public Law 112-96 incorporate methods that enable the Secretary of Defense to make the necessary determination on the needs and concerns of the DOD with respect to consideration of transition plans impacting national security capabilities.

Integration of critical signals intelligence capabilities

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 927) that would require the Director of the Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance (ISR) Task Force to develop a plan to integrate multiple technical signals intelligence (SIGINT) capabilities together to satisfy requirements to detect, identify, track, and precisely locate communications equipment from airborne platforms.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on certain funding until certification that inventory of contracts for services has begun

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 931) that would fence certain funds until the Department of Defense is in full compliance with the requirements of section 2330a of title 10, United States Code, to develop an inventory of contract services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees remain convinced that the required inventory is an important tool to provide transparency in government contracting and to assist decision-makers in planning, programming, and budgeting defense funds. The conferees are disappointed with the long delays in the Department's implementation of the inventory required by section 2330a. The conferees note that the Department has recently developed a plan to comply with the requirements of section 2330a and expect the Department to implement this plan in a timely manner.

Requirement to ensure sufficient levels of government management, control, and oversight of functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 932) that would require the military departments to ensure that their staffing levels are sufficient to provide appropriate management, control, and oversight of functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that section 129a(f)(3) of title 10, United States Code, already requires the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the Department of Defense maintains sufficient capabilities within the Department to manage, control, and oversee functions performed by contractors. The conferees expect the Department to comply with these requirements.

Special management attention required for certain functions identified in inventory of contracts for services

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 933) that would require the Department of Defense to give special management attention to functions identified in the inventory of contract services required by section 2330a of title 10, United States Code, as being closely associated with inherently governmental functions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect the Department of Defense to ensure that the Department maintains the capabilities required by section 129a(f)(3) of title 10, United States Code, in connection with any functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions that are performed by contractors.

Military activities in cyberspace

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 941) that would clarify that the Secretary of Defense has the authority to conduct clandestine cyberspace activities in support of military operations pursuant to a congressionally authorized use of force outside of the United States, or to defend against a cyber attack on an asset of the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Annual briefing to congressional defense committees on certain written policy guidance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 953) that would require the Secretary of Defense to brief the congressional defense committees annually on the defense planning guidance and policy guidance developed pursuant to section 113 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree that the Secretary of Defense, or his designee, should, upon request and subsequent to submission of the annual defense budget request, provide the congressional defense committees with a briefing, classified or unclassified, that describes the defense planning guidance as required by section 113(g) of title 10, United States Code, and from which the budget request submitted was developed. The conferees agree that the Secretary of Defense, when developing this briefing shall exclude descriptions of strategic contingency planning or plans.

TITLE X—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Financial Matters

General transfer authority (sec. 1001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1001) that would provide the Department of Defense with $3.5 billion of general transfer authority in fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1001) that would provide the Department of Defense with $5.0 billion general transfer authority in fiscal year 2013.

The House recedes with an amendment providing the Department of Defense with $4.0 billion of general transfer authority in fiscal year 2013.

Budgetary effects of this Act (sec. 1002)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would determine the budgetary effects of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 4).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Sense of Congress on notice to Congress on unfunded priorities (sec. 1003)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1003) that would require members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Commander, U.S. Special Operations Command, to submit to the congressional defense committees, within 30 days of the Department's annual budget request, a report containing a list of unfunded priorities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1047) that would express the sense of the Senate that the service chiefs and the Commander, U.S. Special Operations Command, should provide unfunded priorities lists to the congressional defense committees.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress.

Authority to transfer funds to the National Nuclear Security Administration to sustain nuclear weapons modernization (sec. 1004)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would give the Secretary of Defense transfer authority of up to $150.0 million to the nuclear weapons program in the National Nuclear Security Administration if the amount appropriated for that program is less than $7.9 billion—the amount specified for fiscal year 2013 in the report required by section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Audit readiness of Department of Defense statements of budgetary resources (sec. 1005)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1003) that would codify the goal established by the Secretary of Defense of validating the statement of budgetary resources of the Department of Defense as audit ready by the end of fiscal year 2014, provided that the achievement of this goal is affordable, does not result in excessive one-time fixes and manual work-arounds, and will not delay full auditability for the Department's financial statements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on balances carried forward by the Department of Defense at the end of fiscal year 2012 (sec. 1006)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1005) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Congress the dollar amount of obligated and unobligated balances carried forward by the Department of Defense at the end of fiscal year 2012.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on elimination and streamlining of reporting requirements, thresholds, and statutory and regulatory requirements resulting from unqualified audit opinion of Department of Defense financial statements (sec. 1007)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 903) that would, in the event that the Department of Defense (DOD) fails to achieve an unqualified audit opinion by the end of fiscal year 2017, transfer the Defense Finance and Audit Service from DOD to the Department of the Treasury and establish a new Chief Management Officer position within DOD.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) to report to Congress on elimination and streamlining of reporting requirements, thresholds, and statutory and regulatory requirements that may be made possible when DOD achieves an unqualified audit opinion.

The conferees remain concerned about the ability of the DOD to meet the 2014 objective for the audit readiness of its Statement of Budget Readiness and the 2017 objective for full audit readiness. For example, according to the most recent Financial Improvement and Audit Readiness Plan Status Report submitted to Congress, the Air Force missed 7 out of 15 near-term audit readiness deadlines. Concerns raised by these missed deadlines are exacerbated by management failures on the Expeditionary Combat Support System program and the recent decision to terminate this program.

The conferees agree that a continued legislative focus on this issue is necessary to ensure that the DOD meets established objectives and that if DOD shows a lack of progress further legislation—which could include possible incentives identified pursuant to the report required by this section and penalties for failure to achieve meaningful progress—is likely to be required.

Subtitle B—Counter-Drug Activities

Extension of the authority to establish and operate National Guard counterdrug schools (sec. 1008)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1011) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to continue to operate the five National Guard Counterdrug Schools currently in existence for an additional period of 5 years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would incorporate a new reporting requirement and establish an annual limitation on funding.

Biannual reports on use of funds in the Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, Defense-wide account (sec. 1009)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would extend by 1 year the reporting requirement on expenditures to support foreign counter-drug activities under section 1022 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), as most recently amended by section 1008 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1014) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit on a quarterly basis reports to the congressional defense committees setting forth, by project code, a description of all expenditures of funds to support foreign counterdrug activities from the Drug Interdiction and Counterdrug Activities Defense-wide account. Further, the provision would repeal section 1022 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), as most recently amended by section 1008 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the requirement under the Senate amendment to require semi-annual reports.

Extension of authority to support unified counter-drug and counterterrorism campaign in Colombia (sec. 1010)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would extend by 1 year the unified counterdrug and counterterrorism campaign in the Republic of Colombia under section 1021 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375), as most recently amended by section 1007 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would permit, for 1 fiscal year, the Secretary of Defense to expend not more than $50.0 million to continue to support the unified counterdrug and counterterrorism campaign of the Government of Colombia. The provision would permit the Secretary to provide: (1) logistics support, services, and supplies; (2) the types of support authorized under section 1004(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991 (Public Law 101-510), as amended; and (3) the types of support authorized under 1033(c) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85), as amended. The provision would prohibit U.S. personnel from participating in any combat operation in connection with assistance provided under this authority. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit an annual report on any assistance provided pursuant to this provision to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of Authority for joint task forces to provide support to law enforcement agencies conducting counter-terrorism activities (sec. 1011)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1014) that would extend by 1 year the support for joint task forces under section 1022(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), as most recently amended by section 1004 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1011).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense (DOD) is currently using this authority in a limited number of locations. While the conferees are pleased to learn of DOD's judicious use of this authority, the conferees also believe there are additional activities that could potentially be conducted in additional regions, particularly against illicit smuggling networks in North-west Africa.

Requirement for biennial certification on provision of support for counter-drug activities to certain foreign governments (sec. 1012)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would amend section 1033 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85), as most recently amended by section 1006 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), to require biennial certification following the first year certification, rather than annual certification for the Department of Defense to provide additional support for counterdrug activities to certain foreign governments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Naval Vessels and Shipyards

Policy relating to major combatant vessels of the strike forces of the United States Navy (sec. 1013)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1021) that would amend section 1012 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181). Section 1012 requires that all combatant vessels of the strike forces of the Navy, including all new classes of such vessel, be designed with integrated nuclear power systems. The provision would amend section 1012 to require the Secretary of the Navy to notify the congressional defense committees if, after a cost benefit analysis, the Secretary decides it would not be practical for the new class of ships to be nuclear powered.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for delayed annual naval vessel construction plan (sec. 1014)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1022) that would fence some funds available to the Secretary of the Navy until the annual shipbuilding plan required under section 231 of title 10, United States Code, has been submitted to Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Retirement of naval vessels (sec. 1015)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1021) that would require the Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) to produce a report that would set forth a comprehensive description of the current requirements of the Navy for combatant vessels of the Navy, including submarines. The provision would also require that, if the number of these vessels is less than 313 ships, the report would have to include the justification of the CNO for that smaller number, and an explanation of how that smaller number is consistent with the recently revised strategic guidance issued by the President and the Secretary of Defense in 2012.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Termination of a Maritime Prepositioning Ship Squadron (sec. 1016)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1022) that would limit funding to terminate a Maritime Prepositioning Ship Squadron (MPSRON) until a report is received on the impact of the termination.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add to the report a description of any increased risk or operational plan impacts associated with using Norway to fulfill the MPSRON requirement.

Sense of Congress on recapitalization for the Navy and Coast Guard (sec. 1017)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1023) that would state that it is the sense of Congress that, among other things: (1) the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of the Navy, should maintain the recapitalization plans for the Navy as a priority in all future force structure decisions; and (2) the Secretary of Homeland Security should maintain the recapitalization plans for the Coast Guard as a priority in all future force structure decisions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Notice to Congress for the review of proposals to name naval vessels (sec. 1018)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1024) that would identify appropriate and necessary standards for the naming of vessels of the Navy, and would amend section 7292 of title 10, United States Code, by adding a new subsection that would prevent the Secretary of the Navy from announcing or implementing any proposal to name a vessel of the Navy until 30 days after the date on which the Secretary submits to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report that justifies how such a naming proposal follows the appropriate and necessary standards for the naming of vessels of the Navy set forth in this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree that: (1) the ship naming process must not be politicized; (2) setting forth objective criteria can help in this goal; and (3) establishing a notify-and-wait period will aid the Armed Service Committees' oversight of the process.

Subtitle D—Counterterrorism

Extension of authority to make rewards for combating terrorism (sec. 1021)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1034) that would extend the section 127(b) of title 10, United States Code, which allows the Secretary of Defense to offer and make rewards to a person providing information or nonlethal assistance to U.S. Government personnel or government personnel of Allied Forces participating in a combined operation with U.S. Armed Forces through fiscal year 2014 and require a report that outlines future requirements of the authority.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the Department has used this authority in Afghanistan, but not in other ongoing contingency operations such as Operation Observant Compass, the U.S. military's operation to advise and assist the Ugandan People's Defense Force (UDPF) and other regional militaries in their ongoing efforts to apprehend or remove Joseph Kony and his top lieutenants from the battlefield. Enhancing U.S. Africa Command's (AFRICOM) effectiveness in helping regional partners and one of the most enduring and destructive scourges on the continent would go a great distance in convincing the people and governments of Africa that the United States can offer a sincere and valuable contribution to the continent's security. The conferees believe that U.S. forces have not made effective use of the Department of Defense's (DOD) counterterrorism rewards program, despite Joseph Kony's designation as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist in 2008. This authority allows deployed forces to incentivize the local populace to provide information in support of operations conducted against international terrorism and to improve force protection. The conferees believe delegating appropriate approvals for the use of this authority to forces on the ground and targeting outreach efforts at defecting LRA members would enhance the use and effectiveness of this authority.

Prohibition on use of funds to construct or modify facilities in the United States to house detainees transferred from United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (sec. 1022)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1038) that would prohibit the use of fiscal year 2013 Department of Defense (DOD) funds or funds otherwise made available to the DOD to construct or modify any facility in the United States to house Guantanamo detainees.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1031(a)) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the prohibition under section 1026 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81; 125 Stat. 1566) on the construction or modification of facilities in the United States to house Guantanamo detainees.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the language of the House provision and the conference agreement is identical to that contained in section 1026 of Public Law 112-81 except that the prohibition is extended from fiscal year 2012 to fiscal year 2013.

Report on recidivism of individuals detained at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, who have been transferred to foreign countries (sec. 1023)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1039) that would require two reports relating to transfers of individuals detained at the U.S. Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. The first report would require the Director of the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), in consultation with the heads of the other elements of the intelligence community, as appropriate, to assess the factors causing or contributing to the recidivism of Guantanamo detainees that are released or transferred. The second report would require the Secretary of State to assess the effectiveness of the agreements with other countries relating to the transfer or release of Guantanamo detainees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would consolidate the two reports into one report submitted by the DIA Director, in consultation with the heads of each of the other elements of the intelligence community.

Notice and report on use of naval vessels for detention of individuals captured outside Afghanistan pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (sec. 1024)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1040) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a notification to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 5 days after detaining an individual on a naval vessel outside the United States pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40). The House provision would also require the Secretary to submit to those Committees a detailed report on the use of naval vessels for detention purposes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the period for submitting the notification of detention from not later than 5 days to not later than 30 days after the individual is first detained. The amendment would also require that if the detained individual is transferred or released before the notice of the individual's detention is submitted, the Secretary must submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives notice of the transfer or release. The amendment would retain the reporting requirement in the House bill on the use of naval vessels for detention purposes.

Notice required prior to transfer of certain individuals detained at the Detention Facility at Parwan, Afghanistan (sec. 1025)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would require the Secretary of Defense to notify the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, not later than 10 days prior to the transfer of any third country national detainee held at the Detention Facility at Parwan, Afghanistan, to the custody of the Government of Afghanistan or any other country. As part of the notification required by this provision, the Secretary of Defense would be required to provide certain assessments and certifications.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the specified assessments are conducted prior to the transfer of any third country national subject to this provision, but would eliminate the requirement that the assessments or certifications relating to those assessments be submitted to Congress as part of the transfer notification.

Report on recidivism of individuals formerly detained at the Detention Facility at Parwan, Afghanistan (sec. 1026)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives a report relating to the recidivism of individuals formerly detained at the detention facility at Parwan, Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Prohibition on the use of funds for the transfer or release of individuals detained at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (sec. 1027)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1036) that would prohibit the use of Department of Defense (DOD) funds for fiscal year 2013 to transfer or release detainees at U.S. Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to or within the United States, its territories, or possessions.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would establish a permanent prohibition on the use of any appropriated funds to transfer or release Guantanamo detainees to or within the United States, its territories, or possessions.

The Senate recedes.

Requirements for certifications relating to the transfer of detainees at United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to foreign countries and other foreign entities (sec. 1028)

The House bill contained two provisions (sec. 1037 and sec. 1043) that would extend for 1 year the certification requirements applicable to the transfer or release of detainees at the United States Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba and revise those requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1031(b)) that would extend the certification requirements for 1 year without change.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the certification requirement for 1 year and modify the requirement in two ways.

First, the amendment would provide that in assessing the risk that a detainee will engage in terrorist activity if released, as required by the certification requirements or the national security waiver with regard to certain certification requirements, the Secretary of Defense may give favorable consideration to any detainee who has cooperated with U.S. intelligence and law enforcement authorities pursuant to a pre-trial agreement while in Department of Defense custody, and for whom appropriate agreements and mechanisms are in place to provide for continued cooperation with U.S. intelligence and law enforcement authorities following transfer.

Second, the amendment would add that, if the Secretary of Defense invokes the national security waiver, the Secretary must also provide as part of the report accompanying the waiver classified information on the detainee's record of cooperation with the Department while in DOD custody and any agreements in place to provide for the detainee's continuing cooperation after transfer.

Rights Unaffected (sec. 1029)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1033) that would state that nothing in the Authorization for Use of Military Force (Public Law 107-40) (AUMF) or the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) (FY 2012 NDAA) shall be construed to deny the availability of the writ of habeas corpus or to deny any Constitutional rights in an Article III court for any person who is lawfully in the United States when detained and who is otherwise entitled to the availability of such writ or such rights.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1033) that would state that an authorization for the use of military force shall not authorize the detention without charge or trial of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States apprehended in the United States, unless an Act of Congress expressly authorizes such detention.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would state that nothing in the AUMF or the FY 2012 NDAA shall be construed to deny the availability of the writ of habeas corpus or to deny any Constitutional rights in a court ordained or established by or under Article III of the Constitution to any person inside the United States who would be entitled to the availability of such writ or to such rights in the absence of such laws.

The conferees note that Under Article 1, section 9 of the Constitution, habeas corpus rights "shall not be suspended, unless when in Cases of Rebellion or Invasion the public Safety may require it." The Supreme Court has stated that Congress may not be presumed to have limited habeas corpus rights absent "an unmistakably clear statement" to that effect. (Hamdan v. Rumsfeld, 548 U.S. 557, 575 (2006); Boumedienne v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723, 738 (2008)).

The conferees note that no provision of the AUMF or the FY 2012 NDAA addresses the availability of the writ of habeas corpus. On the contrary, section 1021(e) of the FY 2012 NDAA expressly states: "Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect existing law or authorities relating to the detention of United States citizens, lawful resident aliens of the United States, or any other persons who are captured or arrested in the United States." Further, the conferees acknowledge that constitutional rights may not be restricted or denied by statute. Consequently, nothing in the AUMF or the FY 2012 NDAA restricts or denies existing habeas corpus rights or any other existing constitutional rights.

Subtitle E—Nuclear Forces

Nuclear weapons employment strategy of the United States (sec. 1031)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would require annual briefings to the congressional defense committees, specifically the Chairmen and Ranking Members and such professional staff as they designate, on the nuclear weapons employment strategy, plans and options of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require notification to the congressional defense committees when there is an anomaly of the nuclear command, control and communications system that rises to the level of notification to Secretary of Defense or the Nuclear Weapons Council. This requirement is intended to involve those anomalies that are beyond the de minimis issues.

Progress of modernization (sec. 1032)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1054) that would prohibit the expenditure of any funds made available for fiscal year 2013 or any fiscal year thereafter to implement a new nuclear weapons employment strategy until a period of 1 year after a report detailing such strategy has been submitted to Congress. The section would also provide that for fiscal years 2013 through 2021, no funds made available for each such fiscal year may be used to carry out the decisions of the 2010 Nuclear Posture Review Implementation study that would alter the nuclear weapons employment strategy, guidance, plans or options of the United States until the President certifies that the resources projected in the February 2011 update to the report required under section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) have been requested from the Congress, have been provided in appropriations acts passed by the Congress and signed by the President, and the sequestration mechanism of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, (Public Law 99-177), have been repealed or otherwise terminated.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require notice 60 days before the 2010 Nuclear Posture Review Implementation Study from the 2010 Nuclear Posture Review is issued or implemented, and that the President shall transmit to congressional defense committees a report providing the high, medium and low confidence assessments of intelligence community as to whether the United States will have significant warning of a strategic surprise or breakout caused by foreign nuclear weapons development.

Report in the event of insufficient funding for modernization of nuclear weapons stockpile (sec. 1033)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1053) that would amend section 1045(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) to require a report in any year in which funding is appropriated for nuclear modernization activities that is less than projected in the November 2010 update of the plan referred to in section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) within 60 days of the determination of insufficient funding. The section would prohibit the reduction of U.S. deployed nuclear warheads until the President certifies that the resource shortfall identified in the report has been addressed and 120 days have elapsed following such certification. The limitation on reductions would not apply regarding reductions made to ensure the safety, security, reliability and credibility of the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile and delivery systems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require notification to the appropriate congressional committees 60 days before a reduction in the number of deployed nuclear warheads.

Prevention of asymmetry of nuclear weapon stockpile reductions (sec. 1034)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1056) that would require the President to certify whether reductions in the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile would result in the stockpile being smaller than that of the Russian Federation. The section would provide that if the President certifies that the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile is smaller than the Russian stockpile, he may not make any reductions to the U.S. stockpile until the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command reports on a potential strategic imbalance created by the reductions and a period of 180 days has elapsed following the submission of the report to the congressional defense committees. The section would except from the limitation reductions made to ensure the safety, security, reliability, and credibility of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would replace the limitation on reductions with a report by the Commander of the U.S. Strategic Command, transmitted by the President 60 days before the reduction, covering whether it would create a strategic imbalance or degrade deterrence and extended deterrence between the total number of the nuclear weapons of the United States and the total number of the Russian Federation.

Strategic delivery systems (sec. 1035)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1071) that would require the President to certify to the congressional defense committees whether plans to modernize strategic delivery systems are funded at a level equal to or more than that outlined in the November 2010 update to the plan found in section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84). If the level of funding is less than that referred to in the November 2010 update, then the President must submit as part of the reporting requirements under section 1043 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), his assessment of whether a lack of full funding will result in a loss of military capability. If the President determines that the lack of full funding will result in a loss of military capability, he must submit with the section 1043 report a plan to preserve or retain the capability that would be lost, and a report that assesses the impact of the lack of full funding and a description of the funding required to restore the capability.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1055) that would require the President to certify annually whether plans to modernize or replace strategic delivery systems are fully resourced and being executed at a level equal to or more than the levels set forth in the November 2010 update to the plan referred to in section 1251 of Public Law 111-84. The section would further prohibit the use of funds to reduce, convert, or eliminate strategic delivery systems as a result of the New START treaty or otherwise unless the President is able to issue the required certification.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the President to certify annually to the congressional defense committees whether plans to replace or modernize strategic delivery systems are funded at levels equal that under the November 2010 update to section 1251 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84). If before fiscal year 2020, the President reports that the plan to modernize the strategic delivery systems is not fully funded according to the November 2010 update, the President shall include with the report to Congress under section 1043 of Public Law 112-81 a determination whether the lack of funding will result in a loss of military capability as compared to the November 2010 update. If the determination is made that a lack of full funding will result in a loss of military capability, the President shall include with the report under section 1043 of Public Law 112-81, a plan to preserve the military capability that would be lost, an assessment of the impact of the lack of full funding on the strategic delivery systems, and a description of the funding required to restore military capability. The President must certify a commitment to accomplishing the modernization and replacement of strategic delivery systems and the political obligations concerning nuclear modernization as set forth in declaration 12 of the Resolution of Advice and Consent to Ratification of the New START treaty.

The amendment also requires that the President make the certification regarding full funding for the strategic delivery systems under the November 2010 update to the section 1251 plan not less than 60 days before the date on which the President carries out any proposed reduction to the strategic delivery systems along with any additional reporting matters described in this section. In addition, the President must certify to the congressional defense committees that the Russian Federation is in compliance with its arms control obligations with the United States.

Consideration of expansion of nuclear forces of other countries (sec. 1036)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1057) that would require that in any year in which the President recommends reductions in the nuclear forces of the United States that no funds made available for fiscal year 2012 or any fiscal year thereafter may be used for such reduction until the President transmits to the appropriate congressional committees a report regarding foreign nuclear weapons programs and a certification by the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command as to whether the recommended reductions in U.S. nuclear forces could have specific implications for U.S. national security.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that requires the President to transmit a report to Congress 60 days before any such reduction with a high, medium and low confidence intelligence community assessment regarding a country's number and type of nuclear weapons, its modernization plans, warhead and strategic delivery vehicle production capacity, nuclear doctrine and the impact of the reductions on deterrence and extended deterrence of the United States. In addition, the Commander of the United States Strategic Command shall certify to congressional defense committees whether such reductions impair the ability of the United States to respond to unplanned strategic or geopolitical events, technical challenges or whether such reductions degrade United States deterrence or the extended deterrence it provides to its friends and allies. With regard to extended deterrence, the conferees expect the Commander will consult with the Secretary of State.

Nonstrategic nuclear weapon reductions and extended deterrence policy (sec. 1037)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1060) that would state the policy of the United States regarding nonstrategic nuclear weapons reductions as well as the United States policy on the extended deterrence commitment to Europe. The section would also limit any funds made available for fiscal year 2013 or any fiscal year thereafter to reduce, consolidate or withdraw U.S. nuclear weapons that are based in Europe until certain specific conditions are met, as established by a certification from the President submitted to the appropriate congressional committees, and a period of 180 days has elapsed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a notification to the congressional defense committees 60 days before the reduction, consolidation, or withdrawal of nuclear forces based in Europe.

Unilateral change in nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States (sec. 1038)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1065B) that would prohibit the President from retiring, dismantling, or eliminating any nuclear weapon if the action results in a level lower than that described by the New Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the President, prior to considering a change to the size of the total stockpile of deployed and non-deployed hedge weapons by more than 25 percent, other than through a treaty even if over several years, to submit to the congressional defense committees the terms of reference of a nuclear posture review. The 25 percent change would include either a reduction or an increase in nuclear stockpile size.

Under the provision, the President would be allowed to change the nuclear stockpile by more than 25 percent upon completing the nuclear posture review and submitting it to the congressional defense committees.

This provision would not apply to changes in the nuclear weapons stockpile resulting from treaty obligations, but would apply to any other changes. This provision would be a recurring requirement.

The Nuclear Posture Review would be submitted in an unclassified form but may include a classified annex.

Expansion of duties and responsibilities of the Nuclear Weapons Council (sec. 1039)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1061) that would amend section 179 of title 10,

United States Code, (10 U.S.C. 179) authorizing the Nuclear Weapons Council (NWC) to require circulation of materials to the Chairman of the NWC not later than 7 days before a Council meeting and to coordinate and approve the annual budget proposals of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 902) that would amend the statute authorizing the NWC (10 U.S.C. 179) to require that concurrent with the President's budget submission, that the Council certify in writing that the budget for the NNSA meets both the nuclear stockpile and the stockpile stewardship requirements as well as provide programmatic oversight of the nuclear command and control system. The provision also requires the Council to notify the congressional defense committees on the impacts of any authorization or appropriation bill adopted by either the Senate or the House of Representatives that in the view of the Council fails to adequately fund the nuclear stockpile and nuclear stockpile stewardship requirements.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require certification by the NWC of the NNSA budget with dissenting opinions at the time of budget submission to the Congress, provide oversight of the nuclear command and control system and provide that the NWC notify the congressional defense committees on the impacts of any authorization or appropriation bill adopted by either the Senate or House that fails to fund the nuclear stockpile stewardship requirements.

The conferees understand there will be circumstances which could preclude meeting the 7-day advance document requirement before a meeting of the NWC. The conferees intend the 7-day requirement apply to the extent possible.

The conferees expect that the NWC not only certify (as required by statute) the NNSA budget as it is submitted to the Congress but that the NWC also take an active role in shaping and reviewing the NNSA budget as it is prepared for submission to Congress and negotiated with the Office of Management and Budget during the budget review process.

Interagency Council on the Strategic Capability of the National Laboratories (sec. 1040)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1062) that would establish an Interagency Council on the Strategic Capability of the National Laboratories. The membership of the Council would include the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Director of National Intelligence, the Administrator for Nuclear Security, and other officials as designated by the President. The Council would be responsible for a variety of matters related to identifying, assessing, and ensuring adequate support for strategic capabilities at the national laboratories that could be used by the participating agencies to accomplish national security missions. This section would also require each member of the Council to create streamlined consideration and approval processes for their agency to procure the services of the national laboratories on appropriate matters. Finally, this provision would require the Council to submit a report to appropriate congressional committees on the functions and effectiveness of the Council.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would add a requirement that the Council, in its report to Congress, assess the strategic capabilities and core competencies of laboratories and engineering centers operated by the Department of Defense, including mission areas and functions that should be carried out by these laboratories and engineering centers.

Cost estimates for nuclear weapons (sec. 1041)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1065A) that would amend section 1043 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) and would require cost estimates for sustaining and modernizing the U.S. nuclear deterrent and the nuclear stockpile over the 10 year period including training, basing, security, testing, research, development, deployment, transportation, personnel, overhead, and other appropriate matters as well as budget estimates listed by location for the Department of Defense. The Comptroller General would be required to review the cost estimates prepared by the Department of Defense within 180 days.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1073) that would require the Congressional Budget Office to obtain a 10 year cost estimate of nuclear weapons enterprise in the Departments of Defense and Energy.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 1043 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) and require cost estimates for sustaining and modernizing the U.S. nuclear deterrent and the nuclear stockpile over the 10 year period including for procurement, military construction, operation and maintenance, research, development, test, and evaluation for the Department of Defense, with a review of the costs by the Comptroller General. The amendment would also require a 10 year cost estimate by the Congressional Budget Office of the nuclear enterprise in the Departments of Defense and Energy.

Prior notification with regard to retirement of strategic delivery systems (sec. 1042)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1065C) that would limit any funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 or any fiscal year thereafter for the Department of Defense to reduce, convert, or decommission any strategic delivery system pursuant to the levels set forth under the New START Treaty unless the President certifies to Congress that the Russian Federation makes a commensurate reduction, conversion or decommissioning under the Treaty and that the Russian Federation is not developing or deploying a strategic delivery system that is not covered under the treaty limits and capable of reaching the United States. The provision limits any funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 or any fiscal year thereafter if such funds would eliminate a leg of the nuclear triad.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the President submit the report required under section 1042(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act of Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), 60 days before any such reduction, conversion or decommissioning of any strategic delivery systems under the New START Treaty.

Report on nuclear warheads on intercontinental ballistic missiles of the United States (sec. 1043)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1059) that would prohibit reductions in the number of warheads loaded on U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles unless the President certifies that the Russian Federation and the People's Republic of China are carrying out similar reductions with an exception for reductions made to ensure the safety, security, reliability and credibility of the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile and delivery systems

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a report on the requirements necessary to ensure the United States retains the ability to upload multiple warheads on intercontinental ballistic missiles if circumstances dictate that such actions are needed.

Requirements for combined or interoperable warhead for certain missile systems (sec. 1044)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1072) that would require the Nuclear Weapons Council to provide Congress with the definition of a combined warhead so that the 6.1 and 6.2 process will have clarity in the out-years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretaries of the Navy and Air Force to submit to the Nuclear Weapons Council their plans and views with respect to a combined or interoperable warhead for the W78 Minuteman III missile system and the W88 Trident II system. The amendment would also require that these views be combined unedited with the report from the Nuclear Weapons Council setting forth the requirements for the combined or interoperable warhead and provided to Congress.

To better understand the requirements associated with this interoperable warhead, the conferees direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to submit to the congressional defense committees by February 1, 2013, any briefing materials that pertain to the interoperable warhead that were provided to the Nuclear Weapons Council by the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command during the Council's July 2012 meetings. In addition to the original materials, the Under Secretary and the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command may also submit any update to the information contained in the materials.

Reports on capability of conventional and nuclear forces against certain tunnel sites and on nuclear weapons program of the People's Republic of China (sec. 1045)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1063) that would require a report within 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act on the implications of the underground tunneling network of the People's Republic of China and the capacity of the conventional and nuclear forces of the United States to hold those tunnels (and assets contained within) at risk, including any implications for U.S. force structure and program requirements. Such report would be unclassified, with a classified annex if necessary. Information controlled under special access programs and alternate or compensatory control measures are limited to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on conventional and nuclear forces in the Western Pacific region (sec. 1046)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1064) that requires a report on the deployment of additional conventional and nuclear forces to the Western Pacific, detailing specific issues with such deployments including an evaluation of any bilateral agreements, basing arrangements and costs required for such deployments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to consider the feasibility and strategic value of such deployments as part of the report.

Subtitle F—Miscellaneous Authorities and Limitations

Expansion of authority of the Secretary of the Army to loan or donate excess non-automatic service rifles for funeral and other ceremonial purposes (sec. 1051)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1072) that would amend section 4683(a) of title 10, United States Code, to change the statutory limitation on the number of excess small arms that the Secretary of the Army can donate to certain eligible organizations for funeral and other ceremonial purposes. This section would also establish a rotational small arms loan program should the demand for ceremonial small arms exceed currently available excess supply.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to loan or donate excess non-automatic service rifles to meet the needs of authorized eligible organizations with respect to performing funeral and other ceremonies.

Interagency collaboration on unmanned aircraft systems (sec. 1052)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would: (1) amend section 1036(a) of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417) to encourage technical collaboration and sharing of personnel, resources, and information among the Department of Defense (DOD), the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA); (2) direct the Secretary of Defense to collaborate with the FAA and NASA Administrators on solutions to the challenges of unmanned aerial system (UAS) integration into the National Airspace System (NAS); and (3) require the Secretary of Defense to provide an annual report for a period of 5 years on the progress of research and development for UAS NAS integration and future funding requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a nearly identical provision (sec. 1046).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify that congressional intent is for the collaboration effort to result in all public agencies gaining better access to the NAS, and that the Secretary's annual report should include information on progress in sharing with the FAA safety operational and performance data as it relates to unmanned aircraft system operation and the impact on the NAS.

Authority to transfer surplus Mine-Resistant Ambush-Protected vehicles and spare parts (sec. 1053)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1075) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to transfer surplus Mine-Resistant Ambush-Protected vehicles to non-profit United States humanitarian demining organizations for purposes of demining activities and training of such organizations. This section would specify that any transfer of such a vehicle shall be made on a loan basis; require the cost of operation and maintenance of the vehicles to be borne by the recipient organization; and include any other appropriate conditions as determined by the Secretary. This section would require the Secretary to notify the congressional defense committees in writing 60 days prior to making any transfer of vehicles or spare parts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Notice to Congress of certain Department of Defense nondisclosure agreements (sec. 1054)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1077) that would prohibit the Department of Defense (DOD) from the use of nondisclosure agreements to prevent members of the armed forces and DOD civilian employees from communicating with Members of Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to notify the congressional defense committees of any nondisclosure agreements that members of the armed forces or DOD civilian employees are asked to sign that could restrict communications with Congress, and provide the text of the agreements and a description of the category of employees who will be asked to sign, along with an explanation of the need and the legal basis for such agreements.

The conferees note that all nominees for senior civilian and military positions in the Department of Defense make a commitment in the confirmation process to ensure that testimony, briefings, and other communications of information are provided to the congressional defense committees in a timely manner and to protect witnesses and briefers from reprisal for their testimony or briefings.

The conferees strongly discourage DOD from the use of nondisclosure agreements that could restrict communications with Congress, except in cases where such agreements are necessary to protect classified information, contractor proprietary information, or source selection sensitive information.

Extension of authority to provide assured business guarantees to carriers participating in Civil Reserve Air Fleet (sec. 1055)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 332) that would amend section 9515 of title 10, United States Code. Section 9515 provides authority for the Secretary of Defense to guarantee higher minimum levels of business than would otherwise be authorized by law to United States passenger carrying air carriers participating in the Civil Reserve Air Fleet. This authority will expire on December 31, 2015. The House bill provision would: (1) extend the sunset date to 2020; and (2) permit the Secretary to expand the possible uses of these assured business guarantees to cargo carrying air carriers.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1043).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Authority for short-term extension of lease for aircraft supporting the Blue Devil intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance program (sec. 1056)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 933) that would allow the Secretary of the Air Force to extend or renew, on a temporary basis, the current lease of aircraft to support the Blue Devil intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Rule of construction relating to prohibition on infringing on the individual right to lawfully acquire, possess, own, carry, and otherwise use privately owned firearms, ammunition, and other weapons (sec. 1057)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1071) that would amend section 1062(c) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) to allow the Secretary of Defense to authorize a military or Department of Defense (DOD) civilian mental health professional or commanding officer to inquire if a service member plans to acquire or already possesses a weapon if the mental health professional or commanding officer has reasonable grounds to believe that the service member is at high risk for suicide or causing harm to others.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 1062(c) to allow the Secretary of Defense to authorize a military or DOD civilian health professional or commanding officer to inquire if a service member plans to acquire or already possesses a weapon if the health professional or commanding officer has reasonable grounds to believe that the service member is at risk for suicide or causing harm to others.

The conferees note that members of a service member's chain of command or others who come into contact with a service member who they reasonably believe may be at risk for suicide or causing harm to others, may inform the service member's commanding officer of their concerns. The conferees expect that in implementing this provision the Secretary of Defense will ensure that DOD policy clearly outlines the authority to inquire about legally owned private weapons. By amending section 1062(c), the conferees do not intend to modify or eliminate any existing statutory authority of the Department.

Sense of Congress on the Joint Warfighting Analysis Center (sec. 1058)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would express the sense of Congress that the Joint Warfighting Analysis Center should have adequate resources to meet the continuing requirements of the combatant commands.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitations on retirement of fixed-wing intratheater airlift aircraft for general support and time sensitive/mission critical direct support airlift missions of the Department of Defense (sec. 1059)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1076) that would prohibit the Department of Defense from divesting, retiring, or transferring, or preparing to divest, retire, or transfer, any: (1) C-23 aircraft of the Army assigned to the Army as of May 31, 2012; or (2) aircraft of the Air Force assigned to the Air Force as of May 31, 2012.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1708) that would apply that prohibition to any aircraft of the Air Force assigned to units of the Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve as of May 31, 2012.

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

On November 2, 2012, the Air Force provided Congress with a revised plan for fiscal year 2013 force structure that made substantial changes to the original fiscal year 2013 force structure proposal that led to these actions by Congress. The Air Force has indicated that the Secretary of the Air Force intends to implement that proposal in lieu of the force structure proposal submitted with the President's budget request.

The conference agreement includes a provision that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain an additional 32 fixed-wing, intra-theater airlift aircraft beyond the number of such aircraft proposed to be retained in the Secretary's total force structure proposal provided to the congressional defense committees on November 2, 2012. These 32 aircraft would be kept to support the Army's fixed-wing direct support/time sensitive airlift mission requirements of 40 dedicated aircraft. The Air Force's revised proposal already incorporated an extra eight C-130 aircraft that could be used to support the Army's mission requirements. The conferees also agree that, in retaining an additional 32 aircraft, the Secretary of the Air Force should have the discretion to choose C-130s, C-27s, or a combination of both.

The conferees are concerned with the Air Force's capability to meet the Army's time sensitive/mission critical direct support airlift mission requirement, given the quantity of fixed-wing, intra-theater airlift aircraft that the Secretary of Defense currently proposes to retire, even under the revised proposal. The conferees expect this restriction will apply only during fiscal year 2013, by which time Congress should have received the report on intra-theater requirements for both Title 10, Title 32, and Army direct support intra-theater airlift missions. This report was required by section 112 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81).

The conferees note that the Vice Chiefs of Staff of the Air Force and the Army signed a memorandum of agreement (MOA), dated September 13, 2009, that defined the concept of employment for the Department of the Air Force in providing direct support of Department of the Army time sensitive or mission critical intra-theater airlift missions.

The conference agreement would require that, not later than June 1, 2013, the Secretary of the Air Force shall ensure that this MOA is incorporated into Department of the Air Force doctrine, strategy, tactics, and modeling and the Air Force core capabilities of agile combat support and rapid global mobility operations.

The conferees further agree that the Air Force should proceed with force structure divestments, retirements, and transfers approved in requests prior to the fiscal year 2013 budget request.

However, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to: (1) develop a strategy to ensure that personnel readiness, training, and retention for units transitioning to new or different missions would remain at the highest level practicable during ongoing force structure retirements, divestments, and transfers; and (2) minimize, to the maximum extent practical, time-related gaps for units transitioning to new or different missions.

The conferees note that additional resources in individual authorization accounts to sustain the Air Force force structure are provided for elsewhere in this Act.

Subtitle G—Studies and Reports

Electronic warfare strategy of the Department of Defense (sec. 1061)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1067) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review and update Department of Defense guidance related to electronic warfare not later than January 1, 2013, to ensure that oversight roles and responsibilities within the Department are clearly defined. This section would also require the Commander, U.S. Strategic Command, to update and issue guidance regarding the responsibilities of the combatant command with regard to joint electronic warfare capabilities. Finally, this section would include additional reporting requirements in the annual report on electronic warfare required by section 1053 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the date by which the Commander, U.S. Strategic Command, would be required to issue updated guidance from January 1, 2013, to October 1, 2013.

The conferees expect that the review and update of electronic warfare guidance will include an examination of the relationship between cyber warfare and electronic warfare, and that the Commander, U.S. Strategic Command, will highlight for the leadership of the Department of Defense issues relating to oversight, management, and integration that need to be resolved across these two warfare missions.

Report on counterproliferation capabilities and limitations (sec. 1062)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1068) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 2013, outlining operational capabilities, limitations, and shortfalls within the Department of Defense with respect to counterproliferation and combating weapons of mass destruction involving special operations forces and key enabling forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the required report to the congressional defense committees no later than 180 days after enactment of this Act. The amendment also modifies the elements of the required report.

Report on strategic airlift aircraft (sec. 1063)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1061) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report that sets forth various assessments related to: (1) possible Federal Aviation Administration certification for commercial use of a commercial variant of the C-17 aircraft, a retired C-17A aircraft, and a retired C-5A aircraft; and (2) the Civil Reserve Air Fleet (CRAF) and the potential for using these aircraft to augment capability in participating CRAF air carriers. The Secretary would be required to submit that report not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would expand the congressional recipients of the report to include the Commerce Committee of the Senate and the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee of the House of Representatives.

Repeal of biennial report on the Global Positioning System (sec. 1064)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1062) that would repeal the biennial report on global positioning systems prepared by the Department of Defense in response to 10 U.S.C. 2281d. This information can readily be obtained from the biennial Federal Radio-navigation Plan.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Improvements to reports required on acquisition of technology relating to weapons of mass destruction and the threat posed by weapons of mass destruction, ballistic missiles, and cruise missiles (sec. 1065)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1063) that would repeal section 234 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85) titled, "Annual Report on Threat Posed to the United States by Weapons of Mass Destruction, Ballistic Missiles, and Cruise Missiles".

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend the report required by section 234 of Public Law 105-85 with additional requirements for the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence, to carry out an annual report due not later than January 30 of each year similar to what was proposed to be repealed by the Senate. The conferees were informed that a report, "Acquisition of Technology Relating to Weapons of Mass Destruction" required by section 721 of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104-293) was repealed by both the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence in its version of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (S. 3454), reported out of that committee on July 30, 2012, as well as the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence in its version of the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (H.R. 5743), which was passed by the House of Representatives on May 31, 2012.

The result of the proposed Senate repeal and the actions of the intelligence committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives would be no meaningful unclassified data reported to the Congress and the American public in a comprehensive way on these serious threats.

The conferees are cognizant of the cost of preparing these reports, but note that this reporting consolidation should permit efficiency and cost-savings. The conferees believe this new report should be prepared in as thorough a fashion as possible taking advantage of the venue of this more comprehensive unclassified report.

The conferees expect that for the first report submission, the existing work done to prepare for the respective Secretary of Defense and Director of National Intelligence reports, which are now consolidated, should be utilized to ensure a thorough and cost-effective report, submitted on time.

Report on force structure of the United States Army (sec. 1066)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1081) that would establish a bipartisan independent strategic review panel to conduct a regular review of the national defense strategic environment, an assessment of the quadrennial defense review required under section 118 of title 10, United States Code, and a review of the future of the U.S. Army. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of the Army to provide Congress with a report on the Army's future force structure.

The conferees direct the National Defense Panel, established by section 118(f) of title 10, United States Code, to include an assessment of the national security defense strategic environment of the next 20 years in the next report of the Panel, as required by paragraph (7) of subsection (f) of section 118 of title 10, United States Code.

Report on planned efficiency initiatives at Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command (sec. 1067)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1068) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on plans to implement efficiency initiatives to reduce overhead costs of the Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command (SPAWAR), including a detailed description of the long-term impacts on current and planned future mission requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the plans evaluated by the Secretary should be for all echelons of SPAWAR.

Report on military resources necessary to execute United States Force Posture Strategy in the Asia Pacific Region (sec. 1068)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1067) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to review the strategy, force structure, and resource requirements for the Asia Pacific region and to report to the congressional defense committees on the results within 1 year of enactment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the Center for Strategic and International Studies issued an independent assessment in August 2012 on U.S. Force Posture Strategy in the Asia-Pacific Region. That assessment, conducted in accordance with Section 346 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), recommends a better alignment of engagement strategies between U.S. Pacific Command and the Department of Defense (DOD) in order to improve capabilities to respond to a range of contingencies. The assessment also noted that the DOD "has not adequately articulated the strategy behind its force posture planning, nor aligned the strategy with resources in a way that reflects current budget realities."

The conferees note that the DOD has requested hundreds of millions of dollars for infrastructure and facility requirements on Guam, yet there is not a clear, specific plan in the current budget request for the military resources and equipment needed in the Pacific theater to lift and maneuver our military forces. The conferees expect that the report required by this provision will address the plan for ensuring that any proposed force realignments in the Pacific region, to include moving U.S. Marines from Japan to Australia, Guam, and Hawaii, are supported by resources that will allow our forces to meet operational requirements. Military commanders in the region must have adequate ground, naval, and air assets to meet the operational and logistical challenges in the Pacific theater, including strategic airlift and sealift to move forces quickly around an extremely large and diverse area of responsibility. These resources should be in place before the forces are realigned, so as not to incur additional operational risk in this critical region.

Rialto-Colton Basin, California, water resources study (sec. 1069)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1089) that would require the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a study of water resources in the Rialto-Colton Basin in California.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Reports on the potential security threat posed by Boko Haram (sec. 1070)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1090) that would direct the Secretary of State to submit a report on whether the Nigerian organization known as "Boko Haram" meets the criteria for designation as a Foreign Terrorist Organization (FTO) under section 219 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1189).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1089) that would require the Director of National Intelligence (DNI) to submit an intelligence assessment on the threat posed by Boko Haram. Following submission of the DNI's assessment, the Secretary of State would be required to submit a report to Congress on the current U.S. strategy to counter the threat posed by Boko Haram.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the reports under this provision to be classified, and require the report under subsection (b) of the provision to be a joint report prepared by the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense.

The conferees understand that the State Department has conducted an assessment of whether to designate Boko Haram as an FTO. The conferees expect that a discussion of the findings of the Department's assessment on whether Boko Haram should be designated as an FTO be included in the report required under this subsection.

Study on the ability of national test and evaluation capabilities to support the maturation of hypersonic technologies for future defense systems development (sec. 1071)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069) that would require an interagency study on the ability of the national test and evaluation infrastructure, including the Department of Defense (DOD), the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and the private sector, to help mature hypersonic technologies for defense systems development.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with technical and clarifying amendments. The conferees direct that DOD and NASA provide resources to support this study and report, as well as to provide all information and data on capabilities, funding, requirements, and other matters required for the study and report.

The conferees believe that maintaining the capabilities to conduct hypersonic ground testing is a national security priority and are not confident the Federal Government is taking all necessary actions to maintain relevant capabilities. The conferees are aware that as part of the fiscal year 2013 budget certification, the Test Resource Management Center opposed planned Air Force reductions that would have mothballed a number of important wind tunnels without assessing the impact on other agencies' programs or the cost to recover that mothballed capability in the future.

Lastly, the conferees note that this study requirement supersedes the hypersonic test and evaluation infrastructure study requirement outlined in the Senate report (S. Rept. 112-173) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (S. 3254).

Subtitle H—Other Matters

Technical and clerical amendments (sec. 1076)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1083) that would make technical and clerical amendments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment making additional technical and clerical amendments.

Sense of Congress on recognizing Air Mobility Command on its 20th anniversary (sec. 1077)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1091) that would express the sense of Congress that, on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the establishment of Air Mobility Command, the people of the United States should: (1) recognize the critical role that Mobility Air Forces play in the Nation's defense; and (2) express appreciation for the leadership of Air Mobility Command and the more than 134,000 active duty, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve, and Department of Defense civilians that make up the command.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Dissemination abroad of information about the United States (sec. 1078)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1097) that would amend section 501 of the United States Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948 (also known as the Smith-Mundt Act; 22 U.S.C. 1461) to authorize, with certain exceptions, the Secretary of State and the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG) to use funds appropriated or otherwise made available for public diplomacy information programs to provide for the preparation, dissemination, and use of information intended for foreign audiences abroad about the United States, its people, and its policies, through press, publications, radio, motion pictures, the Internet, and other information media, including social media, and through information centers, instructors, and other direct or indirect means of communication. The provision would also amend the Foreign Relations Authorization Act of Fiscal Years 1986 and 1987 (22 U.S.C. 1461-1a) to remove existing statutory limits on the Department of State's and BBG's ability to provide information about their activities to the Congress, media or public.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical and clarifying amendment.

The conferees maintain that the Secretary of State and BBG are authorized to utilize funds for public diplomacy programs to provide for the preparation, dissemination, and use of information intended for foreign audiences. Further, the conferees maintain that no funds authorized for the Department of State or BBG shall be used to influence public opinion in the United States. The conferees recognize that the ban on domestic dissemination of BBG or Department of State public diplomacy products contained in the Smith-Mundt Act did not envision the development of new technologies, including the Internet or satellite broadcasting, which do not honor national boundaries. The conferees note the modification on the prohibition on domestic dissemination does not apply to other agencies of the U.S. Government, as the initial ban was also not applicable to them. In addition, this amendment in no way broadens or otherwise changes the current missions of the Department of State and BBG.

In addition, the conferees believe the provision would allow BBG to respond to domestic requests for BBG material, but not to seek to syndicate such material through domestic media outlets with the intent to develop audiences within the United States. Further, the conferees expect that reimbursements and fees should not exceed the actual costs incurred to make materials available pursuant to the statute. The conferees also believe that the fees charged pursuant to this provision should be assessed according to a standardized, publicly-available fee schedule; and that the Secretary of State, BBG, and the National Archivist should maintain and provide to Congress a regular accounting of the funds collected pursuant to the reimbursement authority of section 501(b)(1) and the fee-collection authority of section 501(b)(4).

Coordination for computer network operations (sec. 1079)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1098) that would require the President to submit to the congressional defense committees a charter for an interagency body to coordinate and deconflict full-spectrum military cyber operations for the Federal Government. The provision would require the report to include: (1) business rules and processes governing the interagency body's activities; (2) interagency guidance on roles and responsibilities for military cyber operations; (3) the membership of the coordination body; and (4) plans for documenting the body's activities. Finally, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees for fiscal year 2015 and all years thereafter, Department of Defense-wide budget materials for military cyber operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the reporting requirement from the President to the Secretary of Defense and the form of the reporting to a briefing. The amendment would also alter the contents of the briefing to include: (1) business processes and rules governing interagency coordination processes; (2) membership and responsibilities relating to the interagency process; (3) interagency guidance on roles and responsibilities for military cyber operations; and (4) plans to implement the interagency guidance.

Sense of Congress regarding unauthorized disclosures of classified information (sec. 1080)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1099C) that would require the Attorney General to investigate possible violations of federal law related to alleged leaks of certain classified information.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense, the Department of Justice, and other federal agencies should take positive steps to address the unauthorized disclosure of classified information.

Technical amendments to repeal statutory references to United States Joint Forces Command (sec. 1081)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1082), as requested by the Department of Defense, that would amend title 10, United States Code, to remove references to the United States Joint Forces Command (USJFCOM) in order to reflect the disestablishment of USJFCOM effective August 4, 2011.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress on non-United States citizens who are graduates of United States educational institutions with advanced degrees in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (sec. 1082)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1083) that would express the sense of Congress on the importance of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) to the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees recognize that in order to maintain and advance the military technological superiority of the armed forces, the United States requires the best and brightest scientists, mathematicians, and engineers to discover, develop, and field the next generation of weapon systems and defense technologies. The capabilities of the armed forces are highly reliant upon advanced technologies that provide our forces with a technological edge on the battlefield. Furthermore, the conferees are concerned that more than half of all graduates with advanced scientific and technical degrees from United States institutions of higher education are non-United States citizens who have very limited opportunities upon graduation to contribute to the science and technology activities of the Department of Defense and the United States defense industrial base. Of those graduates that are left that are able to support the Department of Defense and the defense industrial base, competition with other sectors is exacerbated by salary discrepancies and significant administrative obstacles. The conferees note that while there is an overarching national priority to increase the numbers of United States citizens who have appropriate advanced degrees in science, technology, engineering and mathematics, it would also be beneficial if the Department of Defense and the defense industrial base were able to access the pool of talent consisting of non-United States citizens with advanced scientific and technical degrees from United States institutions of higher education, many of whom are otherwise returning to their home countries.

Scientific framework for recalcitrant cancers (sec. 1083)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5022) that would amend subpart 1 of part C of title IV of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 285 et seq.) to direct the National Cancer Institute to develop scientific frameworks for the conduct or support of research efforts on recalcitrant cancers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Protection of veterans' memorials (sec. 1084)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1096) that would amend sections 2314 and 2315 of title 18, United States Code, to make it a criminal offense to transport stolen veterans' memorials of any value in interstate or foreign commerce, or to sell or receive stolen veterans' memorials of any value that have crossed a state or United States boundary after being stolen, punishable by a fine and imprisonment for not more than 10 years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the maximum penalty to a fine and imprisonment for not more than 1 year when the value of the veterans' memorial object is less than $1000. The amendment would also define "veterans' memorial object" as a grave marker, headstone, monument, or other object intended to permanently honor a veteran or mark a veteran's grave, or any monument that signifies an event of national military historical significance.

Sense of Congress regarding spectrum (sec. 1085)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5317) that states a sense of Congress on sharing and making available federal spectrum without harming federal users.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees are concerned that by not including specific national security representation, the Technical Panel and the Dispute Resolutions Board, established under section 6701 of The Middle Class Tax Relief Act of 2012 (Public Law 112-96), may make decisions that could result in arbitrary determinations regarding the "sufficiency" of spectrum relocation or sharing transition plans addressing national security capabilities and any dispute that may arise thereafter, without adequate input from the Department of Defense (DOD). To ensure these equities are considered under the amendment, the Secretary of Defense would determine whether the needs and concerns of the DOD have been adequately considered and addressed during the processes of identifying frequencies to be surrendered and transition planning, including review of transition plans by the Technical Panel and any dispute resolution by the Dispute Resolution Board, impacting national security capabilities.

Further, the conferees expect the National Telecommunications and Information Administration ensure that the rules and procedures implementing the Technical Panel and Dispute Resolution Board as required by Public Law 112-96 incorporate methods that enable the Secretary of Defense to make the necessary determination on the needs and concerns of the DOD with respect to consideration of transition plans impacting national security capabilities.

Public Safety Officers' Benefits Program (sec. 1086)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5021) that would revise and enhance the Dale Long Public Safety Officer Benefits Program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Removal of action (sec. 1087)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5024) that would address the removal of certain actions to federal court under section 1442 of title 28, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transport for female genital mutilation (sec. 1088)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1092) that would amend title 18, United States Code, to provide penalties for transporting minors in foreign commerce for purposes of female genital mutilation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Amendments to law enforcement officer safety provisions of title 18 (sec. 1089)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099C) that would amend the law enforcement officer safety provisions in title 18, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Reauthorization of sale of aircraft and parts for wildfire suppression purposes (sec. 1090)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1095) that would reinstate the Wildfire Suppression Aircraft Transfer Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-307), making its provisions effective until the end of fiscal year 2017. The Act, which had expired at the end of fiscal year 2005, allowed the Department of Defense to sell excess aircraft and aircraft parts to private operators for wildfire suppression purposes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of excess aircraft to other departments of the Federal Government (sec. 1091)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1094) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to transfer, from excess aircraft inventory, up to 12 aircraft each to the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Homeland Security for use by the Forest Service and the United States Coast Guard, respectively. The provision would require that the Secretary of Defense afford equal priority for transferring any excess aircraft to the Forest Service and the Coast Guard before any other department or agency of the Federal Government. Finally, the authority to transfer excess aircraft under the provision would expire on December 31, 2013.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would make the authority for the Secretary of Defense permissive, and would limit the Secretary's authority under the provision to transfer up to seven aircraft to each organization. The provision would provide that the seven-aircraft limitation would cease upon formal notification of the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Homeland Security that the Secretary's respective department will decline or accept seven aircraft.

The conferees understand that this provision may help resolve pressing concerns regarding aviation forces within the Forest Service and the Coast Guard. The Forest Service has an urgent need to replace its fleet of large air tankers to more effectively combat increasingly severe and frequent forest fires, and the Coast Guard has a severely aging aircraft fleet serving important homeland defense missions, with only scarce resources to modernize that fleet.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Below threshold fund transfers between Department of Defense accounts

The Senate report contained an item of special interest directing the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees providing suggestions to increase the transparency and accountability of funds transfers that do not require the prior approval of Congress.

The House report contained no similar language.

The conferees note that the defense authorization and appropriations acts regularly authorize the Secretary of Defense to transfer limited amounts of funding among departmental accounts to facilitate unforeseen priorities. As these transfers fall outside the normal congressional authorization and appropriations process, Congress and the Department of Defense restrict these transfers, as a matter of policy, to ensure that they are performed in a manner consistent with congressional intent. These restrictions include a congressional review process for transfers that exceed specific dollar thresholds specified in appropriations acts. Despite these limits, the conferees note that Department of Defense transfers in fiscal year 2011 totaled more than $27.0 billion and more than half of these were below threshold and thus not subject to congressional review.

Congress grants a certain degree of flexibility to the Department of Defense to manage federal taxpayer funds efficiently and effectively in response to changing conditions and emerging requirements. The conferees are concerned that significant realignments of funding are transacted without congressional approval or notification. Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a summary of below threshold reprogrammings to the congressional defense committees 30 days after the end of each fiscal quarter. This summary should include a narrative describing each defense priority to which funding was transferred. These narratives should be categorized according to justification, such as emergent operational needs, program modifications, changes of mission, fact-of-life adjustments, or adjustments to meet Congressional intent. In addition, the summary should also include a narrative describing each program from which funding was transferred. These narratives should also be categorized according to justification, such as delay, deferral, or inability to execute.

Comptroller General of the United States Review of Geographic Combatant Commands

The House Report contained an item of special interest directing the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a review of the personnel and resources of the geographic combatant commands (GCC), their supporting military service component commands, and other assigned task forces, and to submit a report on a variety of matters.

The conferees note that as the challenges to national security continue to evolve, the Department of Defense faces missions of increasing scope, variety, and complexity around the world. To perform these missions, the GCCs conduct activities within assigned areas of responsibility, to include military-to-military relations, stability operations, security assistance engagements, post-conflict operations, disaster relief, humanitarian assistance, and other tasks, as assigned. Each GCC also has dedicated military service component sub-unified commands, theater special operations commands, and task forces operating in support of these missions.

At a time of growing economic and fiscal constraints and evolving security requirements, the conferees believe that the Department must ensure the GCCs and their supporting elements have the appropriate levels and types of personnel and resources to execute theater security campaign plans and to respond to emerging contingencies while avoiding duplication of effort and excessive headquarters structure. The conferees note that in a March 2012 report, the Comptroller General concluded that there may be additional opportunities to consolidate organizations and centralize functions across the Department, to include the GCCs.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a review of the personnel and resources of the combatant commands, their supporting military service component commands, theater special operations commands, and assigned task forces, and to submit a report on the findings to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives by June 30, 2013. The review should cover the following: (1) the level of resources, in terms of personnel and overall support costs, associated with the commands for fiscal years 2001 through 2011 and an assessment of their adequacy to meet the commands' assigned missions and responsibilities; (2) how the commands, their supporting military service component commands, theater special operations commands, and assigned task forces are currently organized and structured to ensure efficiency and avoid duplication within and among the various organizations; (3) what steps, if any, the Department has taken to reexamine the size and structure of its GCCs and their subordinate organizations in light of the new strategic guidance issued in 2012; (4) how the Department maximizes efficiencies across the GCCs and the associated sub-unified numeric coded organizations and the associated commander support organizations; and (5) other matters the Comptroller General may deem appropriate.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Sense of Congress regarding the counterdrug tethered aerostat radar system program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1015) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the counterdrug tethered aerostat radar system (TARS) program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note the importance of TARS to the ongoing efforts of the United States Government to combat illicit trafficking in the U.S. Southern Command area of responsibility.

Findings on detention pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force enacted in 2001

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1031) that would state congressional findings regarding principles of law underlying detention pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force enacted in 2001.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Findings regarding habeas corpus rights

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would state congressional findings regarding the writ of habeas corpus and the constitutional limitation on the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Prohibition on travel to the United States for certain detainees repatriated to the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of Palau, and the Republic of the Marshall Islands

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1035) that would prohibit any individual detained at the U.S. detention facility at U.S. Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and who has been repatriated to the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, or the Republic of Palau, from being afforded the rights and benefits provided under section 141 of the applicable Compact of Free Association (Public Law 99-658; 108-188).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that no Guantanamo detainees are or would be eligible for the immigration benefits of section 141 of the Compacts of Free Association relating to the Republic of Palau, the Federated States of Micronesia, and the Republic of the Marshall Islands. These benefits are only afforded to citizens, or their relatives, of Palau, Micronesia, or the Marshall Islands, and Guantanamo detainees are not legally eligible to attain naturalized citizenship.

Commitments for nuclear weapons stockpile modernization

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1052) that consists of a series of congressional findings on U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile modernization.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement Nuclear Facility and Uranium Processing Facility

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1058) that would require an annual certification by the President whether the construction of the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement Nuclear Facility and the Uranium Processing Facility will be completed not later than 2021 and whether both facilities will be fully operational by not later than 2024. The section would further require that if the President is not able to so certify, then no funds made available for fiscal year 2012 or any year thereafter may be available to reduce the non-deployed nuclear warheads of the United States until 120 days after the President is able to make the certification. The section would include an exception for reductions necessary to ensure the safety, security, reliability, and credibility of the nuclear weapons stockpile.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress on nuclear arsenal

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1065) that expressed the sense of Congress on nuclear force structure, employment strategy, and posture.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Assessment of Department of Defense use of electromagnetic spectrum

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1066) that requires a report to the congressional defense committees, the Energy and Commerce Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Commerce, Science, and Transportation Committee of the Senate, not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act assessing the Department of Defense's use of electromagnetic spectrum.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees recognize that Department of Defense planning for spectrum should be informed by the July 2012 report by the President's Council of Advisors on Science and Technology (PCAST) titled: "Realizing the Full Potential of Government-Held Spectrum to Spur Economic Growth." Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence, to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this Act assessing the implications of and the potential implementation challenges posed by the recommendations made in the PCAST report. Specific issues to be addressed should include sharing in the 1755–1850 MHz band, impacts associated with the report's recommendations on general access in 3500–3650 MHz band, feasibility of dynamic sharing, as well as examples of major modifications to transmitter and receiver systems to permit such sharing. The report should also recommend how field trials with non-federal users to test spectrum sharing would be conducted and any issues associated with such field trials.

Report on communications from Congress on status of military construction projects

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1069) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to Congress describing any letters from Congress that refer to or request information on the status of a military construction project in the future-years defense program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on manufacturing industry

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1070) requiring a report assessing the manufacturing industry of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees recognize the importance of the production capacity of the United States as it relates to the defense industrial base and to national security. The conferees also recognize the importance of assessing the strengths and vulnerabilities of the defense industrial base and the defense supply chain and the need for a prioritized capability strategy for the defense industrial base. The conferees note that these issues are addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Report on long-term costs of Operation New Dawn, Operation Enduring Freedom, and other contingency operations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1070B) that would require the President, with contributions from the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, to submit a report on the long-term costs of Operation New Dawn and Operation Enduring Freedom.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Prohibition on the use of funds for manufacturing beyond low-rate initial production at certain prototype integration facilities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1073) that would put a cap on the maximum number of units that could be produced by an Army prototype integration facility.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Authority of Corps of Engineers to construct projects critical to navigation safety

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1078) that would authorize the Army Corps of Engineers to accept non-Federal funds to construct certain navigation projects that have not been specifically authorized by law.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Review of Air National Guard Component Numbered Air Force Augmentation Force

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1079) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to review the decision of the Secretary to cancel or consolidate the Air National Guard Component Numbered Air Force Augmentation Force.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees recognize that the Air Force has taken action to restore these missions in its most recent force structure proposal for fiscal year 2013.

Notification of delayed reports

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1082) that would require the Department of Defense to formally notify the congressional defense committees of any statutorily-required report that will not be submitted by the date required under law, and to provide an explanation for the delay.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that it is the practice of the Department of Defense (DOD) to send an interim response to appropriate congressional committees whenever it misses a statutory deadline for a reporting requirement. The conferees direct DOD to include in such interim responses an explanation for the delay and an estimate of the date on which the report will be submitted.

Prohibition on use of information against a United States citizen gathered by unmanned aerial vehicle without a warrant

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1084) that would make information gathered by an unmanned aerial vehicle of the Department of Defense (DOD) inadmissible against a citizen of the United States in any U.S. court, unless the information was obtained pursuant to a court order.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that information obtained by DOD unmanned aerial vehicles is not exempt from existing constitutional and statutory warrant requirements, where such requirements are applicable.

The House of Representatives honors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1085) that would encourage surviving Air Raid Wardens and other volunteers of the United States Office of Civilian Defense during World War II to record and permanently preserve stories of their service for future generations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Cost of wars

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1086) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to post on the public Web site of the Department of Defense the costs of the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) and the Congressional Research Service (CRS) have published reports concerning the costs of the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. The conferees further note that CBO reports are available to the public and CRS reports are available to Members of Congress.

Trial of foreign terrorists

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1088) that would prohibit the trial of any foreign terrorist who is subject to trial by military commission by any court or tribunal other than a military commission.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

White Sands Missile Range and Fort Bliss

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1091) that would provide for national security benefits for White Sands Missile Range and Fort Bliss.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Consolidation of data centers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1092) that would amend section 2867 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) to require annual performance plans, that the performance plans be consistent with a Government Accountability Office (GAO) report to Congress on data center consolidation, and an annual report on progress in achieving consolidation goals consistent with the GAO report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress regarding preservation of Second Amendment rights of active duty military personnel stationed or residing in the District of Columbia

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1093) that would express the sense of Congress that active duty military personnel who are stationed in or residing in the District of Columbia should be exempt from the District of Columbia's restrictions on the possession of firearms.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Conditional replacement for Fiscal Year 2013 sequester

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1094) that would conditionally eliminate sequestration of defense spending in fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on defense forensic data

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1095) that would authorize the Director of the Defense Forensic Office within the Office of the Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to evaluate opportunities to increase the matching success rate when forensic data is collected during site exploitation to match forensic data stored in DNA databases.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to examine the legal, policy, social and technical implications of improving DNA database matching capabilities with other U.S. agencies, allies and key partner nations.

Improving United States foreign police assistance activities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1099) that would require the President to submit to Congress the final report of the National Security Council's Interagency Policy Committee. The provision would also require the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense to submit, within 180 days of the date of enactment of this Act, a plan for instituting mechanisms to improve coordination and information sharing regarding U.S. foreign police assistance activities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes. The conferees note that in June 2012, the Secretary of State submitted to Congress the report required by section 1235(c) of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383) on U.S. Government foreign police training and equipping programs. As that report indicates, foreign police assistance activities are being conducted across the U.S. Government, including the Department of State, the Department of Defense, the U.S. Agency for International Development, the Department of Justice, the Department of Homeland Security, and the Department of the Treasury. The conferees encourage the various departments and agencies of the U.S. Government involved in foreign police assistance activities to develop mechanisms for improving the inter-agency coordination of these programs.

Sense of Congress regarding United States Northern Command preparedness

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1099A) that would state the sense of Congress regarding the preparedness of the United States Northern Command.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that United States Northern Command plays a vital role in providing defense support to civil authorities, including support and capabilities to State and local governments, for domestic disaster relief and consequence management. The conferees urge United States Northern Command to continue strengthening its relationships, planning, and coordination with other federal, State, and local agencies to enhance domestic response capabilities.

Limitation on military musical units

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1099B) that would limit appropriations for military musical units to $200,000,000.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on effects of budget sequestration on Department of Defense

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1004) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a detailed report on the impact on the Department of Defense of the sequestration of funds for fiscal year 2013, if triggered on January 2, 2013, under section 251A of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-177).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the Sequestration Transparency Act of 2012 (Public Law 112-155) required the President to submit to the Congress a report on the sequestration that is scheduled to be ordered on January 2, 2013. Pursuant to Public Law 112-155, the Office of Management and Budget issued the report on September 14, 2012.

Transfer of certain fiscal year 2012 and 2013 funds

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1006) that would authorize the transfer, subject to action in an appropriations Act, of $46.0 million from fiscal year 2012 or 2013 procurement or research, development, test and evaluation accounts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modification of authority on training of special operations forces with friendly foreign forces

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would modify section 2011 of title 10, United States Code, to state that the purposes of the Joint Combined Exchange Training (JCET) authority are to support: (1) the training of U.S. Special Operations Forces and (2) the training of the armed forces and other security forces of a friendly foreign country. Consistent with current practice, the modification contained in the Senate amendment would also require the Secretary of Defense to coordinate with the Secretary of State prior to the initiation of any such training. Lastly, the modification contained in the Senate amendment would authorize unspecified minor military construction projects, up to $250,000, that are in direct support of authorized training.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees believe that the JCET authority is an effective tool for improving the language and cultural expertise of U.S. Special Operations Forces while providing opportunities to practice skills needed to conduct a variety of missions, including foreign internal defense, unconventional warfare, and counterterrorism. The conferees also recognize the inherent benefit of JCET events in building the capacity of foreign partners and enhancing U.S. influence in host countries. The conferees note that the existing JCET authority allows flexibility for U.S. Special Operations Forces to engage with appropriate partner nation armed forces and other security forces, including those that conduct border and maritime security, internal defense and security, and counterterrorism operations.

However, the conferees believe the Department has taken a narrow interpretation of the JCET statutory authority stating that the "primary purpose" of funding for JCET activities "shall be to train the special operations forces of the combatant command." This narrow interpretation has, in some cases, limited the overall effectiveness of JCET events and the efforts of the geographic combatant commanders to achieve persistent, rather than episodic, engagement with high-priority partner nation security forces. The conferees believe such persistent engagements are consistent with the purposes of the JCET authority.

The conferees are further concerned that a lack of sufficient resources and the unavailability of regionally-aligned U.S. Special Operations Forces due to high operational tempo has led to less frequent and shorter duration engagements with partner forces in key regions and countries, indirectly weakening partnerships that could be used to identify, deter, and mitigate national security threats. This lack of continual on-the-ground experience has eroded regional, cultural, and linguistic expertise once resident within certain special operations units, inhibited the building of personal relationships with host country personnel, and limited the implicit training value of planning and deploying to remote locations under arduous conditions.

The conferees direct the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations and Low-Intensity Conflict, in coordination with the Commander of U.S. Special Operations Command, not later than March 1, 2013, to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives describing any deficiencies or limitations of the current JCET authority that negatively impact the effectiveness of such engagements, including an assessment of the utility of authorizing unspecified minor military construction and other construction in support of JCET activities.

Participation of veterans in the Transition Assistance Program of the Department of Defense

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1044) that would authorize veterans to participate in the Transition Assistance Program (TAP) of the Department of Defense for 1 year following discharge or separation from the armed forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the revised TAP being implemented pursuant to section 1144 of title 10, United States Code, includes an enriched set of tools and connections to enhance the transition for service members and to ensure that eligible veterans retain access to the transition materials, information and services.

The Department of Labor's (DOL) revised 3-day employment workshop provides transitioning service members with updated "career-readiness" focused materials, information and services. The mandatory employment workshop connects each separating service member with nearly 3,000 DOL American Job Centers (AJC) via the "Gold Card" certificate. The AJCs know the community labor market where the separating service member will live and provide the veteran with 6 months of priority one-on-one employment services. These services provide veterans with direct local labor market exposure, insight, and personalized employment assistance that is more robust than what is available in the DOL employment workshop for transitioning service members.

Additionally, all separating service members are required to participate in the revised Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefits briefing and must register in the VA's eBenefits portal before separation. The eBenefits portal permanently connects service members to VA resources both prior to and following separation from military service. This allows VA to reach out to service members and veterans directly. Eligible veterans are provided ongoing full online access to the same benefits information and services provided to transitioning service members while still on active duty.

Modification of the Ministry of Defense Advisor Program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1045) that would modify the Ministry of Defense Advisors Program, established in section 1081 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), to permit the Secretary of Defense to assign civilian employees of the Department of Defense as advisors to regional organizations with defense or security components and international organizations of which the United States is a member.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on program on return of rare earth phosphors from Department of Defense fluorescent lighting waste to the domestic rare earth supply chain

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1064) that requires a cost-benefit analysis on the feasibility and advisability of establishing a program within the Department of Defense (DOD) to recapture fluorescent lighting waste.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the results of a cost-benefit analysis and on recommendations concerning the feasibility and advisability of establishing a program within the DOD to recapture fluorescent lighting waste, and making such waste available to entities that have the ability to extract rare earth phosphors, reprocess and separate them in an environmentally safe manner, and return them to the domestic rare earth supply chain. The report should provide for the disposal and mitigation of residual mercury and other hazardous by-products of the recycling process and address concerns regarding the potential export of heavy rare earth materials from United States Government sources to non-allied nations.

This information may be incorporated into the report required by the House report (H. Rept. 112-479) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (H.R. 4310).

Study on Bradley Fighting Vehicle industrial base

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1066) that would require the Secretary of the Army to conduct a study on the Bradley Fighting Vehicle industrial base.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by May 1, 2013, on the Bradley Fighting Vehicle industrial base. The report should include, but not be limited to, an assessment of the financial impact and risk of a production break for the Bradley Fighting Vehicle, including the cost of shutdown compared to the cost of continued production; and an assessment of the industrial capability and capacity impact and risk of a production break for the Bradley Fighting Vehicle, including the loss of a specialized workforce and supplier base.

Report on simulated tactical flight training in a sustained gravity environment

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069A) that would require a study of the implications of simulator-based training for fighter aircraft in a sustained gravity environment.

The House bill contained no similar provision. However, the House report (H. Rept. 112-497) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013 (H.R. 4310) included direction for the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study on the effectiveness of simulated tactical flight training in a sustained gravity environment and to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by December 31, 2013.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand the cost of operating high-performance fighter aircraft continues to increase the overall costs of the flying hour program. While the conferees support the current level of funding of the flying hour program and the invaluable experience provided, the conferees believe that alternative methods to train and prepare pilots for combat should be assessed. One such alternative has been an increased reliance on simulator-based training platforms. Among the emerging technologies available to simulate the dynamic forces experienced during flight is a new class of centrifuge-based flight simulators known as "sustained-G tactical flight trainers." These simulators combine centrifugation with high fidelity cockpit modules to mimic the physiological stresses and gravitational forces experienced during actual flight.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to contract with a Federally Funded Research and Development Center (FFRDC) to conduct a study on the effectiveness of simulated tactical flight training in sustained gravity environments. The Secretary should transmit the FFRDC report to the congressional defense committees not later than June 30, 2014, together with any comments of the Secretary in light of the report and such recommendations for legislative or administrative action as the Secretary considers appropriate regarding the use of simulated tactical flight training in a sustained gravity environment. The study should assess the impact on training effectiveness, cost, pilot and aircraft readiness, and life-cycle efficiencies from simulator-based training platforms on the modeled aircraft.

Report on Department of Defense support for United States diplomatic security

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069B) that would require a report on Department of Defense support for United States diplomatic security.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that congressional committees in the House of Representatives and Senate, as well as the State Department's Accountability Review Board, are reviewing the September 11, 2012, assault on the U.S. State Department's temporary mission facility in Benghazi, Libya.

The conferees understand the Department of Defense (DOD) is supporting the ongoing effort of the State Department's Accountability Review Board, as well as the reviews by the various congressional committees. Further, the conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has indicated that DOD is working with the Department of State to assess how the attack in Benghazi, Libya, should inform planning for future DOD support to diplomatic security and installations.

The conferees also note that DOD is conducting its own internal review to determine whether force posture and other contingency plans need to be adjusted. The Secretary of Defense has indicated that he intends to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on this internal review. The conferees direct that the committees be provided such a briefing promptly upon completion of the DOD internal review.

Comptroller General of the United States report on Department of Defense spending for conferences and conventions

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069C) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to report to the congressional defense committees on Department of Defense (DOD) spending on conferences and conventions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees are aware that some conferences and conventions provide unique training, readiness, and partnership capacity building opportunities for the DOD. These conferences and conventions can provide specialized education and unique training opportunities, and they often serve to enhance cooperation and interoperability with allies and partner nations. The conferees are also aware that some large meetings, which could be categorized as conferences, are necessary to support and enhance the DOD's role and performance in interagency operations, such as natural disaster response or consequence management, and to plan and prepare major training exercises. However, the conferees are concerned that the DOD may lack the capacity or fail to exercise sufficient oversight of conferences and conventions and that it may not have necessary mechanisms in place to prevent wasteful or excessive spending in connection with those conferences and conventions. The conferees expect the Department to establish appropriate mechanisms to avoid unnecessary conferences and conventions and wasteful or excessive spending.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Comptroller General to review the DOD's oversight and management of conferences and conventions and to report to the congressional defense committees not later than 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act. The review shall assess, at a minimum, historical levels of DOD spending for conferences and conventions, whether the Department has reasonable controls established for such spending, the efficacy of any new controls on such spending implemented by the Department of Defense in the last year, and whether those new controls have been implemented in a manner that has led the Department to incur unnecessary or excessive fees for the cancellation of conferences or conventions. The review shall also assess those controls and processes utilized by the DOD to ensure that the Department's spending on conferences and conventions is properly aligned with the strategy, plans, missions, goals, and objectives of the Department. Finally, the report shall examine whether certain events, such as planning sessions for major training exercises, should be categorized as training or readiness events, rather than as conferences.

Sense of the Senate on the maintenance by the United States of a triad of strategic nuclear delivery systems

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1084) that would state the sense of the Senate that the United States should maintain a triad of strategic nuclear delivery systems and the United States is committed its modernization.

The House Bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that section 1043 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) requires the President to provide detailed information, in the annual budget request submitted to the Congress, on funding for modernization of the strategic nuclear delivery systems and stockpile.

Transportation of individuals to and from facilities of Department of Veterans Affairs

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1097) that would authorize the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to transport individuals to and from facilities of the Department of Veterans Affairs in connection with rehabilitation, examination, treatment, and care.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Improved enumeration of members of the armed forces in any tabulation of total population by Secretary of Commerce

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099A) that would require the Secretary of Commerce to include service members who are deployed abroad in the census tabulation for the state of their permanent duty station or homeport.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modernization of absentee ballot mail delivery system

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099D) that would express the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense should partner with the United States Postal Service (USPS) to modernize the USPS mail delivery system to address problems with the delivery of absentee ballots.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees encourage the Department of Defense to continue efforts to ensure that military personnel are afforded a timely opportunity to vote in state and federal elections.

Housing Assistance for Veterans

The Senate amendment contained a series of provisions (sections 5001, 5002, and 5003) contained in Division E of the bill that would establish a pilot program authorizing the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to make grants to nonprofit organizations to rehabilitate and modify homes of disabled and low-income veterans.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The Senate recedes.

Government Accountability Office Mandates Revision Act

The Senate amendment contained a subtitle (subtitle A of title LIII, sections 5301-5302) that would repeal obsolete and unneeded requirements for reviews and reports by the Government Accountability Office.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand that this matter will be addressed as a freestanding bill.

Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Improvement Act

The Senate amendment contained a subtitle (subtitle B of title LIII, sections 5311-5317) that would address the issue of improper payments by federal agencies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand that this matter will be addressed as a freestanding bill.

Stolen Valor Act

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sections 5011-5014) that would establish the "Stolen Valor Act of 2012" by amending section 704 of title 18, United States Code, to make it a criminal offense for a person to knowingly, falsely, and materially represent himself or herself to have served in the armed forces or to have been awarded certain military decorations, medals, or ribbons with intent to secure a tangible benefit or personal gain.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XI—CIVILIAN PERSONNEL MATTERS

One-year extension of authority to waive annual limitation on premium pay and aggregate limitation on pay for Federal civilian employees working overseas (sec. 1101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1104) that would authorize the head of an executive agency to waive limitations on the aggregate of basic and premium pay payable through calendar year 2013 to an employee who performs work in an overseas location that is in the area of responsibility of the Commander, United States Central Command (USCENTCOM), or a location that was formerly in USCENTCOM but has been moved to an area of responsibility of the Commander, United States Africa Command, in support of a contingency operation or an operation in response to a declared emergency. The amount payable may not exceed the total annual compensation payable to the Vice President under section 104 of title 3, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Expansion of experimental personnel program for scientific and technical personnel at the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (sec. 1102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1101) that would amend section 1101(b)(1)(A) of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105-261), as amended by section 1110 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), to authorize the appointment of not more than 60 employees to scientific and engineering positions in the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1102). The Senate amendment would also require that the provision shall not be construed as affecting any authorization on the numbers of personnel that may be employed at DARPA overall.

The House recedes.

Extension of authority to fill shortage category positions for certain Federal acquisition positions for civilian agencies (sec. 1103)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1103) that would extend to 2017 the direct hiring authority available for civilian agency acquisition positions under section 1703 of title 41, United States Code, and modify the authority.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the authority without modifying it.

One-year extension of discretionary authority to grant allowances, benefits, and gratuities to personnel on official duty in a combat zone (sec. 1104)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1103) that would authorize temporary discretionary authority to federal agencies to grant allowances, benefits, and gratuities comparable to those provided to members of the foreign service to an agency's civilian employees on official duty in a combat zone. This authority would expire at the end of fiscal year 2014.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Policy on senior mentors (sec. 1105)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1105) that would require the Department of Defense to notify the congressional defense committees at least 60 days before implementing any change to the policy regarding senior mentors established in accordance with the requirements of section 1102 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority to pay for the transport of family household pets for Federal employees during certain evacuation operations (sec. 1106)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1102) that would amend section 5725 of title 5, United States Code, to authorize the transport at government expense of family household pets of government employees during evacuations from permanent stations in foreign locations.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1101).

The Senate recedes.

Interagency personnel rotations (sec. 1107)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1111) that would establish a new interagency personnel rotation system for persons serving in national security positions across the executive branch, to be managed by an interagency Committee on National Security Personnel (CNSP).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would simplify and streamline the provision, providing the CNSP with greater flexibility in the implementation of the new program. The provision would give the executive branch broad authority to identify and define interagency communities of interest (ICI) covered by the bill, to identify which agencies are included in the program and which positions in each agency are within an ICI, and to establish processes and procedures for carrying out the program.

The provision would require that the interagency program be carried out in at least two ICI during the first 4 years after enactment, including an ICI for emergency management and an ICI for stabilization and reconstruction. The conferees understand that the emergency management ICI would encompass components of federal agencies engaged in international disaster relief, while the stabilization and reconstruction ICI would encompass components of federal agencies assisting in stabilization and reconstruction efforts in connection with overseas contingency operations.

The conferees note that the provision would require the CNSP to develop appropriate performance measures, reporting requirements, and other accountability devices for the evaluation of the program. In this regard, the conferees expect the CNSP to establish mechanisms to gather information from individuals completing rotational service under the program, including views on the value of the experience, the value added to the interagency process, the value provided to the home agency, and any improvements that could be made to the program.

The conferees further note that the provision would require the Comptroller General to review the implementation and effectiveness of the interagency personnel rotation program established pursuant to this section. The conferees will carefully review the Comptroller General's findings and recommendations to determine whether the program is working as intended, and whether any revisions or adjustments may be needed.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Federal Employees Retirement System age and retirement treatment for certain retirees of the armed forces

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1104) that would amend section 3307(e) of title 5, United States Code, to increase the maximum age at which certain former service members may be appointed to federal law enforcement positions from age 37 to age 47.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XII—MATTERS RELATING TO FOREIGN NATIONS

Subtitle A—Assistance and Training

Modification and extension of authorities relating to program to build the capacity of foreign military forces (sec. 1201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1202) that would modify the authority under section 1206 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163) for the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to conduct programs to build the capacity of foreign military forces to conduct counterterrorism and stability operations (the “1206 authority”). The provision would add small-scale military construction to the types of assistance that could be provided under the 1206 authority during fiscal year 2013. Small-scale military construction would be limited to under $750,000 per program and no more than $25.0 million in small-scale military construction could be authorized during fiscal year 2013. The provision would also authorize up to 20 percent of the amount authorized for fiscal year 2013 to be obligated and expended for programs authorized in fiscal year 2014, provided that the Secretary of Defense notifies the specified congressional committees by September 30, 2013, of his decision to do so.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1201) that would extend the 1206 authority for 1 year through the end of fiscal year 2014 and would amend the required elements of the congressional notification of the initiation of a 1206 project to include additional information on the assistance provided to the recipient country during the preceding 3 fiscal years.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the 1206 authority, including the annual sublimit on the amount of funds that can be used for stability operations capacity-building, through the end of fiscal year 2014. The amendment would eliminate the authority to obligate and expend fiscal year 2013 funds for programs authorized in fiscal year 2014, but the conference provision would retain the authority to provide 1206 assistance for small-scale military construction. The amendment would also clarify the required elements of the congressional notification required prior to the initiation of a 1206 project.

Extension of authority for non-reciprocal exchanges of defense personnel between the United States and foreign countries (sec. 1202)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1203) that would extend for 3 fiscal years the authority for the Department of Defense (DOD) to accept, on a non-reciprocal basis, defense personnel of the defense ministry of an ally or friendly foreign government.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1202) that would extend the aforementioned authority for 5 fiscal years.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the authority for 4 fiscal years.

The conferees urge the Department to continue its use of this authority and to consider using it to enhance—consistent with the Defense Strategic Guidance—our relationships with partners and allies.

Authority to build the capacity of certain counterterrorism forces in Yemen and East Africa (sec. 1203)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1203) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to provide training, equipment, supplies, and minor military construction to: (1) the Yemen Ministry of Interior (MOI) Counterterrorism Unit (CTU); (2) the national military forces, counterterrorism forces, and security agencies that serve a similar defense function, and border security forces of Djibouti, Ethiopia, and Kenya; and (3) the national military forces of nations participating in the African Union Mission in Somalia. These funds would be for the purpose of conducting counterterrorism operations against al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula in Yemen, and al Qaeda affiliates and al Shabaab in East Africa, respectively. The provision would permit the Secretary of Defense to expend not more than $75.0 million in support of the Yemen MOI CTU and not more than $75.0 million in support of the named forces conducting counterterrorism operations in East Africa. The provision would require that any support pursuant to this section must be provided in a manner that promotes the observance of and respect for human rights and fundamental freedom and for legitimate civilian authority in the country receiving such assistance. The provision would expire when the Global Security Contingency Fund achieves full operational capability or September 30, 2014, whichever occurs earlier.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe that the extension of this authority should not detract from efforts to ensure the Global Security Contingency Fund reaches full operational capability in a timely manner.

Limitation on activities under State Partnership Program pending compliance with certain program-related requirements (sec. 1204)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1204) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from obligating or expending more than 50 percent of the funds available for fiscal year 2013 for the State Partnership Program (SPP) until the final regulations required pursuant to section 1210 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) are completed and the necessary regulatory adjustments have been finalized to ensure compliance of the program with the Anti-Deficiency Act (Public Law 97-258).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from obligating or expending funds for SPP after a date specified in this Act.

Subtitle B—Matters Relating to Iraq,

Afghanistan, and Pakistan

Authority to support operations and activities of the Office of Security Cooperation in Iraq (sec. 1211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1212) that would authorize the use during fiscal year 2013 of up to $508.0 million in Department of Defense (DOD) funds under the authority of section 1215 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81) to support the operations and activities of the Office of Security Cooperation in Iraq (OSC-I). The provision would also authorize the use of these funds to provide training and assistance to Iraqi Ministry of Defense personnel. In addition, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the specified congressional committees a detailed report relating to the OSC-I.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1212) that would extend for fiscal year 2013 the authority of section 1215 of Public Law 112-81 for the Secretary of Defense to support the operations and activities of the OSC-I and authorize the use of up to $508.0 million in DOD funds for these purposes.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would provide that during fiscal year 2013 the Secretary of Defense may authorize the OSC-I to conduct non-operational training of Iraqi Ministry of Defense and Counter Terrorism Service personnel in an institutional environment to address capability gaps and integrate certain processes within the Iraqi security forces. The amendment would also clarify the reporting requirement.

The conferees expect the Administration to act deliberately to accelerate the transition of the OSC-I to a normalized status comparable to Offices of Security Cooperation in other countries, and that funding for the activities and operations of the OSC-I will be transitioned from the DOD to other sources.

Report on insider attacks in Afghanistan and their effect on the United States transition strategy for Afghanistan (sec. 1212)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1214) that would prohibit the Department of Defense from contracting or otherwise employing private security contractors (PSCs) to guard military facilities in Afghanistan where U.S. Armed Forces personnel are garrisoned or housed or to provide security for U.S. Armed Forces personnel in Afghanistan. The provision would also prohibit contracting with the Afghan Public Protection Force (APPF) to provide static security at such military installations or facilities or personal security for U.S. Armed Forces personnel. The provision would require the use of the U.S. Armed Forces to provide such services organically and the deployment of U.S. Armed Forces members in sufficient numbers to ensure that such duties do not detract from other missions in Afghanistan. The President would be authorized to waive the requirements of this section if the President makes specific certifications regarding the capabilities of PSCs or the APPF. Finally, the House provision would require quarterly reports by the Secretary of Defense to the congressional defense committees on attacks on U.S. Armed Forces carried out by members of the Afghan National Security Forces, APPF, or PSCs, called "insider attacks", and efforts to counter such attacks.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1537) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a detailed report on insider attacks and the steps being taken by the International Security Assistance Force and the Government of Afghanistan to prevent and respond to this threat.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress on insider attacks and require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed report, and semi-annual updates to that report, on insider attacks and the measures by the U.S. Government and the Government of Afghanistan to address such attacks and associated threats.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to notify the congressional defense committees promptly of any decision by the commander of coalition forces in Afghanistan to suspend or cease training, advising, or security assistance activities with the Afghan National Security Forces due to an insider attack. The notification should include an assessment of the impact that the Secretary anticipates the temporary suspension or cessation of training, advising, or security assistance activities will have on efforts to transition the lead responsibility for security to the Afghan National Security Forces.

United States military support in Afghanistan (sec. 1213)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1216) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the United States mission in Afghanistan. The provision would also require the President to notify the congressional defense committees prior to any public announcement of a decision to reduce the number of U.S. Armed Forces in Afghanistan below the levels of such forces deployed to Afghanistan as of certain specified dates.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1536) that would require that not later than 30 days after the President makes a decision to change the level of U.S. Armed Forces in Afghanistan, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, through the Secretary of Defense, must submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed assessment of the risk to the U.S. mission and interests in Afghanistan as the change in troop levels is implemented.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to notify the congressional defense committees of any Presidential-level decision on changes to U.S. troop levels in Afghanistan. The amendment would also require that not later than 30 days after such a Presidential-level decision, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, through the Secretary of Defense, would be required to submit a detailed assessment of the risk to the U.S. mission and interests in Afghanistan associated with such a change in U.S. troop levels, including the risk associated with the transition of combat responsibilities to the Afghan Security Forces following such a change in U.S. troop levels. The provision's notification requirements would terminate on December 31, 2014.

Modification of report on progress toward security and stability in Afghanistan (sec. 1214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1218) that would modify the reporting requirements under section 1230 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-81), as amended, relating to progress toward security and stability in Afghanistan. The provision would require additional detailed information relating to the Afghanistan National Security Forces (ANSF), including measures on literacy rates, recruitment, entry-level training, personnel issues, professionalism, retention, logistics, and transition.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify the additional reporting requirements relating to the ANSF. The amendment would also require information on steps taken by the United States, the International Security Assistance Force, and the Government of Afghanistan in preparation for the Afghan presidential elections in 2014, including to train a sufficient number of ANSF personnel, including female ANSF members, and to secure election workers, materials, and locations as may be necessary to safely carry out the elections, including the participation of women. Additionally, the amendment would require information on the transition from partnership to security force assistance activities as the ANSF increasingly take the security lead in Afghanistan.

Independent assessment of the Afghan National Security Forces (sec. 1215)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1219) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide for the conduct of an independent assessment of the capability requirements for the Afghan National Security Forces to provide security for Afghanistan after 2014. At the Secretary's discretion, the assessment would be conducted by either a federally-funded research and development center or an independent, non-governmental institute with relevant expertise.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Extension and modification of logistical support for coalition forces supporting certain United States military operations (sec. 1216)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1217) that would extend for 1 year the authority provided in section 1234 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 111-81), as amended, to provide logistical support to coalition forces in Afghanistan.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on Afghanistan Peace and Reintegration Program (sec. 1217)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1220) that would require a report by the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, on the Afghanistan Peace and Reconciliation Program, which seeks to reintegrate former insurgents into Afghan society.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

One-year extension of authority to use funds for reintegration activities in Afghanistan (sec. 1218)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1213) that would amend section 1216 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383), as amended, to extend the authority to use Department of Defense funds to support reintegration activities in Afghanistan through fiscal year 2013 and authorize the use of up to $35.0 million for these purposes.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1213) that includes a sense of the Senate on the conflict-induced displacement of Afghans.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees are concerned about the rise in the displacement of Afghans due to the ongoing conflict in Afghanistan and the corresponding increase in humanitarian needs. The conferees encourage the Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration of the Department of State and the Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan to jointly develop a comprehensive strategy to address this rising displacement and associated humanitarian requirements, which should include an assessment of and a plan to enhance the capacity of the Government of Afghanistan to address the causes, and respond to the consequences, of forced displacement within Afghanistan.

One-year extension and modification of authority for program to develop and carry out infrastructure projects in Afghanistan (sec. 1219)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1214) that would authorize the use of up to $350.0 million during fiscal year 2013 for the Afghanistan Infrastructure Program (AIP) to develop and carry out infrastructure programs in Afghanistan that support the counterinsurgency campaign. Funding for the AIP is provided through the Afghanistan Infrastructure Fund (AIF). The provision would also restrict the availability of a portion of the AIF funds during fiscal year 2013 until the Secretary of Defense submits a plan for the use of AIF funds under the AIP.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on updates and modifications to campaign plan for Afghanistan (sec. 1220)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1215) that would repeal section 1226 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) and require the Comptroller General to report to the congressional defense committees on any substantial update or modification to the campaign plan for Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Commanders' Emergency Response Program in Afghanistan (sec. 1221)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1201) that would amend section 1201 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), to extend the authority for the Commanders' Emergency Response Program (CERP) in Afghanistan through fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1211) that would extend the CERP authority through fiscal year 2013 and limit the amount of funds available for the program to $200.0 million, which is a reduction of $200.0 million from the budget request of $400.0 million.

The House recedes. The conferees note that during fiscal year 2012, the amount of CERP funds obligated in Afghanistan was less than $200.0 million. With the drawdown of U.S. troops in Afghanistan, the conferees anticipate that CERP spending will decrease accordingly.

Authority to transfer defense articles and provide defense services to the military and security forces of Afghanistan (sec. 1222)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1224) that would authorize the transfer of defense articles being drawn down in Afghanistan, and the provision of defense services in connection with such transfers, to the military and security forces of Afghanistan to restore and maintain internal peace and security. The provision would also authorize the transfer of such defense articles and such defense services to the military and security forces of Yemen to support counterterrorism operations and counter al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula and to the military and security forces of Somalia and other specified East African countries to support their efforts to conduct counterterrorism and postconflict stability operations in Somalia. The provision would authorize the transfer of such nonexcess defense articles up to a limit of $250.0 million in any fiscal year and would exempt during fiscal years 2013 and 2014 the transfer of such excess defense articles (EDA) to specified countries from counting against the annual limitation on the aggregate value of EDA transferred under section 516 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (Public Law 87-195). The provision would also permit construction equipment being drawn down from Afghanistan to be treated as EDA under section 516 of Public Law 87-195. The authority to transfer nonexcess defense articles under this section would expire on December 31, 2014.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the authority to transfer nonexcess defense articles under this section to transfers only to Afghanistan. The amendment would also eliminate the provision allowing construction equipment being withdrawn from Afghanistan to be treated as EDA under section 516 of Public Law 87-195. The amendment would clarify that any EDA transferred from the Department of Defense stocks in Afghanistan, regardless of the recipient country, would be exempt during fiscal years 2013 and 2014 from the annual limitation on the aggregate value of EDA transferred under section 516 of Public Law 87-195.

Report on efforts to promote the security of Afghan women and girls during the security transition process (sec. 1223)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1249) that would require the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to submit to the appropriate congressional committees a plan for promoting the security of Afghan women during the security transition process. The provision would also require reporting on implementation of this plan as part of the report submitted pursuant to sections 1230 and 1231 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), as amended.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State jointly to submit a report on U.S. Government efforts to promote the security of Afghan women and girls during the security transition process. The report would include a discussion of efforts to monitor changes in women's security conditions in areas undergoing transition, including indicators that are or may be used to measure the security of women and girls during the transition process. Examples of such indicators could include: the mobility of women and girls; the participation of women in local governing bodies; school attendance rates for girls; and women's access to government services. The report would also include discussions of efforts that may increase gender awareness and responsiveness within the Afghan National Army (ANA) and Afghan National Police (ANP), and of efforts to increase the number of female personnel within the ANA and ANP.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of State, in preparing the report required by this section, to consult with the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development and the Department of State Coordinator for Global Women's Issues.

Sense of Congress commending the Enduring Strategic Partnership Agreement between the United States and Afghanistan (sec. 1224)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1222) that would express the sense of Congress commending the Enduring Strategic Partnership Agreement between the United States of America and the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Consultations with Congress on a bilateral security agreement with Afghanistan (sec. 1225)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1223) that would require, not later than 30 days prior to entering into a Bilateral Security Agreement with Afghanistan, that the President submit the agreement to the appropriate congressional committees for review.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the President to consult periodically with the appropriate congressional committees on the status of the negotiations of the Bilateral Security Agreement. The amendment would also require the President, prior to entering into any Bilateral Security Agreement with Afghanistan, to make the text of the agreement available to the appropriate congressional committees.

The conferees note that the Enduring Strategic Partnership Agreement between the United States of America and the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan (ESPA), signed on May 1, 2012, establishes an enduring strategic partnership between the two countries. The ESPA reaffirms the presence and operations of U.S. Armed Forces in Afghanistan, and commits the United States and Afghanistan to continue to foster close cooperation concerning mutually-determined defense and security arrangements. The conferees further note that the ESPA commits the United States and Afghanistan to initiate negotiations of a Bilateral Security Agreement, with the goal of concluding that agreement within 1 year to supersede the existing U.S.-Afghanistan Status of Forces agreements.

Completion of transition of United States combat and military and security operations to the Government of Afghanistan (sec. 1226)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1221) that would express the sense of Congress regarding the transition of security responsibility to the Government of Afghanistan and the drawdown of U.S. troops from Afghanistan through the end of 2014.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a number of clarifying amendments, including an amendment to the sense of Congress that the recommendations of the International Security Assistance Force Commander on the overall strategy in Afghanistan, including the pace of the drawdown of U.S. troops, should be given serious consideration.

Extension and modification of authority for reimbursement of certain coalition nations for support provided to United States military operations (sec. 1227)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1211) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the authority under section 1233 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), as amended, for the Secretary of Defense to reimburse coalition nations for support provided to U.S. military operations, and provide other specified support to these nations. The provision would limit the amount of fiscal year 2013 funds available to provide reimbursements and other support under section 1233 of Public Law 110-181 (known as "Coalition Support Funds") to no more than $1.65 billion. The provision would also limit the portion of Coalition Support Funds that may be provided to Pakistan to no more than $650.0 million during fiscal year 2013. In addition, the provision would restrict Coalition Support Fund payments to Pakistan until the Secretary of Defense provides to the congressional defense committees certain specified reports and certifications regarding Pakistan and its cooperation in counterterrorism efforts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1216) that would extend for fiscal year 2013 and modify the authority to provide Coalition Support Funds. The provision would authorize the availability of up to $1.75 billion during fiscal year 2013 for these purposes. The provision would prohibit any reimbursements to Pakistan for claims of support provided during a period when the ground lines of supply through Pakistan to Afghanistan were closed to the transshipment of U.S. military equipment and supplies. The provision would also require that, prior to any Coalition Support Fund reimbursements to Pakistan during fiscal year 2013, the Secretary of Defense would have to make certain certifications to the congressional defense committees regarding Pakistan and its support to counterterrorism operations. The Secretary would be authorized to waive the certification requirements if the Secretary determines that doing so is in the U.S. national security interest.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the amount of fiscal year 2013 funds available for Coalition Support Fund payments to $1.65 billion. The amendment would also limit the portion of Coalition Support Funds that may be paid to Pakistan to no more than $1.2 billion during fiscal year 2013. The amendment would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the provision of reimbursements and other support to Pakistan.

The conferees note that the amendment would retain the certification requirement with regard to Coalition Support Fund payments to Pakistan, with a number of clarifications to the certification provisions. The amendment would also retain the national security waiver applicable to the certification requirement. Finally, the amendment would include the prohibition on reimbursements to Pakistan for any claims arising during a period when the ground lines of supply through Pakistan to Afghanistan were closed.

Extension and modification of Pakistan Counterinsurgency Fund (sec. 1228)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1217) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the authority under section 1224 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84), as most recently amended by section 1220 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), for the Pakistan Counterinsurgency Fund (PCF). The provision would also amend the reporting requirement under section 1220(b) of Public Law 112-81, to require, in any year in which funds would be made available to the PCF, that the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, must submit to the appropriate congressional committees an update to the section 1220(b) report on a strategy for utilizing the PCF and the metrics for measuring the progress of that strategy. The provision would additionally restrict the availability of PCF funds to no more than 10 percent of amounts appropriated or transferred to the PCF until 30 days after the Secretary of Defense submits to the appropriate congressional committees the update to the section 1220(b) report.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1219) that would restrict the use of funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act for the PCF until the Secretary of Defense certifies to the appropriate congressional committees that Pakistan is committed to and implementing a strategy to counter improvised explosive devices (IEDs). The Secretary would be authorized to waive the certification requirement if the Secretary determines doing so is in the national security interest of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1215) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the PCF authority under section 1220 of Public Law 111-84, as amended. The provision would also extend for 1 year the limitations of section 1220 of Public Law 112-81 that restrict the availability of PCF funds to no more than 40 percent of amounts available to the Fund during fiscal year 2013 until the Secretary of Defense submits the section 1220(b) report.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend the PCF authority through fiscal year 2013 and extend for 1 year the limitations on the availability of PCF funds under section 1220 of Public Law 112-81. In addition, the amendment would require that before any of the funds authorized to be appropriated for or transferred into the PCF may be used, the Secretary of Defense must certify to the appropriate congressional committees that: (1) Pakistan is demonstrating a continuing commitment to and making significant efforts to implement a counter-IED strategy, and (2) Pakistan is cooperating with U.S. counterterrorism efforts, including by not detaining, prosecuting or imprisoning Pakistani citizens as a result of their cooperation with such efforts, including Dr. Shakil Afridi, the doctor who assisted in efforts to track down Osama bin Laden. Under the amendment the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to waive the certification if the Secretary determines that doing so is in the national security interest of the United States.

Subtitle C—Matters Relating to Iran

Report on United States capabilities in relation to China, North Korea, and Iran (sec. 1231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1223) that would amend section 1245 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84; 123 Stat. 2541) by requiring an annex to the military power report on Iran in which the Commander of U.S. Central Command would provide an assessment of any gaps in intelligence, capabilities, capacity, or authorities to counter Iranian threats to the interest of the United States in the region.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in consultation with the appropriate geographic and functional combatant commanders, to submit a report regarding U.S. capabilities relative to the People's Republic of China, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, and the Republic of Iran. The conferees note that this report shall reflect the full and complete assessments of the commanders of the geographic and functional combatant commands.

Report on military capabilities of Gulf Cooperation Council members (sec. 1232)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1225) that would direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to develop a plan to enhance the military capabilities of certain allies in the Middle East to bolster the posture of such allies in relation to the threat posed by Iran.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to evaluate gaps in the military capabilities of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) members and submit a report on the findings of their evaluation to the appropriate congressional committees.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense and Department of State has undertaken a number of efforts to further improve U.S.-GCC security cooperation and interoperability. These ongoing efforts serve as the principal security coordination mechanism between the United States and the six GCC countries. The conferees note and endorse the objectives of this ongoing dialogue as an effective way to address common perceived threats, including the improvement of GCC defense capabilities and interoperability; regional security issues; counterproliferation; counterterrorism; and critical infrastructure protection.

Sense of Congress with respect to Iran (sec. 1233)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1221) that would express certain findings related to the threat represented by the Islamic Republic of Iran to the United States, the State of Israel, and Iran's neighbors. This provision would further declare that it is the policy of the United States to take all necessary measures, including military action if required, to prevent Iran from threatening the United States, its allies, or Iran's neighbors with a nuclear weapon.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete the findings and would make the provision an expression of the sense of Congress, as well as insert the words "be prepared to".

Rule of construction (sec. 1234)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1228) that would state that nothing in this Act shall be construed as authorizing the use of force against Iran.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle D—Iran Sanctions

Short title (sec. 1241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1261) that would name the subtitle the "Iran Freedom and Counter-Proliferation Act of 2012."

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Definitions (sec. 1242)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1262) that would establish certain definitions for purposes of the Iran Freedom and Counter-Proliferation Act of 2012.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives to the definition of "Appropriate Congressional Committees" contained in this provision, as well as a definition for the term "good"—as defined by section 16 of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 U.S.C. App 2415).

Declaration of policy on human rights (sec. 1243)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1263) that would establish the policy of the United States with respect to denying the Government of Iran the ability to continue to oppress its people; supporting efforts of the people of Iran to promote the establishment of their basic freedoms; helping the Iranian people produce and access information; and defeating attempts by the Government of Iran to jam or obstruct international satellite broadcasts.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the declaration of policy to an expression of the sense of Congress.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to the energy, shipping, and shipbuilding sectors of Iran (sec. 1244)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1264) that would: (1) make a series of findings with respect to Iran's energy, shipping, and shipbuilding sectors; (2) designate entities that operate Iran's ports and entities in its energy, shipping, and shipbuilding sectors as entities of proliferation concern; and (3) block and prohibit, with limited exceptions, all transactions in property in the United States by any person that is associated with these sectors or that provides support to those sectors or to any person on the list of "specially designated nationals and blocked persons" (the "SDN List") with respect to Iran maintained by the Department of the Treasury and sanction transactions with these sectors. The provision would provide exceptions for: (1) petroleum purchases from Iran pursuant to section 1245 of the National Defense Authorization Act for 2012 (Public Law 112-81) (i.e. countries with an exception for significantly reducing their purchases from Iran); (2) certain financial transactions involving institutions in those countries; (3) natural gas purchases from Iran so long as the purchasing country holds the payment for Iran in an account to be drawn on for permissible trade; and (4) purchases of food, agricultural commodities, medicine, medical devices, and humanitarian assistance. Also included in the provision is an allowance for a Presidential waiver if a determination is made that such waiver is vital to the national security of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) increase the number of days after enactment of this Act that this provision would take effect to 180 days; (2) strike a provision relating to the application of certain provisions of the Iran Sanctions Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-172), as amended; (3) increase to 180 days the period of time for which a Presidential waiver is in effect; (4) insert an exception for certain activities relating to the reconstruction of Afghanistan—if the President determines such an exception is in the national interest; and (5) make a number of technical modifications.

The conferees note the exclusion of import sanctions in this section would only pertain to the new authorities provided in this subsection and would not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to the sale, supply, or transfer of certain materials to or from Iran (sec. 1245)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1265) that would impose sanctions contained in the Iran Sanction Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-172), as amended, including a ban on opening correspondent accounts in the United States for banks involved in the sale, supply, or transfer to Iran or for facilitating or conducting such a transaction, involving precious metal, graphite, raw or semi-finished metals, metallurgical coal, and software for integrating industrial processes in connection with Iran's energy, shipping, and ship-building industries, or to Iranian persons on the SDN list. The provision would allow for a Presidential waiver of sanctions for interests vital to the national security of the United States and also contains certain limited exceptions. Certain related provisions elsewhere in this Act involve materials for resale and barter.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) increase the number of days after enactment of this Act that this provision would take effect to 180 days; (2) insert an exception for non-designated Iranian financial institutions that are not connected to Iran's weapons of mass destruction program, its support for terrorism, or its abuses of human rights; (3) increase to 180 days the period of time for which a Presidential waiver is in effect; and (4) make a number of technical and clarifying modifications.

The conferees note the exclusion of import sanctions in this section would only pertain to the new authorities provided in this subsection and would not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to the provision of underwriting services or insurance or reinsurance for activities of persons with respect to which sanctions have been imposed (sec. 1246)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1266) that would impose sanctions contained in the Iran Sanction Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-172), as amended, on: (1) any insurance or reinsurance provider or underwriter that knowingly provides underwriting service, insurance, or reinsurance for activities for which sanctions have been imposed under current law; (2) to any person in the energy, shipping, or ship-building sector in Iran; (3) transactions involving the materials covered in section 1245; (4) any person designated on the SDN List in connection with proliferation of weapons of mass destruction or support for terrorism; and (5) any other person on the SDN List, with certain limited exceptions. The provision would provide waivers for transactions involving humanitarian goods, a due diligence exception for underwriters, insurers, and reinsurers, as well as a Presidential waiver for interests vital to the national security of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) increase the number of days after enactment of this Act that this provision would take effect to 180 days; (2) strike subsection (f)—the clause relating to the application of certain provisions of the Iran Sanctions Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-172), as amended; (3) increase to 180 days the period of time for which a Presidential waiver is in effect; and (4) make a number of technical and clarifying modifications.

The conferees note the exclusion of import sanctions in this section would only pertain to the new authorities provided in this subsection and would not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to foreign financial institutions that facilitate financial transactions on behalf of specially designated nationals (sec. 1247)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1267) that would prohibit the opening of or impose strict conditions on the maintaining of a correspondent account or a payable-through account in the United States by a foreign financial institution that the President determines has knowingly facilitated a significant financial transaction on behalf of any Iranian person included on the SDN List. The provision would provide exceptions for humanitarian transactions, certain financial institutions, petroleum sales permitted under section 1245 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), and certain natural gas sales. The provision would also provide a Presidential waiver of sanctions for interests vital to the national security of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) increase the number of days after enactment of this Act that this provision would take effect to 180 days; (2) increase to 180 days the period of time for which a Presidential waiver is in effect; and (3) make a number of technical and clarifying modifications.

Inclusion of the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting on the list of human rights abusers (sec. 1248)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1268) that would make a series of findings about the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting (IRIB) entity's contributions to the infringement of individuals' human rights and would direct the President to determine the same. The provision would also designate and sanction the IRIB and the President of the IRIB, Ezzatollah Zargami, on account of human rights violations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would direct the President to impose sanctions on IRIB, as well as its President, Ezzatollah Zargami, under the Comprehensive Iran Sanctions, Accountability, and Divestment Act (CISADA) of 2010 (Public Law 111-195; 22 U.S.C. 8511 et seq.); include them on the SDN List and blocked persons maintained by the Office of Foreign Asset Control; and incorporate appropriate administrative provisions.

The conferees note the exclusion of import sanctions in this section would only pertain to the new authorities provided in this subsection and would not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to persons engaged in the diversion of goods intended for the people of Iran (sec. 1249)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1269) that would amend Title I of Public Law 111-195 by inserting a new subsection that would direct the President to impose sanctions on individuals determined to have engaged in corruption or other activities relating to the diversion of goods intended for the people of Iran or the misappropriation of proceeds from the sale or resale of such goods. The provision would also require the names of individuals identified under this subsection to be made available to the public and posted on the Internet websites of the Department of the Treasury and the Department of State. The provision would also include a number of relevant clerical amendments to Public Law 111–195.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees note the exclusion of import sanctions in this section would only pertain to the new authorities provided in this subsection and would not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Waiver requirement related to exceptional circumstances preventing significant reductions in crude oil purchases (sec. 1250)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1270) that would amend section 1245(d)(5)(B) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112–81) by inserting an additional determination the President is required to make when issuing a waiver of sanctions with respect to petroleum transactions. Under the provision, the President would also be required, prior to issuing a waiver of sanctions, to certify that the country with primary jurisdiction over the foreign financial institution otherwise subject to the sanctions faced exceptional circumstances that prevented the country from being able to significantly reduce its volume of crude oil purchases.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Statute of limitations for civil actions regarding terrorist acts (sec. 1251)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1271) that would amend Section 2335 of title 18, United States Code, and modify the statute of limitations for civil action regarding terrorist acts to 10 years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the effective date of the provision.

Report on use of certain Iranian seaports by foreign vessels and use of foreign airports by sanctioned Iranian air carriers (sec. 1252)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1272) that would direct the President to submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report that contains: (1) a list of vessels that have entered seaports in Iran controlled by the Tidewater Middle East Company and the owners and operators of those vessels; and (2) a list of all airports at which aircraft owned or controlled by an Iranian air carrier on which sanctions have been imposed have landed.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would terminate the reporting requirement under this subsection after a certain number of reports, as well as add the words “large or otherwise significant” to focus collection resources on vessels of concern.

Implementation; penalties (sec. 1253)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1273) that would provide the President with the authority, consistent with the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.), to implement this subtitle and establish certain penalties for a person that commits an unlawful act under this subtitle.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would provide for the application of certain sections of the Iran Sanctions Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–172), as amended.

Applicability to certain natural gas projects (sec. 1254)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1274) that would establish that nothing in this subtitle shall apply with respect to any activity described in subsection (a) of section 603 of the Iran Threat Reduction and Syria Human Rights Act of 2012 (Public Law 112–158; 22 U.S.C. 8783) to which the exception under that section applies at the time of the activity.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Rule of construction (sec. 1255)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1275) that would establish a rule of construction with respect to this subtitle that nothing shall be construed to limit sanctions imposed with respect to Iran under any other provision of law or to limit the authority of the President to impose additional sanctions with respect to Iran.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle E—Satellites and Related Items

Authority to remove satellites and related components and technology from the United States Munitions List (secs. 1261–1267)

The House bill contained a provision (subtitle E, sec. 1241) that would grant authority to the President, after making certain determinations, to remove commercial satellites and related components and technology from the United States Munitions List (USML), consistent with the requirements to notify and consult with Congress under section 38(f) of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2778) regarding the removal of any defense item from the USML. The House provision would also prohibit the export of commercial satellites and related components and technology to the People's Republic of China, North Korea, currently named state sponsors of terrorism, and other countries on which there are regulatory arms export restrictions.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1242) that require a quarterly report from the President on licenses and other authorizations for such items subsequently listed on the Commerce Control List (CCL).

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1243) that amends section 38(f) of the Arms Export Control Act to modify the information to be provided in connection with notifications when the President seeks to move items from the USML.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1244) that require a report on the extent to which the CCL has exemptions from country-wide licensing requirements.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1245) that provide for end-use monitoring for certain CCL items and required a report.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1246) that require that all relevant departments concur to any future changes to Category XV of the USML (relating to spacecraft systems and associated equipment) and require an annual report on the reviews conducted in reading such concurrence.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provisions.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strike section 1241(a) of the House bill and replace it with a repeal of section 1513(a) of Subtitle B of Title XV of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105–261). The effect of this repeal would be that the satellites and related items that were on the CCL on the date of the enactment of Public Law 105–261 and, thereafter, were transferred to the USML pursuant to section 1513(a) and controlled under the Arms Export Control Act, may be transferred back to the CCL, subject to certain determinations. The conferees note that this repeal would not change the regulatory structure and obligations that currently apply for existing licenses or submitted applications under the authority of the International Traffic in Arms Regulations ((ITAR), 22 C.F.R. part 120 et seq.). The conferees believe further regulatory action, subject to the conditions set out in this provision, will have to be taken to change such structure and obligations. The conferees note that nothing in the conference agreement would obviate the requirement to submit to Congress the report required under section 38(f) of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2778(f)) for any item removed from the USML as a result of the enactment of the conference agreement.

The amendment would further amend the prohibition in section 1241(c) of the House bill on the export, transfer, re-transfer, or re-export on commercial satellites and related items to China, Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Sudan, Syria, or any other country under a U.S. arms embargo pursuant to section 126.1 of the ITAR to comport with the repeal in subsection (a) of the amendment, adding a Presidential waiver of the prohibition to be consistent with other provisions of export control law; and striking the ITAR 126.1 prohibition and replacing it with a presumption of denial of any such export to a country with respect to which the United States maintains a comprehensive arms embargo. The amendment would also provide for a reporting requirement to certain congressional committees regarding efforts by certain countries to illicitly obtain satellites and related items. The conferees expect the Director of National Intelligence to ensure protection of sources and methods in preparing such report.

The conferees note that this amendment would explicitly state that the prohibition applies to all such satellites and items subject to the Export Administration Regulations, whether or not specifically enumerated on the CCL. The conferees note that in ongoing compliance matters concerning the re-transfer of U.S. technology to China, certain such items had been designated by the Department of Commerce as EAR–99. The conferees do not intend for this provision to affect ongoing compliance matters, which the conferees expect will be pursued with all available diligence. Thus, the amendment would also specify that no items transferred as a result of the enactment of this Act may be launched in China, North Korea, or a designated state sponsor of terrorism, or as part of a launch vehicle owned, operated, or manufactured by any such government, or persons or entities acting on their behalf. The amendment would permit, however, the President to waive these particular prohibitions on a case-by-case basis, with advance notice to Congress. The conferees note that the President is already permitted to waive similar restrictions on exports of USML items to China, and for satellites and related items to China for launch, on launch vehicles owned by China that are contained in section 902 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act of Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101–246), which would be intentionally unchanged by this provision. Section 1515 of Public Law 105-261, which will remain in force, requires that each time the President seeks to waive those restrictions on the export to China of any satellite of United States origin or related items, the President must accompany the required report with a detailed justification setting forth numerous justifications related to the export, including why the proposed launch is in the national security interest of the United States and what the impact of the proposed export will be on employment in the United States. The conferees stress that this amendment would intentionally leave those matters unchanged. The conferees also note that the aforementioned waiver for exporting satellites and related items has not been used since the late 1990s, owing to concerns about Chinese missile and other proliferation activities and human rights violations. The conferees find it difficult to envision a scenario under current circumstances in which a President would utilize the waiver authority that would be provided in the amendment.

The amendment would also modify the requirements of the report from the President on licenses and other authorizations for satellites and related items subsequently listed on the CCL.

Furthermore, the amendment would largely retain, but modify, reporting requirements on country exemptions for licensing of certain satellites and related items and end-use monitoring.

The amendment would require that all relevant agencies review regulations proposing changes to Category XV of the USML. This provision would ensure that all relevant agencies cooperate in making determinations regarding the level of control to be accorded to space technology. The conferees believe special concern is warranted because in the past, certain items related to satellites were treated as EAR99 items, meaning no license was required and therefore no substantive ability to deny re-exports of such items existed.

The amendment would also add a rule of construction to make clear that, notwithstanding the repeal of section 1513(a), the remaining provisions of Subtitle B of title XV of Public Law 105-261, which apply to "satellites and related items" without reference to such items' regulatory coverage under the USML or the CCL, continue to apply to satellites and related items subject to the Export Administration Regulations. The conferees expect that notifications required to be provided by the Department of Commerce pursuant to section 1514(a)(7) of Public Law 105-261 for satellites and related items made subject to the jurisdiction of the Export Administration Regulations as a result of this amendment would be made prior to the issuance of any such license. The conferees note that nothing in this Act shall be construed as removing or limiting existing authorities of the President under Public Law 105-261 with respect to defense articles and defense services that remain subject to the jurisdiction of the ITAR or to otherwise take such actions as are necessary to implement requirements for improving national security controls in the export licensing of satellites, launch vehicles, and related items.

Subtitle F—Other Matters

Additional elements in annual report on military and security developments involving the People's Republic of China (sec. 1271)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1231) that would modify the elements required to be included in the annual report on the military and security developments involving the People's Republic of China and would also require a combatant commander's assessment of gaps in capabilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1232).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that modifies some of the elements required to be included in future reports. The amendment would also remove the requirement for a combatant commander assessment and consolidate the requirement for an assessment into another section of this Act for fiscal year 2013, as part of a broader report from the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding gaps in capabilities.

NATO Special Operations Headquarters (sec. 1272)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1234) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the authority contained in section 1244 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84), as amended, for the Secretary of Defense to provide up to $50.0 million per year to support the operations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Special Operations Headquarters (NSHQ). The House provision would also prohibit the Secretary from obligating or expending more than 50 percent of the funds available for fiscal year 2013 until 30 days after the Secretary finalizes and formalizes the United States Special Operations Command as the lead component with executive agent responsibilities for the NSHQ.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 342) that would make permanent the authority of the Secretary to provide up to $50.0 million in any fiscal year to support the operations of the NSHQ. The Senate provision would also require an annual report describing the activities of the NSHQ and summarizing the support provided to the NSHQ by the U.S. and other NATO member countries.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend through fiscal year 2015 the authority of the Secretary to provide up to $50.0 million per year to support the operations of the NSHQ and require an annual report describing the activities of the NSHQ and summarizing the support provided to the NSHQ by the U.S. and other NATO member countries.

The conferees continue to see great value in the ability of the NSHQ to enhance the capabilities and interoperability of NATO Special Operations Forces consistent with the purposes specified in section 1244 of Public Law 111-84. The conferees also believe the extension of this authority through fiscal year 2015 will enable continued support of the NSHQ through a critical period as responsibility for security in Afghanistan transitions from the International Security Assistance Force to the Afghan National Security Forces by the end of 2014. Lastly, the conferees believe, barring an exceptional and compelling justification, that additional modifications to this authority should not be necessary prior to fiscal year 2015 and look forward to considering a request from the Secretary for continued U.S. support to the NSHQ at the appropriate time.

Sustainability requirements for certain capital projects in connection with overseas contingency operations (sec. 1273)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1245) that would establish requirements for future overseas contingency operations that the Department of Defense (DOD), the Department of State (DOS) and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) conduct detailed assessments of the necessity and sustainability of capital projects above certain specified cost thresholds prior to carrying out any such project. The Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State, or the Administrator of USAID, as applicable, would be authorized to waive the limitations of this section to initiate a project if the determination is made that doing so is in U.S. national security, diplomatic, or humanitarian interests, but a sustainability assessment would still have to be conducted subsequently. The provision would also require detailed, semi-annual reporting on each capital project subject to this section.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1239) that would require that, for certain specified infrastructure projects, the head of a federal department or agency responsible for carrying out the project must submit to Congress, not later than 60 days prior to the project's commencement, a plan for carrying out and sustaining the project. Projects covered by this provision would be infrastructure projects in a foreign country for which the United States is contributing not less than $1.0 million from funds available for overseas contingency operations.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Administration of the American, British, Canadian, and Australian Armies' Program (sec. 1274)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1241) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to enter into cost-sharing agreements with the countries participating in the American, British, Canadian, and Australian (ABCA) Armies' Program. The provision would allow the Department of Defense to accept contributions from the other participating countries to pay their equitable share of the costs associated with the ABCA Armies' Program. The authority provided under this provision would sunset after 5 years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

United States participation in Headquarters Eurocorps (sec. 1275)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1242) that would authorize the participation of members of the armed forces as members of the staff of Headquarters Eurocorps to support the North Atlantic Treaty Organization activities of that corps. U.S. participation on the staff would be limited to 2 service members until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the plans, benefits, and costs of such participation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to notify the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives if the number of members of the armed forces participating on the staff of the Headquarters Eurocorps will exceed 10 members.

Department of Defense participation in European program on multilateral exchange of air transportation and air refueling services (sec. 1276)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1243) that would allow the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to authorize U.S. participation in the Air Transport, Air-to-Air

Refueling and other Exchanges of Services (ATARES) program of the Movement Coordination Centre Europe. The program would allow for the exchange or transfer of air transportation and air refueling services among ATARES program participants.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Prohibition on use of funds to enter into contracts or agreements with Rosoboronexport (sec. 1277)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 802) that would require that any U.S.-funded contract to procure helicopters for the Afghan Security Forces must be awarded using competitive procedures. The provision would also prohibit the Secretary of Defense from awarding a contract, directly or indirectly, to any entity controlled, directed, or influenced by: (1) a country that has provided weapons to Syria after the enactment of the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175); or (2) any country that is a state sponsor of terrorism. The Secretary of Defense would be authorized to waive the requirements of the provision if the Secretary determines that doing so is in the U.S. national security interests.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1050) that would prohibit the use of funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act to enter into a contract or provide a loan to the Russian state corporation, Rosoboronexport. The provision would allow the Secretary of Defense to waive this prohibition if in the U.S. national security interests.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Sense of Congress on Iron Dome short-range rocket defense system (sec. 1278)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1250) that would express the sense of Congress in support of the Israeli Iron Dome short-range rocket defense system.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Bilateral defense trade relationship with India (sec. 1279)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1252) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report on certain elements of the United States defense trade relationship with India and would require a comprehensive review of the feasibility of co-production and co-development of defense projects with India.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require coordination with the Secretary of State and would modify certain elements of the report.

The conferees believe that the bilateral defense trade relationship with India is important to both countries and that the United States government must work to advance that relationship in a variety of areas. In particular, the conferees urge the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State and other relevant United States officials to take the following actions:

(1) review all United States-India bilateral working groups dealing with high technology transfers, including technology security and licensing for dual-use and munitions licenses to determine the feasibility of establishing a single United States working group dedicated to strategic and technology trade;

(2) engage counterparts in the Government of India in a dialogue on the current challenges related to compatibility of the Foreign Military Sales and direct commercial sale programs with the Indian Defense Procurement Procedure;

(3) engage counterparts in the Government of India in a dialogue about elements of an effective defense industrial base, including personnel training, quality assurance, and manufacturing procedures;

(4) consider the establishment of orientation programs for new Indian defense officials to learn about procedures for United States defense sales; and

(5) continue and deepen ongoing efforts to assist the Government of India in developing defense acquisition expertise by assisting with the development of training institutions and human capital.

United States Advisory Commission on Public Diplomacy (sec. 1280)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5023) that would reauthorize and modify the responsibilities of the United States Advisory Commission on Public Diplomacy through fiscal year 2014.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the underlying provision to reauthorize the United States Advisory Commission on Public Diplomacy through fiscal year 2015, as well as additional technical and clarifying modifications.

Sense of Congress on sale of aircraft to Taiwan (sec. 1281)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1240) that would require the President to sell F-16C/D aircraft to Taiwan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the requirement for the sale of F-16C/D aircraft but express the sense of Congress that the President should take steps to address Taiwan's shortfall in fighter aircraft.

The conferees note that in an unclassified assessment dated January 21, 2010, and provided to the congressional defense committees by the Department of Defense pursuant to a requirement in the conference report (Conf. Rept. 111-288) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84), the Defense Intelligence Agency stated, among other things, that although Taiwan had almost 400 combat aircraft, far fewer were operationally capable, and that Taiwan's F-5 fighters have reached the end of their operational service life. The conferees note further that the administration acknowledged, in a widely-circulated letter dated April 27, 2012, that Taiwan is experiencing a growing shortfall in fighter aircraft, even with the F-16 A/B upgrades made available to Taiwan in September 2011. Despite this shortfall, however, the conferees are not aware of any plan by the administration to address Taiwan's fighter aircraft needs, whether through the sale of F-16C/D or otherwise. Accordingly, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, to ensure that a briefing is prepared and made available to the congressional defense committees and other interested committees, not later than April 15, 2013, that explains the administration's plan for meeting the statutory requirements of the Taiwan Relations Act (Public Law 96-8) regarding ensuring that Taiwan air forces can contribute appropriately to the defense of Taiwan.

Briefings on dialogue between the United States and the Russian Federation on nuclear arms, missile defense, and long-range conventional strike systems (sec. 1282)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would require the executive branch to provide briefings, not less than twice per year, to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Senate Armed Services Committee on the dialogue between the United States and the Russian Federation on issues related to limits or controls on nuclear arms, missile defense systems, or long-range conventional strike systems. The provision would also express the sense of the Senate that certain agreements may be made only pursuant to the treaty-making power of the President.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add a rule of construction to clarify that nothing in the provision shall be construed to be inconsistent with or to interfere with the practices, precedents, or oversight of the House of Representatives.

Sense of Congress on efforts to remove or apprehend Joseph Kony from battlefield and end the atrocities of the Lord's Resistance Army (sec. 1283)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1246) that would express the sense of the Senate on ongoing U.S. military efforts to support the apprehension or removal of Joseph Kony and his top commanders from the battlefield and end atrocities perpetrated by his Lord's Resistance Army (LRA).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the provision to make it a sense of Congress and make other technical modifications.

The conferees note that the President notified Congress in October 2011 of Operation Observant Compass (OOC), an operation to support the efforts of Ugandan and other regional militaries to remove Joseph Kony and other senior leaders of the LRA from the battlefield in Central Africa, and his decision to send approximately 100 U.S. Special Operations Forces Personnel to Central Africa help regional partners achieve these goals.

The conferees support U.S. Africa Command's (AFRICOM) ongoing operation in Central Africa to advise and assist regional partners and will continue to resource these efforts in order to ensure the mission achieves its stated objectives.

The conferees note that this Act would provide an additional $50.0 million to enhance the intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) support to AFRICOM's OOC. While the conferees intend for a majority portion of these additional funds to be used to improve ISR collection capabilities, the conferees recognize the importance of improving other aspects of ISR support to OOC. The conferees believe the "find" portion of the "find-fix-finish" intelligence cycle requires focused interagency and multi-disciplinary approaches to develop an intelligence strategy tied to operations on the ground to successfully locate Kony and other top LRA commanders. As such, the conferees support the use of a portion of these additional funds to improve other aspects of ISR support to OOC, including intelligence exploitation, analysis, dissemination, and sharing.

Additionally, the conferees expect that the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Warfighter Support and Director of the ISR

Task Force, in coordination with the Director for Emerging Capabilities and Technology Investments will manage this ISR initiative, in support of AFRICOM. The conferees believe the ISR Task Force has provided critical support to operations in the U.S. Central Command area of responsibility in recent years and believe that support to OOC is an opportunity for the ISR Operations and Global Support Directorate of the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Warfighter Support to demonstrate similar capabilities in support of another combatant commands with unmet ISR requirements.

Lastly, the conferees expect to receive frequent updates on the allocation of funds authorized and appropriated for ISR support to OOC and the role these additional capabilities will play in an integrated intelligence strategy.

Imposition of sanctions with respect to support for the rebel group known as M23 (sec. 1284)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1247) that would impose sanctions with respect to persons that provide significant financial, material, or technical support to the rebel group known as M23 operating in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend subsection (g) to include the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives in the definition of the appropriate congressional committees, make technical modifications and modify the sanctions termination clause.

The exclusion of import sanctions in this section pertains only to the new authorities provided in this subsection and does not affect the President's authority under already existing law to employ such sanctions.

Pilot program on repair, overhaul, and refurbishment of defense articles for sale or transfer to eligible foreign countries and entities (sec. 1285)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1248) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish a pilot program to repair, overhaul, or refurbish in-stock defense articles in anticipation of their sale or transfer to eligible foreign countries or international organizations. The provision would also authorize the establishment of a fund, called the Special Defense Repair Fund, to support the program. The provision would limit the total amount in the Fund at any time to not more than $50.0 million.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with technical and clarifying amendments.

The conferees expect the Department of Defense to keep the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives apprised as the fund is established and the program is implemented.

Sense of Congress on the situation in the Senkaku Islands (sec. 1286)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1251) that would express the sense of the Senate regarding the situation in the Senkaku Islands.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the Senate provision as a sense of Congress.

Subtitle G—Reports

Review and reports on Department of Defense efforts to build the capacity of and partner with foreign security forces (sec. 1291)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1231) that would require the Defense Policy Board to assess Department of Defense (DOD) efforts to build the capacity of, and partner with, foreign security forces in support of U.S. national security and defense strategies. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on the results of the Defense Policy Board review. The provision would also require that the Secretary of Defense, taking into account the recommendations of the Defense Policy Board review, to report to the congressional defense committees on the Department's strategic guidance for its efforts to build the capacity of, and partner with, foreign military forces in support of U.S. national security and defense strategies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Additional report on military and security developments involving the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (sec. 1292)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1232) that would require an additional report on the military and security developments involving the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and would also require a combatant commander's assessment of gaps in capabilities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that removes the requirement for a combatant commander assessment and consolidates the requirement for an assessment into another section of this Act, as part of a broader report from the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding gaps in capabilities.

Report on host nation support for overseas United States military installations and United States Armed Forces deployed in country (sec. 1293)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1233) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to submit a report to the appropriate congressional committees not later than March 1 of each year from 2013 through 2015, on the direct, indirect, and burden sharing contributions made by host nations in support of U.S. Armed Forces deployed in country.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on military activities to deny or significantly degrade the use of air power against civilian and opposition groups in Syria (sec. 1294)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1235) that would require a report on military activities to deny or significantly degrade the use of air power against civilian and opposition groups in Syria.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on military assistance provided by Russia to Syria (sec. 1295)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1303) that would limit Cooperative Threat Reduction funding to Russia until the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, certifies to the congressional defense committees that Russia is not providing direct or indirect support to the Syrian government to suppress the Syrian people and that Russia is not providing equipment and technology to Syria, Iran, or North Korea that have the potential to make a material contribution to the development of weapons of mass destruction or cruise or ballistic missile systems controlled under multilateral control lists.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require a report, not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, by the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, on military assistance provided by the Russian Federation to Syria. The report would also include the types of direct or indirect military support and a description and analysis of Russia's military interest presence in Syria.

The conferees note that a report on Cooperative Threat Reduction efforts with Russia is required elsewhere in this Act.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Codification of National Guard State Partnership Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 335) that would codify the National Guard Bureau's (NGB) State Partnership Program (SPP).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Strategy for supporting the achievement of a secure presidential election in Afghanistan in 2014

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1218) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to develop a strategy for supporting the Government of Afghanistan in its efforts to provide for the security of the 2014 Afghan presidential elections.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. The conferees note that a separate provision of this Act amends the reporting requirements under section 1230 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to require detailed information on preparations to provide security for the Afghan presidential elections in 2014, including efforts to train a sufficient number of female members of the Afghan National Security Forces and to provide security for polling places and election personnel as necessary to safely carry out the elections, including the participation of women.

Limitation on use of funds under the Pakistan Counterinsurgency Fund

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1219) that would restrict the use of funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act for the Pakistan Counterinsurgency Fund (PCF) until the Secretary of Defense certifies to the appropriate congressional committees that Pakistan is committed to and implementing a strategy to counter improvised explosive devices (IEDs), including attacking IED networks, monitoring precursors used in IEDs, and developing regulations for the manufacture of certain materials, including calcium ammonium nitrate, and their supply to legitimate end users. The Secretary would be authorized to waive the certification requirement if the Secretary determines doing so is in the national security interest of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes. The conferees note that the restrictions contained in this provision of the House bill are included in another provision of this title that extends and modifies the authority for the PCF for fiscal year 2013.

United States military preparedness in the Middle East

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1222) that would recognize the importance of conducting military exercises and maintaining a high-level state of readiness in the Middle East to the national security of the United States and its allies. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a plan to strengthen the presence of the United States Armed Forces in the Middle East.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to continue to ensure that a full range of options for various contingencies in the region are available to the President.

Additionally, the conferees note that the last update received on these matters was in 2011, in conjunction with the quarterly readiness report required by section 482 of title 10, United States Code (10 U.S.C. 482), in which the Secretary of Defense provided information on the overall readiness of U.S. Armed Forces in the U.S. Central Command (CENTCOM) area of responsibility to counter threats from Iran. As such, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the next report required under 10 U.S.C. 482, includes a discussion of the operational readiness, military exercises, and resource requirements associated with CENTCOM's ability to respond to a full range of contingencies involving Iran, including its threat to close the Strait of Hormuz.

Enhancing the defense of Israel and United States interests in the Middle East

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1224) that would express the sense of Congress about the need for the United States to take certain measures to assist in the defense of Israel and require a series of reports regarding Israel's qualitative military edge, as well as a report on efforts to expand cooperation between the United States and Israel.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that President Barack Obama signed into law the United States-Israel Enhanced Security Cooperation Act (Public Law 112-150) on July 27, 2012. This public law incorporated the underlying reporting requirements in the House provision. The conferees support strongly the United States-Israel Enhanced Security Cooperation Act.

Plan to increase strategic regional partnerships

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1226) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to develop a plan to increase strategic partnerships and access agreements with regional allies in the Middle East and Caucasus.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Definitions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1227) that would provide definitions for a number of other provisions in subtitle C of title 12 of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on the implementation by the Government of Bahrain of the recommendations by the Bahrain Independent Commission of Inquiry

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1233) that would require a report by the Secretary of State on the implementation by the Government of Bahrain of the recommendations contained in the Bahrain Independent Commission of Inquiry.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of State, no later than 180 days after enactment of this Act, to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives a report on the implementation by the Government of Bahrain of the recommendations contained in the Report of the Bahrain Independent Commission of Inquiry. The report required shall include: (1) a description of the specific steps taken by the Government of Bahrain to implement each of the 26 recommendations contained in the Report of the Bahrain Independent Commission of Inquiry; (2) an assessment of whether each recommendation has been fully complied with by the Government of Bahrain; and (3) an assessment of the impact of the findings of the Report of the Bahrain Independent Commission of Inquiry on progress toward democracy and respect for human rights in Bahrain.

The conferees support the longstanding partnership between the U.S. and the Kingdom of Bahrain and note that the Naval Support Activity-Bahrain is a valuable strategic asset for the U.S. and a key component of continued mutually beneficial U.S.-Bahrain strategic cooperation.

Reports on Syria

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1234) that would require a series of reports on matters relating to Syria.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, Secretary of State, and Director of National Intelligence to provide a report that leverages existing intelligence products to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, an updated assessment on: (1) the opposition groups in Syria; (2) the Government of Syria's weapons stockpiles; and (3) current activities to provide assistance to Syria's political opposition.

Reports on exports of missile defense technology to certain countries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1235) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit reports to Congress on the types of assistance provided by the Department of Defense to countries that export certain space and missile-related technologies, and a description of such exports to other countries with certain space and missile-related programs.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitation on funds to provide the Russian Federation with access to missile defense technology

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1236) that would prohibit the availability of funds from being used to provide classified ballistic missile defense technology and data of the United States to the Russian Federation. The provision would also limit the availability of funds to provide other ballistic missile technology and data of the United States to the Russian Federation unless the President meets certain reporting requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 233) that would state it is the sense of Congress that it is in the national security interests of the United States to pursue efforts at missile defense cooperation with Russia that would enhance security, including the sharing of classified United States missile defense information.

The conference agreement does not include either of these provisions.

Limitation on assistance to provide tear gas or other riot control items

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1238) that would prohibit funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act to be used to provide tear gas or other riot control items to the government of a country undergoing a transition to democracy in the Middle East or North Africa unless the Secretary of Defense certifies to certain congressional committees that the security forces of such governments are not using excessive force to repress peaceful, lawful, and organized dissent.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that such items are typically purchased via direct commercial sale, not with funds from the Department of Defense, and that the Secretary of State has prevented the sale and transfer of such items in certain cases.

Limitation on funds for United States participation in joint military exercises with Egypt

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1240c) that would prohibit funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act from being made available for United States participation in joint military exercises with Egypt if the Government of Egypt terminates or withdraws from the 1979 Israeli-Egypt peace treaty.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitation on funds for institutions or organizations established by the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1240A) that would limit the use of funds for institutions or organizations established by the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Removal of Brigade Combat Teams from Europe

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1240B) that would authorize and request the President to end the permanent basing of United States Armed Forces on the territory of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) members nations in Europe and return the four Brigade Combat Teams currently stationed in Europe to the United States. The provision would also establish as U.S. policy that the deployment of armed forces on a rotational basis in Europe is a force structure arrangement sufficient to satisfy U.S. commitments under the North Atlantic Treaty, to address the current security environment, and contribute to peace and stability in Europe.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that there are significant advantages that come from European-based U.S. troops, including the opportunity to train regularly with ally and partner forces at U.S. training centers in Europe. The conferees further note, however, that the global strategic and U.S. fiscal environments require that the President and Congress carefully examine all overseas basing, including that in Europe, to determine what is the most effective overseas force posture for our national security at the lowest possible cost. The conferees therefore encourage the President and the Department of Defense to continue to look closely at the advantages and disadvantages associated with the forward deployment of U.S. troops in Europe and elsewhere. The conferees finally note that the President already has the authority to relocate U.S. forces based in Europe, making the authority that would be provided by the proposed section unnecessary.

Authority to establish program to provide assistance to foreign civilians for harm incident to combat operations of the Armed Forces in foreign countries

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1244) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish a program under which military commanders would be able, at their discretion, to provide assistance to foreign civilians who are harmed incident to U.S. combat operations abroad. Any assistance provided under the program would be ex gratia and would not be considered an acknowledgement of any legal obligation to provide compensation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that our military commanders have a number of authorities available to provide assistance to civilians who suffer harm in a combat zone. These include:

The Foreign Claims Act (FCA), which authorizes the payment of claims in connection with noncombat activities of U.S. military forces outside the United States. The FCA does not authorize compensation for losses resulting directly or indirectly from combat activities.

Solatia payments under section 2242 of title 10, United States Code, which authorizes payments to a victim or victim's family to express sympathy for an injury or loss suffered, when such payments are consistent with the local custom. These payments are not claims payments and are not based on any acceptance of legal liability by the United States.

Commanders' Emergency Response Program (CERP), which commanders in Iraq and Afghanistan have used to make ex gratia condolence or battle damage payments for harm caused by U.S. or coalition forces. Payments under CERP are provided as sympathy payments or to provide humanitarian relief to the victim or the victim's family.

These authorities have contributed greatly to promoting goodwill with the local populace in combat zones. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the operational plans for future contingency operations include, as appropriate, guidance on the authorities for and utilization of assistance to foreign civilians that are harmed incident to U.S. combat operations overseas.

TITLE XIV—OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

Subtitle A—Military Programs

Working capital funds (sec. 1401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1401) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and agencies of the Department of Defense for working capital and revolving funds, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1401).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

National Defense Sealift Fund (sec. 1402)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1402) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the National Defense Sealift Fund, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1402).

The House recedes.

Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense (sec. 1403)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1403) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1404).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, Defense-wide (sec. 1404)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1404) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, Defense-wide, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1405).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Defense Inspector General (sec. 1405)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1405) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for the Office of the Inspector General, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1406).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Defense Health Program (sec. 1406)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1406) authorizing appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Defense Health Program, as specified in the funding table in section 4501.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1403).

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle B—National Defense Stockpile

Authorized uses of National Defense Stockpile funds (sec. 1411)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1411) that would authorize funds in the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund established under subsection (a) of section 9 of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. 98h).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Additional security of strategic materials supply chains (sec. 1412)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1412) that would amend section 2(b) of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. 98a) to include language taking into account single points of failure.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Release of materials needed for national defense purposes from the Strategic and Critical Materials Stockpile (sec. 1413)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1411), as requested by the Department of Defense, that would authorize the President to delegate release authority of the National Defense Stockpile to the Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Chemical Demilitarization Matters

Supplemental chemical agent and munitions destruction technologies at Pueblo Chemical Depot, Colorado, and Blue Grass Army Depot, Kentucky (sec. 1421)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1421) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to consider using technologies, including explosive destruction technologies, to supplement the neutralization and destruction of the stockpile of lethal chemical agents and munitions at Pueblo Chemical Depot, Colorado, and Blue Grass Army Depot, Kentucky.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would include reporting requirements for the use of supplemental destruction technologies at Pueblo and Blue Grass.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Reduction of unobligated balances within the Pentagon Reservation Maintenance Revolving Fund (sec. 1431)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1421) that would recommend a transfer of $26.0 million in unobligated balances contained in the Pentagon Reservation Maintenance Revolving Fund to the Treasury of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Authority for transfer of funds to Joint Department of Defense-Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Facility Demonstration Fund for Captain James A. Lovell Health Care Center, Illinois (sec. 1432)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1422) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to transfer $139.2 million from the Defense Health Program to the Joint Department of Defense-Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Facility Demonstration Fund created by section 1704 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) for the operations of the Captain James A. Lovell Federal Health Care Center.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authorization of appropriations for Armed Forces Retirement Home (sec. 1433)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1423) that would authorize $67.6 million to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 from the Armed Forces Retirement Home Trust Fund for the operation of the Armed Forces Retirement Home.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1431).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Cemeterial expenses (sec. 1434)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1407) that would authorize appropriations for the Army Cemeterial Expenses for Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, at the level identified in section 4501 of division B.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The budget requested funds in the Army's military construction account and operations and maintenance accounts for expansion at Arlington National Cemetery (ANC). The conferees note that the Army's military construction account has historically not been used to authorize construction at ANC, and the conferees believe changing this precedent would not be in the best interest of ANC.

The conferees believe this funding is appropriately contained in the Cemeterial Expenses account and have therefore removed it from the military construction and operation and maintenance tables. This movement of funds should in no way be taken as a lack of support for expansion at ANC.

The conferees anticipate the appropriations committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives will move funding from the Army's military construction and operation and maintenance accounts to Cemeterial Expenses consistent with the authorization contained in this Act.

Additional Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams (sec. 1435)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1087) that would amend section 1043 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107-314) to authorize an additional two Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams (WMD-CSTs) beyond the 55 previously authorized.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1432).

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide notice to the congressional defense committees at least 90 days prior to disestablishing any of the 57 WMD-CSTs authorized by the provision.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Policy of the United States with respect to a domestic supply of critical and essential minerals

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1433) that would establish a policy to promote the development of an adequate, reliable, and stable supply of critical and essential minerals in the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the requirement for the inclusion of essential minerals was added into the modified strategy for the National Security Strategy for National Technology and Industrial Base section 2501 of title 10, United States Code.

TITLE XV—AUTHORIZATION OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR OVERSEAS CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS

Subtitle A—Authorization of Additional Appropriations

Purpose (sec. 1501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1501) stating the purpose of the title.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1501).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Procurement (sec. 1502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1502) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for procurement accounts for the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps, the Air Force, and Defense-wide activities, as specified in the funding table in section 4102.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1502).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Research, development, test, and evaluation (sec. 1503)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1503) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for research, development, test, and evaluation, as specified in the funding table in section 4202.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1503).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Operation and maintenance (sec. 1504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1504) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and other agencies of the Department of Defense for operation and maintenance, as specified in the funding table in section 4302.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1504).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Military personnel (sec. 1505)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1505) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and other agencies of the Department of Defense for military personnel, as specified in the funding table in section 4402.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1505).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Working capital funds (sec. 1506)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1506) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and other agencies of the Department of Defense for working capital and revolving funds, as specified in the funding table in section 4502.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1506).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Defense Health Program (sec. 1507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1507) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the use of the Armed Forces and other agencies of the Department of Defense for the Defense Health Program, as specified in the funding table in section 4502.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1507).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, Defense-wide (sec. 1508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1508) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, Defense-wide, as specified in the funding table in section 4502.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1508).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Defense Inspector General (sec. 1509)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1509) authorizing additional appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for the Department of Defense for the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Defense, as specified in the funding table in section 4502.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1509).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Financial Matters

Treatment as additional authorizations (sec. 1521)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1521) stating that the amounts authorized to be appropriated by this title are in addition to amounts otherwise authorized to be appropriated by this Act.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1521).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Special transfer authority (sec. 1522)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1522) that would provide the Department of Defense with $3.0 billion of special transfer authority in fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1522) that would provide the Department of Defense with $4.0 billion special transfer authority in fiscal year 2013.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle C—Limitations and Other Matters

Afghanistan Security Forces Fund (sec. 1531)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1533) that would extend through fiscal year 2013 the limitations under section 1513 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), as amended, on the availability of funds for the Afghanistan Security Forces Fund (ASFF). The provision would prohibit the use of fiscal year 2013 ASFF funds to support the Afghan Public Protection Force (APPF) until the Secretary of Defense makes a number of specific certifications to the congressional defense committees relating to the APPF, including with regard to the terms of the contracts entered into by the Department of Defense for APPF services; the level of support provided by the Afghan Ministry of Interior for the APPF; the conditions for end-use monitoring of APPF equipment; the mechanisms for controlling costs associated with APPF services; and the adequacy of APPF security for supply convoys. In addition, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct quarterly assessments of the APPF and report the results of those assessments to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1531) that would extend for fiscal year 2013 the requirement that funds available for the ASFF be subject to the conditions specified in section 1513 of Public Law 110-181, as amended. The provision would also explicitly authorize the use of ASFF funds during fiscal year 2013 to increase the capacity of the APPF. In addition, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees a plan for the continued use of the ASFF to build and sustain the Afghan National Security Forces (ANSF) through September 30, 2017.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to certify to the congressional defense committees, or report on why the certification cannot be made, regarding whether the APPF meets certain specified standards and whether the Commander, International Security Assistance Force/Commander United States Forces—Afghanistan has the ability to exercise oversight over APPF personnel, in particular when those forces are providing force protection at bases where U.S. Armed Forces personnel are garrisoned or housed. The Secretary would be required to make such a certification or report on a semi-annual basis. The amendment would also require the Secretary of Defense to provide a detailed report to the congressional defense committees assessing the APPF. The amendment would require that after the initial assessment report, subsequent assessments of the APPF be provided on a semi-annual basis, and can be included as part of the report on progress toward security and stability in Afghanistan submitted under sections 1230 and 1231 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181).

The conference provision retains the requirement for a plan to use the ASFF to build and sustain the ANSF through September 30, 2017.

The conferees urge the Department of Defense to engage with and encourage the APPF to take steps to meet all of the certification standards under this section that the Secretary of Defense determines the APPF have not met.

Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund (sec. 1532)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1531) that would authorize annual transfer authorities, expand current reporting requirements, and other associated activities for the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund (JIEDDF). The provision would also authorize the Secretary of Defense, in concurrence with the Secretary of State, to use funds from the JIEDDF for the purposes of monitoring, disrupting, and interdicting the movement of explosive precursors from a country that borders Afghanistan to locations within Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1532) that would authorize various transfer authorities, reporting requirements, and other associated activities for the JIEDDF, as well as require these authorities to expire on December 31, 2013. The provision would also make available to the Secretary of Defense not more than $15.0 million from the JIEDDF to provide training, equipment, services, and supplies to the Government of Pakistan for the purposes of countering the flow of improvised explosive device (IED) chemical precursors from Pakistan into locations in Afghanistan, or the Secretary of Defense may transfer these funds to the head of another Department or agency of the United States to be administered by that Department or agency for the specific purpose of countering the flow of IED chemical precursors from Pakistan into Afghanistan.

The House recedes with an amendment that would combine the two provisions with some modifications. The amendment would incorporate reporting requirements in the House bill; modify the expiration authority in the Senate amendment to only apply to the transfer authority; and adopt the limitation of the use of the JIEDDF for the particular purposes in the Senate amendment. The amendment would further require the Secretary to notify the congressional defense committees 15 days prior to obligating any funds and provide details on the specific training, equipment, services, and supplies to be provided to the Government of Pakistan, as well as include an evaluation of the effectiveness of efforts by the Government of Pakistan to counter the flow of IED chemical precursors into Afghanistan.

The amendment would also direct the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization (JIEDDO) to provide prior notice to the congressional defense committees of the obligation of funds from the JIEDDF and would require JIEDDO to include any associated analysis of alternatives (AoA) conducted in the process of taking action to initiate any project for which the total obligation of funds from the JIEDDF will exceed $10.0 million.

The conferees understand JIEDDO currently conducts a comparative analysis throughout their rapid acquisition process for all initiatives. It is not the intent of the conferees to impede this process or delay fielding needed capability to the warfighter by requiring an AoA reporting requirement. The conferees only require a summary of the alternatives be prepared and forwarded to the congressional defense committees when this information is available as part of JIEDDO's program development process.

The conferees also direct the Secretary of Defense to notify the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate as part of the notification requirement included in the amendment.

One-year extension of project authority and related requirements of Task Force for Business and Stability Operations in Afghanistan (sec. 1533)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1532) that would extend for 1 year the authority under section 1535 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383), as amended, for the Department of Defense Task Force for Business and Stability Operations (TFBSO). The provision would narrow the scope of projects that the TFBSO is authorized to carry out to those associated with Afghanistan's mining and mineral resources sector. The provision would also reduce the amount of funds available for TFBSO projects to $50.0 million for fiscal year 2013. In addition, none of these funds would be available until the Secretary of Defense notifies the appropriate congressional committees that the activities of the TFBSO will be transitioned to the Department of State by September 30, 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1534) that would extend for fiscal year 2013 the authority under section 1535 of Public Law 111-383, as amended, for the TFBSO and authorize the use of up to $93.0 million to carry out TFBSO projects.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that extends the TFBSO's authority through fiscal year 2013. Under the amendment, up to $93.0 million may be used for TFBSO projects, except that not more than $50.0 million may be available until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the appropriate congressional committees on the implementation of the TFBSO Transition Action Plan that was submitted to the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives in May 2012. The amendment does not include the restrictions in the House provision on the scope of projects that the TFBSO is authorized to carry out.

Plan for transition in funding of United States Special Operations Command from supplemental funding for overseas contingency operations to recurring funding under the future-years defense program (sec. 1534)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1533) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees, as part of the fiscal year 2014 budget request, with a plan to fully transition appropriate U.S. Special Operations Command funding from the overseas contingency operations budget to the base budget over the future-years defense program to maintain critical and enduring special operations capabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the plan within 90 days of enactment of this Act.

Assessment of counter-improvised explosive device training and intelligence activities of the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization and national and military intelligence organizations (sec. 1535)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1535) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct assessments of the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization's (JIEDDO) training activities and intelligence activities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the elements of the assessments.

Six years after the Department of Defense (DOD) established JIEDDO as its coordinating agency to lead, advocate, and coordinate responses to the improvised explosive device (IED) threat across the Department, according to the Government Accountability Office, DOD continues to experience fragmentation, overlap, and duplication in its counter-IED efforts. The conferees believe the Secretary of Defense should, in consultation with the appropriate DOD elements, conduct comprehensive assessments of the training and intelligence activities of JIEDDO and identify any areas of duplication and make a determination of whether duplication of effort is necessary to ensure mission success.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Limitation on the use of funds in Overseas Contingency Operations Transfer Fund

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1523) that would place limits on the use of funds in the Overseas Contingency Operations Transfer Fund in fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XVI—INDUSTRIAL BASE MATTERS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Defense Industrial Base Matters
Disestablishment of Defense Materiel Readiness Board (sec. 1601)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1601) that would repeal section 871 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) and disestablish the Defense Materiel Readiness Board.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 885).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Assessment of effects of foreign boycotts (sec. 1602)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1602) that would amend section 2505 of title 10, United States Code, to require that the annual industrial base report submitted by the Secretary of Defense pursuant to that section include an assessment of the impact of foreign boycotts on the national technology and industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment clarifying that the issue of foreign boycotts need be addressed only to the extent that such boycotts are subjecting the national technology and industrial base (or a sector of the national technology and industrial base) to significant harm.

National security strategy for national technology and industrial base (sec. 1603)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1604) that would require the Department of Defense (DOD) to develop a national security strategy for the national technology and industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Given the vast scope of the defense industrial base, the conferees realize that such a strategy will have to be tailored to the various sectors of the defense industrial base and understand that innovation timelines can vary significantly between sectors. In addition, the conferees strongly urge the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manufacturing and Industrial Base Policy to leverage to the maximum possible extent existing organizations, capabilities, and authorities within the DOD in the development and execution of this strategy.

Subtitle B—Department of Defense Activities Related to Small Business Matters

Role of the directors of small business programs in acquisition processes of the Department of Defense (sec. 1611)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1612) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure the participation of the directors of small business programs of the Department of Defense and the military departments in the requirements development and acquisition processes of the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure the participation of the directors of small business programs as early as possible in the acquisition processes of the Department.

The conferees understand that contract requirements and specifications can be drafted in a manner that is unnecessarily restrictive of competition or unnecessarily excludes small business. The directors of small business programs can and should play a key role in ensuring that the Department avoids such restrictive requirements and specifications.

Small Business Ombudsman for defense audit agencies (sec. 1612)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1613) that would require the Secretary of Defense to designate a small business advocate within the Defense Contract Audit Agency and the Defense Contract Management Agency.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the designation of small business ombudsmen and clarify the duties of the position to ensure that the activities of the new ombudsmen do not compromise audit independence or undermine compliance with applicable audit standards.

Independent assessment of Federal procurement contracting performance of the Department of Defense (sec. 1613)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1614) that would require the Secretary of Defense to enter into a contract with a federally funded research and development center to conduct an independent assessment of the procurement performance of the Department of Defense related to small business concerns.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) direct the Secretary to select an appropriate entity to conduct the independent assessment; and (2) streamline and clarify the matters to be addressed by the review.

The conferees note that the amendment does not include a requirement to review the potential for increased opportunities for contracting and subcontracting with small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans. The Department has informed the conferees that an independent assessment addressing this issue has already been completed by a federally funded research and development center and is currently in the review process.

Additional responsibilities of Inspector General of the Department of Defense (sec. 1614)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1616) that would require the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to conduct peer reviews of the defense audit agencies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the Inspector General may either conduct peer reviews or approve arrangement for the conduct of external peer reviews by other competent entities.

Restoration of 1 percent funding for administrative expenses of Commercialization Readiness Program of Department of Defense (sec. 1615)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1617) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to use not more than 1 percent of the funds available to the Department of Defense pursuant to the Small Business Innovative Research Program to cover expenses incurred to administer the Commercialization Readiness Program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle C—Matters Relating to Small Business Concerns

PART I—PROCUREMENT CENTER REPRESENTATIVES

Procurement center representatives (sec. 1621)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1621) that would amend section 15(1) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 644(1)) to strengthen and clarify the roles and responsibilities of Procurement Center Representatives (PCRs) in the acquisition process.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strengthen and clarify the roles and responsibilities of PCRs, while ensuring that the small business offices within the federal agencies serve as the primary advocates for small business during the pre-decisional acquisition planning processes of such agencies.

Small Business Act contracting requirements training (sec. 1622)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1622) that would require the Defense Acquisition University and the Federal Acquisition Institute to establish courses on contracting requirements under the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632 et seq.).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment deleting the requirement for a report by the Government Accountability Office.

Acquisition planning (sec. 1623)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1623) that would address the consideration of small business issues in the acquisition planning processes of federal agencies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify and streamline the provision. The conferees believe that early participation of small business specialists in the acquisition process should reduce protests, thereby speeding up the process, while improving small business opportunities.

PART II—GOALS FOR PROCUREMENT CONTRACTS AWARDED TO SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS

Goals for procurement contracts awarded to small business concerns (sec. 1631)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1631) that would amend section 15(g) of the Small Business Act (title 15 United States Code Subsection 644) to establish new goals for the participation of small business concerns in federal contracting.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strengthen incentives for federal agencies to contract with small business by recodifying certain provisions relating to small business contracting goals, tightening procedures for establishing such goals, and requiring federal agencies to develop concrete plans to meet such goals.

Reporting on goals for procurement contracts awarded to small business concerns (sec. 1632)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1632) that would establish enhanced federal agency reporting requirements relative to contracts awarded to small businesses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure that federal agencies are not required to establish new data collection systems for the purpose of meeting these requirements.

Senior executives (sec. 1633)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1633) that would require the incorporation of small business considerations into the training and evaluation of senior executives responsible for acquisition functions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require federal agencies to ensure that senior executives assume responsibility for the achievement of small business goals.

The conferees understand that one of the steps taken by the Department of Defense to ensure that senior officials assume responsibility for the achievement of small business contracting goals has been to include consideration of such goals in performance evaluations for such officials in appropriate circumstances. The conferees expect other federal agencies to adopt similar measures to comply with the requirements of this provision.

PART III—MENTOR-PROTEGE PROGRAMS
Mentor-Protégé programs (sec. 1641)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1641) that would provide a statutory and regulatory framework for mentor-protégé programs at federal agencies other than the Department of Defense (DOD). The provision would not apply to DOD programs, for which such a framework is already in place.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

PART IV—TRANSPARENCY IN SUBCONTRACTING
Limitations on subcontracting (sec. 1651)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1651) that would clarify statutory requirements limiting the extent to which work awarded pursuant to a small business contract may be performed by subcontractors.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Penalties (sec. 1652)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1652) that would strengthen penalties for violations of subcontracting limitations applicable to small business contractors.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subcontracting plans (sec. 1653)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1655) that would amend section 8(d) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 637(d)) to modify and strengthen the authorities of the Small Business Administration relative to the submission and enforcement of small business subcontracting plans.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 888) that would require the establishment of a new mechanism for reporting fraudulent activity or bad faith by prime contractors with respect to subcontracting plans.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strengthen requirements for collecting, reviewing, and evaluating information on prime contractor compliance with small business subcontracting plans, require the establishment of a new mechanism for reporting fraudulent activity or bad faith by prime contractors with respect to subcontracting plans, and require the Small Business Administration to submit an annual report on compliance with such plans.

Notices of subcontracting opportunities (sec. 1654)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1656) that would make a technical correction to section 8(k)(1) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 637(k)(1)), regarding notices of subcontracting opportunities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Publication of certain documents (sec. 1655)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1658) that would prohibit a federal agency, other than the Department of Defense, from insourcing a function that is being performed by a small business concern until the agency has published procedures and methodologies with respect to such insourcing decisions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Director of the Office of Management and Budget to publish procedures and methodologies to be used by federal agencies with respect to decisions to insource functions that are being performed by small business concerns.

PART V—SMALL BUSINESS CONCERN SIZE STANDARDS

Small business concern size standards (sec. 1661)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1661) that would clarify statutory provisions regarding size standards applicable to small business concerns.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

PART VI—CONTRACT BUNDLING
Contract bundling (sec. 1671)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1671) that would expand and modify the definition of bundled contracts and eliminate procedures related to contract consolidation under the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 657q).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure the applicability of contract consolidation procedures to construction contracts, ensure that government-wide consolidation procedures are fully applicable to the Department of Defense, and require the Government Accountability Office to review data and information regarding consolidated contracts awarded by Federal agencies.

PART VII—INCREASED PENALTIES FOR FRAUD
Safe harbor for good faith compliance efforts (sec. 1681)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1681) that would amend section 16(d) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 645(d)) to provide a "safe harbor" for certain firms that violate the prohibition against misrepresenting themselves as small businesses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide safe harbor for a firm that relies in good faith on a written advisory opinion provided by a Small Business Development Center or an entity participating in the Procurement Technical Assistance Program. Any such written advisory opinion would have to be submitted for review to the General Counsel of the Small Business Administration, which would have the authority to reject the opinion.

Requirement that fraudulent businesses be suspended or debarred (sec. 1682)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1683) that would clarify standards for the suspension or disbarment of entities that misrepresent themselves as small businesses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment clarifying that the publication requirement in subsection (d) of the provision applies only to the suspension and debarment procedures of the Small Business Administration.

Annual report on suspensions and debarments proposed by Small Business Administration (sec. 1683)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1684) that would require the Small Business Administration (SBA) to submit an annual report to Congress on suspension and debar-ment actions taken by the SBA in the previous year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

PART VIII—OFFICES OF SMALL AND DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS UNITS
Offices of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (sec. 1691)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1691) that would clarify the roles of the offices of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (SADBU) in federal agencies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify the experience necessary for directors of SADBU offices.

Small Business Procurement Advisory Council (sec. 1692)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1692) that would clarify the duties and structure of the Small Business Advisory Council established pursuant to section 7104 of the Federal Acquisition Streamlining Act of 1994 (15 U.S.C. 644).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

PART IX—OTHER MATTERS
Surety bonds (sec. 1695)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1695) that would raise the maximum surety bond amount that may be guaranteed by the Small Business Administration.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Conforming Amendments; Repeal of redundant provisions; Regulations (sec. 1696)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1653) that would make certain conforming amendments relative to limitations on subcontracting by recipients of small business contracts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment consolidating technical and conforming amendments from several provisions of the House bill.

Contracting with small business concerns owned and controlled by women (sec. 1697)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 848) that would modify rules for contracting with woman-owned small businesses pursuant to section 8(m) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. section 637(m)).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would strike language pertaining to the issue of economic disadvantage.

Small Business HUBZones (sec. 1698)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 889E) that would provide extended eligibility for the HUBZone program administered by the Small Business Administration (SBA) to base closure areas that were unable to avail themselves of the full 5-year term provided by law due to delays in processing by the SBA.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

National Veterans Business Development Corporation (sec. 1699)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1090) that would terminate the federal charter for the National Veterans Business Development Corporation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

State Trade and Export Promotion Grant Program (sec. 1699a)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1099E) that would make a technical change to the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 (15 U.S.C. 649b note) to address the inadvertent omission of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands from a trade and export promotion program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Advancing Innovation Pilot Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1603) that would establish a pilot program to accelerate the development and fielding of research innovations from qualifying institutions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees continue to maintain keen interest in ensuring that the Department of Defense (DOD) has robust and efficient mechanisms for transitioning scientific and technological innovation from research activities into system acquisitions and other programs of record that ultimately further DOD's missions. The conferees understand that the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics has initiated an effort to comprehensively review and streamline the acquisition system. The conferees applaud this review, and urge the Under Secretary to use this opportunity to review technology transition programs and funding mechanisms within the Department in order to eliminate poor performing or marginal initiatives, identify and strengthen those that function effectively, and consider initiating new programs should they be deemed necessary.

In addition, the conferees are also aware that the Department has recently issued a new instruction on the availability of samples, drawings, information, equipment, materials, and certain services to non-DOD persons and entities that should support Department-wide goals for technology transfer from DOD laboratories and engineering centers. The conferees fully support the goals of DOD Instruction 5535.11, which states that it is policy, "to promote research and development within the commercial sector of the U.S. economy, and the transfer of technology from the military to the commercial sector." The conferees also agree that "providing information or unique or scarce items to a private sector entity will significantly aid that entity's ability to engage in research critical to the development of a useful military or commercial technology," and should play a central role in any Department-wide strategy for technology transition. The conferees urge leadership within the Department to do more to socialize this new instruction with the private sector, academia, as well as DOD stakeholders, to ensure it is utilized to the maximum extent practicable.

Assessment of outreach for small business concerns owned and controlled by women and minorities required before conversion of certain functions to contractor performance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1696) that would require the Department of Defense to conduct outreach to certain categories of small businesses before outsourcing certain functions to private sector entities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect the Department of Defense to conduct outreach to all categories of small businesses and to other qualified entities before outsourcing functions performed by federal employees.

Assessment of small business programs transition

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1615) that would require that the Secretary of Defense select an entity outside the Department of Defense (DOD) to conduct an independent review and assessment of the transition of technologies developed by small business.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Government Accountability Office (GAO) is currently conducting a comprehensive body of work to assess how well the Department is managing, developing, and transitioning technologies across its science and technology enterprise. The first review, which is currently underway, assesses DOD and military service programs dedicated to facilitating the transition of technologies to major weapon acquisition programs or directly to the field. The conferees direct the Comptroller General to ensure that future GAO reviews performed under this body of work include an assessment of the transition of technologies developed by small businesses through the Small Business Innovative Research (SBIR) program, including: (1) an analysis of technologies developed under the SBIR program and the extent to which such technologies were incorporated into major weapon systems or major automated information systems; (2) an analysis of established or ad hoc procedures to allow program offices to monitor, evaluate, and transition small business-developed technologies into their programs; and (3) additional actions that may be needed to improve DOD and the military services' processes for monitoring, evaluating, and transitioning small business-developed technologies for use in major weapon systems or major automated information systems (including any appropriate data collection and measures of effectiveness and performance).

Government Accountability Office report

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1642) that would require a Government Accountability Office report on certain issues relative to mentor-protégé programs carried out by federal agencies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitation on contracting

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1697) that would prohibit a federal agency from entering into any contract unless a preference is given to small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Office of Hearings and Appeals

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1682) that would establish an Office of Hearings and Appeals within the Small Business Administration.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Pilot program to assist in the growth and development of advanced small business concerns

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1611) that would establish a pilot program under which certain contracts would be set aside for competition among advanced small business concerns.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees remain concerned by the difficulties that businesses have had after graduating from small business programs or growing to exceed the size standards for participation in such programs. A separate provision in this conference report would require an independent assessment of federal procurement contracting performance of the Department of Defense related to small business concerns. The assessment to be conducted pursuant to this provision would include an examination of the transition challenges faced by businesses that graduate from small business programs or grow to exceed the size standards for participation in such programs and provide recommendations on steps that should be taken to help ensure the continued health of such businesses.

Program to provide federal contracts to early stage small business

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1693a) that would establish a new procurement preference program for early stage small businesses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Regulations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1654) that would establish a timeline for the issuance of certain regulations implementing amendments made by this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the timeline for relevant guidance is addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Regulations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1657) that would establish a timeline for the issuance of certain regulations implementing amendments made by this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the timeline for relevant guidance is addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Repeal of redundant provisions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1672) that would repeal certain provisions relative to contract consolidation and bundling.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the issue of contract consolidation and bundling is addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Technical amendments

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1673) that would make technical amendments to section 15 of the Small Business Act (title 15, United States Code, subsection 644).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that technical amendments to the Small Business Act are consolidated in a separate provision.

TITLE XVII—END TRAFFICKING IN GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING
LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Definitions (sec. 1701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1702) that would provide definitions relative to human trafficking prohibitions and requirements for government contracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 896).

The Senate recedes.

Contracting requirements (sec. 1702)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1703) that would strengthen human trafficking prohibitions and requirements applicable to government contracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 893).

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the circumstances in which a contractor or subcontractor, labor recruiter or broker is required to pay for return transportation costs to an employee upon the end of employment. The conferees conclude that the payment of such costs is critical in the case of third-country nationals who are brought to countries like Iraq and Afghanistan to provide services under federal government contracts in support of overseas contingency operations.

Compliance plan and certification requirement (sec. 1703)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1704) that would require certain government contractors to develop plans to detect and avoid human trafficking.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 894).

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the applicability of the requirement.

Monitoring and investigation of trafficking in persons (sec. 1704)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1705) that would establish executive agency responsibilities and authorities for detecting and avoiding human trafficking under government contracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 895).

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the responsibilities and authorities of agency heads and inspectors general, clarify the discretion of inspectors general to determine whether alleged misconduct rises to a level that requires investigation, and ensure that only substantiated allegations are included in the government-wide database of contractor misconduct.

Notification to inspectors general and cooperation with Government (sec. 1705)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1706) that would require agency heads to notify the appropriate inspector general of any credible allegation of conduct in violation of human trafficking prohibitions and requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 896).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Expansion of penalties for fraud in foreign labor contracting to include attempted fraud and work outside the United States (sec. 1706)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1707) that would amend section 1351 of title 18, United States Code, to prohibit human trafficking in connection with U.S. Government contracts performed outside the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 897) that would also address the issue of the admittance of aliens to the United States in certain circumstances.

The House recedes.

Improving Department of Defense accountability for reporting trafficking in persons claims and violations (sec. 1707)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1708) that would clarify reporting requirements applicable to trafficking in persons cases under Department of Defense contracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 898).

The House recedes.

Rule of construction; effective date (sec. 1708)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1709) that would establish a rule of construction relative to the trafficking in persons provisions in this Act.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 899).

The House recedes with an amendment that would address the implementation and effective dates for provisions in this subtitle.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Short title

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1701) that would provide a short title for provisions of the bill addressing trafficking in persons.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 891).

The conference agreement does not contain the provisions.

TITLE XVIII—FEDERAL ASSISTANCE TO FIRE DEPARTMENTS

Subtitle A—Fire Grants Reauthorization

Short title (sec. 1801)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1801) that would state that this subtitle may be cited as the “Fire Grants Reauthorization Act of 2012.”

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Amendments to definitions (sec. 1802)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1802) that would amend definitions in this subtitle.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Assistance to firefighters grants (sec. 1803)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1803) that would amend section 33 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229) to provide assistance to firefighters grants.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Staffing for adequate fire and emergency response (sec. 1804)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1804) that would provide for adequate staffing of fire and emergency response.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Sense of Congress on value and funding of Assistance to Firefighters and Staffing for Adequate Fire and Emergency Response programs (sec. 1805)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1805) that would state the sense of Congress on the value and funding of assistance to firefighters and staffing for adequate fire and emergency response programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on amendments to assistance to firefighters and staffing for adequate fire and emergency response programs (sec. 1806)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1806) that would require a report on amendments to assistance to firefighters and staffing for adequate fire and emergency response programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Studies and reports on the state of fire services (sec. 1807)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1807) that would require studies and reports on the state of fire services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle B—Reauthorization of United States Fire Administration

Short title (sec. 1811)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1811) that would state that this subtitle may be cited as the “United States Fire Administration Reauthorization Act of 2012.”

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Clarification of relationship between United States Fire Administration and Federal Emergency Management Agency (sec. 1812)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1812) that would clarify the relationship between the United States Fire Administration and the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Modification of authority of Administrator to educate public about fire and fire prevention (sec. 1813)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1813) that would modify the authority of the Administrator of the United States Fire Administration to educate the public about fire and fire prevention.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 1814)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1814) that would authorize appropriations for the United States Fire Administration.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Removal of limitation (sec. 1815)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1815) that would remove a certain limitation on the Administrator of the United States Fire Administration.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

DIVISION B—MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZATIONS

Summary and explanation of funding tables

Division B of this Act would authorize funding for military construction projects of the Department of Defense (DOD). It includes funding authorizations for the construction and operation of military family housing as well as military construction for the reserve components, the defense agencies, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Security Investment Program. It would also provide authorization for the base closure accounts that fund military construction, environmental cleanup, and other activities required to implement the decisions in base closure rounds.

The following tables provide the project-level authorizations for the military construction funding authorized in Division B of this Act, other than the overseas contingency operations projects authorized in title XXIX, and summarize that funding by account. Funding for base closure projects is summarized in the table that follows, and is explained in additional detail in the table included in title XXVII of this report.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Short title (sec. 2001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2001) that would designate division B of this Act as the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2001).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Expiration of authorizations and amounts required to be specified by law (sec. 2002)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2002) that would ensure that the authorizations provided in titles XXI through XXVI shall expire on October 1, 2015, or the date of enactment of an act authorizing funds for military construction for fiscal year 2016, whichever is later.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2002).

The House recedes.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Effective date

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2003) stating the date titles XXI through XXVII shall take effect.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XXI—ARMY MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

BUDGET ITEM

Summary

The budget request included $192.0 million for a Cadet Barracks at the United States Military Academy (USMA). The conferees have significant concerns about the condition of the current cadet barracks at USMA. A provision in this title deals specifically with this project; however, the Army will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and therefore the conference agreement would reduce the authorization of appropriations by $106.0 million.

The budget request included $84.0 million for the Millennium Site cemetery expansion at Arlington National Cemetery (ANC). The conferees note that the Army's military construction account has historically not been used to authorize construction at ANC, and the conferees agree that changing this precedent would not be in the best interests of the Army or ANC. Therefore, the conference agreement would transfer the $84.0 million for this project to the Cemeterial Expenses account where it is fully funded.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorized Army construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2101) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Army for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2101).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment. The conferees note the authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Family housing (sec. 2102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2102) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Army for fiscal year 2013. It would also authorize funds for facilities that support family housing, including housing management offices and housing maintenance and storage facilities.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2102).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authorization of appropriations, Army (sec. 2103)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2103) that would authorize appropriations for the active component military construction and family housing projects of the Army for fiscal year 2013. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2013 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active duty component of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2103).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2010 project (sec. 2104)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2104) that would modify the authority to carry out a certain fiscal year 2010 project.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2104).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2009 projects (sec. 2105)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2105) that would extend the authorization for certain fiscal year 2009 projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2105).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2010 projects (sec. 2106)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2106) that would extend the authorization for certain fiscal year 2010 projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2106).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Extension of limitation on obligation or expenditure of funds for tour normalization (sec. 2107)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2107) that would extend the limitation to continue a tour normalization prohibition of funds included in section 2111 of the Military Construction Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitation on project authorization to carry out certain fiscal year 2013 project (sec. 2108)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2107) that would provide the Secretary of the Army authorization to carry out a military construction project to construct a cadet barracks at the U.S. Military Academy, New York.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would place a limitation on the use of funds for the project requiring the Secretary of the Army to submit, as part of the next future-years defense program, a plan for the renovation of the existing barracks inventory at West Point. The Secretary of the Army would also be required to certify that a contract has been awarded for the renovation of Scott barracks.

Conferees also note that while the project is listed as a barracks, the project should not be built to the Army one-plus-one standard but should conform to existing dormitory standards on campus.

TITLE XXII—NAVY MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

BUDGET ITEM

Summary

The budget request included $14.8 million for a Broad Area Maritime Surveillance Maintenance Training Facility at Naval Air Station Lemoore (Beale Air Force Base), California. The Department of the Navy has requested a change in location, which the conferees have accepted, for that project to Naval Base Ventura County (Point Mugu), California. This change would result in a $2.1 million reduction in the project.

The budget request included funding for four projects at Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti. These four projects represent $99.2 million in authorizations. The conference agreement would authorize the full amount for these projects in a separate account as Title XXIX of this Act.

The budget request included $280.0 million for the second increment of the Explosives Handling Wharf #2 in Naval Base Kitsap, Washington. The conferees understand that the Navy will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and the conference agreement would, therefore, reduce the authorization of appropriations for this project by $25.8 million.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorized Navy construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2201) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Navy for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2201).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment. The conferees note the authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Family housing (sec. 2202)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2202) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Navy for fiscal year 2013. It would also authorize funds for facilities that support family housing, including housing management offices and housing maintenance and storage facilities.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2202).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Improvements to military family housing units
(sec. 2203)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2203) that would authorize funding for fiscal year 2013 to improve existing family housing.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2203).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authorization of appropriations, Navy (sec. 2204)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2204) that would authorize appropriations for the active component military construction and family housing projects of the Navy for fiscal year 2013. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2013 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active-duty component of the Navy.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2204).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2012 project (sec. 2205)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2205) that would modify the authority provided in section 2201 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81) and authorize the Secretary of the Navy to make certain modifications to the scope of a previously authorized construction project.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2205).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2009 projects (sec. 2206)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2206) extending the authorization for certain fiscal year 2009 project.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2206).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2010 projects (sec. 2207)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2207) extending the authorization for certain fiscal year 2010 projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2207).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE XXIII—AIR FORCE MILITARY CONSTRUCTION
BUDGET ITEM

Summary

The conferees note that the budget request for the Air Force for military construction is considerably reduced this fiscal year. The Air Force has described this reduction as a 'strategic pause' in military construction. The conferees are concerned that this reallocation of budget authority may endanger the Air Force's ability to meet future military construction requirements.

The budget request includes $161.0 million for the second increment of the U.S. Strategic Command (STRATCOM) Replacement Facility at Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska. The conferees understand that the Department will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and the conference agreement would, therefore, reduce the authorization of appropriations for this project by $33.0 million.

The budget request included funding for two projects at Rota, Spain. The conferees have been informed that the Air Force no longer requires the Transient Contingency Dormitory or the Transient Aircraft Hangers, $17.6 million and $15.0 million, respectively, and the conference agreement would, therefore, eliminate funding for both projects.

The budget request, and the House bill included an authorization of $128.0 million for a hardened Fuel Maintenance Hangar at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, that was first included in the fiscal year 2012 budget request. The conferees note that incremental appropriations for this project were provided in the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2012 (P.L. 112-74).

The conferees have concerns about the costs associated with the hardening of facilities in the U.S. Pacific Command area of responsibility, but recognize the strategic value of Andersen Air Force Base and believe the Air Force should continue to ensure that the facilities at this location remain suitable for mission requirements.

The conference agreement would, therefore, include an authorization of $58.0 million for an unhardened Fuel Maintenance Hangar at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorized Air Force construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2301) that would authorize military construction projects for the active component of the Air Force for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2301).

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Family housing (sec. 2302)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2302) that would authorize new construction and planning and design of family housing units for the Air Force for fiscal year 2013. It would also authorize funds for facilities that support family housing, including housing management offices and housing maintenance and storage facilities.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2302).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Improvements to military family housing units
(sec. 2303)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2303) that would authorize funding for fiscal year 2013 to improve existing family housing.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2303).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authorization of appropriations, Air Force (sec. 2304)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2304) that would authorize appropriations for the active component military construction and family housing projects of the Air Force for fiscal year 2013. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2013 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active duty component of the Air Force.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2304).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2010 projects (sec. 2305)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2305) that would extend the authorization for certain fiscal year 2010 projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2305).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

TITLE XXIV—DEFENSE AGENCIES MILITARY CONSTRUCTION BUDGET ITEM

Summary

The conferees note that the previously classified location for a SOF Parachute Training Facility has been identified by the Department of Defense as Marana, Arizona.

The budget request included $300.5 million for the second increment of the High Performance Computing Center at Fort Meade, Maryland. The conferees understand that the National Security Agency (NSA) will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and the conference agreement would, therefore, reduce the authorization of appropriations for this project by $75.0 million. The conference agreement also includes a provision that would modify the authorization provided last year for this project. The conferees previously required the NSA to validate the cost of the project and are pleased that the updated request resulted in a $68.3 million reduction.

The budget request included $207.4 million for the fourth increment of the Hospital Replacement at Fort Bliss, Texas. The conferees understand that the Department will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and the conference agreement would, therefore, reduce the authorization of appropriations by $75.0 million.

The budget request included $80.7 million for the third increment of the Ambulatory Care Center at Joint Base San Antonio, Texas. The conferees understand that the Department will be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request and the conference agreement would, therefore, reduce the authorization of appropriations by $54.3 million.

The budget request included an authorization of $157.9 million and an authorization of appropriations in the same amount for an Aegis Ashore Missile Defense System Complex in Deveselu, Romania. The Department of Defense informed the conferees that after extensive planning and design, the actual authorization requirement would be $220.8 million, though the Department would be unable to obligate and expend the full amount of the budget request. Therefore, the authorization of appropriations in the conference agreement would be reduced by $37.9 million; however, the authorization would be increased to the newly requested amount.

The budget request included $30.0 million for infrastructure at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, to support construction of facilities for special operations forces. These projects are authorized in this Title. The conference agreement would eliminate the project in Title XXI and move the $30.0 million to the SOF Battalion Operations Facility project that the infrastructure was planned to support.

The conference agreement would eliminate this infrastructure project since the resulting infrastructure would not constitute a "complete and useable" facility as required by statute. The conferees are aware of the Major Force Program-11 rule to not provide for common service requirements and view this as an exception.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Defense Agency Authorizations
Authorized Defense Agencies construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2401) that would authorize military construction projects for the defense agencies for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2401).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorized energy conservation projects (sec. 2402)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2402) that would authorize certain energy conservation projects for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2402).

The Senate recedes.

The budget request included authorization of appropriations for $150.0 million for the Energy Conservation Investment Program (ECIP). The conferees note that the budget justification documents accompanying the budget request contained a list of projects by service that would be carried out with funds authorized for the ECIP account.

The conferees believe that greater transparency and oversight is required to ensure that the projects proposed in the budget request for ECIP are actually carried out. Therefore, the conferees have included in the table at section 4601 of this Act, a list of specific ECIP project authorizations that exceed $2.0 million that have been added to the military construction tables by project, name, and location.

The conferees recommend that future budget submissions conform to this protocol.
Authorization of appropriations, Defense Agencies (sec. 2403)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2403) that would authorize appropriations for military construction and family housing projects of the defense agencies for fiscal year 2013. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2013 military construction and family housing projects authorized for the active-duty component of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2403).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2012 projects (sec. 2404)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2404) that would modify the authority provided in section 2401 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81) and authorize the Secretary of Defense to make certain modifications to the scope of previously authorized military construction projects.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2405).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of authorization of certain fiscal year 2010 project (sec. 2405)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2405) that would extend the authorization listed until October 1, 2013, or the date of enactment of an act authorizing funds for military construction for fiscal year 2014, which-ever is later.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2404).

The conference agreement includes the provision.

Subtitle B—Chemical Demilitarization
 Authorizations

Authorization of appropriations, chemical demilitarization construction, defense-wide (sec. 2411)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2411) that would authorize appropriations for military construction projects for the chemical demilitarization program for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2411).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 1997 project (sec. 2412)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2412) that would modify the authority provided in section 2401 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (division B of Public Law 104-201) and authorize the Secretary of Defense to make certain modifications to the scope of a previously authorized construction project.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2412).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Additional authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2013 project

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2406) authorizing an Upgrade Fuel Pipeline at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, with certain limitations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XXV—NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION SECURITY INVESTMENT PROGRAM

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorized NATO construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2501) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to make contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Security Investment Program in an amount equal to the sum of the amount specifically authorized in section 2502 of this title and the amount of recoupment due to the United States for construction previously financed by the United States.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2501).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authorization of appropriations, NATO (sec. 2502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2502) that would authorize the U.S. contribution to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Security Investment Program.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2502).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE XXVI—GUARD AND RESERVE FORCES FACILITIES BUDGET ITEM

Summary

The budget request included $17.0 million for a Readiness Center at St. Paul, Minnesota. The Department of Defense has requested that the location of this Readiness Center be changed to Arden Hills, Minnesota. This request has been accepted in the conference agreement.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Project Authorizations and Authorization of Appropriations

Authorized Army National Guard construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2601)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2601) that would authorize military construction projects for the Army National Guard for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2601).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorized Army Reserve construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2602)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2602) that would authorize military construction projects for the Army Reserve for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2602).

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorized Navy Reserve and Marine Corps Reserve construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2603)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2603) that would authorize military construction projects for the Navy Reserve and the Marine Corps Reserve for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2603).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorized Air National Guard construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2604)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2604) that would authorize military construction projects for the Air National Guard for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2604).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorized Air Force Reserve construction and land acquisition project (sec. 2605)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2605) that would authorize military construction projects for the Air Force Reserve for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2605).

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

The authorized amounts are listed in this provision on an installation-by-installation basis. A State list of projects contained in the table in section 4601 of this Act provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Authorization of appropriations, National Guard and Reserve (sec. 2606)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2606) that would authorize appropriations for the reserve component military construction projects for fiscal year 2013. This provision would also provide an overall limitation on the cost of the fiscal year 2013 military construction projects authorized for the reserve components.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2606).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Other Matters

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2010 projects (sec. 2611)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2611) that would modify the authority provided in section 2601 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (division B of Public Law 111-84) and authorize the Secretary of the Army to make certain modifications to the scope of previously authorized construction projects.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modification of authority to carry out certain fiscal year 2011 projects (sec. 2612)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2612) that would modify the authority provided in section 2601 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (division B of Public Law 111-383) and authorize the Secretary of the Army to make certain modifications to the scope of previously authorized construction projects.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2613).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of authorization of certain fiscal year 2009 project (sec. 2613)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2613) that would extend the authorization for certain fiscal year 2009 military construction project.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2611).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Extension of authorization of certain fiscal year 2010 projects (sec. 2614)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2614) that would extend the authorization for certain fiscal year 2010 military construction projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2612).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE XXVII—BASE REALIGNMENT AND CLOSURE ACTIVITIES

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations for base realignment and closure activities funded through Department of Defense Base Closure Account 1990 (sec. 2701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2701) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 for ongoing activities that are required to implement the decision of the 1988, 1991, 1993, and 1995 Base Closure and Realignment rounds.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2701).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authorization of appropriations for base realignment and closure activities funded through Department of Defense Base Closure Account 2005 (sec. 2702)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2702) that would authorize military construction projects for fiscal year 2013 for ongoing activities that are required to implement the decisions of the 2005 Base Closure and Realignment round.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2702).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Other Matters

Consolidation of Department of Defense base closure accounts and authorized uses of base closure account funds (sec. 2711)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2711) that would strike sections 2906 and 2906A of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510) that establishes Treasury accounts for the Base Closure and Realignment rounds of 1991, 1993, 1995, and 2005, and would unify these Treasury accounts into a single Treasury account known as the “Department of Defense Base Closure Account.”

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require the Department of Defense to maintain accountability for expenses incurred to carry out the decisions of each round of base realignments and closures.

Revised base closure and realignment restrictions and Comptroller General assessment of Department of Defense compliance with codified base closure and realignment restrictions (sec. 2712)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2704) that would direct the Comptroller General to develop objective criteria to be used by the Department of Defense to make decisions relating to realignments of units employed at military installations that are not currently covered by section 2687 of title 10, United States Code.

The provision would also include a 1-year moratorium on implementing any realignment that would result in a military installation covered under section 2687 to no longer be covered by section 2687.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would create a moratorium on closing any installation for 5 years where any realignment has resulted in that installation previously covered under section 2687 to no longer be covered by section 2687.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Consideration of United States military bases located overseas in criteria used to consider and recommend military installations for closure or realignment

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2714) that would require consideration of United States military bases located overseas in criteria used to consider and recommend military installations for closure and realignment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Technical amendments to section 2702 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2703) that would make a technical amendment and a conforming amendment to section 2702 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81; 125 Stat. 1681).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes as the technical changes are contained in title X of this Act.

Prohibition on conducting additional Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) round

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2713) that would prohibit funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act from being used to propose, plan for, or execute an additional Base Realignment and Closure round.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Air Armament Center, Eglin Air Force Base

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2712) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain an Air Armament Center at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, with the same integrated mission elements, responsibilities, and capabilities as existed upon the completion of implementation of the recommendations of the 2005 Base Closure and Realignment Commission, until such time as it is modified pursuant to section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, or a subsequent law providing for the closure or realignment of military installations in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Air Force has embarked on a significant reorganization of the Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC) that the Secretary of the Air Force indicates will improve warfighter support, drive standard processes, improve life cycle acquisition management and reduce overhead. Specifically, the Air Force has proposed a reduction of more than 1,000 positions across the Command that represents an annual savings of more than $100.0 million. As the Air Force implements this reorganization, the conferees expect the Secretary to rigidly adhere to the reporting requirements contained in section 2687 of title 10, United States Code entitled “Base Closures and Realignment.” While the conferees believe that it is imperative to generate efficiencies across the entirety of the Air Force enterprise, the conferees also believe it is essential to preserve critical functions and capabilities at installations assigned to AFMC.

TITLE XXVIII—MILITARY CONSTRUCTION GENERAL PROVISIONS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Military Construction Program and Military Family Housing Changes

Authorized cost and scope variations (sec. 2801)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2801) that would amend section 2853 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify the authorizations for scope variations in military construction and family housing projects.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that the construction justification data provided to Congress each year by the Department of Defense for each military construction project includes a list of supporting facilities that are required to ensure a complete and useable primary facility or item of complete and useable infrastructure. These supporting facilities are listed as categories such as utility services, site preparation, special features, systems, or measures with corresponding scopes normally provided as lump sums, with the exception of demolition.

The conferees note that a list of supporting facilities should not contain separate or distinct facilities or complete and useable facilities. While the conferees understand the need for flexibility during the design process to determine the full extent of supporting facilities, the list of associated work and the categories provided under supporting facilities should be considered as the scope for the project.

In addition, the continued use of lump sums is not consistent with the intent of conferees to ensure Congress receives a clear and concise description of the costs and scope of the proposed construction prior to authorization. Therefore, the conferees expect that the construction justification data in future budget submissions will include, to the maximum extent practicable, a clearer estimate of the scope of each category of supporting facilities required to ensure a complete and useable facility or item of infrastructure.

Preparation of master plans for major military installations (sec. 2802)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2801) that would require installation master plans at a period not to exceed 10 years. Such plans shall address environmental planning, sustainable design and development, sustainable range planning, real property master planning, and transportation planning.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Oversight and accountability for military housing privatization projects and related annual reporting requirements (sec. 2803)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2802) that would provide additional oversight and accountability in the pursuit of military housing privatization projects to include an assessment of the financial viability of the long-term project, a resident satisfaction assessment and an assessment of the backlog of maintenance and repair. Furthermore, this section would delete several reporting requirements that were duplicative or obsolete and replace them with reporting requirements associated with the long-term viability of the family housing projects.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Extension of temporary, limited authority to use operation and maintenance funds for construction projects in certain areas outside the United States (sec. 2804)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2803) that would amend section 2808 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (division B of Public Law 108-136) and extend the Department's ability to use operation and maintenance appropriations for military construction purposes for the United States Central Command and Combined Joint Task Force-Horn of Africa area of responsibility until September 30, 2013.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2803).

The House recedes.

Comptroller General report on in-kind payments (sec. 2805)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2802) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report on the construction or renovation of Department of Defense facilities with in-kind payments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle B—Real Property and Facilities Administration

Clarification of parties with whom Department of Defense may conduct exchanges of real property at certain military installations (sec. 2811)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2812) that would amend section 2869(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, as amended by section 2815 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81), to change the party with whom a real estate exchange can be conducted.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2812).

The Senate recedes.

Identification requirements for access to military installations (sec. 2812)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2814) that would establish minimum identification requirements for entry onto all military installations and require the Department of Defense to take steps to enforce these requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Department of Defense to establish identification standards and requirements for entry onto military installations, and provide that these standards and requirements may vary between installations, or parts of installations, depending on the nature of the installation, the nature of the access granted, and the level of security required.

Report on property disposals at certain closed military installations and additional authorities to assist local communities in the vicinity of such installations (sec. 2813)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2813) that would provide an indemnification for properties transferred at closed military installations.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 313) that would require a report on property disposals.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Report on reorganization of Air Force Materiel Command organizations (sec. 2814)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2706) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the reorganization of Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC) organizations. The Secretary would be required to include an analysis of the extent to which the proposed changes in the Air Force management structure were coordinated with the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and the Director, Test Resource Management Center, and the degree to which their concerns, if any, were addressed in the approach selected by the Air Force. The Secretary would be required to submit the report not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would have the assessment apply more generically to OSD, since other offices within OSD have equities in AFMC organization and their management.

The conferees note that the Air Force has embarked on a significant reorganization of the Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC) that the Secretary of the Air Force indicates will improve warfighter support, drive standard processes, improve life cycle acquisition management and reduce overhead. Specifically, the Air Force has proposed a reduction of more than 1,000 positions across the Command that represents an annual savings of more than $100.0 million. As the Air Force implements this reorganization, the conferees expect the Secretary to rigidly adhere to the reporting requirements contained in section 2687 of title 10, United States Code entitled "Base Closures and Realignment." While the conferees believe that it is imperative to generate efficiencies across the entirety of the Air Force enterprise, the conferees also believe it is essential to preserve critical functions and capabilities at installations assigned to AFMC.

Subtitle C—Energy Security

Congressional notification for contracts for the provision and operation of energy production facilities authorized to be located on real property under the jurisdiction of a military department (sec. 2821)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2821) that would require the Department of Defense to notify Congress when entering into contracts for the provision and operation of energy production facilities on real property owned by the United States if the contract is longer than 20 years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Availability and use of Department of Defense energy cost savings to promote energy security (sec. 2822)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2823) that would amend section 2912(b)(1) of title 10, United States Code, to include consideration of energy security.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Continuation of limitation on use of funds for Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) gold or platinum certification (sec. 2823)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2822) that would continue the prohibition on the use of funds for Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design gold or platinum certifications for fiscal year 2013 set forth in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (Public Law 112-81). This section would also limit the use of funds for implementation of the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) building standard 189.1.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2822).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment. The amendment would limit the prohibition on the use of funds to Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design gold or platinum certifications for fiscal year 2013 until the submission of a required report and updated policy guidance from the Department of Defense (DOD).

The conferees note that while there is no prohibition limiting the use of funds for implementation of ASHRAE building standard 189.1, they expect DOD to not provide broad, sweeping policy guidance on the use of ASHRAE building standard 189.1 but rather utilize this standard on a project by project basis to maximize savings based on geographic locations and returns on investment through water and energy efficiencies, among other considerations.

Guidance on financing for renewable energy projects (sec. 2824)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2821) that would require the Department of Defense to issue guidance for financing renewable energy projects.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Energy savings performance contract report (sec. 2825)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 834) that would require the military departments to submit reports to the congressional defense committees on the use of energy savings performance contracts (ESPCs).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment requiring a single report by the Department of Defense (DOD), and clarifying the content of the required report.

The conferees note that DOD has encouraged the military services to increase the use of ESPCs to meet energy savings goals. Under section 8287 of title 42, United States Code, ESPC contracts provide for the contractor to incur the costs of implementing energy savings measures, including at least the costs (if any) incurred in making energy audits, acquiring and installing equipment, and training personnel, in exchange for a share of any energy savings directly resulting from the implementation of such measures.

Section 8287 provides for the use of ESPCs “solely for the purpose of achieving energy savings and benefits ancillary to that purpose.” While ESPCs are not available for the purpose of the construction of new buildings or facilities, the conferees note that in some cases, the installation of equipment meeting the standard of section 8287 requires the modification or repair of existing facilities, or the construction of ancillary facilities or infrastructure, to accommodate the equipment. In such cases, ESPCs may be used for the construction, repair, maintenance, or modification of facilities or infrastructure ancillary to the qualifying equipment. The conferees expect a detailed description of any facility work required to carry out an ESPC to be included in the report required by this section.

Subtitle D—Provisions Related to Asia-Pacific Military Realignment

Certification of military readiness need for a Live Fire Training Range Complex on Guam as condition on establishment of range complex (sec. 2831)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2832) that would prohibit the establishment of a firing range on the territory of Guam until the Secretary of Defense certifies that the firing range is required to meet a national security need.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Realignment of Marine Corps forces in the Asia-Pacific region (sec. 2832)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2833) that would strike a requirement of section 2207 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81) to obtain a coordinated federal agency plan that supports the civilian infrastructure on Guam, as well as a requirement in such Act to obtain tangible progress regarding the relocation of Marine Corps Air Station Futenma as a condition for moving forward with the Marine Corps realignment of forces to Guam.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2208) that would extend a prohibition on funds for construction activities to implement the realignment of Marine Corps' forces from Okinawa, pending the receipt of certain certifications and plans from the Department of Defense.

The House recedes with an amendment that would expand the exceptions for the use of funds through fiscal year 2013.

The conferees strongly support a robust U.S. military force posture in the Asia-Pacific region as the cornerstone of peace and stability and to underwrite the development of new economic and security partnerships.

One key initiative involves changes to the stationing of U.S. forces in Japan, and specifically Okinawa, in furtherance of the U.S.-Japan bilateral arrangement. The Defense Policy Review Initiative, as further detailed in the U.S.-Japan Alliance Transformation and Realignment for the Future and the 2006 U.S.-Japan Roadmap for Realignment Implementation agreement (‘Roadmap agreement’), laid out a series of U.S. force consolidations and base closures intended to improve the cooperation of the two allies, adjust the stationing of U.S. forces, and reduce the burden on local Japanese communities.

The conferees note that on April 27, 2012, the U.S.-Japan Security Consultative Committee issued a joint statement detailing changes to the plans for the realignment of Marines on Okinawa. Specifically, the U.S. and Japan separated the requirement of tangible progress on the construction of the Futenma Replacement Facility (FRF) from other Marine re-stationing efforts on Okinawa to return lands to local communities. Also, while the overall number of marines to leave Okinawa remained essentially the same as under the previous agreement (approximately 9,000), the new distributed laydown will result in fewer Marines being re-stationed to Guam with the remainder of the forces in Australia and Hawaii.

The conferees are encouraged by the adjustments to the Roadmap agreement that will allow the United States Marine Corps to establish and employ full Marine Air Ground Task Force (MAGTF) capabilities at multiple locations in the Asia-Pacific region. While the cost estimates for the construction and infrastructure plans at each location are preliminary, the conferees note that the Government of Japan has already transferred to the United States $834.0 million towards the agreed total contribution of $3.1 billion for construction activities to support the relocation of 4,700 Marines from Okinawa to Guam. Of the $834.0 million, $725.0 million remains unobligated in the U.S. Treasury and further expenditures are subject to negotiations and mutual agreement between the two Governments.

The conferees recognize the majority of construction required to relocate ground units from Okinawa to Guam cannot be carried out until the environmental impacts of the new plans for Guam and Hawaii are studied, which will take a number of years.

In the meantime, the conferees have been advised that updates to environmental studies are not required for the construction of infrastructure and facilities to support the relocation of a United States Marine Corps Combat Aviation Element to the north side of Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, as agreed upon in the Roadmap agreement, or to construct ground training facilities at Andersen South.

The conferees also note that the Marine Corps has recently increased the use of airspace ranges on and around Guam to meet Marine aviation training requirements in the Pacific theater. These training missions are accomplished through temporary deployments of Marine Air squadrons to Andersen Air Force Base that require ramp space and facilities shared with the U.S. Air Force.

The Marine Corps has proposed new facilities on the north ramp of Andersen Air Force Base and at Andersen South that would have military utility independent of the permanent relocation of Marines from Guam. These facilities can be used to meet current requirements of Marine units in the Pacific as well as the permanent stationing of a United States Marine Corps Combat Aviation Element at Andersen Air Force Base, as agreed upon in the Roadmap agreement.

As such, the conferees have modified the prohibition maintained by this section to allow for construction of a certain infrastructure project and for planning and design activities in fiscal year 2013 for the Marine Corps aviation infrastructure and facilities on the north ramp of Andersen Air Force Base and ground training facilities at Andersen South.

The conferees do not intend for these investments to be interpreted as an endorsement of the distributed laydown, as questions still remain about facility master plans, training requirements, and affordability in a fiscally constrained environment. The conferees also note that the new distributed laydown proposed for Marine Corps forces will require the completion of a concept of operations, an analysis of logistics requirements, and a plan for strategic lift for the MAGTFs to meet operational requirements.

The conferees are further concerned about the lack of formal timelines for the development of master plans and budgets for the completion of the realignments. This uncertainty increases the risk that a delay in investments or construction prolonged over 10 years or more will have a detrimental impact on the readiness and operational capabilities of the MAGTFs in the region.

Lastly, the conferees note that the updated agreement has separated the movement of Marines from Okinawa from the requirement for tangible progress on the construction of a replacement facility for Marine Corps Futenma on Okinawa. As such, there is not a clear plan or timeline to build the FRF at Camp Schwab in the Henoko area of Okinawa, and the Marine Corps will continue to operate from MCAS Futenma, a heavily-enclaved air base in the crowded Ginowan area of Okinawa. The MCAS Futenma facilities and infrastructure are in deteriorated condition due to the deliberate decision over a number of years to defer maintenance, repairs, and renovations in light of the eventual base closure.

The conferees are concerned that any decision to further delay the construction of an FRF without a plan to provide for safe, secure facilities at MCAS Futenma will put Marines, their families, and people in the local community at risk. Accordingly, the conferees support an expanded investment profile for the maintenance and repair of facilities at MCAS Futenma until such time as an alternative basing strategy can be developed to replicate the capabilities provided by MCAS Futenma.

Subtitle E—Land Conveyances

Modification of authorized consideration, Broadway Complex of the Department of the Navy, San Diego, California (sec. 2841)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2842) that would modify section 2732 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1987 (division B of Public Law 99-661) to expand the Secretary of the Navy's ability to use the proceeds from the Broadway Complex, San Diego, California, lease to construct real property.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Use of proceeds, land conveyance, Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida (sec. 2842)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2832) that would modify the authorities for use of proceeds of a land conveyance at Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Land conveyance, John Kunkel Army Reserve Center, Warren, Ohio (sec. 2843)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2843) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, without consideration, the John Kunkel Army Reserve Center, Warren, Ohio, to the Village of Lordstown for public purposes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Land conveyance, Castner Range, Fort Bliss, Texas (sec. 2844)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2844) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey the Castner Range at Fort Bliss, Texas, to the Parks and Wildlife Department of the State of Texas for the purpose of establishing an additional element of the Franklin Mountains State Park.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Modification of land conveyance, Fort Hood, Texas (sec. 2845)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2845) that would modify a land conveyance at Fort Hood, Texas, that was provided in the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (division B of Public Law 108-375). Specifically, the Secretary of the Army would be authorized to expand the Texas A&M University, Central Texas, to include elements that the University System of the State of Texas considers appropriate.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Land conveyance, Local Training Area for Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah (sec. 2846)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2831) that would authorize the conveyance of real property at Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle F—Other Matters

Modification of notice requirements in advance of permanent reduction of sizable numbers of members of the Armed Forces at military installations (sec. 2851)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2872) that would modify notice requirements in advance of permanent reduction of sizable numbers of members of the armed forces at military installations.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2705).

The House recedes.

Acceptance of gifts and services to support military museum programs and use of cooperative agreements with nonprofit entities for military museum and military educational institution programs (sec. 2852)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2811) that would amend chapter 155 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize service secretaries to accept services from nonprofit entities to support a military museum program, clarify authority to solicit and accept gifts for military museums, authorize the lease of military museum property to nonprofit entities for purposes related to the military museum program, and to enter into cooperative agreements with nonprofit entities to support a military museum program.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 582(c)) that would authorize military museums to enter into cooperative agreements with certain nonprofit entities.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Additional exemptions from certain requirements applicable to funding for data servers and centers (sec. 2853)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2844) providing an exemption to the High Performance Computing Modernization Program from certain requirements by the Department of Defense (DOD) Chief Information Officer relating to data servers and centers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the DOD High Performance Computing Modernization Program was initiated in response to congressional direction to modernize the DOD laboratories' high performance computing capabilities. The conferees are aware that this program has a well-established process for identifying and monitoring investment for these high performance computing capabilities in a manner that reduced unwarranted duplication.

Redesignation of the Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies as the William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies (sec. 2854)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2862) that would, as requested by the Department of Defense, redesignate the Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies as the William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1081).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Sense of Congress regarding establishment of military divers memorial at Washington Navy Yard (sec. 2855)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2863) that would express the sense of Congress that the Navy should provide an appropriate site at the former Navy Dive School at the Washington Navy Yard for a memorial to honor the members of the armed forces who have served as divers and whose service in defense of the United States has been carried out beneath the waters of the world.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Limitation on availability of funds pending report regarding acquisition of land and development of a training range facility adjacent to the Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center Twentynine Palms, California (sec. 2856)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2870) that would limit the availability of funds pending the submission of a report regarding the acquisition of land and development of a training range facility adjacent to the Marine Corps Ground Air Combat Center Twenty Nine Palms, California.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Oversight and maintenance of closed base cemeteries overseas containing the remains of members of the Armed Forces or citizens of the United States (sec. 2857)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2843) that would require notification to the congressional defense committees with respect to oversight and maintenance of base cemeteries following the closure of overseas military installations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on establishment of joint Armed Forces historical storage and preservation facility (sec. 2858)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1065) that would require a report on the establishment of a joint armed forces historical storage and preservation facility.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Establishment of commemorative work to Gold Star Mothers (sec. 2859)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2864) that would require the Secretary of the Army to permit the Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation to establish a Gold Star Mothers National Monument in Arlington National Cemetery or on federal land under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army in the vicinity of Arlington National Cemetery.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Gold Star Mothers National Monument Foundation to establish a commemorative work on eligible federal land to commemorate the sacrifices made by mothers, and made by their sons and daughters who as members of the armed forces make the ultimate sacrifice in defense of the United States. The establishment of the commemorative work must comply with chapter 89 of title 40, United States Code, and other federal laws and regulations.

Establishment of commemorative work to slaves and free Black persons who served in American Revolution (sec. 2860)

The Senate amendment contained provisions (sections 1901-1904) that would authorize the establishment of a commemorative work on federal land in the District of Columbia to honor slaves and free black persons who served as soldiers and sailors or who provided civilian assistance during the American Revolution.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that the establishment of the commemorative work comply with chapter 89 of title 40, United States Code, and other federal laws and regulations, and that would make other technical and conforming changes.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Modification to authorized land conveyance and exchange, Joint Base Elmendorf Richardson, Alaska

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2841) that would modify section 2851 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (division B of Public Law 112-81) and would change the lead agency responsible for completing the land conveyance and exchange at Joint Base Elmendorf Richardson, Alaska, from the Secretary of the Air Force to the Secretary of the Interior.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of administrative jurisdiction, Fort Lee Military Reservation and Petersburg National Battlefield, Virginia

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2846) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Interior to enter into a land exchange for 1.170 acres of real property at the Fort Lee Military Reservation, Virginia, and the Petersburg National Battlefield, Virginia.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2842).

The conference agreement does not include the provisions in response to objections by committees of jurisdiction.

Naming of training and support complex, Fort Bragg, North Carolina

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2865) that would name the training and support complex at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, the "Colonel Robert Howard Training and Support Complex".

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conference agreement fails to include the provision without prejudice. The conferees believe that the naming of facilities and infrastructure is appropriately done under existing policy and procedures of the Department of Defense.

Naming of electrochemistry engineering facility, Naval Support Activity Crane, Crane, Indiana

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2866) that would rename the electrochemistry engineering facility on Naval Support Activity Crane, Crane, Indiana, as the "John Hostettler Electrochemistry Engineering Facility".

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes. The conference agreement fails to include the provision without prejudice. The conferees believe that the naming of facilities and infrastructure is appropriately done under existing policy and procedures of the Department of Defense.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology—Lincoln Laboratory improvement project

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2869) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into discussions with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a project to improve and modernize the Lincoln Laboratory complex at Hanscom Air Force Base, Massachusetts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

As a federally funded research and development center sponsored by the Department of Defense, Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincoln Laboratory conducts research and develops technologies that address critical national security challenges.

The conferees note that Lincoln Laboratory's facilities at Hanscom Air Force Base are in need of improvement and modernization in order to carry out their mission. The conferees believe that the Secretary of the Air Force has existing authorities under section 2667 of title 10, United States Code, to carry out improvements and modernization of the Lincoln Laboratory complex at Hanscom Air Force Base, Massachusetts.

The conferees encourage the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into discussions with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to carry out such improvements and modernizations as the Secretary determines to be appropriate.

Clarification of authority of Secretary to assist with development of public infrastructure in connection with the establishment or expansion of a military installation

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2841) that would require specific authorization of any grant, cooperative agreement, or supplement of funds available under federal programs administered by agencies other than the Department of Defense that result in the development of public infrastructure.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that, in recent years, the Office of Economic Adjustment has entered into a number of cooperative agreements or awarded grants for infrastructure projects that were not included in the budget request.

The conferees, therefore, request the Department of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act describing all such projects carried out since fiscal year 2001, and describing whether they were included in the President's budget request for the fiscal year in which funds were appropriated for their use. The report should also describe whether the project was completed on time and on budget according to the original contract amount for the project.

Use of operation and maintenance funding to support community adjustments related to realignment of military installations and relocation of military personnel on Guam

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2831) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to assist the Government of Guam in meeting the costs of providing increased municipal services and facilities associated with the realignment of military forces to the territory of Guam. This authorization would be provided if the Secretary determines that an unfair and excessive financial burden will be incurred by the Government of Guam to provide the services and facilities in the absence of the Secretary's assistance. This authority would expire on September 30, 2020.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to submit a review of public infrastructure required to support the realignment of U.S. Armed Forces to Guam and report to the congressional defense committees by June 1, 2013.

The report should provide an assessment of public infrastructure projects that have received federal funding to date that are intended to directly or indirectly support the realignment of U.S. Armed Forces to Guam. The assessment should also include a description of each project, the source of federal funds for each project, and the requirement for each project.

In addition, the review shall provide an assessment of public infrastructure projects that may be required to directly or indirectly support the realignment of Marines from Okinawa to Guam that could, under existing federal law, receive funding from the Federal Government. The assessment shall include a description of each project, the potential source of all funds for each project, the estimated cost, and whether projects funded by federal sources fall within the responsibility of a federal department or agency.

Inclusion of religious symbols as part of military memorials

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2861) that would add a new section to chapter 21 of title 36, United States Code, and would authorize the inclusion of religious symbols as part of a military memorial that is established or acquired by the U.S. Government. This section would also authorize the inclusion of religious symbols on certain military memorials that are not established by the U.S. Government.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Use of project labor agreements in military construction projects and military family housing projects

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2806) that would prohibit the use of project labor agreements in military construction projects and military family housing projects.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Definition of renewable energy source for Department of Defense energy security

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2824) that would amend section 2924(7)(A) of title 10, United States Code, to categorize direct use solar technologies as a type of renewable energy source for the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Execution of the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement nuclear facility and limitation on alternate plutonium strategy

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2805) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA), to request such funds in fiscal year 2014 and subsequent fiscal years under the military construction authority provided by section 2804 of the House bill to ensure the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement (CMRR) nuclear facility achieves full operational capability by 2024. Finally, this section would limit any funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or any other Act from being obligated or expended on any activities associated with a plutonium strategy for the NNSA that does not include achieving full operational capability of the CMRR nuclear facility by fiscal year 2024.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that sec. 3114 of the conference agreement would require the Secretary of Energy to carry out the CMRR project and limits funding from being obligated or expended on any activities associated with a plutonium strategy that does not include achieving full operational capability of the CMRR facility by 2026.

Treatment of certain defense nuclear facility construction projects as military construction

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2804) that would mandate that certain construction projects of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) be deemed military construction projects and require that such projects therefore be subject to: (1) the advance-project authorization requirement of section 2802(a) of title 10, United States Code, and other requirements of chapter 169 of such title related to military construction projects carried out by the Secretary of Defense; and (2) annual acts authorizing military construction projects (and authorizing the appropriation of funds therefor) for a fiscal year. This section would also require that the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building Replacement (CMRR) project, in Los Alamos, New Mexico, the Uranium Processing Facility (UPF) project, in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and any nuclear facility of the NNSA initiated on or after October 1, 2013, that is estimated to cost more than $1.0 billion (and is intended to be primarily utilized to support NNSA's nuclear weapons activities), be treated as military construction projects. Further, this section would authorize, as military construction, the CMRR project in the amount of $3.5 billion and the UPF project in the amount of $4.2 billion.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Authority to accept as consideration for leases of non-excess property of military departments and defense agencies real property interests and natural resource management services related to agreements to limit encroachment

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2811) that would amend section 2667 of title 10, United States Code, to allow authorities under the enhanced use lease program to be used to develop buffer areas around military installations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Plan to protect Department of Defense critical assets from electromagnetic pulse weapons

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2815) that would require the Department of Defense to provide a plan to protect defense critical assets and other equipment at military facilities from the adverse effects of electromagnetic pulse (EMP) and high-powered microwave weapons.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense is already planning to provide the congressional defense committees with a number of reports related to planning and preparations for potential EMP events, including reports required by section 1048 of the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009 (Public Law 110-417), and the report required by the House report (H. Rept. 112-78) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2012 (H.R. 1540).

The conferees note that the first report required by section 1048, submitted in February 2011, included a detailed discussion of the Department's plans, programs, and processes, in place and planned, for protecting the Department's mission critical systems against potential EMP attack. The Department updated this information in the second report required by section 1048, submitted in January 2012. Furthermore, the conferees understand that the Department plans to provide additional information on the status of the Department's programs and plans to protect its mission critical systems against possible EMP attack in future versions of the reports required under section 1048. These reports will include information on the implementation of Department of Defense Instruction 3150.09, the "Chemical, Biological, Radiological, and Nuclear Survivability Policy," and any updates to that policy, including information relating to the protection of mission critical systems and their associated facilities against EMP attack. The conferees understand that these reports will also include a discussion of the Department's strategy and planning for mission assurance related to defense critical assets, as defined by Department of Defense Directive 3020.40 titled "DoD Policy and Responsibilities for Critical Infrastructure." The conferees direct the Department to include with the next report required by section 1048 an assessment of the defense critical asset program's ability to withstand an electromagnetic pulse. The conferees further direct the Department to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees, not later than March 15, 2013, on implementation of its mission assurance strategy, particularly as it pertains to defense critical assets.

Retention of core functions of the Electronic Systems Center at Hanscom Air Force base, Massachusetts

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2867) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain the core functions of the Electronic Systems Center at Hanscom Air Force Base, Massachusetts, with the same integrated mission elements, responsibilities, and capabilities as existed as of November 1, 2011, until such time as such integrated mission elements, responsibilities, and capabilities are modified pursuant to section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, or a subsequent law providing for the closure or realignment of military installations in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1710) that would levy the same requirement on the Secretary of the Air Force until 180 days after the National Commission on the Structure of the Air Force submits its report to the congressional defense committees.

The conference agreement does not include the provisions. The conferees note that the Air Force has embarked on a significant reorganization of the Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC) that the Secretary of the Air Force indicates will improve warfighter support, drive standard processes, improve life cycle acquisition management and reduce overhead. Specifically, the Air Force has proposed a reduction of more than 1,000 positions across the Command that represents an annual savings of more than $100.0 million. As the Air Force implements this reorganization, the conferees expect the Secretary to rigidly adhere to the reporting requirements contained in section 2687 of title 10, United States Code entitled "Base Closures and Realignment." While the conferees believe that it is imperative to generate efficiencies across the entirety of the Air Force enterprise, the conferees also believe it is essential to preserve critical functions and capabilities at installations assigned to AFMC.

Retention of core functions of the Air Force Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2868) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain the core functions of the Air Force Materiel Command that exist at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, as of November 1, 2011, until such time as such core functions are modified pursuant to section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, or a subsequent law providing for the closure or realignment of military installations in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Air Force has embarked on a significant reorganization of the Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC) that the Secretary of the Air Force indicates will improve warfighter support, drive standard processes, improve life cycle acquisition management and reduce overhead. Specifically, the Air Force has proposed a reduction of more than 1,000 positions across the Command that represents an annual savings of more than $100.0 million. As the Air Force implements this reorganization, the conferees expect the Secretary to rigidly adhere to the reporting requirements contained in section 2687 of title 10, United States Code entitled "Base Closures and Realignment." While the conferees believe that it is imperative to generate efficiencies across the entirety of the Air Force enterprise, the conferees also believe it is essential to preserve critical functions and capabilities at installations assigned to AFMC.

Retention of core functions of the Air Traffic Control Station, Johnstown Air National Guard Base, Pennsylvania

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2871) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to retain the core functions of the Air Traffic Control Station at Johnstown Air National Guard Base, Pennsylvania, with the same integrated mission elements, responsibilities, and capabilities as existed as of November 1, 2011, until such time as such integrated mission elements, responsibilities, and capabilities are modified pursuant to section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, or a subsequent law providing for the closure or realignment of military installations in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XXIX—OVERSEAS CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS MILITARY CONSTRUCTION LEGISLATIVE PROVISION ADOPTED

Authorized Navy construction and land acquisition project (sec. 2901)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2901) that would contain the list of authorized Navy construction projects for fiscal year 2013.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment. The authorized amounts are listed on an installation by installation basis. The list contained in this report is intended to be the binding list of the specific projects authorized at each location.

DIVISION C—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY
NATIONAL SECURITY AUTHORIZA-
TIONS AND OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE XXXI—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY
NATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAMS

Subtitle A—National Security Programs
Authorizations

Overview

Title XXXI would authorize appropriations for atomic energy defense activities of the Department of Energy for fiscal year 2013, including: the purchase, construction, and acquisition of plant and capital equipment; research and development; nuclear weapons activities; nuclear nonproliferation activities; naval nuclear propulsion; environmental cleanup; operating expenses; and other expenses necessary to carry out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91). This title would authorize appropriations in five categories: (1) National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA); (2) defense environmental cleanup; (3) other defense activities; (4) defense nuclear waste disposal; and (5) energy security and assurance. National Nuclear Security Administration (sec. 3101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $11.9 billion for the NNSA, an increase of $401.6 million above the budget request.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $11.6 billion for the NNSA, an increase of $38.0 million above the budget request.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize $11.6 billion for the NNSA, an increase of $78.3 million above the budget request.

Within NNSA, the provision would authorize $7.7 billion for weapons activities, an increase of $80.6 million above the budget request; $2.5 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation, an increase of $27.0 million above the budget request; $1.1 billion for naval reactors, the amount of the budget request; and $382.0 million for the Office of the Administrator, a decrease of $29.3 million below the budget request.

Within weapons activities, for directed stockpile work the provision would authorize $2.1 billion, an increase of $59.0 million above the budget request. For campaigns, the provision would authorize $1.7 billion, an increase of $32.0 million above the budget request. For readiness in the technical base and facilities, the provision would authorize $2.2 billion, the amount of the budget request.

Within defense nuclear nonproliferation, for nonproliferation and verification research and development the provision would authorize $548.2 million, the amount of the budget request. For nonproliferation and international security, the provision would authorize $150.1 million, the amount of the budget request. For international nuclear materials protection and cooperation, the provision would authorize $311.0 million, the amount of the budget request. For fissile materials disposition, the provision would authorize $921.3 million, the amount of the budget request. For the Global Threat Reduction Initiative, the provision would authorize $493.0 million, an increase of $27.0 million above the budget request.

Defense environmental cleanup (sec. 3102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 defense environmental cleanup activities at $5.4 billion.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 defense environmental cleanup activities at $5.0 billion.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 defense environmental cleanup activities at $5.0 billion.

Other defense activities (sec. 3103)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 other defense activities at $685.7 million.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 other defense activities at $735.7 million.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2013 other defense activities at $731.3 million.

Subtitle B—Program Authorizations,
Restrictions, and Limitations

Authorized personnel levels of the Office of the Administrator (Sec. 3111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would amend the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2401 et seq) by creating a new section 3241A that would limit the total number of employees of the National Nuclear Security Administration's (NNSA) Office of the Administrator. The total number of employees of the Office of the Administrator, as determined on a full-time equivalent basis, would be limited to 1,730 beginning 180 days after enactment of this Act, and 1,630 beginning October 1, 2014. This section would exclude from counting toward this limit the employees of the Office of Naval Reactors, the employees of the Office of Secure Transportation, and members of the Armed Forces who are detailed to NNSA. This section would also amend section 3241 of the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (50 U.S.C. 2441) to increase from 300 to 450 the number of scientific, engineering, and technical positions in the NNSA.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3118) that would amend section 3241 of the National Nuclear Security Act (50 U.S.C. 2441) by increasing the ability of the Administrator to hire up to 700 contracting, scientific, engineering, and technical positions under hiring authorities used by the former Atomic Energy Commission (42 U.S.C. 2201(d)).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would cap the number of full time employees to 1,825 by October 1, 2014. Thereafter, the Administrator would not be authorized to exceed this total number of employees unless the Administrator submits a report to the congressional defense committees. The amendment would also increase the number of excepted positions to 600 and allow such positions to include contracting and program management. The conferees intend contracting and program management to include budget planning expertise. Finally, the amendment requires the Administrator to ensure that the expertise of the national security laboratories and the nuclear weapons production facilities is available to government agencies by maintaining a robust program of temporary assignments through the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970 (5 U.S.C. 3371 et seq) and other similar programs.

Budget justification materials (sec. 3112)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3112) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to include in the annual budget request, beginning with fiscal year

2014, an assessment of how that budget maintains the core nuclear weapons skills of its personnel, including nuclear weapons design, engineering, production, testing, and prediction of stockpile aging.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

National Nuclear Security Administration Council (sec. 3113)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3114) that would amend section 4102 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2512) to streamline statutory requirements related to the management structure of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA). This section would also reform and broaden the mandate of the Defense Programs Management Council and rename it the "National Nuclear Security Administration Council". The Council would advise the Administrator for Nuclear Security on scientific and technical issues related to policy matters, and on operational concerns, strategic planning, and development of priorities related to the nuclear security enterprise and to the mission and operations of the NNSA. The Council would be composed of the directors of NNSA's national security laboratories and nuclear weapons production facilities. This section would also provide the Council the authority to provide recommendations to the Administrator or the Secretary of Energy, and would require the Administrator or the Secretary to provide a response to the Council within 60 days of receiving such a recommendation.

The Senate amendment included no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Replacement project for Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building, Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico (sec. 3114)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would direct the Secretary of Energy and the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to construct a building to replace the functions of the existing Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building at Los Alamos National Laboratory associated with Department of Energy (DOE) Hazard Category 2 special nuclear material operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize $70.0 million for restarting design and engineering of the replacement for the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Building, which was "deferred for at least 5 years" in February 2012. The amendment requires that no funds shall be obligated or expended for a plutonium strategy that does not include achieving full operational capability of the replacement facility by December 31, 2026. The Nuclear Weapons Council has stated the replacement facility must be operational by 2028-2030. Furthermore, the amendment directs the Deputy Administrator for Naval Reactors to submit a report on the replacement project to the congressional defense committees not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act analyzing the cost, benefits, and risks with respect to nuclear safety and recommendations on project structure, oversight model, and potential cost savings. Lastly, the amendment allows for the Secretary of Energy to incorporate such recommendations into the project as the Secretary considers appropriate.

Design and use of prototypes of nuclear weapons (sec. 3115)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3116) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to develop and carry out a plan for the national nuclear weapons laboratories and nuclear weapons production plants to design and build prototypes of nuclear weapons to further intelligence assessments of foreign nuclear weapons activities. This section would also prohibit the Administrator from conducting any experiment that would produce a nuclear yield.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Two-year extension of schedule for disposition of weapons-usable plutonium at Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina (sec. 3116)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3122) that would provide a 2 year extension to the schedule for the disposition of weapons-usable plutonium at the Savannah River Site, located in Aiken, South Carolina.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3113).

The House recedes.

Transparency in contractor performance evaluations by the National Nuclear Security Administration leading to award fees (sec. 3117)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3157) that expressed the sense of Congress that the use of competition of management and operating contracts at the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) has resulted in significant increases in award fees to the contractors and that the NNSA Administrator should ensure that such fees are as low as possible while maintaining the focus on national service and attracting high quality contractors.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3117) that would require the NNSA Administrator to publish, to the maximum extent practicable, the performance evaluations developed by its site offices that result in award fees to contractors. The provision also requires that future publications of performance evaluations adhere to a common format to facilitate comparisons of evaluations between similar contracts.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees direct the NNSA Administrator to provide a report to Congress not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act regarding how the NNSA ensures the fees to its management and operating contractors are as low as possible while maintaining focus on national service and attracting high quality contractors to operate its laboratories and facilities.

Modification and extension of authority on acceptance of contributions for acceleration of removal or security of fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment at vulnerable sites worldwide (sec. 3118)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3119) that would expand the authority of the Secretary of Energy under section 3132(f) of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375) for the Secretary to accept contributions from international partners to all programs within the National Nuclear Security Administration's Defense Nuclear Nonproliferation Program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Limitation on availability of funds for Center of Excellence on Nuclear Security (sec. 3119)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3121) that would limit funds that may be obligated or expended by the Secretary of Energy for fiscal year 2013 to not more than $7.0 million for a Center of Excellence on Nuclear Security in the People's Republic of China until the date on which the Secretary of Energy reviews, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense, and submits a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives certifying that current and planned nonproliferation activities with China are not directly or indirectly contributing to the proliferation of nuclear weapons development and technology to other nations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Improvement and streamlining of the missions and operations of the Department of Energy and National Nuclear Security Administration (sec. 3120)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3117) that would require the Secretary of Energy and the Administrator for Nuclear Security to revise various regulations, rules, directives, orders, and policies to improve and streamline the administration, execution, and oversight of the Department of Energy and the National Nuclear Security Administration's missions and operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require such revision occur to the extent practicable.

Cost-benefit analyses for competition of management and operating contracts (sec. 3121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3118) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to submit a report to the congressional defense committees before the Administrator releases any final request for proposals for competition of any contract to manage and operate a facility of the National Nuclear Security Administration. The report would be required to include a cost-benefit analysis of the competition that includes the expected costs and cost savings resulting from the competition; a description of any disruption or delay in mission activities or deliverables resulting from the competition; a description of any benefits of the proposed competition to mission performance or operations; and an assessment of how the competition complies with the Federal Acquisition Regulation regarding Federally Funded Research and Development Centers, if applicable. This section would also require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a review of the Administrator's report to the congressional defense committees within 90 days of the Administrator submitting any report pursuant to this section. The requirements of this section would apply to any request for proposals that is released by the Administrator during fiscal years 2012 through 2017.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Administrator to issue a report to the congressional defense committees not later than 30 days after the contract is awarded.

Program on scientific engagement for non-proliferation (sec. 3122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3120) that would provide that not more than $8.0 million authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 may be obligated or expended for the Global Security through Science Partnerships (GSSP) program, formally known as the Global Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention (GIPP) program, until such time as the Secretary of Energy submits a report to the appropriate congressional committees on the plan to complete the GSSP program by the end of calendar year 2015.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3114) that would authorize a program for scientific engagement of U.S. scientists with scientists in countries of concern with respect to nonproliferation and require several conditions be met before any expenditure of funds: (1) a nonproliferation threat assessment of the country by the Director of National Intelligence; (2) clear metrics for success so that the program does not become stagnant in the country of concern; and (3) rigorous accounting standards approved by the Government Accountability Office to ensure that there is clear oversight of the funds expended.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the expenditure of funds for this program to not more than 50 percent of those authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2013 until the conditions contained in the Senate provision are met and would authorize the program through fiscal year 2016. The amendment would also require the program's administrator, if the program is modified for a new country or program element, to report to the congressional defense committees, the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the House of Representatives. The amendment would also require the administrator to report to the specified committees on coordination with respect to other similar nonproliferation programs in the U.S. Government. The conferees expect that the administrator would distribute any and all such reports from this section with other committees of interest in the Congress.

The conferees interpret section b(1)(B) to mean accounting standards already approved and used by the Comptroller General of the United States, and to be incorporated by reference. The conferees expect this program to be separate and distinct from the GIPP, which was started in 1994 and is terminated.

Cost containment for Uranium Capabilities Replacement Project (sec. 3123)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3120) that would add enhanced oversight of the Uranium Processing Facility construction project by requiring separate and distinct authorizations for each phase of the project and capping the cost of the first phase of the project, replacing building 9212, at $4.2 billion.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2804) that would move the construction phase of the project to the Department of Defense under its military construction authorities.

The House recedes with an amendment that would rename the project the "Uranium Capabilities Replacement Project" to recognize the fundamental change to the project inherent in the National Nuclear Security Administration's (NNSA) proposal to phase the project and complete only a portion of the original scope under the cost range previously established for the full project. The conferees expect the NNSA Administrator to expeditiously and efficiently carry out all phases of the project to result in a smaller, more efficient, safer, and more easily-secured infrastructure at NNSA Y-12 production plant. The amendment would also require the Secretary of Energy to procure the services of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command to assist the Secretary with respect to program management, oversight, and design activities of the project. The Deputy Administrator of Naval Reactors would also be required to conduct a study of the project regarding project structure, oversight and potential cost savings. Further, the Department of Defense Office of Cost Analysis and Program Evaluation would be required to submit a report to the congressional defense committees 180 days after enactment of this Act reviewing the cost and schedule of the project. To ensure long-term monitoring of the effort, the amendment would require quarterly reporting by the Government Accountability Office on the project. The conferees also encourage the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board to resolve outstanding issues related to the design, construction, and operations of the facility.

Subtitle C—Improvements to National Security Energy Laws

Improvements to the Atomic Energy Defense Act (sec. 3131)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3131) that would make changes to the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2501) to streamline the statute, update terminology, clarify definitions, and make technical corrections.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Improvements to the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (sec. 3132)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3132) that would make changes to the National Nuclear Security Administration Act (Public Law 106-65) to streamline the statute, repeal expired sections of the code, update terminology, clarify definitions, and make technical corrections.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Consolidated reporting requirements relating to nuclear stockpile stewardship, management, and infrastructure (sec. 3133)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3134) that would consolidate several existing reporting requirements in sections 4202, 4203, 4203A, 4204, 4207, and 4208 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (Public Law 106-65) with section 3152 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996 (Public Law 104-106) into a new section.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of certain reporting requirements (sec. 3134)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3135) that would repeal several recurring reporting requirements. First, the provision would repeal the requirement in section 3134 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) for the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a status report every 120 days to the congressional defense committees on the environmental clean-up projects conducted by the Department of Energy's Office of Environmental Management with funds provided by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Public Law 111-5). Second, the section would amend section 4604 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C.

2704) to repeal the requirement for the Secretary of Energy to annually submit to Congress an update of the Department of Energy's defense nuclear facilities workforce restructuring plan. Third, the section would amend section 148 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2168) to eliminate the requirement that the Secretary of Energy prepare a quarterly report that identifies information determined to be Unclassified Controlled Nuclear Information during the quarterly reporting period.

The Senate amendment contained two similar provisions (sec. 3115 and 3135) related to the first and second repeals, but did not have a provision related to the third repeal regarding Unclassified Controlled Nuclear Information.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle D—Reports

Reports on lifetime extension programs (sec. 3141)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3142) that would require that before proceeding beyond phase 6.2 feasibility study and option down-select activities on any life extension activities, the directors of the national nuclear weapons laboratories shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the lifetime extension program option for the nuclear physics package, i.e., refurbishment, reuse, and replacement, of that weapon and an assessment of why the option selected was selected, including an assessment of pros and cons of the other two options, including costs and other considerations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Nuclear Weapons Council to submit the report with additional clarifying provisions.

The conferees direct the Nuclear Weapons Council to include in the report how cost was considered in the analysis leading to the decision.

Notification of nuclear criticality and non-nuclear incidents (sec. 3142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3141) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security and the Secretary of Energy to notify the appropriate congressional committees of any nuclear criticality incident resulting from programs of the National Nuclear Security Administration or the defense environmental cleanup program which results in an injury or fatality or results in the shut-down, or partial shut-down, of a facility of the nuclear security enterprise or of a facility of the Office of Environmental Management, within 15 days of such occurrence. The notification would include a description of the incident, including the cause of the incident, any mission impacts, and any corrective action taken in response to the incident. The provision would also require the Secretary and the Administrator to maintain a record of these nuclear incidents and of any non-nuclear incidents that result in serious bodily injury or a fatality. Finally, the provision would require the Secretary and the Administrator to submit a report to the appropriate congressional committees within 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act detailing any such incidents that have occurred in the last 10 years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require only the Secretary Energy to maintain a record of such incidents since the Secretary can share such a record with the Administrator.

Quarterly reports to Congress on financial balances for atomic energy defense activities (sec. 3143)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3116) that would amend the Atomic Energy Defense Act (division D of Public Law 107-314) to require the Secretary of Energy to provide to the congressional defense committees quarterly obligation and expenditure rates for atomic energy defense programs based on the control points of the conference report accompanying the annual Energy and Water Development and Related Agencies Appropriations Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

National Academy of Sciences study on peer review and design competition related to nuclear weapons (sec. 3144)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3143) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to enter into an agreement with the National Academies of Science to conduct a study of peer review and design competition related to nuclear weapons. The Administrator would be required to ensure the National Academies receives full and timely cooperation from the National Nuclear Security Administration and its contractors for the purposes of conducting the study. The Administrator would be required to submit the report and any recommendations of the National Academies, together with any comments or recommendations, to the congressional defense committees by December 15, 2014.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would change the due date for the report to Congress to no later than September 30, 2014.

The conferees direct the Administrator to ensure that the agreement with the National Academy of Sciences is conducted in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Report on defense nuclear nonproliferation programs (sec. 3145)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3144) that would require the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to submit a report to the appropriate congressional committees no later than March 1 of each year from 2013 through 2015, detailing the Defense Nuclear Nonproliferation (DNN) program's budget, objectives, and metrics. This provision would also require an identification and explanation of the foreign countries that are sharing the cost burden of implementing DNN programs, a description of the objectives and measurements for each DNN program, a description of the threat of the proliferation of nuclear weapons and how each DNN program counters these threats, and a description of how the programs are prioritized to meet the most urgent nonproliferation requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Study on reuse of plutonium pits (sec. 3146)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3145) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to conduct a study of the plutonium pits available, those that may become available as a result of nuclear weapon dismantlement, and assess the potential for reuse of these pits in future life extension programs. The study would include an analysis of: the feasibility and practicability of potential full or partial reuse options; the benefits and risks of reusing plutonium pits; the potential costs and cost savings; and the impacts of reuse on the requirements for pit manufacturing. This section would require the Administrator to submit a report on the results of the study to the congressional defense committees within 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would increase the due date of the report from 120 to 270 days after enactment of this Act, require the Administrator to submit the report in coordination with the Nuclear Weapons Council, add additional technical assessments regarding dynamic loading conditions, the stockpile-to-target sequence and testing facilities required to resolve technical challenges in such an assessment.

The conferees note that pit reuse does not negate the need for a responsive infrastructure to produce additional plutonium pits. The conferees direct the Administrator to provide an interim brief to the congressional defense committees 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Assessment of nuclear weapon pit production requirement (sec. 3147)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3155) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Energy, in coordination with the Commander of U.S. Strategic Command, to jointly assess the annual plutonium pit production requirement needed to sustain a safe, secure, and reliable nuclear weapon arsenal. This section would require an update to this report if the report submitted does not incorporate the results of the currently ongoing Nuclear Posture Review Implementation Study.

The Senate amendment contains no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that requires, as part of the assessment, an assessment of cost and national security implications for various smaller and larger pit production rates from the current 50–80 pit requirement. The conferees note that rates including 10 to 20 pits per year, 20 to 30 pits per year, 30 to 50 pits per year, 50 to 80 pits per year, and larger should be included as part of the analysis.

Study on a multiagency governance model for national security laboratories (sec. 3148)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3146) that would require the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration to commission an independent assessment of transitioning the national security laboratories of the Administration to multiagency federally funded research and development centers. The assessment shall be conducted by a independent nongovernment entity classified by the Internal Revenue Service under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (Public Law 99-514).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would remove tax classification of the entity.

The conferees direct the Administrator to use the most cost-effective means possible to conduct this assessment.

Report on efficiencies in facilities and functions of the National Nuclear Security Administration (sec. 3149)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3132) that would require the Nuclear Weapons Council (NWC) to report to the congressional defense committees no later than 180 days after enactment of this Act, on the feasibility of consolidation in the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) complex if excess facilities exist and consolidation would reduce cost. If the NWC finds further consolidation is feasible, the report would recommend a process for consolidation. Furthermore, the Senate amendment would state that no funds may be spent on phase CD-3 (start of construction) of the Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement (CMRR) building, Department of Energy Project 04-D-125 and the Uranium Processing Facility (UPF), 06-D-141 until such report is transmitted to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require the NWC to report on efficiencies in the facilities and functions of the NNSA.

The conferees fully support all modernization efforts underway at the NNSA. Due to the recent design changes at the UPF, causing a year delay in CD-3, and the deferral of the replacement for the CMRR building, the conferees expect the NWC should be able to produce the required report without impact to either project.

Study on regional radiological security zones (sec. 3150)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3133) that would require the National Nuclear Security Administration to prepare a report on the feasibility of establishing radiological security zones on a regional basis rather than on a country by country case as is now done. The report would include the estimated costs of establishing and monitoring such zones through centralized monitoring centers. The report would be due no later than 180 days after date of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Government Accountability Office to prepare the report.

The conferees recognize the importance of securing radiological sources and do not intend that this study assume that these efforts should be given greater priority than current efforts to remove and secure vulnerable fissile materials.

Report on abandoned uranium mines (sec. 3151)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3134) that would require the Secretary of Energy to prepare a report on abandoned uranium mines used by the U.S. atomic weapons program. The report would be due 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require consultation in preparing the report with the Secretary of Interior and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency and clarify that the provision does not alter the liability of any responsible or affected party.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Use of probabilistic risk assessment to ensure nuclear safety (sec. 3161)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3151) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security and the Secretary of Energy to ensure that the methods for certifying and overseeing nuclear safety at defense nuclear facilities of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) and the Department of Energy's Office of Environmental Management use national and international standards and nuclear industry best practices, including probabilistic risk assessment, for parts, equipment, and systems for which sufficient data exists to support such methods.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure that the use of probabilistic risk assessments do not replace the adequate protection standard outlined in section 182 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (P.L. 83-703 as amended) but to supplement it consistent with the findings of Union of Concerned Scientists v. NRC, 824 F.2d 108, 120 (D.C. Circuit, 1987). In addition, the utilization and production of special nuclear material will be in accordance with the common defense and security of the United States.

Submission to Congress of selected acquisition reports and independent cost estimates on life extension programs and new nuclear facilities (sec. 3162)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3154) that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Director of Cost Assessment and Program Evaluation (CAPE) and in coordination with the Administrator for Nuclear Security, to assess the cost of options and alternatives for new life extension programs and new nuclear facilities within the nuclear security enterprise that are expected to cost more than $500.0 million. This section would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit a copy of these cost assessments to the congressional defense committees within 30 days of their completion. Finally, this section would provide the Administrator for Nuclear Security the authority to ask the Secretary of Defense to seek a CAPE assessment on other initiatives of the National Nuclear Security Administration that are expected to cost more than $500.0 million.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 3112) that would require the National Nuclear Security Administration to provide selected acquisition reports on each nuclear weapon system undergoing life extension. The reports shall be based on existing provisions in section 2432 of title 10, United States Code. The provision also recommends independent cost estimates for nuclear weapons undergoing life extension at the completion of phase 6.2A and before entering Phase 6.5 of the unit.

The House recedes with an amendment that would combine the two provisions into one section on Selected Acquisition Reports and cost estimates.

Classification of certain restricted data (sec. 3163)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3153) that would amend section 142 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2162) to permit the Secretary of Energy, in conjunction with the Secretary of Defense or the Director of National Intelligence, to restore certain information related to the design of nuclear weapons back into the Restricted Data category. This provision would also make a technical correction to subsection 142e of the Atomic Energy Act by updating the term "Director of Central Intelligence" to "Director of National Intelligence" to conform section 142e with the transfer of functions contained in the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-458).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3121).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Advice to President and Congress regarding safety, security, and reliability of United States nuclear weapons stockpile and nuclear forces (sec. 3164)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3152) that would transfer section 7274p of title 42, United States Code, and re-designate it as section 4215 of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. Chapter 42). The provision would also amend and clarify the underlying statute to ensure that no person, including representatives of the President, may prevent or constrain a director of a national security laboratory, a director of a nuclear weapons production facility, a member of the Nuclear Weapons Council, or the Commander, U.S. Strategic Command, from sharing his or her professional views with the President, the National Security Council, or Congress. The provision would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security and the Secretary of Defense to establish classified mail channels to enable such information to be transmitted directly to Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that strikes the subsection related to classified mail channels and clarifies that the presentation of information related to the status of and plans for the capabilities and infrastructure that support and sustain the nuclear weapons stockpile and nuclear forces should not be construed to affect the inter-agency budget process.

As currently required by section 7274 of title 42, United States Code, the conferees believe that all national leaders require access to the objective, independent, and unfiltered professional advice and opinions of the Nation's nuclear weapons experts regarding the safety, security, effectiveness, and reliability of the nuclear weapons stockpile, and reiterate their strong support for ensuring Congress has unconstrained access to such.

Pilot program on technology commercialization (sec. 3165)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3158) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to establish, in coordination with the Technology Transfer Coordinator, a pilot program on technology commercialization.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the pilot program to 2 years in duration and strike the requirement for involvement of a non-profit entity. The amendment would also require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report describing the program or, if it is not carried out, why it was not carried out.

The conferees direct the Secretary to ensure that any pilot program carried out under this section is in the best interests of the National Nuclear Security Administration and to ensure that competitive procedures are used in selecting any private entity to participate in such a program.

Congressional advisory panel on the governance of the nuclear security enterprise (sec. 3166)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3161) that would establish a congressional advisory panel to make recommendations with respect to revising the governance structure of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to permit the Administration to operate more effectively.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would create a Congressional Advisory Panel on the Governance of the Nuclear Security Enterprise to address the immediate and long-term issues associated with the NNSA. In addition, the amendment appoints four panel members each, by the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, by the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate, and by the Leadership of the House and Senate.

The conferees note that this Panel is created in lieu of the House receding in sections 3113, 3115, and 3133, and the Senate receding in sections 3131 and 3141 to address many of the issues the House identified in those provisions.

Subtitle F—American Medical Isotopes Production

American Medical Isotopes Act of 2012 (secs. 3171–3178)

The Senate amendment contained nine provisions (sections 3151–3159) that comprised a program to develop a domestic supply of the medical isotope molybdenum-99 (MO-99) using low enriched uranium while phasing out the export of highly enriched uranium for production of medical isotopes. An abbreviated description is as follows.

Section 3151 would provide a short title.

Section 3152 would define terms used throughout the Act.

Section 3153 would direct the Secretary of Energy to establish a technology-neutral, cost-shared program to evaluate and support projects for the domestic production of MO-99 for medical uses without the use of highly enriched uranium.

Section 3154 would amend section 134 of the Atomic Energy Act (AEA) of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2160d), by striking subsection (c), and by adding 5 new subsections designated (c) through (f). New subsection (c) would prohibit the Nuclear Regulatory Commission from issuing a license for the export of highly enriched uranium for medical isotope production effective 7 years after the date of enactment. New subsection (d) would permit the 7-year period in subsection (c) to be extended for up to 6 additional years if the Secretary certifies that there is insufficient global supply of MO-99 produced without the use of highly enriched uranium to satisfy the domestic market and that the export of highly enriched uranium is the most effective temporary means to increase the domestic supply of MO-99. New subsection (e) would require public notice and comment on the certification. New subsection (f) would provide for the suspension, for up to 12 months, of the prohibition on the export licensing of highly enriched uranium after it has become effective if there is a critical shortage of MO-99, the Secretary certifies that the export of highly enriched uranium is the only effective temporary means to increase the supply, and Congress enacts a joint resolution approving the temporary suspension. New subsection (g) would define terms used in section 134 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

Section 3155 would require the Chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to submit to Congress a report on the current disposition of previous exports of highly enriched uranium used as targets of fuel in a nuclear research or test reactor.

Section 3156 would add a new section 112 to the AEA to authorize the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to license the use in the United States of highly enriched uranium as a target for medical isotope production only if, in addition to other requirements of the AEA, the Commission determines that no low enriched uranium target can be used in the reactor, and the recipient has provided assurances that if a low enriched uranium target can be used, it will be, and the Secretary certifies that the United States Government is actively supporting the development of low enriched uranium targets for the reactor.

Section 3157 would require the Secretary to report to Congress 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, and annually for the ensuing 5 years, on actions to support the production of molybdenum-99 for medical uses without the use of highly enriched uranium.

Section 3158 would require the National Academy of Sciences to study the state of MO-99 production and use not later than 5 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

Section 3159 would repeal The Nuclear Safety Research, Development and Demonstration Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9701 et seq.).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Department of Energy, as part of its program to develop a domestic supply of MO-99 (section 3173), to produce MO-99 in a cost effective manner and that the Nuclear Science Advisory Committee, in addition to conducting annual reviews of the program, make recommendations to improve the program's effectiveness. In addition, the conferees expect that in pursuing the program in Section 3173, the Secretary of Energy shall ensure that the program is carried out in a technology neutral manner to reduce the use of highly enriched uranium and produce significant quantities of MO-99 for medical uses. Demonstration of technology necessary to domestically produce significant quantities of MO-99 for medical uses on a commercial scale seeks to address potential civilian use supply issues while also enhancing national security. Section 3173 requires the Secretary to cooperate with non-federal entities and share the costs incurred in the development, demonstration, and commercial application of the technology necessary to achieve the goals of the program, including the civilian medical applications.

The amendment would also make technical changes in section 3174 and add a requirement that the Secretaries of Energy and Health and Human Services must jointly certify that before the provisions in subsections (c) and (d) take effect there is a sufficient supply of MO-99 produced without the use of highly enriched uranium available to meet the needs of the patients in the United States; and that it is not necessary to export United States-origin highly enriched uranium for the purposes of medical isotope production in order to meet United States patient needs. In addition, the joint certification would be required not later than 7 years after the date of enactment of this Act. If the period referred to in subsection (c) is extended under subsection (d), the 7 year deadline would be extended by a period equal to the period of such extension under subsection (d).

The amendment would also strike the repeal of The Nuclear Safety Research, Development and Demonstration Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9701 et seq.).

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Contractor governance, oversight, and accountability

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3113) that would require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to establish a reformed system of governance, management, and oversight of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA). The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 3115) that would require the Administrator to establish policies and procedures for the regulation and oversight of health, safety, and security of the nuclear security enterprise. Lastly, the House bill also contained a provision (sec. 3133) that would clarify the role of the Administrator and reinforce the semi-autonomous nature of the NNSA.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3131) that would require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the actions required to transition, to the maximum extent practicable, the regulation of non-nuclear operations of the NNSA to federal agencies other than the Department of Energy (DOE). The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 3161) that would express a sense of Congress regarding any efforts to reform oversight of the nuclear security enterprise.

The conference agreement does not include these provisions.

The conferees emphasize that there is widespread recognition that the current system for governance, management, and oversight of the nuclear security enterprise is broken. For instance, in 2009 the bipartisan Congressional Commission on the Strategic Posture of the United States found that “the governance structure of the NNSA is not delivering the needed results. This governance structure should be changed.” The Commission elaborated, saying, “The NNSA was formed to improve management of the weapons program and to shelter that program from what was perceived as a welter of confusing and contradictory DOE directives, policies, and procedures. Despite some success, the NNSA has failed to meet the hopes of its founders. Indeed, it may have become part of the problem, adopting the same micromanagement and unnecessary and obtrusive oversight that it was created to eliminate.” The Commission concluded “it is time to consider fundamental changes.” Recent studies by the Henry L. Stimson Center (“Leveraging Science for Security”), the National Academies of Science (“Managing for High-Quality Science and Engineering at the NNSA National Security Laboratories”) and “The Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty—Technical Issues for the United States”) and other objective, bipartisan groups have reached similar conclusions.

The conferees share the concerns expressed by these myriad groups, and believe the status quo is not working and must not be continued. The weaknesses of the current system, including an overly bureaucratic system, weak accountability, ineffective oversight, insufficient program and budget expertise, and poor contract management have been repeatedly demonstrated—including by recent high-profile failures such as the July 2012 security breach at the Y-12 National Security Complex. These incidents prove that a deeply bureaucratic system is no guarantee of health, safety, and security—and may in fact jeopardize health, safety, and security.

Furthermore, the conferees believe that the current system is not delivering the results required by the military and by the taxpayer. The cost of major stockpile and infrastructure modernization projects has risen to unprecedented levels due, in part, to the overwhelming bureaucracy within the system. Further slippage in project schedules is unacceptable, and could undermine the credibility of the nation's nuclear deterrent. Administrative costs within the NNSA and the nuclear security enterprise must be reduced and the enterprise must be refocused on accomplishing its mission effectively and efficiently, as well as safely and securely.

The conferees expect the advisory panel that would be created elsewhere in this Act to provide a bipartisan solution to fix this system. The conferees expect the advisory panel would provide actionable recommendations that directly address the host of systemic problems identified by previous studies and by the conferees. The conferees believe changes on the margins are not a solution.

Limitation on availability of funds for inertial confinement fusion ignition and high yield campaign

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3119) that would limit the obligation and expenditure of funds for fusion ignition research and experiments to not more than 50 percent until the Administrator for Nuclear Security certifies to the congressional defense committees that fusion ignition has been achieved at the National Ignition Facility (NIF) or the Administrator submits a report on fusion ignition.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are pleased that the National Nuclear Security Administration has submitted the report required in section 3119 of the House bill regarding a path forward for the NIF, including fusion ignition. The conferees believe that the NIF should continue to balance the goal of achieving ignition with other stockpile needs as part of the life extension programs as well as ongoing work for other agencies and offices in the Department of Energy.

Limitation on availability of funds for nuclear nonproliferation activities with Russian Federation

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3123) that would limit Cooperative Threat Reduction funding to Russia until the Secretary of Energy, in coordination with the Secretaries of State and Defense, certify to the congressional defense committees that Russia is not providing direct or indirect support to the Syrian government to suppress the Syrian people and that Russia is not providing equipment and technology to Syria, Iran, or North Korea that have the potential to make a material contribution to the development of weapons of mass destruction or cruise or ballistic missile systems controlled under multilateral control lists.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Intellectual property related to uranium enrichment

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3156) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to make available, from the funds authorized to be appropriated by this Act or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2013, not more than $150.0 million for the development and demonstration of domestic national security-related enrichment technologies. Thirty days before making such funds available for these purposes, the Secretary of Energy would be required to certify to the congressional defense committees that such funds are needed for national security purposes and describe what those purposes are. If the Secretary chooses to make such funds available, this section would require the Secretary to utilize merit selection procedures and execute an agreement with the recipient of such funds. The agreement would include a requirement for the recipient to achieve specific technical criteria by dates not later than June 30, 2014, and require that immediately upon execution of such agreement that the recipient grant to the Federal Government a royalty-free, non-exclusive license in all enrichment-related intellectual property and associated technical data owned, licensed, or otherwise controlled by the recipient. This section would also require that any existing agreement between the Secretary of Energy and the recipient be amended to permit the Secretary to use or allow third parties to use such intellectual property and associated technical data for national defense purposes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that this domestic uranium enrichment project is authorized for $150.0 million within the budget tables for the National Nuclear Security Administration. The conferees understand that the Department of Energy entered into a cooperative agreement for this project and that this cooperative agreement and other associated agreements include taxpayer protections similar to those required by the House provision. The conferees expect that the Department of Energy will continue to take all actions necessary to ensure robust taxpayer protections for the funds invested in this project.

Renewable energy

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3122) that would amend the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (42 U.S.C. 15852(b)(2)) by striking “geothermal” and inserting “geothermal (including geothermal heat pumps)”.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense already accounts for energy derived from geothermal heat pumps under the broader construct of geothermal sources in meeting goals for the use of renewable energy.

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorization (sec. 3201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3201) that would authorize $31.4 million to be appropriated for the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (DNFSB), which is $2.0 million above the fiscal year 2013 budget request.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3201) that would authorize $29.4 million to be appropriated for the DNFSB, which is the fiscal year 2013 budget request.

The House recedes.

Improvements to the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (sec. 3202)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3202) that would amend the enabling statute of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (DNFSB) (42 United States Code, section 2286) to provide congressional direction regarding the DNFSB's operation, clarify the DNFSB's mission, and improve collaboration between the DNFSB and the Department of Energy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the sharing of draft recommendations between the DNFSB and the Department of Energy before a final recommendation is published. The provision would also require the DNFSB, where feasible, to account for risk in its recommendations. The conferees believe accounting for risk does not replace the adequate protection standard outlined in section 182 of the Atomic Energy Act (AEA) of 1954 (42 United States Code, section 2011), but to supplement it consistent with the findings of Union of Concerned Scientists v. NRC, 824 F. 2d 108, 120 (D.C. Circuit, 1987). The amendment would also require the DNFSB to obtain the services of an inspector general consistent with the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.). The conferees intend the procurement of such services shall be in addition to the underlying budget of the DNFSB. Accordingly, the requirement would be established that the procurement of inspector general services shall be a separate budget line in the DNFSB's annual budget submission to the Congress.

The conferees highlight that, per the AEA, the Secretary of Energy has a statutory responsibility to balance national security requirements, cost, and safety of the nuclear security enterprise. Further, section 312(a)(5) of the AEA requires the DNFSB, in making its recommendations, "to consider the technical and economic feasibility of the recommended measures." To better understand how the DNFSB considers such issues, the conferees direct the Chairman of the DNFSB to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by February 15, 2013, regarding how the DNFSB considers the technical and economic feasibility of implementing its recommended measures.

TITLE XXXIV—NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES LEGISLATIVE PROVISION ADOPTED

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 3401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3401) that would authorize $14.9 million for fiscal year 2013 for operation and maintenance of the Naval Petroleum and Oil Reserves.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XXXV—MARITIME ADMINISTRATION LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Authorization of appropriations for national security aspects of the merchant marine for fiscal year 2013 (sec. 3501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3501) that would authorize appropriations for the Maritime Administration of the Department of Transportation for those activities of the Maritime Administration associated with maintaining national defense sealift.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Application of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (sec. 3502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3502) that would clarify that the appropriate version of the Federal Acquisition Regulations to be applied to a contract for purchase of recycling services is the version in effect at the time the contract is awarded.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Limitation of National Defense Reserve Fleet vessels to those over 1,500 gross tons (sec. 3503)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3503) that would clarify that vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet are to be 1,500 gross tons or greater and those vessels the Secretary of Transportation determines are appropriate to be included in the National Defense Reserve Fleet.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Donation of excess fuel to maritime academies (sec. 3504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3504) that would authorize the Maritime Administration, with the concurrence of the owner of the fuel or excess equipment, to donate excess fuel or equipment on National Defense Reserve Fleet vessels to the State Maritime Academies to carry out training. In the case of Ready Reserve Force vessels, the Maritime Administration would be required to consult with the Secretary of the Navy before donating such fuel or equipment to the Academies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Clarification of heading (sec. 3505)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3505) that would make a purely technical correction to change the title of section 57103 of title 46, United States Code, from "Sale of Obsolete Vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet" to "Donation of Non-Retention Vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet."

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Transfer of vessels to the National Defense Reserve Fleet (sec. 3506)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3506) that would clarify the Maritime Administration's authority to receive vessels from the armed forces and other federal entities, thereby enhancing the Administration's ability to efficiently dispose of obsolete Government vessels.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Amendments relating to the National Defense Reserve Fleet (sec. 3507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3507) that would allow the Maritime Administration to have flexibility in determining when to conduct activations and sea trials of vessels in the National Defense Reserve Fleet, while still ensuring readiness in accordance with Department of Defense readiness requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of Maritime Security Fleet program (sec. 3508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3508) that would: (1) extend the sunset date for the Maritime Security Fleet Program (MSP) to September 30, 2025; (2) direct the Maritime Administration to offer contracts for extending contracts to current MPS participants before offering them to other contractors; (3) authorize periodic increases to the MSP stipend for participants through fiscal year 2025 to account for inflation; and (4) prioritize new MSP contracts awards according to Department of Defense priorities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Container-on-barge transportation (sec. 3509)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3502) that would require Maritime Administrator to assess the potential for using container-on-barge transportation in short sea transportation (as such term is defined in section 55605 of title 46, United States Code). The Administrator would be required to report to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives within 180 days of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Short sea transportation (sec. 3510)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3503) that would clarify certain definitions and applications of provisions related to short sea transportation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Maritime environmental and technical assistance (sec. 3511)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3504) that would amend Chapter 503 of title 46, United States Code, to permit the Secretary of Transportation to engage in environmental study, research, development, assessment, and deployment of emerging marine technologies and practices related to the marine transportation system.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Identification of actions to enable qualified United States flag capacity to meet national defense requirements (sec. 3512)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3505) that would: (1) clarify the role of the Maritime Administrator in granting waivers to navigation or vessel-inspection laws when such waivers are determined to be in the interest of national defense; and (2) expand the requirements to notify Congress and the public promptly when such waivers are requested or issued.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3509).

The House recedes.

Maritime workforce study (sec. 3513)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3506) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study on the training needs of the maritime workforce. The provision would require that the Comptroller General submit a report within 1 year of the date of enactment of this Act to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives, and the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Maritime administration vessel recycling contract award practices (sec. 3514)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3507) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct an assessment of the source selection procedures and practices used to award the Maritime Administration's National Defense Reserve Fleet vessel recycling contracts. The provision would require that the Comptroller General submit a report not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives, and the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Requirement for barge design (sec. 3515)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3508) that would require the Maritime Administrator to complete the design for a containerized, articulated barge, as identified in the dual-use vessel study carried out by the Administrator and the Secretary of Defense, that would be able to utilize roll-on/roll-off, or load-on/load-off technology in marine highway maritime commerce. The provision would require that the Administrator complete that design within 270 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Eligibility to receive surplus training equipment (sec. 3516)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3509) that would expand the eligibility to receive surplus training equipment from the Maritime Administration to include training institutions that are instrumentalities of a State, Territory, or Commonwealth of the United States or District of Columbia, or that are instrumentalities of a unit of local government within a State, Territory, or Commonwealth of the United States or District of Columbia.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Coordination with other laws (sec. 3517)

The conferees understand that the Senate passed the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012 (H.R. 2838), clearing the measure for the President. Some provisions in that Act coincide with provisions in title XXXV of this Act. In most cases, the language in the two Acts is identical, but in others it is not.

Therefore, the conference agreement includes a provision that would avoid sending conflicting guidance that could be confusing about congressional intent.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISION NOT ADOPTED

Short title

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3501) that would establish the title of this section as the “Maritime Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013.”

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

DIVISION D—FUNDING TABLES

Authorization of amounts in funding tables (sec. 4001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 4001) that would provide for the authorization of projects, programs, and activities in accordance with the tables in Division D.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 4001).

The Senate recedes.
